CORRESPONDENCE, MISCELLANEOUS PAPERS, PROCEEDINGS OF COMMITTEES, &amp;c.

RICHARD HENRY LEE TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Philadelphia, August 1, 1775.

DEAR SIR: After the fatigue of many days, and of this in particular, I should not sit down at eleven o'clock at night to write to a gentleman of whose goodness of heart I have less doubt than I have of yours. But well knowing that you will pardon what flows from good intentions, I venture to say, that my hopes are, you will find from what the Congress has already done, and from what I hope they will do to-morrow, that it has been a capital object with us to make your arduous business as easy to you as the nature of things will admit.

The business immediately before us being finished, the approaching sickly season here, and the great importance of our presence in the Virginia Convention, have determined a recess of a month, it standing now, that the Congress shall meet here again on the fifth of September. The capital object of powder we have attended to as far as we could, by sending you the other day six tons, and to-morrow we shall propose sending six or eight tons more; which, with the supplies you may get from Connecticut, and such further ones from here as future expected importations may furnish, will, I hope, enable you to do all that this powerful article can in good hands accomplish.

We understand here that batteries may be constructed at the entrance of the Bay of Boston, so as to prevent the egress and regress of any ships whatsoever. If this be fact, would it not, Sir, be a signal stroke to secure the Fleet and Army in and before Boston, so as to compel a surrender at discretion. While I write this, I assure you my heart is elated with the contemplation of so great an event—a decisive thing, that would at once end the war, and vindicate the injured liberties of America. But your judgment, and that of your brave associates, will best determine the practicability of this business.

I think we have taken the most effectual measures to secure the friendship of the Indians all along our extensive frontiers; and by what we learn of the spirit of our Convention, now sitting at Richmond, a spirit prevails there very sufficient to secure us on that quarter. The particulars of their conduct I refer you to Mr. Framer for, who comes fresh from thence, and who goes to the camp a soldier of fortune. You know him better than I do, and I am sure you will provide for him as he deserves.

We are here as much in the dark about news from England as you are, the London ships having been detained long beyond the time they were expected. The indistinct accounts we have tell us of great confusion all over England, and a prodigious fall of the Stocks. I heartily wish it may be true; but if it is not so now, I have no doubt of its shortly being the case.

I will not detain you longer from more important affairs than to beg the favour of you, when your leisure permits, to oblige me with a line by post, to let us know how you go on.

There is nothing I wish so much as your success and happiness, and safe return to your family and country; because I am, with perfect sincerity, dear Sir, your affectionate friend and countryman,

RICHARD HENRY LEE.

FOURTH SERIES.—VOL. III.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER TO A GENTLEMAN IN PHILADELPHIA, DATED FREDERICKTOWN, MD., AUGUST 1, 1775.

Notwithstanding the urgency of my business, I have been detained three days in this place by an occurrence truly agreeable. I have had the happiness of seeing Captain Michael Cresap marching at the head of a formidable company of upwards of one hundred and thirty men, from the mountains and back-woods, painted like Indians, armed with tomahawks and rifles, dressed in hunting-shirts and moccasins, and though some of them had travelled near eight hundred miles, from the banks of the Ohio, they seemed to walk light and easy, and not with less spirit than at the first hour of their march. Health and vigour, after what they had undergone, declared them to be intimate with hardship and familiar with danger. Joy and satisfaction were visible in the crowd that met them. Had Lord North been present, and been assured that the brave leader could raise thousands of such like to defend his Country, what think you, would not the hatchet and the block have intruded upon his mind? I had an opportunity of attending the Captain during his stay in Town, and watched the behaviour of his men, and the manner in which he treated them; for it seems that all who go out to war under him do not only pay the most willing obedience to him as their commander, but in every instance of distress look up to him as their friend or father. A great part of his time was spent in listening to and relieving their wants, without any apparent sense of fatigue and trouble. When complaints were before him, he determined with kindness and spirit, and on every occasion condescended to please without losing his dignity.

Yesterday the company were supplied with a small quantity of powder from the magazine, which wanted airing, and was not in good order for rifles; in the evening, however, they were drawn out to show the gentlemen of the Town their dexterity at shooting. A clapboard, with a mark the size of a dollar, was put up; they began to fire off-hand, and the bystanders were surprised, few shots being made that were not close to or in the paper. When they had shot for a time in this way, some lay on their backs, some on their breast or side, others ran twenty or thirty steps, and firing, appeared to be equally certain of the mark. With this performance the company were more than satisfied, when a young man took up the board in his hand, not by the end, but by the side, and holding it up, his brother walked to the distance, and very coolly shot into the white; laying down his rifle, he took the board, and holding it as it was held before, the second brother shot as the former had done. By this exercise I was more astonished than pleased. But will you believe me, when I tell you, that one of the men took the board, and placing it between his legs, stood with his back to the tree while another drove the centre. What would a regular army of considerable strength in the forests of America do with one thousand of these men, who want nothing to preserve their health and courage but water from the spring, with a little parched corn, with what they can easily procure in hunting; and who, wrapped in their blankets, in the damp of night, would choose the shade of a tree for their covering, and the earth for their bed.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER TO A GENTLEMAN IN LONDON,
DATED PHILADELPHIA, AUGUST 1, 1775.

You would hardly conceive, without seeing it, to what a height the political fury of this Country is arrived. I most heartily wish myself at home among free-born Englishmen, not among this tyrannical and arbitrary rabble of America. They have made many protestations of respect for England, and of their desire of union with the Mother Country, but you may take my word for it, my dear friend, it is the meanest and basest hypocrisy that ever was assumed. I have had occasion to spend, for a few years past, much of my time in this Province, and you may depend upon it, (and I am sure I have neither interest nor wish to deceive you,) that the present breach with England is not the device of a day, and has not arisen with the question about taxation, (though that has been a favourable plea,) but is part of a system which has been forming here, even before the late war. You would feel the indignation I do every day, when I hear my King and Country vilified and abused by a parcel of wretches who owe their very existence to it. I am amazed at the stupor and supineness of your Admiralty. For God's sake, what are you doing in England? Are the friends of Great Britain and their property to be left exposed at this rate to the dictates of an inhuman rabble? I expect, with many others, if I do not join in the seditious and traitorous acts in vogue, to be hauled away and confined in a prison, with the confiscation of all I have in the world. Words cannot paint the distress of sober people who have property, and wish for peace and quietness. Where is the boasted Navy of our Country, that only one poor sloop is stationed here? whereas, if we had but three ships-of-war, one of fifty, and two of forty guns each, this place would not only be kept in awe, and the friends of Government secured, but a sufficient quantity of provisions might be had at all times for your Fleet and Army, which, we are informed, are half starved at Boston. As to the sloop we have here, the Nautilus, I fear she will soon go to the shades; for our good friends are building above fifty row-boats, of large dimensions, which are to have a twenty-four pounder in the stern sheets, several swivels in the sides, and plenty of muskets for the people on board, and all for the purpose of attacking the King's Ships that may arrive here. But if Government would order the Navy to sink all these vessels to the bottom, wherever they met with them, a few examples of such timely severity would keep them on shore. I must not forget to tell you, that they are smuggling from the French West-Indies, in pilot-boats, all the ammunition they can get; but two or three cruisers off the Capes would soon put an end to that business. We have also the rarest coiners alive; for we issue our thousands and tens of thousands upon paper, for which we are obliged to part with our little specie or property, or suffer the vengeance of the omnipotent mob.

Constant news arrive here daily almost, which keep up the mad enthusiasm of the people; namely, that an insurrection of thousands has begun in England; that Lord North is fled for his life to France or Italy; that Wilkes, Burke, Governour Johnstone, Lord Effingham, Arthur Lee, and others, at the head of an armed multitude, had destroyed the Parliament-House, and several members of Administration. You would be amazed at the present rejoicings here upon this account. We are told, likewise, that the Dutch have above fifty millions in our funds, and that they are about to demand them immediately, which will occasion a total bankruptcy to Great Britain. Every body here believes this, and a hundred times as much more, for gospel; which, I am well informed, is sent them by a set of people among you whom humanity should teach not to sport thus with the lives and fortunes of these poor people here. All this increases the arrogance and ferment; and nobody dares to doubt it, unless he chooses to risk his life and substance; at least, he must keep his doubts to himself. If this be liberty, good Lord deliver me from all such liberty! I am sure no tyranny, not even of Spain and Turkey, can exceed it. If our last petition be discarded, which they who made it know will be the case, we are resolved to set open our Ports to the French, Dutch, and Danes. We have already invited them to send their produce here under convoy of ships-of-war, which, we reckon, will be opposed by the British Fleet; and so we joyfully expect you to be embroiled in a war with one or other of these Powers. Many Frenchmen are here, and though the most of them appear but in a low mode, if I may guess by their mien, they are not all common people. We profess loudly, that we would join with French, Spaniards, or any Nation, to send you all to the devil. We had a schooner, a few days since, who brought a considerable quantity of Gunpowder stowed under Molasses, and when she arrived she hoisted in bravo a French jack, ensign and pendant. If Government mean to do any thing, they must do it quickly, or the contest will be the stronger. I am surprised you do not take and stop all the ships going in or coming out of these Ports. Conceal my name; or I should run a great risk of my life and property, were it discovered here that I had sent you any account of these proceedings. Indeed, I incur some danger in writing at all; nor should I, if I could not confide in my conveyance.

Crown Point, August 1, 1775.

To the Honourable PHILIP SCHUYLER, Esquire, Major-General and Commander-in-Chief of the Forces of the UNITED COLONIES on the Northern Department, and the Honourable JONATHAN TRUMBULL, Esquire, Captain-General and Commander-in-Chief of the Colony of CONNECTICUT, and Governour of the same:

HONOURED SIRS: Whereas, Jeremiah Halsey, Esquire, was, by Benjamin Hinman, Esquire, when Commander-in-Chief on the Northern Department, appointed and commissioned to be Commodore of all the armed vessels and crafts on the Northern Lakes, viz: Lakes Champlain, George, &c., and we, the subscribers, hereby certify, since the said Halsey's appointment he hath behaved with the utmost prudence and good conduct; hath maintained the character of an honourable commander; faithfully discharged the duties of said office of commander of the said lakes; and is, in our opinion, a man of fortitude and resolution, and possessed of every qualification necessary for the seaman or soldier, and well understands the business of an officer, either by sea or land; and we would, therefore, desire your Honours, as the said Halsey is superseded in the command of the said vessels, by the Province of New-York appointing a man to said office, either to discharge the said Halsey honourably from the service of the United Colonies, or appoint him to an office in said service agreeable to his merits; which is the desire of your Honours' most obedient and humble servants, Quebeck, August 3, 1775.

On Tuesday last, August 1st, a recruiting party began beating up here for Volunteers, for Captain William Dunbar's Company of the Royal Emigrants, and we hear they have already enlisted fourteen.

Conditions to be given to such Soldiers as will engage in the Royal HIGHLAND Emigrants:

"They are to engage during the present troubles in America only. Each soldier is to have two hundred acres of land in any Province in North-America he shall think proper, the King to pay the Patent fees, Secretary's fees, and Surveyor-General's; besides twenty years free of quit-rent; each married man gets fifty acres for his wife, and fifty for each child, on the same terms.

"And as a gratuity, besides the above great terms, one guinea levy money.

"Lieutenant-Colonel Commandant."

ELBRIDGE GERRY TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Chamber of Supplies, Watertown, August 1, 1775.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY: Mr. Cheever has applied this afternoon for two hundred thousand small-arm cartridges, in consequence of an application from the Adjutant-General, to answer the demand of Major Gen. Lee.

Mr. Cheever is able to furnish about thirty-six thousand, it being the whole quantity now made; and there remains but thirty-six barrels in store of the quantity collected from the Towns in this Colony, and received from the others this side Maryland. There are also about two tons of lead, and not any flints in store, of which we think it necessary to give immediate information.

We are in daily expectation of some powder from the West-Indies, but cannot say what success our plan will meet with; indeed we have exerted ourselves to obtain it several ways, which may be communicated at a more convenient opportunity. With respect to lead and flints, Colonel Porter was despatched sixteen days since for New-York, for two hogsheds of flints and ten ton lead, but we have heard nothing from him since. We are ready to exert to the utmost to serve the cause, provided the Commissary-General desires it for the present. The powder shall be sent immediately if ordered, or be made into cartridges as soon as may be.

We are, Sir, respectfully, your most obedient servant,

ELBRIDGE GERRY.

COLONEL LOAMMI BALDWIN TO COLONEL JOSEPH REED.

Chelsea, August 1, 1775.

SIR: I am just informed that there was this forenoon about fourteen hundred Regulars paraded in Boston, and afterward marched down in order to go over to Charlestown Heights, as they call Bunker-Hill. Suppose they are all over before this time. Another person told me there was not more than one thousand men, and that they were going to re-enforce Bunker-Hill.

I send the observations as usual.

It gives me unspeakable satisfaction that my conduct is approved of by the General. Nothing that lies in my power to perform shall be wanting to render his Excellency's command easy, and life happy. That success and victory may attend his endeavour, is the sincere wish of his and your Honour's most humble servant,

LOAMMI BALDWIN, Lieutenant-Colonel.

P. S. I trust you will give the enclosed to the General.

THOMAS LIFE (AGENT) TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Basinghall Street, London, August 2, 1775.

SIR: I wrote you by the last packet a circumstantial detail of the proceedings in the Susquehannah cause, and sent you my bills, with a request for an early remittance to enable me to go on with the cause, and make no doubt of receiving it before November. Mr. Hooke (partner with the late Mr. Nuthall) writes to Col. Dyer by this packet, and the Colonel will have the pleasure of hearing that no inconvenience has happened by the papers being in the hands of Mr. Levy, as he sent his clerk with them to attend the hearing at the Board of Trade. Mr. Wilmot (Mr. Penn's Solicitor) finding the inconvenience of having only two counsel, has taken in Mr. McDonald as a third counsel. The Lords of Trade have had no Board on this business since my last, and have adjourned it till the first Monday after the meeting of Parliament. I beg my best respects to Doctor Johnson; and am, with the greatest esteem and regard, Sir, your most obedient humble servant,

THOMAS LIFE.

To the Honourable Jonathan Trumbull, Esq., Governour of the Colony of Connecticut.

EARL OF DARTMOUTH TO LORD DUNMORE.

Whitehall, August 2, 1775.

MY LORD: The hope you held out to us in your letter of the 1st of May, that with a supply of arms and ammunition you should be able to collect from among the Indians, negroes, and other persons, a force sufficient, if not to subdue rebellion, at least to defend Government, was very encouraging; but I find by your letters delivered to me by Lieutenant Collins, that you have been obliged, from the violence of the times, menaced by one branch of the Legislature, and abandoned by the other, to yield up all the powers of Government, and to retire yourself on board the Fowey. I have the King's commands to send you His Majesty's leave to return to England, which, together with this letter, and a commission to Mr. Corbin to administer Government during your absence, will be delivered to you by Captain Atkins, of His Majesty's Ship Acteon, who goes convoy to the Maria, store-ship.

At the same time it is left to your Lordship's discretion to use this leave of absence or not, as you shall see occasion; for, relying upon your firmness, I have still a hope that, with the supply of arms now sent you, and with the assistance of a greater naval force, the King's Government in Virginia may yet be maintained; and should this happily be the case, it will not be necessary that Mr. Corbin should be informed of His Majesty's intention in his favour.

I am, my Lord, your Lordship's most obedient, humble servant,

DARTMOUTH.

Earl of Dunmore.

EARL OF DARTMOUTH TO GENERAL GAGE.

Whitehall, August 2, 1775.

SIR: It being His Majesty's intention that we should have, if possible, in North-America, early in the next spring, an Army of at least twenty thousand men, exclusive of Canadians and Indians, the proper steps are now taking for such arrangements as may be necessary to this object; and I have this day signified His Majesty's commands, that the 4th, 5th, 7th, 8th, 10th, 14th, 16th, 22d, 23d, 26th, 35th, 38th, 40th, 43d, 44th, 45th, 47th, 49th, 52d, 63d, 64th, and 65th Regiments be augmented, so as that each company shall consist of three Sergeants, three Corporals, two Drummers, and fifty-six private men, besides commissioned officers. And that each of the abovementioned twenty-two Battalions be augmented with two companies, each to consist of one Captain, one Lieutenant, one Ensign, three Sergeants, three Corporals, two Drummers, and fifty-six private men.

With regard to the 18th and 59th Regiments, His Majesty thinks fit, upon a consideration of their weak state, that what remains of the private men fit for service, should be incorporated into other Regiments, and the officers and non-commissioned officers sent home to recruit; and that it should be left to your discretion to follow the same rule in the case of any other Regiments under the like circumstances.

Besides four companies of Artillery, which are ordered to embark immediately, in order to enable you to return to the line the men taken from thence for that service, it is resolved to send you directly a further re-enforcement of two thousand men, and orders are given for the 17th and 55th Regiments in Ireland, to prepare for embarkation, the remainder of the re-enforcements to be made by recruits, which we hope to raise in time; but if when the transports are ready the number of recruits should fall short, in that case the 27th, 28th, and 46th Regiments will be ordered to embark, or such part of them as shall be necessary to make up the full complement of two thousand men.

The steps which you say the rebels have taken for calling in the assistance of the Indians, leave no room to hesitate upon the propriety of your pursuing the same measure. For that purpose I enclose to you a letter to Col. Johnson, containing His Majesty's commands for engaging a body of Indians, and shall by the first ship-of-war that sails after the Cerberus, send you a large assortment of goods for presents, which you will contrive the means of safely conveying to the Colonel.

I wish, Sir, to state to you, with as much precision as I am able, the ideas that have been formed with respect to the future plan of operations of our forces in North-America; for although your own knowledge and experience, aided by the advice and opinion of the able Generals who assist you, will be far better guides to your judgment than any thing I can suggest; yet it may not be altogether useless to mark out (however incorrectly) some of the ideas of military men of knowledge and ability here, and which indeed very much correspond with what seems to be your opinion, and that of the other officers with you.

I have already said in my letter, No. 22, of this day's date, that in the general view we have of the state of the Army at Boston, and of the force of the rebels, it does not seem likely that any further operations, at least of any extent, will be undertaken this campaign. The state of the service, therefore, as it stands at present, seems to involve in the consideration of it these questions, viz:

1st. Whether we should push the war with our whole force in the next campaign, on the side of New England?

2d. Whether, viewing the whole state of America, it would not be more advisable to make Hudson's River the seat of war, and for that purpose immediately take possession of the City of New-York, with a part of our force, leaving at Boston what is necessary to secure that post, and keep up a diversion on that side?

3d. Whether, if it should be judged unsafe, or unadvisable to take post at New-York, it may not be expedient to endeavour, with a part of the force under your command, embarked on board the transports, to make an impression in other places, which, if it answered no other purpose, would at least enable you to collect a large supply of live stock and provision, which is no trifling object in your present circumstances.

And lastly, Whether, if neither of the measures suggested in the two last propositions can be effected, and if even Boston should not be tenable in the winter, without hazard (as many here think) it might not be advisable that your whole Army should be posted in proper divisions at Halifax and Quebeck, until the events of the winter shall point out the best plan of operation in the spring?

In the consideration of these propositions, a variety of cogent reasons occur in favour of what is suggested in regard to the possession of New-York; for if by such an operation we could recover the attachment and fidelity of that Province, as many judicious and well-informed persons think we may, it would, independent of many other circumstances which give preference to this proposition, not only be of great weight in the general scale of advantage, but might also increase our strength, by the junction of numbers, which would shew themselves upon the least appearance of protection. But I beg I may not be understood, in stating these, or any other ideas that have occurred, to intimate that the King does not leave it entirely to his Generals to act according to their own judgment and discretion; and therefore I have only to add, that if we are driven to the difficulty of relinquishing Boston, care must be taken that the officers and friends of Government be not left exposed to the rage and insult of rebels, who set no bounds to their barbarity. And when I mention this circumstance, I must not omit to inform you that His Majesty is graciously pleased, upon a representation made to him of the distress to which many of the members of your present Council are exposed, to direct that you do, from time to time, give them such relief, and make them such allowance as you shall judge necessary, and include the expense in your contingent accounts.

If the proposition of taking post at New-York is adopted, then General Howe, assisted by General Burgoyne, will, it is presumed, command on that side, in which case it is His Majesty's intention that General Clinton should command on the side of New-England; and I have only to add, that whatever disposition is made of the Army under your command in consequence of what has been suggested, it will be absolutely necessary, that effectual care be taken for the protection of Halifax, which, being the great repository of all our naval stores, is an object of the last importance. I am, &c.

DARTMOUTH.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM THE EARL OF DARTMOUTH TO GENERAL GAGE, DATED WHITEHALL, AUGUST 2, 1775.

From the tenour of your letters of June twenty-fifth, and from the state of affairs after the action of the seventeenth, the King is led to conclude that you have little expectation of effecting any thing further this campaign, and has therefore commanded me to signify to you His Majesty's pleasure, that you do, as soon as conveniently may be after you receive this letter, return to England, in order to give His Majesty exact information of every thing, that it may be necessary to prepare, as early as possible, for the operations of the next year, and to suggest to His Majesty such matters in relation thereto, as your knowledge and experience of the service enable you to furnish.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM THE EARL OF DARTMOUTH TO MAJOR-GENERAL HOWE, DATED WHITEHALL, AUGUST 2, 1775.

SIR: The King having signified his commands that General Gage should return to England, to lay before His Majesty a state of his command, and to assist in the consideration of what may be necessary to the future plan of operations, I have the honour to send you His Majesty's commission, appointing you to be (during General Gage's absence) Commander-in-Chief of all His Majesty's forces employed, or to be employed within the Colonies lying upon the Atlantick Ocean, and have also transmitted the like commission to General Carleton, to command the forces employed, or to be employed in Canada, and upon its frontiers.

I have, in a separate letter to General Gage, of this day's date, stated to him very fully the King's intention with regard to the force to be employed next year in North-America, and suggested many things respecting the ideas of a plan of operation. That letter he is directed to leave with you when he comes away, and therefore I have only to add, that I am, &c.

NEWBERN (NORTH-CAROLINA) COMMITTEE.

Committee Chamber, August 2, 1775.

The following Letter was wrote by his Excellency Governor Martin, to the Honourable Lewis Henry De Rossett, Esq., in answer to an information given him of his being charged with giving encouragement to the slaves to revolt from their masters. As the substance of this Letter is very alarming, his Excellency therein publicly avowing the measure of arming the slaves against their masters, when every other thing to preserve the King's Government should prove ineffectual, the Committee have ordered the said Letter to be published as an alarm to the people of this Province against the horrid and barbarous designs of the enemies, not only to their internal peace and safety, but to their lives, liberties, properties, and every other human blessing.

Fort Johnston, June 24, 1775.

"SIR: I beg leave to make you my acknowledgments for your communication of the false, malicious, and scandalous report that has been propagated of me in this part of the Province, of my having given encouragement to the negroes to revolt against their masters; and as I persuade myself you kindly intended thereby to give me an opportunity to refute so infamous a charge, I eagerly embrace this occasion, most solemnly to assure you that I never conceived a thought of that nature. And I will further add my opinion, that nothing could ever justify the design, falsely imputed to me, of giving encouragement to the negroes, 'but the actual and declared rebellion of the King's subjects, and the failure of all other means to maintain the King's Government.'

"Permit me, therefore, Sir, to request the favour of you to take the most effectual means to prevent the circulation of this most cruel slander, and to assure every body with whom you shall communicate on this subject, that so far from entertaining so horrid a design, I shall be ever ready, and heartily disposed to concur in any measures 'that may be consistent with prudence,' to keep the negroes in order and subjection, and for the maintenance of peace and good order throughout the Province.

"I am, with great respect, Sir, your most obedient and humble servant,

"JO. MARTIN.

"The Hon. Lewis H. De Rossett, Esq."

Resolved unanimously, That his Excellency Governor Martin, by the whole tenour of his conduct since the unhappy differences between Great Britain and her Colonies, has manifested himself an enemy to American liberty, and the rights and blessings of a free people; and that by his many wanton exertions of power as Governour of this Province, his hostile and dangerous Letters to the Ministry and General Gage, replete with falsities and misrepresentations of the true state of the Province, he has proved himself to hold principles abhorrent to the rights of humanity, and justly forfeited all confidence with the people of this Government.

Resolved unanimously, That notwithstanding the very great pains that have been taken by those who call themselves friends to Government, and their favourable explanations of the emphatical words between turned commas in the body of the above Letter, to make them speak a language different from their true import, they contain, in plain English, and in every construction of language, a justification of the design of encouraging the slaves to revolt, when every other means should fail to preserve the King's Government from open and declared rebellion; and the publick avowal of a crime of so horrid and truly black a complexion, could only originate in a soul lost to every sense of the feelings of humanity, and long hackneyed in the detestable and wicked purpose of subjugating these Colonies to the most abject slavery. By order,

R. COGDELL, Chairman.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM A CLERGYMAN IN MARYLAND
TO HIS FRIEND IN ENGLAND, DATED AUGUST 2, 1775.

Unhappy Britain! Unhappy America! Had an angel from Heaven told me, but two years ago, that your dissolution was to have been hurried on so precipitately, I could not have believed it. That so vast an Empire as this, at such a distance from the Mother Country, must, one day or other, tear itself off by its own weight, is as plain as a mathematical demonstration, and it would be the wisdom and interest of Britain to protract that period to its utmost distance; but that cannot be done by any thing but friendship, lenity, and kindness. Force will neither intimidate nor avail; it will only exasperate and render us desperate. Divide et impera seems a favourite maxim with your Ministry, but with respect to the Colonies is impracticable; for however separate they may be by situation and some particular interests, the Ministry have fallen upon a method, by touching their common rights and privileges, to make their union firm and immovable as the mountains. You would be surprised to see the military spirit that reigns through every Province; besides the thousands raised by each for soldiers to march to any part of the Continent, there are independent companies in every County, and particularly from the back-woods thousands of the riflemen, whose aim is as fatal and unerring as the shafts of Apollo; and for our internal security the militia are well trained and ready to act; and if any mercenaries are landed, the cattle and horses are all to be driven back out of their reach; so that unless they bring horses and wagons with them, to carry their ammunition and provisions, they can never penetrate ten miles into the country, and even that not without the loss of thousands, as our woodmen, with their rifle-guns, will constantly harass their march.

We have heard of Colonel Grant's speech, and are amazed that any man should so abandon truth, and be so lost to all sense of honour, as to pledge himself publicly in the House of Commons for the universal cowardice of the Americans, when he was conscious to himself that he owed his life to a handful of them. When he ran away at Fort du Quesne, with all his men, he was rescued by Colonel Lewis, with a party of Virginians, or else he must have been knocked on the head or taken prisoner; and that very same Colonel Lewis hunted him through all America, to call him to account for some disgraceful words, but could never bring him face to face. And why should not the descendants of Britons have as much courage as Britons themselves? You see they have the same spirit of liberty with their great forefathers who brought about the Revolution, and they will preserve that liberty or perish. There is a Petition sent home by the Congress to the King, and an Address to the people of Great Britain; if these are treated with that sovereign contempt which every thing that has hitherto come from America, or been said on her behalf, has been, farewell forever to all allegiance and every attachment. Till the fate of that Petition is known, it is the constant prayer of every publick congregational church or meeting upon this Continent, to inspire the hearts of the King and his Parliament with wisdom, moderation, and justice, to remove from us all cause of danger from a continued pursuit of measures pregnant with the ruin of both Countries, that peace, union, and concord, may be restored, and that we may live together in mutual love and amity to the end of ages.

However they may be represented to him, the King has not more affectionate or more loyal subjects in any part of his dominions than the Americans. They desire no other King; they wish not a division from, or independence on the Mother Country. They have taken up arms, it is true, in defence of their lives, privileges, and properties, invaded by the machinations of a set of Ministers, at the bottom equally inimical to both Countries; but are ready to lay them down, and return within the line of their duty, whenever their just complaints are heard, and grievances redressed. If we are rebels, they should consider who made us so. A sure way to make rebels is to declare people such while innocent, and pour upon them all the inflections due to that crime before they are guilty of it. The ministerial agents are endeavouring to rouse the Indians against us, and General Carleton is using every method to embody the Canadians to fall upon us, and has actually hanged several of them for refusing to obey his mandates. Ye right reverend and right righteous Lords spiritual, what were you thinking of when you consented to the passing of a law, which, in effect, obliges His Majesty's conquered Roman Catholick vassals to cut the throats of his natural-born Protestant subjects? Was there ever any thing attempted equal to this under the reign of the worst of the unhappy Stuart family? The Irish massacre was only said to be connived at; it is only a modern refinement in politicks that Papists shall be compelled by law to murder their Protestant neighbours. To complete the horrid scene, the Governour of Virginia, the Captains of the men-of-war, and mariners, have been tampering with our negroes; and have held nightly meetings with them; and all for the glorious purpose of enticing them to cut their master's throats while they are asleep. Gracious God! that men, noble by birth and fortune, should descend to such ignoble base servility!

You may plainly see by these measures, that would disgrace even the Spanish Inquisition, that nothing will content the Ministers but either an absolute and tame submission to their arbitrary will, or a total extirpation of all the Protestant Colonies. As to Lord North's proposal, it is insult added to cruelty; if it has any meaning it is shortly this: You may tax yourselves after what mode you please, but we will be judges of the quantum, and have the sole disposal of the sums taxed. And this disposal may be to buy the venal Boroughs the Ministers represent, to hire mercenaries, or pay Roman Catholick Armies to cut our own throats, or feed a parcel of hungry dependants to do their dirty jobs. If our last petition to the throne does not succeed, there will be a manifesto published, inviting all the Nations in Europe to trade with us. The temptation is too great, and the advantages too considerable for them to resist; and if matters are not compromised, all Europe may be involved in the war, which I pray God to avert. Times are strangely altered since you left us. When you knew us we were the happiest people upon earth. You spent many happy days amongst us, made your fortune, and have still many friends here. Desert us not now in our distress, and let not the tongue of slander vilify us without vindication; but if that be now a crime in your Country, you may at least pray for us, without giving offence to either God or man.

This will probably be the last time you will ever hear from me, for next month all communication will be cut off. Farewell; God bless you.

CONNECTICUT DELEGATES IN CONGRESS, TO ZEBULON BUTLER.

Philadelphia, August 2, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: It has been represented to the Continental Congress that there is great danger of discord and contention, if not hostility and bloodshed, between the people settling under Connecticut claim, and those under Pennsylvania, which would be attended with the most unhappy consequences at this time of general calamity, and when we want our whole united strength to oppose our common enemy. We are therefore desired by the Congress to write to you, and press upon you the necessity of peace and good order, not only among yourselves, but by no means to give the least disturbance or molestation to the persons, or property, or possessions of those settled under the Proprietaries of Pennsylvania, and especially to the families, property, or possessions, of those who are gone as Riflers into the service of their Country, to join the Army near Boston.

The Delegates from the Province of Pennsylvania are desired to write to their people, settled under the title of the Proprietaries, to urge upon them the same peaceable disposition towards the settlers under Connecticut, and that they make no attempts upon their possessions or settlements, but for both sides to remain in peace and quiet, and be cautious not to interfere in jurisdiction or in the exercise of Government, but that they all live together in peace and good order, and unite in the greatest harmony in the common defence, if there should be occasion. You are desired to make no settlements by force, nor use any threats for that purpose.

Yours,

E. DYER,
R. SHERMAN,
S. DEAN.

NEW-YORK DELEGATES TO PROVINCIAL CONGRESS.

Philadelphia, August 2, 1775.

SIR: We received your letter by express this morning, in answer to which we beg leave to inform you that we have obtained an order from Congress on the Continental Treasury, in your favour, for one hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars; but as there is not yet a sufficient number of the bills signed to answer the most pressing occasions, we imagine your draft cannot be answered before the latter end of next week. We have, however, been able to borrow about eight thousand Pounds for you, which we will bring with us, expecting to set out for New-York this afternoon, the Congress having adjourned this morning till the fifth of September next.

We are, Sir, your most obedient servants,

PHILIP LIVINGSTON,
GEORGE CLINTON.

To Peter Van Brugh Livingston, Esquire.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO JOHN HANCOCK.

[Read September 13, 1775.]

Ticonderoga, August 2, 1775.

SIR: Since my last I have received the intelligence contained in the enclosed affidavits. It is of such a nature that I think it my indispensable duty to send this by express, that you may judge of the propriety of my making the attempt you have positively ordered in the resolutions of the 27th of June and 3d of July, and for which I am preparing with unremitting diligence. I do most earnestly entreat that more powder may be sent me, for I find that I shall not have quite a ton when the troops are completed to a pound a man, which is not sufficient for any body of troops that must necessarily open batteries.

This place is in the most defenceless condition. Perhaps it might be proper to send a small Committee to examine the country, and report whether this or any other place ought to be fortified, in case it should become necessary.

Captain Smith, who has been sent up by the New-York Congress, in lieu of the former Captain who left the sloop, arrived here a few days ago, and has made me a report of what alterations will be necessary to put her into a proper state of defence. But as I have no carpenters to spare, unless I quit building boats, I have declined it for the present, on which he delivered me a paper, of which the enclosed is a copy.

If Congress should think it necessary to build vessels of equal or superiour force to those building at St. John's, a number of good ship-carpenters should be immediately sent up; although this year they would be of no service but that of transporting troops, even if we had them here, on account of the want of powder.

I am, Sir, most respectfully, your most obedient and humble servant,

PH. SCHUYLER.

To the Hon. John Hancock, Esq., &c. &c.

CHARLOTTE COUNTY, ss.:

John Duguid being duly sworn, saith, that he is a North Britain, and has lived in Canada for about sixteen months past; that, by order of the Commissary-General there he came to St. John's about a month and a half ago as a cooper; that he staid there about four or five weeks, when they wanted him to continue in their service, but he thought it his duty to come here and give information, and that he left St. John's about twelve days ago; that his wife's relations live on Esquire Gilliland's Patent; that when he was about to leave St. John's, he obtained a pass to go to Missiskoui, but meant to go to Willsborough, to which place he believes he could not have got a pass; that there were then at St. John's about four hundred and eighty Regular Troops, and about one hundred and ten at Chambly, which is about twelve miles distant from St. John's; that the troops are supplied with provisions from Montreal and Quebeck; that there were in store, when he left St. John's, about two weeks provisions, but that they had sent to Montreal for provisions for two months, to be lodged at Chambly, and brought to St. John's as wanted; that there are no Canadians at St. John's, except two Indian interpreters, and about twenty others, with horses, employed in drawing pickets; that they are making two fortifications at St. John's, one of which is nearly completed, on which are about eight field-pieces mounted, and some small mortars; that these were to be taken down to make room for others; that between thirty and forty guns, of twelve, eighteen, and twenty-four pounders, with carriages, were landed at Chambly, but not brought to St. John's when he came away; that he does not believe they would be brought to St. John's till the timber of the vessels was brought up which was framed at Chambly, and they were employed in bringing it to St. John's two days before the deponent came away; that they had about thirty or forty carriages employed in the work, and expected a great many more the next day, and thought to get the timber there in four or five days, and that by this time he imagines the guns are there; that the timber belonged to Mr. Bell, and was seized at Chambly; that the keel of one of the vessels was between fifty-three and fifty-four feet long, and that of the other between fifty-five and fifty-six feet, and that they are to be built between the fortifications; that there were between fifty and sixty carpenters; and this deponent supposes the vessels are well advanced by this time, and they are to mount sixteen or eighteen guns each, the most of them twelve pounders; that the forts are square, and of equal dimensions, and about one hundred yards asunder; that the south and east sides are formed with a ditch and parapet, picketed, and the north and west sides with strong pickets, ten feet long, and the water from the lake is to be let into the ditch of the north fort; that the forts communicate by a small breastwork, near the water-side; that there were thirty Indians at St. John's for some time, and nine arrived there the night before this deponent left it, some few of whom are Caughnawagas; that some frequently return to Montreal, and others came; that he was particularly informed by the British Merchants of Montreal, that there had about five hundred Indians came down with Colonel Johnson and Colonel Claus, about one hundred of whom this deponent saw at Montreal; that he was informed the remainder were at Lachine; that it was reported these Indians were coming up the lakes to act against the Colonies, when the Regulars were ready; that the Canadians will not take up arms on either side, but wish to remain neuter; that when the officers appointed by Governour Carleton attempted to force the Canadians to take up arms, about three thousand of them assembled, and obliged the officers to quit their purpose and return home; that the son of M. De Chambeault, one of the principal seigneurs in Canada, had a commission to raise men, but attempting it was disarmed by the people, and escaped to Montreal; that his father came next day, and was obliged to go thither likewise; that the Canadians were headed by M. L'Artifice; that they have arms, but no ammunition but what they got from the merchants, who, as this deponent understands, have a considerable quantity at Quebeck; that Artifice and two others went to Gouverneur Carleton at Montreal, to know if it was his positive orders to force them to take up arms; for if it was, they were determined to oppose it to the last; that he heard the officers at Chambly had received letters informing them that four Regiments were expected every day at Quebeck; that about six of the Indians at St. John's, with an interpreter, are sent as spies once every week, with positive orders not to pass the line; that the country in Canada is very ill off for provisions, and flour four Dollars per hundred at Quebeck, by reason of the exportation to England, and that the dry weather has greatly injured their crops; that they have only two small batteaus at St. John's, about ten at Chambly, and twenty at Montreal, which may be got up the river, or over land, to St. John's; that when the vessels are finished, they propose to bring them upon the lake; that this deponent heard of two men being taken with an Indian boy, on the other side of the line, and the boy was released; that there were three armed schooners, of sixty or seventy tons each, lying off the mouth of Sorel, in the St. Lawrence, commanded by Algeo La Force and La Tourt; that he thinks the number of Regulars at Montreal does not exceed twenty, and that those at Quebeck are not more than a company, and most of them sick, and about thirty recruits from England; that on a report that the New-England people intended to come through the woods and attack Quebeck, a Captain was sent down to take command of the troops there; that the Canadians about Quebeck were disposed to be neutral, as well as those about St. John's, but that the priests and seigneurs were stimulating them to take up arms against the Colonies; that on account of the new laws, which impose the same taxes that were levied by the King of France, the Canadians are very much disobliged, and declare they will oppose the taxes to the utmost; that there was a report in Canada, that an army of fifteen thousand men was coming from this way; that the Regulars determined when they come up the lake, to destroy all the settlements on this side of the line, particularly Mr. Gilliland's. And further saith not.

JOHN DUGUID.

Sworn this 2d day of August, 1775, before me,
PH. SCHUYLER, Judge.

The above Deposition was taken from the mouth of the deponent, in the presence of General Schuyler, Colonel Hinman, Colonel Mott, and Major Welsh, by JOHN MACPHERSON.

CHARLOTTE COUNTY, to wit:

John Shatforth, late of Yorkshire, in Old England, being duly sworn, deposeth and saith: That he went from Esquire Gilliland's Patent to St. John's, about the first of May last, where he has been since employed in farming; that his father and mother live there; that he procured a pass from Major Preston to come from St. John's to Mr. Gilliland's, to harvest, and accordingly left that place the 21st of July; that at that time there were about four hundred and sixty Regular Troops there, but no Canadians, except two Indian interpreters, and about half a dozen hauling pickets for the fortifications; that there are between thirty and forty Indians there, some of them of the Caughnawagas, and some of the Messasagas, who go out for spies; that this deponent believes their orders are not to pass the line, but cannot tell whether they would act against the Colonies, if required; did not hear that General Carleton was enlisting any Canadians; was informed by Mr. Duguid that there were some Indians at Montreal, but does not know certainly, as he never was there; that he, this deponent, had heard the Canadians say they wish to remain neutral; that the fortification at St. John's is a fort with a double row of pickets, and the largest pickets of it are as big as a man's thigh; that there are trenches on the outside, and a breastwork on the inside of the pickets; that they intend to let water from the lake into the trenches; that he was not allowed to go into the fort, but supposes it to contain about an acre of ground; believes they have eight or ten guns mounted, mortars included, and are preparing to mount more, as they have more embrasures for them; that the fort is square, and without bastions; that there is another fortification to the northward of the one described, and like it, on which no cannon are mounted; that the timber, ready framed, was hauling by the Canadians from Chambly, when he left St. John's, for building two schooners, one of which is to be of fifty-four feet keel, and the other of fifty-five; that the timber belonged to Mr. Bell, and was seized by the Regulars at Chambly; that provisions in Canada were very scarce, and that flour was the most so; that this deponent saw no boats at St. John's, except two small batteaus, and did not hear of their having any more elsewhere; that more Regular Troops were expected in Canada, which news they heard from Quebeck; that he cannot tell what other Troops are in Canada, but that there are some at Chambly, though he cannot tell their numbers. He knows John Duguid, who was a cooper at St. John's, employed by the Commissary. That the schooners were coming up the lake, as soon as they were finished; that he, this deponent, lived better than half a mile from the fort; that he has not lately seen any provisions come to St. John's, and all that are brought must pass by his door; that he saw the two men that were taken with the Indian boy, and believes they were sent to Montreal; that he does not suppose the Canadians would take it ill if the Colony Troops were to pass the line; that he heard and believes there were about three thousand people assembled at Chambly, to defend themselves against being forced to take up arms, who did not continue together above two or three days, but he cannot tell in what manner they were dispersed; that the Canadians have arms, but no ammunition; that the Regular Troops declared, that when they came up the lake, they would destroy Esquire Gilliland's settlement. And further saith not.

Paper delivered Major-General SCHUYLER by Captain SMITH.

I hereby certify to whom it may concern, that on the 1st day of August, 1775, by order of Major-General Schuyler, I took command of the Sloop Enterprise, then lying at Crown Point, for the service of the United Colonies, and find, by strict examination, the condition she is now in, to be of very little use to the service, as I am well assured, in the present state, the vessel might be easily taken by four batteaus, with one swivel gun and ten men armed, in each; as witness my hand this 2d day of August, 1775.

JAMES SMITH, Commodore.

To his Honour Major-General Schuyler, at Ticonderoga.

JOSEPH TRUMBULL TO JOHN HANCOCK.

Camp at Cambridge, August 2, 1775.

SIR: I have received your kind favour of the 24th ult., covering my commission from the Continental Congress, as Commissary-General in the American Army, and sincerely thank them for the honour done me in this appointment, and you for your kind wishes of happiness. It shall be my constant and earnest endeavour to discharge the duties of my trust to their satisfaction, and thereby obtain their approbation therein, which will render me happy.

I am, Sir, your obliged and obedient humble servant,
JOS. TRUMBULL.

Honourable John Hancock.

ELBRIDGE GERRY TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Chamber of Supplies, Watertown, August 2, 1775.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY: Colonel Porter is just arrived from New-York, and has so far succeeded in his business, that about 80,000 flints and eight tons of lead are expected here on Saturday next. It arrived at Hartford on Sunday and Monday last.

Colonel Campbell, the Deputy Quartermaster, informed Colonel Porter at New-York, that fifteen hogsheads of powder had arrived there, and that he should give your Excellency immediate notice thereof.

I apprehend we can have half a ton of lead cast into ball a day, being provided with moulds sized from sixteen to thirty-two balls to the pound; perhaps twice that quantity, on emergency.

Colonel Burbeck received sixteen half barrels of powder this morning, before the Committee were apprized of it by the Agent of Supplies; but we have given orders for stopping all the ammunition, unless expressly ordered by your Excellency.

Colonel Porter is desired to wait on you this afternoon; and we remain, with great respect, Sir, your most obedient servant,

ELBRIDGE GERRY.

His Excellency General Washington.

P. S. The subject of the letter last evening was of such a nature, that Mr. Cheever was not made acquainted therewith, which we mention to your Excellency, that your mind may be easy with respect to the secrecy of it.

Orders are to go to Town immediately for powder.

GENERAL SULLIVAN TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Winter Hill, August 2, 1775.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY: I have examined into the state of the ammunition in my department, and find remaining in the magazine, of the powder supplied from New-Hampshire, nineteen barrels, of one hundred weight each, scarcely any balls, and no flints, except what the soldiers are possessed of. They are in general well provided with ammunition for one engagement. We have fifty rounds of cartridges to each cannon that is mounted, which is all the ammunition in the Brigade assigned to your Excellency's most obedient servant,

JNO. SULLIVAN.

His Excellency General Washington.

Mr. Sears and Mr. Berrian, who were appointed to examine the Baggage of a certain Mr. Sinclair, report, that they found Letters in his possession, which were produced to this Committee, declaring that he is appointed Lieutenant-Governour of Michilimackinack; and also, that a certain Mr. Hamilton is appointed Lieutenant-Governour of one of the Upper Governments.

Ordered, That Colonel McDougall be required to appoint a guard to attend Lieutenant-Governour Sinclair, until the pleasure of the Provincial Congress is known what further shall be done with him.

On motion, Resolved, That a certain Mr. Archer, who, this Committee are informed, is the propagator of the report that the Continental Congress had passed a Resolution declaring the Colonies to be in a state of independence after the 10th of March next, unless their grievances are redressed, be sent for immediately; and that Captain Fleming, Captain S. Broome, and Captain Lamb, be a Committee to request his attendance.

The Committee appointed to wait on Mr. Archer, returned, and reported that he was not to be found.

It appearing to this Board, from the examination of George Coffin, Master of the Sloop Henry, and the declaration in writing of Mr. Abraham H. Van Vleck, that he, the said Abraham H. Van Vleck, hath, contrary to a Resolution of the Continental Congress, shipped Provisions to the Island of Nantucket, on board the said Sloop Henry, whereof the said George Coffin went Master:

Ordered, That Messrs. Kissam and Yates wait on the Provincial Congress with the above examination and declaration.

BROOKHAVEN (NEW-YORK) COMMITTEE TO PROVINCIAL CONGRESS.

Brookhaven, Suffolk County, August 3, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: As well-wishers to our country, we cannot any longer delay giving you an account of the conduct of sundry persons within the limits of this Committee: Parson James Lyon, Benjamin Floyd, Doctor Gilbert Smith, Joseph Denton, Richard Floyd, and John Bayleys, Inn-keeper. These persons have, from the beginning, taken every method in their power to seduce the ignorant about them, and to counteract every measure that has been recommended for the redress of grievances. They damn all Congresses and Committees, wishing they were in hell. They have declared that they will furnish, and it is suspected that they have furnished, the men-of-war and cutters with provisions.

Such conduct, we think, is insufferable, and desire that you would be pleased to direct to such measures as you shall think proper to suppress it.

By order of the Brookhaven Committee:

CAPTAIN DAVID LYON TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

To the Honourable the Provincial Congress for the Colony of NEW-YORK:

The Memorial of Capt. David Lyon humbly sheweth:

That in the beginning of July he was encouraged to expect that he would obtain a Captain's commission in the service of this Colony, if he could raise a company. That your memorialist immediately began to enlist men, and engaged that if they should be taken into the service of this Colony, their pay and subsistence should commence from the time of their enlistment. That your memorialist was actually at the expense of subsisting a great part of his company from the time of their enlistment to the 18th ult., when they were received into the barracks. That your memorialist did not receive his warrant until the 14th of July, and should he be left to pay the wages and subsistence of his company from the times of the respective enlistments of the men, it will be a very considerable loss to your memorialist. Your memorialist, therefore, humbly prays the Congress to take the same into consideration, and to give your memorialist such relief and answer in the premises, as in their wisdom they think fit and right.

DAVID LYON, Captain.

New-York, August 3, 1775.

The subscribers conceiving Captain Lyon's case to be extremely hard, humbly request it may engage the attention of the honourable Congress.

PETER T. CURTENIUS TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-York, August 3, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: The enclosed is a note I received from Capt. Lamb; should be glad to have an order from the Congress about this matter. I have waited on Messrs. Murray about the twenty pieces of duck and sixty pieces of osnaburgh; they request an order from the Congress to the Committee at Elizabethtown.

I have made an inquiry about oars, and can't find above one hundred and fifty in Town, ninety-seven of which I sent up yesterday; for the remainder, I have contracted with Captain Bradley of New-Haven, to deliver them in ten or twelve days.

I am, Gentlemen, your most obedient servant,
PETER T. CURTENIUS.

Thursday, August 3, 1775.

SIR: As I am ordered by the Provincial Congress to proceed (with my company) immediately to Ticonderoga, I should be glad to know as their clothing is to be of a better quality and a different make, if provision is made for that purpose? I am, Sir, your most humble servant,

JOHN LAMB.

To Peter T. Curtenius.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Ticonderoga, August 3, 1775.

SIR: Your Honour's letter of the 28th ultimo was delivered me yesterday. Major Elmore, who is at Crown Point, has applied to me for leave to sell the cows, which I readily consented to. If he had any grass in this quarter, they might probably become fit for the knife by fall. Provision is now coming up with more speed than heretofore, and my fears of being detained on that account are subsided. I continue building boats; but if the accounts contained in the enclosed affidavits* be well founded, and of which we do not seem to entertain the least doubt, the enemy's naval strength will be such as, in all probability, will prevent our getting down the Sorrel River to St. John's, as we suppose their vessels are nearly if not quite finished by this time. And although if we had a number of carpenters and the necessary materials, we might soon construct vessels equal to theirs, yet our want of ammunition would render them useless, for after completing the troops to a pound a man, I shall not have a ton of powder left.

The troops sicken alarmingly fast; ninety-two are now returned ill at this place, only when we are about five hundred strong. I wish they had tents, without which they must suffer incredibly if we should move on.

I am, your Honour's most obedient humble servant,
PHILIP SCHUYLER.

The Honourable Jonathan Trumbull, Esq.

ETHAN ALLEN TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Ticonderoga, August 3, 1775.

HONOURED SIR: General Schuyler exerts his utmost in building boats and making preparation for the Army to advance, as I suppose, to St. John's, &c. We have an insufficient store of provision for such an undertaking, though the projection is now universally approved. Provisions are hurrying forward, but not so fast as I could hope for. General Wooster's corps has not yet arrived. I fear there is some treachery among the New-York Tory party relative to forwarding the expedition, though I am confident the General is faithful. No troops from New-York, except some officers, are yet arrived, though it is given out that they will soon be here. The General tells me he does not want any troops till more provision comes to hand, which he is hurrying, and ordered the troops under General Wooster part to be billeted in the meantime at Albany, and part to mend the road from there to Lake George. It is indeed an arduous work to furnish an army to prosecute an enterprise. In the interim, I am apprehensive the enemy are forming one against us; witness the sailing of the transports and two men-of-war from Boston, as is supposed for Quebeck. Probably it appears that the King's Troops are discouraged of making incursions into the Province of the Massachusetts-Bay. Likely they will send part of their force to overawe the Canadians, and inveigle the Indians into their interest. I fear the Colonies have been too slow in their resolutions and preparations relative to this department, but hope they may still succeed.

Notwithstanding my zeal and success in my Country's cause, the old farmers on the New-Hampshire Grants, who do not incline to go to war, have met in a Committee meeting, and in their nomination of officers for the Regiment of Green Mountain Boys who are quickly to be raised, have wholly omitted me; but as the commissions will come from the Continental Congress, I hope they will remember me, as I desire to remain in the service. And remain your Honour's most obedient humble servant,

ETHAN ALLEN.

To the Honourable Jonathan Trumbull, Governour of the Colony of Connecticut.

N. B. General Schuyler will transmit to your Honour a copy of the affidavits of two intelligent friends who have just arrived from Canada. I apprehend that what they have delivered is truth. I find myself in the favour of the officers of the Army and the young Green Mountain Boys. How the old men came to reject me, I cannot conceive, inasmuch as I saved them from the encroachments of New-York.

E. A.

SAMUEL MOTT TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Ticonderoga, August 3, 1775.

HONOURED SIR: The evening before last, two persons, who through policy had obtained passes by the guards at St. John's, came with me from Crown Point. I was required to assist in examining them under oath before the General, when the substance of their relation was as follows, viz: That the King's Troops were thirteen days ago, when they came from there, well fortified at St. John's. That there was at that place four hundred and seventy Regulars; at Chambly, about twelve miles from thence, about one hundred and ten Regulars; at Quebeck about eighty; and at Montreal about twenty. That there were at St. John's only two Canadians for Indian interpreters, and about forty Indians; and that there were at Montreal (which they had seen,) Col. Guy Johnson and Col. Claus with five hundred Indians, to join the Regulars. That the Regulars were in daily expectation of being joined by four thousand Regulars, who were coming into the river for that purpose. That the Regular Troops had hewed and framed two very large and strong vessels at Chambly, to carry about sixteen carriage guns each, which, before they put together, they had carted up with one hundred teams to St. John's, and were near finished by this time. They do not suffer any of their people to come over the Colony line, till they have got all their forces and vessels ready, when their intent is to come and destroy with fire and sword as far down here and into the country as they can penetrate. The two men who give this account appear to be sensible men, and give a very distinct account. They say that about three weeks ago, an attempt was made by the English rebels to force the Canadians to take up arms against the Colonies, by putting to death a number in each Parish on their refusal, when about three thousand Canadians rose to defend themselves in a body, and disarmed one of their countrymen who had a commission from Governour Carleton, and determined to defend themselves; when Carleton, on finding their disposition to resist, got them dispersed and easy, by telling them, that although he had issued a Proclamation to invite them to take arms, yet he had no design to force them, &c. They say farther, that the Canadians will not take arms against us, unless dragged into it by the appearance of a numerous army of Regulars. The Canadians are generally armed, but have little or no ammunition, otherwise it is most likely they would rise in opposition to the present measures, as they are highly incensed at the restoration of the old French laws, with their priestly and other burdens.

August 4.—The English rebels have lately taken two of our men prisoners, who went to carry down an Indian scholar who came from Doctor Wheelock's college. We are here in a pitiful condition, the men seem much inclined to a seditious and mutinous temper; if we were to attempt to go forward now after leaving the sick and enough to keep the garrisons, we could not go more than eight or nine hundred strong at most, which would be inadequate. I never yet knew an army so illy provided for as this has been. A great part of the time since we have been here, we have had not more than one, two, three, or four days' provisions at most, and some times not enough to provision the people as fast as it became due. By all the appearances of the conduct of the Province of New-York, they still are unsound at heart; they make a great noise, and send forward a few officers to command, &c., and all the carpenters and artificers who are to have extra pay; but I believe as to soldiers in the service, they are not more than one hundred and fifty strong at all the posts this side Albany; and it is feared by many discerning men, that even their Provincial Congress have scarcely a majority who are sound friends to the cause. I could, if I were present, give your Honour two or three striking instances of their hypocrisy, which I should not be safe in conveying in this way, and one of which I am obliged to keep an entire secret to myself until I leave the service. We hear Colonel Waterbury's Regiment will arrive at Fort George to-day or to-morrow, so that we have a prospect of being more strong in numbers. But the utensils for such an expedition have come forward so slowly, that we are as yet destitute of suitable water-craft, gun-carriages, and other materials to go forward; yet, we are making preparations as fast as possible. I had yesterday got out a number of carpenters for making travelling carriages for the guns, which I was obliged to dismiss for three or four days, till more broad-axes, &c., shall arrive; and in this manner every thing has dragged and gone heavily. We have, indeed, within these few days, got something of provisions aforehand, and I wish we may get ready and go forward, for I had rather venture forward now with fifteen hundred men, than with three thousand one month hence. Besides, I would much rather go against an enemy with equal numbers, than to have them come against me when I have three to their two, for I think the advantage of the besieger to be full in that proportion, which doctrine I think may be maintained on rational principles. I take it, that the reason of our not being in better preparation here, is owing to the negligence of New-York. This is a very unhealthy place, the people sickly with the fever and agues many of them, and some with fluxes, but none died here yet.

The General drives things on as fast as he can, considering what hinderance he has for want of nails, &c.; and I believe him to be a very resolute good officer. But what can be done in the war with but few men and less provisions and ammunition, and not a tent to encamp the men in? I had intended to have gone down home before now, as I came away without any necessary baggage, &c., but cannot yet persuade the General to be willing. I had some other things to mention, but the post will not tarry longer, as he cannot detain the boat. I hope your Honour will pardon the inaccuracy of this, as I am obliged to write in so much hurry that I cannot peruse it over. I wish, if we don't go forward soon, that I may come down and see your Honour, when I could tell things more fully.

I am, Sir, your Honour's most humble obedient servant,

SAMUEL MOTT.

Honourable Jonathan Trumbull.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Lebanon, August 3, 1775.

SIR: By information of Mr. Ichabod Fitch, the bearer, a great number of gun-barrels, locks, &c., are perishing at Ticonderoga and Crown Point, which, with care and expense to get the same repaired, cleansed, and stocked, may be rendered useful. If you please to give him or some other suitable person orders to collect, get appraised, and send down such as are valuable by the empty teams which return into this Colony, our workmen will repair them, and the value be duly accounted for.

I am, Sir, with great esteem and regard, your obedient and humble servant,

J. TRUMBULL.

To the Honourable Major-General Schuyler.

MAJOR TUPPER TO GENERAL GATES.

August 3, 1775.

SIR: I am now able to give a more particular account of the expedition to the Light-House than when I saw you before. I find, by examination, that we killed six persons on the spot, one of which was a Lieutenant; that we have five marines and one tory in the hospital; that one died of his wounds before he arrived at Roxbury; that one woman and a lad is still at Dorchester; so that adding the fifteen above mentioned to the thirty-eight which General Ward sent over to Cambridge, makes fifty-three killed and taken. Major Crane, with his field-piece, which was planted on Nantasket Beach to cover our retreat, sunk one of their boats, and probably killed sundry of their crew, as the enemy approached within two hundred yards.

On our side we lost one man only; had two just grazed with balls. We stove one of our boats and was obliged to leave it. We lost seven small-arms, part of which were lost in landing; as the rocks were very steep, some of the party slipped and let go their guns to save themselves; and we have twenty-five small-arms and accoutrements brought off with us, and conceive there were more taken, but have been secreted by some of the party.

The above is as just and exact an account as I am able to give; who am your most obedient humble servant,

BENJAMIN TUPPER.

To General Gates, at Cambridge.

ADVERTISEMENT.

Lieutenant Charles Smith, from Hebron, in Connecticut, whose occupation was a tailor, entered into the service in Colonel Sergeant's Regiment and Captain Hart's Company. He was apprehended and confined for stealing a silver watch from Jacob Low, in said Regiment; he passed the sentries, and absconded on the first instant in the evening. His stature is about five feet eight inches high; had on a good laced hat, and a gold ring on one of his fingers; wears a black coat or calico gown, and black velvet breeches; he is rather of a dark complexion, has some pock-marks on his face, is a rugged trim made man, and somewhat talkative. He has used several very ill in said company. Whoever will take up the said deserter, and produce him either to Colonel Sergeant or Jacob Low, of whom the watch was stolen, shall be entitled to a handsome reward.

BUCKS COUNTY (PENNSYLVANIA) COMMITTEE.

Bucks County, August 4, 1775.

Whereas, the Committee of Safety appointed by the Assembly of Pennsylvania, have requested the Committees of the several Counties in this Province to make a return to them of all the Officers of the Military Association, in order that commissions may be made out for them agreeable to a late resolve of the Continental Congress; and as the several Committees are also requested to make a return of the number of the Associators, and also of the Non-Associators within their respective Districts: The Special Committee of this County do therefore request the Colonels of the several Battalions to furnish the Committee, at their next general meeting, to be held at the house of John Bogart, in the Township of Buckingham, the twenty-first instant, with lists of all the Officers within their Districts. And the several Captains are also requested to furnish the Committee, at the same time, with exact lists of the Associators and Non-Associators within their respective Townships.

Signed by order of the Committee:

JOSEPH HART, President.

N. B. All concerned are desired to attend precisely at ten o'clock.

Bucks County, August 4, 1775.

Whereas I have spoken injuriously of the distressed people of the Town of Boston, and disrespectfully of the measures prosecuting for the redress of American grievances: I do hereby declare that I am heartily sorry for what I have done, voluntarily renouncing my former principles, and promise, for the future, to render my conduct unexceptionable to my countrymen, by strictly adhering to the measures of the Congress.

THOMAS MEREDITH.

NEW-YORK COMMITTEE.

The Committee met, Friday, August 4, 1775. Present:

Henry Remsen,	Petrus Byvanck,	Abraham P. Lott,
Samuel Broome,	Nicholas Bogart,	Oliver Templeton,
Cornelius P. Low,	Lancaster Burling,	John Reade,
Jacob Van Voorhies,	Francis Bassett,	Abraham Duryee,
John Broome,	Victor Bicker,	John Berrian,
Gerardus Duyckinck,	Robert Ray,	Hercules Mulligan,
Theophilus Anthony,	Lewis Pintard,	Thomas Randall,
Daniel Duncomb,	Joseph Totten,	George Janeway,
Edward Fleming,	Richard Sharpe,	Wm. W. Ludlow,
Evert Banker,	Eleazer Miller,	John M. Scott,
William Denning,	Aug. Van Horn,	Alex. McDougall,
Nicholas Roosevelt,	William Bedlow,	John Lamb.

Ordered, That Messrs. Sharp, Pintard, Templeton, and W. Ludlow, be a Committee to wait on Mr. Archer, said to be on board His Majesty's ship-of-war the Asia, and make inquiry by what authority he propagated the report respecting the Resolve of the Continental Congress for a state of independence.

The Committee returned, and reported that the said Mr. Archer was not on board the Asia.

Whereas, a report has been industriously propagated in this City that the Continental Congress had passed a Resolve, that unless American grievances were redressed by the first of March, these Colonies should be independent of Great Britain: And whereas this Committee have made strict inquiry into the same, and find that one Mr. Archer, lately from Philadelphia, was the original publisher of the said report, and have endeavoured, by all means in their power, to procure the attendance of the said Mr. Archer before this Board, to declare by what authority he propagated the said report, but find that he is concealed in, or withdrawn from the City: And whereas this Committee are satisfied, from the best authority, that such report is false and groundless; therefore,

1. Resolved, That the author of such report is guilty of a malicious attempt to represent the Continental Congress as intending to cast off the connexion and dependance of the Colonies on Great Britain, and thereby to widen the unhappy breach already subsisting between them.

2. Resolved, That it appears to this Committee that the said false and malicious report was also calculated to create dissensions in the Colonies, and to weaken their confidence in the Continental Congress, and, therefore, that the author of it ought to be considered as an enemy to this Country.

Whereas, the Continental Congress, by their Resolve of the twenty-seventh May last, ordered that no Provisions of any kind be exported to the Island of Nantucket, except from the Colony of Massachusetts, from whence they were to be supplied with Provisions only for their internal use; and the said Congress deeming it of great importance to North America that the British Fishery should not be supplied with Provisions from this Continent through Nantucket, did, by their said Resolve, earnestly recommend a vigilant execution thereof by all Committees: And whereas it appears to this Committee, by the confession of Abraham H. Van Vleck, of this City, merchant, and the examination of George Coffin, that the said Abraham H. Van Vleck, being owner of the Sloop Henry, (whereof the said George Coffin was master) did, about the twenty-third of June last, send from this Port the said Sloop, laden with Provisions, to Nantucket, on account and risk of the said Abraham H. Van Vleck, and that the said George Coffin sold the same there for the use of the inhabitants: And whereas it also appears, on the said examination and confession, that the said Abraham H. Van Vleck hath again, during this present week, laden the said Sloop at New-York with Provisions for a like voyage to Nantucket, and that the said George Coffin was to proceed on the same as Master of the said Sloop, but was detected in such design, and the vessel and cargo detained by this Committee:

1. Resolved, That the Examination of the said George Coffin, and the Confession of the said Abraham H. Van Vleck, be published in the several Newspapers in this Colony.

2. Resolved, That the said Abraham H. Van Vleck, and George Coffin, have knowingly violated the before-mentioned Resolve of the Continental Congress, and the General Association entered into by the inhabitants of this City and County.

3. Resolved therefore, That the said Abraham H. Van Vleck, and George Coffin, have severally acted inimically to, and been guilty of a high infringement of the Associated American Colonies.

CONFESSION OF ABRAHAM H. VAN VLECK.

GENTLEMEN: I acknowledge to have bargained with George Coffin, about the latter end of May last, for the sloop Henry, of which I was owner; but as our agreement fell through, I then, by advice of the said George Coffin, concluded to load her for Nantucket with a cargo of provisions, and gave the command of the vessel to him. Soon after the resolve of the honourable Continental Congress was made publick, respecting the non-exportation of provisions to said place, notwithstanding which, through ignorance of the consequences, and a strong imagination that it would not hurt the cause of America, I very imprudently proceeded to load the said sloop for Nantucket; for which place the said George Coffin immediately went, and on his arrival there was solicited by the inhabitants to go to New-York, and return as soon as possible with another load, as they were in great want of provisions; and she was nearly completed loading with a like cargo, on the same event as last voyage at this period. The vessel and both cargoes were owned entirely by me, and no person whatever, either directly or indirectly, had any share or part in the same. And I likewise most solemnly exculpate my father, Henry Van Vleck, (who has been out of Town a long time,) and every other person, from having any knowledge in the matter, and I will, if required, satisfy the same by an oath. Now, gentlemen, after having made this open confession, I throw myself on the mercy of my Country, hoping that every indulgence will be allowed me consistent with the interest of the publick. I can and do appeal to my fellow-citizens, that I never did, in any one instance, transgress against the liberties of America; and had I thought the provisions shipped by the aforementioned vessel would have fell into the hands of the King's Troops, no consideration whatever could have induced me to have sent the same.

I again beg leave to crave the lenity of the publick; and am, Gentlemen, your and their most devoted servant,

ABRAHAM H. VAN VLECK.

I further certify that Capt. George Coffin, on his voyage to Nantucket, had orders to sail out of Sandy-Hook, and, on his voyage, to avoid all vessels he should happen to meet or see, and not to speak to any vessel whatever until he got to Nantucket, in order to avoid his falling in the way of any of the King's vessels which might carry him into Boston.

ABRAHAM H. VAN VLECK.

EXAMINATION OF GEORGE COFFIN.

George Coffin says, that after the account received of the Congress not to ship provisions to Nantucket, the examinant, being Master of the sloop Henry, did take on board the said sloop at New-York, a cargo, or part of a cargo of provisions for Nantucket, which belonged to Abraham H. Van Vleck of this City; that the said vessel also belonged to him, the said Van Vleck. That the examinant sailed with the said vessel and cargo to Nantucket, and there sold the cargo, but had liberty from said Van Vleck to go to the West-Indies if he thought fit. That the cargo of provisions now on board the said sloop also belongs to the said Abraham H. Van Vleck, and was shipped with intention to go to Nantucket. That the cargo first above mentioned was sold for the use of the inhabitants at Nantucket. That he thinks he was about three days taking in the first cargo, and thinks that the vessel was cleared out immediately, or very soon after the first cargo was taken on board, and thinks the vessel sailed the next day after she was cleared out. That when the vessel sailed on the said voyage, the examinant knew he was contravening the order of the Continental Congress.

GEORGE COFFIN.

SAMUEL MOTT TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Ticonderoga, August 4, 1775.

SIR: The Continental Congress, in their arrangement of the Army, have allotted for this Northern Army one chief Engineer, and two under Engineers, but the particular appointments of the persons is not yet come; if they should appoint me, I had determined if in my power to have Captain Noah Phelps for one of the two assistants; but this remains an uncertainty till we hear further from the Congress. I could wish that your Honour's son, who is the good draftsman and picturer, was introduced into this branch of business.

'Tis to be feared that the enemy, having collected the chief of our strength at Boston, will make a sudden movement round this way, and overpower our little Army here, and penetrate the country; but I hope the Colonies will provide against such a catastrophe; we are too scarce of powder to do much with artillery.

I should be glad in your Honour's next letter to the General, that you would intimate your willingness that I should take a short tour down and return again, if the service will admit of it.

I am, Sir, your Honour's most humble servant,

SAMUEL MOTT.

To his Honour Governour Trumbull.

New-York, August 4, 1775.

Whereas, the Provincial Congress of the Colony of New-York hath resolved and ordered as follows, that is to say: That the New-York Regiment be the First, or senior Regiment of the Troops raised in this Colony, and take rank accordingly; and unanimously approved of Alexander McDougall for Colonel, Rudolphus Ritzema for Lieutenant-Colonel, and Herman Zedtwitz for Major of the First Regiment.

That Goose Van Schaick's Regiment be the Second Regiment, and take rank accordingly; and unanimously approved of Goose Van Schaick for Colonel, Peter Yates for Lieutenant-Colonel, and Peter Gansevoort, Jun., for Major of the Second Regiment.

That James Clinton's Regiment be the Third Regiment, and take rank accordingly; and unanimously approved of James Clinton for Colonel, Cornelius D. Wynkoop for Lieutenant-Colonel, and Henry Livingston, Jun., for Major of the Third Regiment.

That James Holmes's Regiment be the Fourth Regiment, and take rank accordingly; and unanimously approved of James Holmes for Colonel, Philip Van Cortlandt for Lieutenant-Colonel, and Barnabas Tuthill for Major of the Fourth Regiment.

And whereas the Provincial Congress have appointed a Committee to form and determine the rank of the Captains and inferior Officers in each Regiment, and of the Captains and inferior Officers of the several Regiments:

The said Committee being, therefore, met to execute the powers to them delegated by the Provincial Congress, unanimously elected Colonel Jacob Blackwell, Chairman of the said Committee, and John McKesson for their Clerk. And the said Committee having maturely and deliberately considered of the rank of the Captains and inferior Officers in each Regiment, and of the rank of the Captains and inferior Officers of the several Regiments; do resolve, agree and order, that the officers of each respective Regiment shall take rank and command in their respective Regiments in the order they stand above numbered; and that the Officers of the several Regiments when they serve together, shall take rank and command according to the seniority of their Regiments, and their numbers in their respective Regiments, that is to say, that the first or highest in rank of the first or other senior Regiment present, shall command the officers of equal or inferior rank of any other Regiment present. That a First Captain in any Regiment shall always command a Second Captain in any other Regiment. That the First Lieutenant of the first Company of the First or other senior Regiment then present, shall command all other Lieutenants present; and the First Lieutenant in any first Company of any Regiment, shall command the First Lieutenant in the second Company of any other Regiment then present; and in the like order throughout the whole of the said four Regiments. By order of the Committee:

JACOB BLACKWELL, Chairman.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM TICONDEROGA, DATED AUGUST 4, 1775.

Two persons who have lately come from St. John's (being examined under oath before the General) give accounts that the King's Troops are well fortified at St. John's; that there is at that place four hundred and seventy Regulars, and one hundred and ten at Chambly, about twelve miles distant; about twenty at Montreal, and one company at Quebeck; forty Indians at St. John's; Colonel Guy Johnson and Colonel Claus, with five hundred Indians, just arrived at Montreal, and just going to join the English rebels against us. One of these men was at Montreal, and saw Johnson and his Indians. They appear to be two sensible men and give a very direct account. There are two large and strong vessels near finished at St. John's, to carry about fourteen or sixteen carriage guns each, and they are every day in expectation of being joined by about four thousand Regulars that are come into the river, and then to come against us. The Canadians are determined not to fight against us unless forced by a formidable Army. About three weeks ago an attempt was made to force the Canadians to take up arms, and they were about to hang some in every Parish, when the Canadians rose in a body of near three thousand men, disarmed the officer that was after recruits, and made him flee, being determined to defend themselves in the best manner they could by a full resistance, rather than be forced to arm against the Colonies. The common people there cannot bear to have the old French laws take place again amongst them, as they will be thereby plunged into enormous taxes. We had a few days ago two men who went down the lake with an Indian boy from Doctor Wheelock's college, intending to land him about thirty miles this side of St. John's, who are taken by a scout of the enemy, and held prisoners.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO CONTINENTAL CONGRESS.

Lebanon, August 4, 1775.

SIR: Your favour of the 22d ult., enclosing a copy from the Minutes, in Congress, July 19th, 1775, is received.

I wrote the 31st July to General Washington, that I had not been informed of any deficiencies in the number of Troops sent from this Colony, and informed him that orders were given the 25th July last to the Colonels of the last raised Regiments, consisting of fourteen hundred men to march forthwith, to the camp before Boston. One of them marched this week, the other will follow very soon.

I gratefully acknowledge the appointment of Mr. Joseph Trumbull to be Commissary-General to the American Army. The performance of his duty, answerable to expectation, will meet your approbation, and afford me peculiar satisfaction.

I am, with great truth and regard, Sir, your obedient humble servant,

JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

To the Honourable President Hancock.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO CONTINENTAL CONGRESS.

[Read before Congress September 13, 1775.]

Camp at Cambridge, August 4, 1775.

SIR: I am to acknowledge the receipt of your favour of the 24th July, accompanied by two hundred and eighty-four commissions, which are yet much short of the necessary number. I am much honoured by the confidence reposed in me of appointing the several officers recommended in mine of the 10th ultimo, and shall endeavour to select such persons as are best qualified to fill those important posts. General Thomas has accepted his commission, and I have heard nothing of his retirement since, so that I suppose he is satisfied.

In the renewal of these commissions some difficulties occur, in which I should be glad to know the pleasure of the honourable Congress. The General Officers of the Massachusetts have Regiments; those of Connecticut have both Regiments and Companies, and the other Field-Officers have Companies each. From Rhode-Island the General Officer has no Regiment, but the Field-Officers have Companies. But I do not find they have, or expect pay under more than one commission. Should the commissions now to be delivered supersede these different establishments, there will be a distinction between General and Field-Officers of the same rank. In order to put New-Hampshire, Massachusetts, and Rhode-Island, upon a line with Connecticut, it would be necessary to dismiss a number of officers in possession of commissions, without any fault of theirs; on the other hand, to bring the Connecticut Generals and Field-Officers to the same scale with the others, will add to the number of officers, and may be deemed inconsistent with the terms on which they entered into the service, although you add nothing to the expense, except in the article of provisions. Upon the whole, it is a case which I would wish the honourable Congress to consider and determine. Colonel Gridley, of this Province, who is at the head of the Artillery, has the rank of Major-General from the Provincial Congress. Will it be proper to renew his commission here in the same manner? It is proper here to remark, that in this case he will take rank of all the Brigadiers-General and even the Majors-General whose commissions are subsequent in date, and can answer no good purpose, but may be productive of many bad consequences.

These are matters of some importance, but I am embarrassed with a difficulty of a superiour kind. The estimate made in Congress supposed all the Regiments to be formed upon one establishment; but they are different in different Provinces, and even vary in the same Province in some particulars. In Massachusetts some Regiments have ten Companies, others eleven. The establishment of the former is five hundred and ninety men, officers included; of the latter, six hundred and forty-nine. The establishment of Rhode-Island and New-Hampshire is five hundred and ninety to a Regiment, officers included. Connecticut has one thousand men to a Regiment. Should the Massachusetts Regiments be completed, with the new levies from Rhode-Island and Connecticut, and the riflemen, the number will exceed twenty-two thousand. If they should not be completed, as each Regiment is fully officered, there will be a heavy expense to the publick, without an adequate service. The reduction of some of them seems to be necessary, and yet is a matter of much delicacy as we are situated. I most earnestly request it may be taken into immediate consideration, and the time and mode of doing it pointed out by the honourable Congress. By an estimate I have made from the General Return, when the new levies arrive, and the Regiments are completed, there will be 24,450 men on the pay and provision of the United Colonies. Some of the recruiting officers, who have been out on that service, have returned with very little success; so that we may safely conclude, the number of 2,064, now wanting to complete, will rather increase than diminish. There are the Regiment of Artillery, consisting of 493 men, and one under Colonel Sergeant, who has not received any commission, although he had orders to raise a Regiment from the Provincial Congress here, which are not included in the above estimate. This last Regiment consists of 234 men, by the last return, but a Company has since joined. By adverting to the General Return, which I have the honour of enclosing, (No. 1.) it will be seen what Regiments are most deficient.

If the Congress does not choose to point out the particular Regiments, but the Provinces in which the reduction is to be made, the several Congresses and Assemblies may be the proper channels to conduct the business, which I should also conceive the most advisable, from their better acquaintance with the merits, terms, and time of service of the respective officers. Reducing some Regiments, and with the privates thereof filling up others, would certainly be the best method of accomplishing this work, if it were practicable; but the experiment is dangerous, as the Massachusetts men, under the privilege of choosing their own officers, do not conceive themselves bound, if these officers are disbanded.

As General Gage is making preparations for winter, by contracting for quantities of coal, it will suggest to us the propriety of extending our views to that season. I have directed that such huts as have been lately made of boards, should be done in such a manner that, if necessary, they may serve for covering during the winter. But I need not enlarge upon the variety of necessities, such as clothing, fuel, &c., (both exceedingly scarce, and difficult to be procured,) which that season must bring with it, if the Army, or any considerable part of it, is to remain embodied. From the inactivity of the enemy, since the arrival of their whole re-enforcement, their continual addition to their lines, and many other circumstances, I am inclined to think, that finding us so well prepared to receive them, the plan of operations is varied, and they mean, by regular approaches, to bombard us out of our present line of defence, or are waiting in expectation that the Colonies must sink under the weight of the expense, or the prospect of a winter's campaign, to discourage the troops so as to break up our Army. If they have not some such expectations, the issue of which they are determined to wait, I cannot account for the delay, when their strength is lessened every day by sickness, desertions, and little skirmishes.

Of these last, we have had only two worthy of notice. Having some reason to suspect they were extending their lines at Charlestown, I last Saturday evening ordered some of the riflemen down to make a discovery, or bring off a prisoner. They were accidentally discovered sooner than they expected, by the guard coming to relieve, and obliged to fire upon them; we have reason to believe they killed several. They brought in two prisoners, whose account, confirmed by some other circumstances, removed my suspicions in part. Since that time we have, on each side, drawn in our sentries, and there have been scattering fires along the line. This evening we have heard of three Captains who have been taken off by the riflemen, and one killed by a cannon shot from Roxbury, besides several privates; but as the intelligence is not direct, I only mention it as a report which deserves credit.

The other happened at the Light-house: A number of workmen having been sent down to repair it, with a guard of twenty-two Marines, and a Subaltern, Major Tupper, last Monday morning about two o'clock, landed there with about three hundred men; attacked them; killed the officer and four privates; but being detained by the tide, in his return he was attacked by several boats, but he happily got through with the loss of one man killed, and another wounded; the remainder of the Ministerial troops, three of whom are badly wounded, he brought off prisoners, with ten Tories; all of whom are on their way to Springfield Jail. The riflemen in this skirmish lost one man, who, we hear, is a prisoner in Boston Jail. The enemy, in return, endeavoured to surprise our guard at Roxbury; but they being apprized of it by a deserter, had time to prepare for it; but, by some negligence or misconduct in the officer of the guard, they burnt the George Tavern, on the neck, and have every day since been cannonading us from their lines, both at Roxbury and Charlestown, but with no other effect than the loss of two men. On our part, except straggling fires from the small-arms about the lines, which we endeavour to restrain, we have made little or no return.

Our situation in the article of powder, is much more alarming than I had the most distant idea of. Having desired a return to be made out, on my arrival, of the ammunition, I found 303½ barrels of powder mentioned as in the store; but on ordering a new supply of cartridges yesterday, I was informed, to my very great astonishment, that there were no more than thirty-six barrels of the Massachusetts store; which, with the stock of Rhode-Island, New-Hampshire, and Connecticut, makes 9,937 pounds—not more than nine rounds a man. As there had been no consumption of powder since, that could in any degree account for such a deficiency, I was very particular in my inquiries, and found that the Committee of Supplies, not being sufficiently acquainted with the nature of a return, or misapprehending my request, sent in an account of all the ammunition which had been collected by the Province, so that the report included not only what was on hand, but what had been spent. Upon discovering this mistake, I immediately went up to confer with the Speaker of the House of Representatives upon some measures to obtain a supply from the neighbouring Townships, in such a manner as might prevent our poverty being known; as it is a secret of too great consequence to be divulged in the General Court, some individual of which might, perhaps, indiscreetly suffer it to escape him, so as to find its way to the enemy; the consequences of which are terrible even in idea. I shall also write to the Governours of Rhode-Island and

Connecticut, and the Committee of Safety of New-Hampshire, on this subject, urging, in the most forcible terms, the necessity of an immediate supply, if in their power. I need not enlarge on our melancholy situation; it is sufficient, that the existence of the Army, and the salvation of the Country, depend upon something being done for our relief, both speedy and effectual, and that our situation be kept a profound secret.

In the enclosures (Nos. 2 and 3) I send the allowance of provisions, &c., made by the Provinces of Connecticut and Massachusetts; the mode and quantity are different from what has fallen within my experience, and I am confident must prove very wasteful and expensive. If any alteration can be safely made, (which I much doubt,) there might be a great saving to the publick.

A gentleman of my family, assisted by a deserter, who has some skill in fortification, has, by my direction, sketched out two draughts of our respective lines, at Charlestown and Roxbury, which, with the explanations, will convey some idea of our situation, and I hope prove acceptable to the members of the honourable Congress. They are the enclosures Nos. 4 and 5.

Since I had the honour of addressing you last, I have been applied to, by a Committee of the General Court, for a detachment of the Army, to protect the inhabitants of the eastern parts of this Province from some apprehended depredations on their coasts. I could have wished to have complied with their request, but after due consideration, and consulting the General Officers, together with those members of Congress who are here, I thought it my duty to excuse myself. The application, and my answer, are the enclosures Nos. 6 and 7, which I hope will be approved by the honourable Congress. Since I began this letter, the original, of which the enclosure No. 8 is a copy, fell into my hands. As the writer is a person of some note in Boston, and it contains some advices of importance not mentioned by others, I thought proper to forward it as I received it. By comparing the handwriting with another letter, it appears the writer is one Belcher Noyes, a person probably known to some of the Gentlemen Delegates from this Province, who can determine from his principles and character what credit is due to him.

The Army is now formed into three Grand Divisions, under the command of the Generals Ward, Lee, and Putnam; each Division into two Brigades, consisting of about six Regiments each, commanded by Generals Thomas and Spencer at Roxbury, Heath at Cambridge, Sullivan and Greene at Winter-Hill. By this you will please to observe, there is a deficiency of one Brigadier-General, occasioned by Mr. Pomeroy's not acting under his commission, which I beg may be filled up as soon as possible. I observe the honourable Congress have also favoured me with the appointment of three Brigade-Majors; I presume they have, or intend to appoint the rest soon, as they cannot be unacquainted that one is necessary to each Brigade, and in a newly raised Army it will be an office of great duty and service.

General Gage has at length liberated the people of Boston, who land in numbers at Chelsea every day; the terms on which the passes are granted, as to money, effects, and provisions, correspond with Mr. Noyes's letter. We have several reports that General Gage is dismantling Castle William, and bringing all the cannon up to Town; but upon a very particular inquiry, accounts are so various that I cannot ascertain the truth of it.

I am sorry to be under a necessity of making such frequent examples among the officers, when a sense of honour, and the interest of their Country, might be expected to make punishment unnecessary. Since my last, Captain Parker, of Massachusetts, for frauds, both in pay and provisions, and Captain Gardiner, of Rhode-Island, for cowardice, in running away from his guard on an alarm, have been broke. As nothing can be more fatal to an army than crimes of this kind, I am determined, by every motive of reward and punishment, to prevent them in future.

On the first instant, a Chief of the Caughnawaga Tribe, who lives about six miles from Montreal, came in here, accompanied by a Colonel Bayley, of Cohos. His account of the temper and disposition of the Indians are very favourable. He says they have been strongly solicited by Governour Carleton to engage against us, but his Nation is totally averse; threats, as well as entreaties, have been used without effect; that the Canadians are well disposed to the English Colonies, and if any expedition is meditated against Canada, the Indians in that quarter will give all their assistance. I have endeavoured to cherish these favourable dispositions, and have recommended to him to cultivate them on his return; what I have said I enforced with a present, which I understood would be agreeable to him; and, as he is represented to be a man of weight and consequence in his own tribe, I flatter myself his visit will have a good effect. His accounts of Governour Carleton's force and situation at St. John's, correspond with what we have already had from that quarter.

The accession of Georgia to the measures of the Congress is a happy event, and must give a sincere pleasure to every friend of America.

August 5.—We have accounts this morning of two explosions at the Castle, so that its destruction may now be supposed certain. I have this morning been alarmed with an information that two gentlemen from Philadelphia, Mr. Hitchbourn and Captain White, with letters for General Lee and myself, have been taken by Captain Ayscough at Rhode-Island, the letters intercepted and sent forward to Boston with the bearers as prisoners; that the Captain exulted much in the discoveries he had made, and my informant, who was also in the boat, but released, understood them to be letters of consequence. I have, therefore, despatched the express immediately back, though I had before resolved to detain him till Fessenden's return. I shall be anxious, till I am relieved from the suspense I am in, as to the contents of those letters. It is exceedingly unfortunate that gentlemen should choose to travel the only road on which there is danger. Let the event of this be what it will, I hope it will serve as a general caution against trusting any letters that way in future.

Nothing of consequence has occurred in the camp these two days. The inhabitants of Boston continue coming out at Chelsea, but under a new restriction, that no men shall come out without special license; which is refused to all mechanicks, since the Tory labourers were taken at the Light-house.

I have the honour to be, Sir, your most obedient, obliged, and very humble servant,
GO. WASHINGTON.

Camp at Cambridge, July 31, 1775.

SIR: I have considered the application made me yesterday from the General Court, with all the attention due to the situation of the people in whose behalf it is made, and the respect due to such a recommendation.

Upon referring to my instructions, and consulting with those members of Congress who are present, as well as the General Officers, they all agree that it would not be consistent with my duty to detach any part of the Army now here on any particular Provincial service. It has been debated in Congress, and settled, that the Militia, or other internal strength of each Province, is to be applied for defence against those small and particular depredations which were to be expected, and to which they were supposed to be competent. This will appear the more proper, when it is considered that every Town, and indeed every part of our sea-coast which is exposed to these depredations, would have an equal claim upon this Army. It is the misfortune of our situation which exposes us to these ravages, against which, in my judgment, no such temporary relief would possibly secure us. The great advantage the enemy has of transporting troops, by being masters of the sea, will enable them to harass us by diversions of this kind; and should we be tempted to pursue them upon every alarm, the Army must either be so weakened as to expose it to destruction, or a great part of the coast be still left unprotected. Nor, indeed, does it appear to me that such a pursuit would be attended with the least effect. The first notice of such an incursion, would be its actual execution, and long before any troops could reach the scene of action, the enemy would have an opportunity to accomplish their purpose and retire.

It would give me great pleasure to have it in my power to extend protection and safety to every individual; but the wisdom of the General Court will anticipate me in the necessity of conducting our operations on a general and impartial scale, so as to exclude any just cause of complaint and jealousy.

I beg, Sir, you will do me the honour to communicate these sentiments to the General Court, and to apologize for my involuntary delay, as we were alarmed this morning by the enemy, and my time taken up with giving the necessary directions.

I shall be happy in every opportunity of showing my very great respect and regard for the General Court of Massachusetts-Bay, and am, Sir, your most obedient and very humble servant.

Boston, August 1, 1775.

MY DEAR SON: Have received no letter from you since May 27, which I duly answered 3d June, by Mr. Wall. I wrote you May 25, both of which I hope came safe to your hands. Since the battle at Charlestown some conjecture the destruction of this Town is intended, for what purpose can't determine. We are now got to the beginning of August, and nothing turns up in favour of America. The general talk now is, that the English Troops are going to leave this Town. This seems evident, from several things that are taking place, viz: General Gage's family are going to England; Messrs. Auchmuty, Sewall, &c., and others of that stamp, are going, some to England and elsewhere. I am pretty confident the Army can't be supported in this Town the ensuing winter. Provisions scarce and bad; no fuel nor money. People are jealous they will plunder and demolish the Town when they go off. Last week there was a notification posted up, that all those who were desirous to leave the Town, to give in their names to James Urquhart, Town-Major; and in two days time upwards of two thousand entered their names, and passes are now granted, with this addition to the former restriction, viz: no plate of any kind, nor more money than five Pounds sterling. The route is by way of Winnisimit. Several have gone off, by which means I have an opportunity of writing you. I have it in my mind to go to Mr. Little's, at Newbury, in case I can accomplish it. I shall place somebody in the house, in order to secure your effects, which I wish you had taken with you, or disposed of them before you went away. I have been jealous they will be seized, for they have served several persons that have left the Town after this sort. This has given me great anxiety. On the receipt of this, endeavour to write me your mind. Mr. Welles, the mason, lives at Chelsea, by which means a letter may be conveyed; be cautious what you write. This will facilitate my intentions, and if you want any thing to be sent among our things, it can be done. I shall depend on your assistance and advice. If I can go to Newbury through Andover, will call and see you in our way. Not knowing where Captain Little may be, I write him, and enclose you to forward, which I desire you to do with all speed.

The dysentery has prevailed in this Town, and been very mortal, especially among children, also among the soldiers, of whom near thirty are buried in a week, as the sextons say. Doctor Byles, Senior, buried his wife last Wednesday. No bells are permitted to toll for any funerals, on account of the sickness and mortality among the soldiers. Out of ninety officers wounded, above half have died; several persons of figure and character, viz: one Colonel and three Majors. There is no harmony.

Lately arrived a vessel from New-Providence, by which I heard of your brother's welfare, but no letter. Others inform me he is in a poor state of health, and inclined to a consumption; have wrote him several letters by vessels lately gone for provisions for the Army and Navy. I am fearful what I shall hear from him. My determination depends on hearing from you, which I desire may be as soon as possible. I intend to propose to Mr. Keif, or some other suitable person, to take the house, in case I leave Boston. Shall take the best care I can of your furniture, but if the Town is to be demolished, it will be needless. The custom of the shop has been but trifling; some days scarce a penny. The Light-House was burnt, as it is said, by order of the Continental Congress, and in return for that compliment, they are dismounting Castle William—I believe for want of men to defend it. Since April 19, there have died of the Army, including what were slain in battle, June 17, near two thousand five hundred, so that what Troops have arrived will not make good their loss. But I dare not enlarge. Our anxiety at times has been great for you as well as ourselves. We constantly bear you on our minds, and remember you in our prayers to Almighty God, and hope the best of covenant blessings will be the portion for you and your consort.

We are your affectionate, B. N. A.

Died in the Town, June 5, John Borland, Esq.; June 22, Eliakim Hutchinson, Esq., of the small-pox; July 12, Philip Cooke; July 14, John Cotton, Esq., Deputy Secretary; July 23, wife of Doctor Byles, Sen., Ruth Bulfinch, 79, Andrew Fanewill Phillips.

P. S. Since I finished this letter, passes are denied to men, without special leave.

Seal the enclosed, and forward.

GENERAL ORDERS.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, July 28, 1775.

(Parole, Cumberland.)

(Countersign, Brookline.)

The Surgeons of Learned's, Heath's Little's, Phinney's, and Parsons's Regiments, having neglected to deliver in the returns of the sick of their respective Regiments to the Adjutant-General, these returns to be delivered forthwith, and the Surgeons of those Corps are to be more exact in their obedience to orders.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, July 29, 1775.

(Parole, Dartmouth.)

(Countersign, Corke.)

A Sergeant and six men to parade at the Head-Quarters at eleven o'clock, to escort certain prisoners and deserters to Worcester. This party to be victualed for this day and to-morrow. The Sergeant will receive his orders from the Adjutant-General.

Mr. Benjamin Whiting, tried by a Court of Inquiry, ordered in the General Orders of the 27th instant, whereof Lieutenant-Colonel James Brichatt was President. The Court having maturely considered the evidence for and against the prisoner, as well as what the prisoner had to offer in his defence, are of opinion that the prisoner is not guilty of the crime laid to his charge, and do therefore acquit the prisoner. The General therefore orders the prisoner to be released.

James McDaniel, tried by a General Court-Martial, whereof Colonel Glover was President, for "forging an order of Gen. Putnam's to obtain a quart of rum, and for abusive language to Col. Gridley," and ordered to receive twenty lashes. The General confirms the sentence, and orders it to be executed after prayer-time to-morrow.

James Foster, of Captain Butler's Company, in Colonel Nixon's Regiment, tried by the same General Court-Martial, for "robbing Doctor Foster, Surgeon of the General Hospital." Found guilty of the charge; is sentenced to receive thirty-nine lashes, and suffer one month's fatigue. The General approves the sentence, and orders it to be put in execution at the head of the Regiment, after prayer-time to-morrow morning.

William Winslow, of Captain Perkins's Company of Artillery, tried by the same Court-Martial for "stealing a cannon cartridge of powder," is acquitted.

William Tudor, Esq., being appointed Judge-Advocate of the Continental Army, he is, in all things relative to his office, to be acknowledged and obeyed as such.

FOURTH SERIES.—VOL. III.

(Parole, Falkland.)

(Countersign, Edenton.)

The Continental Congress having been pleased to appoint Joseph Trumbull, Esq., to be Commissary-General to the Army of the United Colonies, all Commissaries heretofore appointed by any of the distinct Colony Congresses, or by particular authority of any particular District or Colony, are forthwith to make an exact return of the Provisions, and all the different species of Provisions they have in or near the Camps at Cambridge and Roxbury. Thereupon, Commissary-General Trumbull, being assured by the report of his Clerk, Assistant, or from his own examination, that such return is just and true, is to give his receipt for the quantity delivered into his hands, which receipt will be a good voucher in the passing the account of the different Colony Commissaries heretofore appointed, and will be allowed as such.

The Commissaries at present appointed by the several Colonies are forthwith to make up their accounts unto the 3d of August, inclusive, ready to be laid before the Commander-in-Chief, and by him transmitted to the Continental Congress, or to be adjusted and finally settled by him, as the Continental Congress shall think proper to direct.

A Return, signed by the Commanding Officers of Regiments and Corps, to be delivered to the Adjutant-General to-morrow morning, at general orderly time, of the names, ranks, and dates of the Officers' Commissions in their respective Regiments and Corps, mentioning also the vacancies, and how occasioned.

A General Court-Martial to sit immediately to try Capt. Christopher Gardner, of Colonel Varnum's Regiment, for "cowardice, abandoning his post, and deserting his men." All evidences and persons concerned to attend the Court.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, August 1, 1775.

(Parole, Gibraltar.)

(Countersign, Fairfield.)

The General thanks Major Tupper, and the Officers and Soldiers under his command, for their gallant and soldier-like behaviour in possessing themselves of the enemy's post at the Light-House, and for the number of prisoners they took there; and doubts not but the Continental Army will be as famous for their mercy as for their valour.

Two Subalterns, two Sergeants, one Drum, and thirty rank and file, to parade at Head-Quarters at noon, to escort the prisoners to Worcester. The Commanding Officer will receive his orders from the Adjutant-General.

For the satisfaction of all concerned, the General directs the following Resolution of the Legislature of this Colony to be inserted in General Orders, viz:

"In House of Representatives, Watertown, July 29, 1775.

"Whereas, sundry complaints have been made by some of the Soldiers raised by this Colony, that they have not received the allowance pay of forty Shillings, agreeable to the Resolution of the Provincial Congress: Therefore,

"Resolved, That a Committee be appointed forthwith to apply to the Colonels of the several Regiments raised by the Colony, and to the Mustermasters and Paymasters in the Camp at Cambridge and Roxbury, and obtain of them a complete list of the Non-commissioned Officers and Soldiers in their respective Regiments, distinguishing those that have been mustered and paid from those that have not, that such methods may be pursued as shall remove all just ground of complaint. Read, and "Ordered, That Colonel Cushing and Mr. Webster, with such as the honourable Board shall join, be a Committee for the purpose above-mentioned.

"Sent up for concurrence.

"JAMES WARREN, Speaker."

"In Council, read and concurred, and Colonel Lincoln is joined.

"ALBT. P. MORTON, Secretary."

The Officers commanding Massachusetts Regiments will pay all due attention to the foregoing Resolution.

One man a Company, to be appointed a Camp-Colourman from every Company in every Regiment in the Army, whose particular duty it must be to attend the Quartermaster and Quartermaster-Sergeant, to sweep the streets of their respective encampments; to fill up the old necessary houses, and dig new ones; to bury all offal, filth, and nastiness, that may poison or infect the health of the Troops; and the Quartermasters are to be answerable to their Commanding Officers for a strict observance of this Order; and by persevering in the constant and unremitted execution thereof, remove that odious reputation which (with but too much reason) has stigmatized the character of American Troops. The Colonels and Commanding Officers of Regiments are to be answerable to the General for all due obedience to this Order.

The General, finding it is not uncustomary for Officers to take the liberty of absenting themselves from Camp without leave, and going home: For the future, any Officer found guilty of so glaring an offence against all order and discipline, and setting so bad an example to the Non-Commissioned Officers and Soldiers under their command, such Officer or Officers so offending, may depend upon being punished with the utmost severity.

Least the late successes against the enemy should occasion any relaxation in the alertness of the Troops, the General recommends it in the strongest manner to all the Officers and Soldiers of the Continental Army, to be the more vigilant in their duty, and watchful of the enemy, as they certainly will take every advantage of any supineness on our part.

(Countersign, Geneva.)

Captain Oliver Parker, of Colonel Prescott's Regiment, tried by a General Court-Martial, whereof Colonel Glover was President, for "defrauding his men of their advance pay, and by false returns imposing upon the Commissary, and drawing more rations than he had men in his Company, and selling the provisions he by that means obtained," is by the Court found guilty of the whole charge against him, and sentenced to be cashiered, mulcted of all his pay, and rendered incapable of future service.

Captain Christopher Gardner, of Colonel Varnum's Regiment, in the Rhode-Island Brigade, tried by a General Court-Martial, whereof Colonel Thomas Church was President, "for deserting his post," is found guilty of the crime, and unanimously sentenced to be cashiered, as incapable of serving his country in any military capacity.

The General approves both the above sentences, and orders the Commanding Officers of the Regiments to see the prisoners dismissed the Army.

(Countersign, Hartford.)

When any plunder is taken from the enemy, (not excepted by the Continental Articles of War,) such plunder must be all surrendered to the Commanding Officer; and as soon as convenient, after his arrival at Head-Quarters, publick notice must be made that an auction will be held in the front of the encampment, for the sale thereof the next day at noon; and the money arising therefrom is to be equally divided between the officers and men that took it. This Order is not to be construed to extend to permitting unlawful and irregular plundering, as any Officer or Soldier who shall be found guilty thereof, will be punished with the greatest severity.

All the Armourers belonging to any of the Regiments in the three Brigades posted in the lines, or in Cambridge, and those employed in the Artillery, to be at Head-Quarters by eight o'clock to-morrow morning, and none will be entitled to any pay hereafter who does not attend at that time.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, August 4, 1775.

(Parole, London.)

(Countersign, Ireland.)

It is with indignation and shame the General observes, that notwithstanding the repeated orders which have been given to prevent the firing of guns in and about camp, it is daily and hourly practised; that, contrary to all orders, straggling soldiers do still pass the guards and fire at a distance, where there is not the least probability of hurting the enemy, and where no other end is answered but to waste ammunition, expose themselves to the ridicule of the enemy, and keep their own camps harassed by frequent and continual alarms, to the hurt of every good soldier, who is thereby disturbed of his natural rest, and will at length never be able to distinguish between a real and a false alarm.

For these reasons, it is in the most peremptory manner forbid any person or persons whatsoever, under any pretence, to pass the out-guards, unless authorized by the Commanding Officer of that part of the lines, signified in writing, which must be shown to the officer of the guard as they pass. Any person offending in this particular, will be considered in no other light than as a common enemy; and the guards will have orders to fire upon them as such. The Commanding Officer of every Regiment is to direct that every man in his Regiment is made acquainted with these orders, to the end that no one may plead ignorance, and that all may be apprised of the consequence of disobedience.

The Colonels of Regiments, and Commanding Officers of Corps to order the rolls of every Company to be called twice a day, and every man's ammunition examined at evening roll-calling; and such as are found deficient, to be confined.

The Guards are to apprehend all persons firing guns near their posts, whether Townsmen or Soldiers.

MINUTE OF COUNCIL OF WAR.

At a Council held at Cambridge, Head-Quarters, August 3, 1775. Present:

His Excellency General Washington, Major-Generals Ward, Lee, and Putnam; Brigadier-Generals Thomas, Heath, Spencer, Sullivan, Greene, Gates.

The General communicated sundry Letters respecting the state of Ammunition, which appears to be far short of the return made some time ago; and having explained in what manner the mistake had happened, desired the opinion and advice of the Generals present on this subject.

Upon the returns now made, the whole stock of the Army at Roxbury and Cambridge, and the adjacent posts, consists of ninety barrels, or thereabouts. It was proposed to make an attempt on the Magazine at Halifax, where there is reason to suppose there is a great quantity of Powder; and upon the question being severally put, it was agreed to by a great majority; and that the detachment for this enterprise consist of three hundred men; also, to endeavour to collect a supply from the neighbouring Provinces of New-Hampshire, Rhode-Island, and Connecticut.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GOVERNOUR COOKE.

Camp at Cambridge, August 4, 1775.

SIR: I was yesterday favoured with yours of the 31st of July. We have yet no certain account of the fleet which sailed out of Boston the 25th; but if our conjecture and information are just, we may expect to hear of it every hour. I am now, Sir, in strict confidence, to acquaint you, that our necessities in the articles of powder and lead are so great, as to require an immediate supply. I must earnestly entreat you will fall upon some measure to forward every pound of each in the Colony which can possibly be spared. It is not within the propriety or safety of such a correspondence, to say what I might upon this subject; it is sufficient that the case calls loudly for the most strenuous exertions of every friend of his country, and does not admit of the least delay. No quantity, however small, is beneath notice, and should any arrive, I beg it may be forwarded as soon as possible; but a supply of this kind is so precarious, not only from the danger of the enemy but the opportunity of purchasing, that I have revolved in my mind every other possible chance, and listened to every proposition on the subject which could give the smallest hope. Among others, I have had one mentioned which has some weight with me as well as the General Officers to whom I have proposed it. One Harris is lately come from Bermuda, where there is a very considerable magazine of powder in a remote part of the island, and the inhabitants well disposed, not only to our cause in general, but to assist in the enterprise in particular. We understand there are two armed vessels in your Province, commanded by men of known activity and spirit, one of which it is proposed to despatch on this errand, with such other assistance as may be requisite. Harris is to go along as the conductor of the enterprise, and to avail ourselves of his knowledge of the island, but without any command. I am very sensible that at first view the project may appear hazardous, and its success must depend on the concurrence of many circumstances; but we are in a situation which requires us to run all risks; no danger is to be considered when put in competition with the magnitude of the cause, and the absolute necessity we are under of increasing our stock. Enterprises which appear chimerical, often prove successful from that very circumstance. Common sense and prudence will suggest vigilance and care, when the danger is plain and obvious; but when little danger is apprehended, the more the enemy is unprepared, and consequently there is the fairest prospect of success.

Mr. Brown has been mentioned to me as a very proper person to consult upon this occasion; you will judge of the propriety of communicating it to him in part or the whole, and as soon as possible favour me with your sentiments and the steps you may have taken to forward it. If no immediate and safe opportunity offers, you will please to do it by express. Should it be inconvenient to part with one of the armed vessels, perhaps some other might be fitted out, or you could devise some other mode of executing this plan, so that in case of a disappointment, the vessel might proceed to some other island to purchase.

My last letter from the honourable Continental Congress, recommends my procuring from the Colonies of Connecticut and Rhode-Island a quantity of tow cloth, for the purpose of making Indian or hunting shirts for the men, many of whom are very destitute of clothing; a pattern will be sent you, and I must request you to give the necessary directions throughout your Government, that all the cloth of the above kind may be bought up for this use, and suitable persons set to work to make it up. As soon as any number is made worth the conveyance, you will please to direct them to be forwarded; it is designed as a species of uniform, both cheap and convenient.

We have had no transactions in either camp since my last but what are in the publick papers, and related with tolerable accuracy. The enemy still continue to strengthen their lines, and we have reason to believe intend to bombard ours, with the hopes of forcing us out of them. Our poverty in ammunition prevents our making a suitable return.

Since writing the above, Colonel Porter has undertaken to assist in the matter, or to provide some suitable person to accompany Harris to you, who will communicate all circumstances to you. I am, &c.,

GO. WASHINGTON.

Governour Cooke.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Cambridge, August 4, 1775.

SIR: I am favoured with yours of the 31st of July, informing me that the new levies are coming forward with all expedition. As the enemy has been much longer inactive than I expected, I hope they will arrive in time to give us their assistance.

My last letter from the honourable Continental Congress, recommends my procuring from the Colonies of Rhode-Island and Connecticut a quantity of tow cloth, for the purpose of making Indian or hunting shirts for the men, many of whom are destitute of clothing. A pattern is herewith sent you; and I must request you to give the necessary directions throughout your Government, that all the cloth of the above kind may be bought up for this use, and suitable persons set to work to make it up. As soon as any number is made worth the conveyance, you will please to direct them to be forwarded; it is designed as a species of uniform, both cheap and convenient.

We have had no transactions of any consequence in either camp since my last but what are in the publick papers, and related with tolerable accuracy. I am now, Sir, in strict confidence, to acquaint you, that our necessities in the articles of powder and lead are so great, as to require an immediate supply. I must earnestly entreat you to fall upon some measures to forward to us every ounce in the Province which can possibly be spared. It is not within the propriety of such a correspondence to say what I might upon this subject; it is sufficient that the case calls loudly for the warmest and most strenuous exertions of every friend to his country, and does not admit of the least delay. No quantity, however small, is beneath notice, and should any arrive, I beg it may be forwarded to us as fast as possible.

The express having left his horse at Hartford, is under the necessity of going that way. I am, &c.,

GO. WASHINGTON.

To Governour Trumbull.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Camp at Cambridge, August 4, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Your publick capacity, and the hope that you will be both able and willing to give us some assistance, have led me to make this application. The situation of the Army as to ammunition, is by no means what it ought to be. We have great reason to expect the enemy may soon intend to bombard our lines, and our stock of powder is so small as in a great degree to make our heavy artillery useless; I must therefore request you will exert yourselves to forward whatever can be spared from your Province as soon as possible. The necessity is great, the cause is of the last importance; I am therefore persuaded I need use no arguments to quicken your zeal. The smallest quantities are not beneath notice, as a considerable stock may be formed from various collections. Lead and flints are also very scarce, you will, therefore, furnish all you can spare. Next to making the provision, its being seasonable is of great importance; every hour in our present situation is critical.

Should there be any arrivals in any part of your Province with this necessary article, I must request you to forward all that can possibly be spared out of it.

I am, Gentlemen, very respectfully, your most obedient and very humble servant,

GO. WASHINGTON.

To the Committee of Safety of New-Hampshire at Exeter or Portsmouth.

Whitehall, August 5, 1775.

The following Address to the King from the Council and General Assembly of Antigua, having been delivered to the Earl of Dartmouth, one of His Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, by Mr. Salmond, agent for that Island, hath been presented to His Majesty, and was very graciously received.

To the King's most Excellent Majesty.

MOST GRACIOUS SOVEREIGN: We, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Council and General Assembly of this your Island of Antigua, impressed with the most unalterable sentiments of loyalty, humbly beg leave, at this time, to convey our assurances of them to your Majesty, joined with our most unfeigned and grateful thanks for the many instances of your paternal care extended to us, although remotely placed from your throne and royal presence.

Your Majesty's wisdom and attention to the interest and welfare of all your people, we must in common with our fellow-subjects participate in the due acknowledgments of; but it is with hearts full of peculiar duty and gratitude we acknowledge that regard and attention to us, which is so strongly expressed by your Majesty in the choice of that Governour whom you have been pleased to appoint over us; whose unwearied zeal to your Majesty's service, and regard to the just rights and liberties of your people, are so sensibly felt by us, as to mark in him the happy consequences of that choice.

When we reflect on the able and mild exercise of power in our excellent Chief Governour, your Majesty's servant Sir Ralph Payne, Knight of the Bath, and at the same time see how other Governments have been rent by faction, while we have lived in a continued state of union and tranquillity, we cannot restrain our expressions of attachment to him as the true Representative of the Royal Master.

Thus endeared to us by his conduct, from a faithful discharge of that high trust with which you have honoured him, permit us, Sire, on the departure of our Governour for Europe, to supplicate your most gracious favour for the reception of him into your presence, with such marks of your royal countenance and approbation as must be a reward of his faithful services, and an acceptance of our testimonial of gratitude. And permit us further in our supplication to add, that your Majesty would condescend to indulge the woes of your faithful subjects of Antigua, by rendering them again happy in his return to the exercise of the Government of these your Leeward Islands.

THOMAS JARVIS, President,
THOMAS WARNER, Speaker.

JOHN SHALBROOKS TO CAPTAIN THOMAS BUTT.

London, August 5, 1775.

DEAR SIR: I duly received your very kind favours of the 14th of April and 6th of May, and am very much obliged by your friendly observations on the nature, constitution, and state of the different fisheries in the Bay of Chaleur, together with the natural objects which ought to be my pursuit. For your very judicious and friendly advice herein, I thank you kindly, and esteem your attention in this particular as a fresh proof of your friendship, which I shall be glad you will cherish by a continuance of such observations as may occur to you from time to time, which I shall ever esteem myself obliged by receiving. As to the lease of Mirimache, which I wished to have got from Baillie's attorneys or you, I am afraid that matter is at an end, as before the receipt of your letter on that subject, application had been made to them to grant a lease to Mr. Corts, which I had rejected, supposing, as was very natural, that few people could be met with here to take a lease of it, and that I might probably have an opportunity of purchasing it. I should not, however, have risked this matter, if Mr. Walker had not made me understand that you had unlimited power from them to lease, or even sell this property; and as I had in the first instance applied to you, I did not think my application to them necessary, by which I am for the present deprived of carrying on business at Mirimache. My principal objection to a lease was, that after sundry improvements might be made during the period of it, the rent might be advanced, or a new lease refused after such improvements were made; and therefore I proposed to them to be a purchaser; but the matter being now fixed otherwise, I have only to return you my thanks for the trouble you have so obligingly taken in the affair.

In consequence of your desires, I have held myself in readiness to acquit (in case of need) the bill you mention to have drawn favouring James Robertson, when applied unto by Mr. William Ross; but never having any application from him, I concluded he had paid it. On sending to him this morning, I was exceedingly mortified to find that he suffered it to be protested, and that without ever sending me a message. I have since traced the bill, and am very sorry to inform you that the holder of it has returned it to Philadelphia, from whence it was remitted to him. It was very unfortunate that Mr. Ross did not let me know that he would not pay it; if he had, you may depend I would not have suffered it to return under dishonour. As to the purchase of your grant of land at Nipisquit, it remains just as it did when I last had the pleasure to address you, and at present I see little probability of my being a purchaser for it, especially as there is an idea of enforcing payment of the quit-rents, which will be a great bar and objection to cultivation in that inhospitable climate. I am not surprised, nor do I condemn it as an improper measure in Administration; I think they have made America independent too soon, and the only way to prevent future evil from the same causes, is, to keep new Colonies more dependant upon Government.

The unhappy breach between the disaffected Colonies and this Country seems to widen; I see no means left to heal it; it will cost the Country much money, and the life of many a brave soldier, to establish the sovereignty of this Country over America; but it must be done, be the purchase what it may. I find that General Gage is recalled; his mild measures may have sprung from the feelings of humanity, of which I believe he has a great deal; but this sort of man is by no means proper to take the lead in so important a question as it has now become. He is much blamed here for not taking prior possession of the heights of Charlestown, that cost so dear on the 17th of June to retake; this unfortunate affair seems to throw such a complexion on American matters, as if nothing conclusive could be done till fresh re-enforcements arrive from hence, which will probably make it so late that nothing will be effectually done this summer. Should this be the case, I suppose you will have a good deal of company at Halifax this winter, as I find that a great part of the naval force now at Boston will winter in your harbour.

I shall be very glad to hear from you; and remain with great truth, very respectfully and truly, your much obliged and most obedient servant,
JOHN SHALBROOKS.

P. S. The enclosed two letters I beg you will particularly recommend to the care of some of your friends at the Island of St. John's. All our communication to the Bay of Chaleur, viz: Quebeck, is stopped by the Provincials at New-York, having taken the posts into their own harbour.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM CHARLESTOWN (SOUTH-CAROLINA) TO A GENTLEMAN IN LONDON, DATED AUGUST 5, 1775.

Be assured peace will never be firmly established between Great Britain and America, until the latter receives an ample recognition of her rights, and a full satisfaction for the blood that has or may be shed. The inhabitants of this vast Continent would give up all their sea-coast Towns, retire into the interior country, and contentedly subsist on the bare necessities of life, rather than submit to the implicit subjugation of a British Parliament. But don't apprehend they will suffer this distress like docile animals; no, depend they will protect their property to the last extremity; and although they have hitherto acted only on the defensive, believe me, unless there is an evident prospect of accommodation this winter, hostilities will commence on their part, by and with the assistance of a foreign power, and with a spirit that will alarm all Europe; and then farewell to Great Britain.

NEWBERN (NORTH-CAROLINA) COMMITTEE.

In Committee, August 5, 1775.

From the late conduct of Governour Martin at Fort Johnston, and intelligence since received by this Committee, it appears he intends erecting a King's Standard, and commencing hostilities against the people of this Province.

It is, therefore, Resolved, That no person or persons whatsoever, have any correspondence with him, either by personal communication or letter, on pain of being deemed enemies to the liberties of America, and dealt with accordingly. And that no person or persons presume to remove him or themselves from hence to Core Sound, or any other part of the Province where the Governour resides, without leave of this Committee, as he or they will not be suffered to return here.

By order: R. COGDELL, Chairman.

By a gentleman just come to Town from Cape Fear, we have a certain account that the armed force which lately went down to burn Fort Johnston, have effected the same by destroying all the houses, and rendering the Fortress entirely useless. Captain Collet, who commanded that Fort, it is said had a number of slaves, which he had instigated to revolt from their masters, actually concealed in the Fort, which were again recovered by their several owners; for this treachery they burnt his dwelling-house, with all his furniture, and every thing valuable he had not time to get on board the man-of-war.

NORTHAMPTON (NORTH-CAROLINA) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Committee of the County aforesaid, the 5th day of August, 1775: The Rev. Mr. Charles Edward Taylor, Chairman.

This Committee, taking into their consideration the clandestine manner of Anthony Warwick's conveying Powder from Virginia to Hillsborough, and also examining witnesses and papers relative thereto, do

Resolve, That the said Anthony Warwick has violated the Association in a flagrant manner, and showed himself in the highest degree an enemy to the rights and liberties of America; and the Committee do consider him as an object to be held in the utmost detestation by all lovers of American freedom.

Ordered, That the Clerk of this Committee do transmit a copy of the above Resolve to Dixon and Hunter, to be published in their Gazette.

EATON HAYNES, Clerk to Committee.

— In Congress, August 5, 1775.

1. Resolved, That the several persons appointed in pursuance of the Ordinance of this Congress in their last session, to collect the quotas of the several Townships, do pay the Money by them collected to the County Collector on or before the tenth day of September next; and if any persons within their respective Districts shall have refused payment, that, in such case, they do make and deliver in a list of the names of the delinquents to their several Committees, together with their receipts and vouchers for the Money which they shall have paid to the aforesaid County Collectors.

2. Resolved, That the several Committees do furnish the Provincial Congress at their next session with the names of all such persons within their District as shall have refused to sign the Association recommended in the last Congress, or one of a similar nature; and of all such as shall have refused to pay their respective apportionments.

3. Resolved, That the respective Committees in this Colony do return to the Provincial Congress at their next session copies of the several Associations signed in their Districts, agreeable to the former order of this Congress, together with the names of those who have signed the same.

4. Resolved, That the Assessors and Collectors, appointed to apportion and collect the said Money, do receive such reward for their labour and trouble therein as the Assessors and Collectors are by law entitled to, for assessing and collecting the Provincial Taxes.

5. Resolved, That in case any part of the sum of Ten Thousand Pounds, by the said Ordinance directed to be raised, shall, from the event of publick affairs, be found to be unnecessary for the purposes thereby intended: in such case the surplus be paid by the several County Committees into the hands of the County Collectors appointed by Act of Assembly, to be by them applied towards discharging the quotas of such Counties in the publick Taxes of the Province.

6. Resolved, That the several Committees, to whom the disposal of the said Money was, by the Ordinance of the last session, entrusted, do account to the Provincial Congress for their several disbursements, and the uses to which they may have been applied.

— Saturday, August 12, 1775.

Whereas, it is highly expedient, at a time when this Province is likely to be involved in all the horrors of a civil war, and when it has become absolutely necessary to increase the burden of Taxes already laid upon the good people of this Colony for the just defence of their invaluable rights and privileges, that the inhabitants thereof should have frequent opportunities of renewing their choice and approbation of the Representatives in Provincial Congress: It is therefore Resolved, That the inhabitants in each County, qualified to vote for Representatives in General Assembly, do meet together at the places herein after mentioned, on Thursday the twenty-first day of September, next, and then and there, by plurality of voices, elect and appoint any number not exceeding five substantial freeholders as Deputies, with full power to represent such County in Provincial Congress, to be held at Trenton, in the County of Hunterdon, on Tuesday the third day of October next: And that the places of meeting for the election in each County shall be, for the County of Bergen, at the Court-House in New-Barbados; County of Essex, at the Court-House in Newark; County of Middlesex, at the Court-House in New-Brunswick; County of Somerset, at the Court-House in Hillsborough; County of Morris, at the Court-House in Morris Town; County of Monmouth, at the Court-House in Freehold; County of Hunterdon, at the house of John Ringo in Amwell; County of Sussex, at the Court-House in New-Town; County of Burlington, at the Court-House in the City of Burlington; County of Gloucester, at the Court-House in the Town of Gloucester; County of Salem, at the Court-House in the Town of Salem; County of Cumberland, at the Court-House in Bridgetown; County of Cape-May, at the Court-House in Middle Precinct.

And that the Deputies so elected shall receive a Certificate of their election, in the words following, to wit:

We do hereby certify, that on the day of the date hereof, A, B, C, &c., were duly elected Deputies for the County of . . . . . in the Province of New-Jersey, with full power to represent the said County in Provincial Congress, to be held at Trenton, in the County of Hunterdon, on the third day of October next; as witness our hands and seals this . . . . . day of . . . . . A. D. 1775.

Which Certificate, under the hands and seals of the President or Chairman chosen to preside at such election, together with five or more freeholders of the said County, shall be sufficient evidence of such election.

Resolved, That during the continuance of the present unhappy disputes between Great Britain and America, there be a new choice of Deputies in every County of this Province yearly, on the third Thursday in September.

Resolved, That on the said third Thursday in September in every year the inhabitants in each County, qualified as aforesaid, do elect, by plurality of voices, a sufficient number of freeholders to constitute a County Committee of Observation and Correspondence, with full power as well to superintend and direct the necessary business of the County, as to carry into execution the resolutions and orders of the Continental and Provincial Congresses.

Resolved, That the inhabitants of each Township, qualified as aforesaid, do immediately choose (where it is not already done) a sufficient number of freeholders to constitute a Township Committee: and that on the second Tuesday in March, in every year hereafter, they do proceed anew in like manner to choose such a number of freeholders as shall be thought necessary to constitute Committees to act as Committees of Observation and Correspondence in each Township, with power to transact the business referred to them by the Continental and Provincial Congresses, and the County Committees.

— Wednesday, August 16, 1775.

The Congress resumed the consideration of the Plan for further regulating the Militia, &c., which, after certain amendments, was approved, and is as follows, viz:

The Congress taking into further consideration the state of the Militia in this Province:

Resolved, 1. That the several County, or (where there is no County) the Township Committees, do transmit the names of all the Militia Officers, chosen within their respective Districts, to the Provincial Congress, or to the Committee of Safety, to be by them commissioned, agreeable to the directions of the Continental Congress.

Resolved, 2. That all officers above the rank of a Captain, not already chosen or appointed pursuant to an Ordinance of this Congress made at their last session, be appointed by the Congress, or, during their recess, by the Committee of Safety.

Resolved, 3. That where the inhabitants of different Townships have been embodied into one Company, Battalion, or Regiment, before the 20th day of June last, it is not the intention of this Congress they should be dissolved, provided they govern themselves according to the rules and directions of the same.

Resolved, 4. That the Militia of Bergen shall compose one Regiment; the Militia of Essex two Regiments, with privilege of forming them into four Battalions; the Militia of Middlesex two Regiments; the Militia of Somerset two Regiments; the Militia of Monmouth three Regiments; the Militia of Morris two Regiments and one Battalion; the Militia of Sussex two Regiments and one Battalion; the Militia of Hunterdon four Regiments; the Militia of Burlington two Regiments, and a Company of Rangers in the Township of Little Egg-Harbour; the Militia of Gloucester three Battalions; the Militia of Salem one Regiment; the Militia of Cumberland two Battalions; and the Militia of Cape-May one Battalion.

Resolved, 5. That this Congress do recommend to all inferior Officers to pay due obedience to their superior Officers, agreeable to the directions of the Continental and Provincial Congresses.

Resolved, 6. That in case of disobedience, or irregular behaviour in any Officer whatever, while on duty, complaint be made to the Committee of the County to which he belongs; the majority of whom shall, as soon as convenient, make strict inquiry into the same; and, if they think proper, may suspend the Officer so offending, and report their proceedings, together with the charge and evidence, to the Committee of Safety, or to the next Provincial Congress; who shall take such order therein as to them shall appear to be just and reasonable.

Resolved, 7. That all effective men, between the ages of sixteen and fifty, who shall refuse to enrol themselves and bear arms, shall pay into the hands of the Township Committees, where they reside, four Shillings Proclamation Money per month, as an equivalent for their personal service.

Resolved, 8. That in case any person shall refuse paying the same, the Committee shall return his name to the Provincial Congress, or to the Committee of Safety, to be dealt with as they shall direct.

Resolved, 9. That every person who hath signed or shall sign the Muster-Roll, and neglects to attend on the day of mustering, shall pay two Shillings Proclamation for every mustering day he is absent, unless he can give a sufficient reason for his absence, to be judged of by his Captain, who is hereby required to demand the same: and if the delinquent refuse payment, then the Captain shall return his name to the Township Committee, to be by them reported to the next Congress; provided that no more than two fines in a month be imposed on any one person.

Resolved, 10. That the Moneys received by the Committees and Captains, from persons who do not bear arms, nor attend their duty upon mustering days, shall be by them jointly applied towards defraying the expense attending the instruction and equipment of the Companies in their respective Districts—the fines of persons under age to be paid by their parents, and of apprentices by their masters.

Resolved, 11. That each private Soldier be furnished with good Arms, Powder and Ball, as near as may be, agreeable to the requisitions of the Continental Congress.

Resolved, 12. That where Arms may be wanting by such effective men as shall be unable to procure them, the Captain of the Company to which such persons belong shall make application to the Committee of the County or Township, who shall supply them, on receiving security for their proper application, provided any Arms shall remain in their hands, after first supplying such of the Minute-men, hereafter directed to be enrolled, as may be unable to furnish themselves with the same.

Resolved, 13. That the precedency of Rank in the Militia shall take place in the following order: 1 Essex, 2 Salem, 3 Gloucester, 4 Morris, 5 Sussex, 6 Cape-May, 7 Monmouth, 8 Somerset, 9 Bergen, 10 Cumberland, 11 Middlesex, 12 Hunterdon, 13 Burlington: and that, where there may be more than one Regiment or Battalion in a County, the precedency shall be determined by the County Committee, according to their former seniority.

Resolved, 14. That, for the purpose of effectually carrying into execution the recommendation of the Continental Congress respecting the appointment of Minute-men, four thousand able-bodied effective men be enlisted and enrolled in the several Counties in this Province, under officers to be appointed and commissioned by this Congress, or Committee of Safety, who shall hold themselves in constant readiness, on the shortest notice, to march to any place where their assistance may be required, for the defence of this or any neighbouring Colony.

Resolved, 15. That the several Counties in this Province shall furnish Minute-men in the proportions following, viz:

County of Bergen 4 Companies of 64 men each, Officers included.

Essex , 6 companies, do.	Hunterdon , 8 companies, do.
Middlesex , 6 companies, do.	Burlington , 5 companies, do.
Monmouth , 6 companies, do.	Gloucester , 4 companies, do.
Somerset , 5 companies, do.	Salem , 3 companies, do.
Morris , 6 companies, do.	Cumberland , 3 companies, do.
Sussex , 5 companies, do.	Cape-May , 1 company, do.

Resolved, 16. That the said Minute-men, upon their enlistment, shall sign a Muster-Roll in the words following:

We, the subscribers, do voluntarily enlist ourselves as Minute-men, in the Company of . . . . in the County of . . . .; and do promise to hold ourselves in constant readiness, on the shortest notice, to march to any place where our assistance may be required, for the defence of this or any neighbouring Colony; as also to pay due obedience to the commands of our Officers, agreeable to the rules and orders of the Continental Congress, or of the Provincial Congress of New-Jersey, or, during its recess, of the Committee of Safety: As witness our hands, &c.

Resolved, 17. That the several County Committees of this Province, or, where there are no County Committees, the Township Committees jointly, do forthwith nominate Officers for the several Companies of Minute-men in each County, with assurance, that, as soon as their Companies are completed, they shall receive commissions from the Provincial Congress, or the Committee of Safety.

Resolved, 18. That the Minute-men be formed into ten Battalions; one in Bergen, one in Essex, one in Middlesex, one in Monmouth, one in Somerset, one in Morris, one in Sussex, one in Hunterdon, one in Burlington, one in Gloucester and Salem; and that the Companies in Cumberland and Cape-May be Independent Companies of Light-Infantry and Rangers.

Resolved, 19. That wherever the whole or the greater part of a Militia Company shall offer their service as Minute-men, they may be commanded by the Officers already appointed and chosen by them.

Resolved, 20. That whenever any of the said Minute-men shall be called into actual service, they shall receive the like pay as the Continental Army; and be furnished with Camp-equipage and Provisions; and also be provided for if wounded and disabled in the service of their Country.

Resolved, 21. That the several Battalions and Companies of Minute-men raised as aforesaid, while remaining in this particular service, shall have precedency of rank of the common Militia of the Province.

Resolved, 22. That the Minute-men raised as aforesaid shall continue in service for the space of four months, when such of them as require it shall be relieved, unless upon actual service.

Resolved, 23. That the precedency of rank, among the several Battalions and Companies of said Minute-men, shall be settled from priority in the dates of their respective commissions.

Resolved, 24. That two Brigadier-Generals be appointed for this Province, and that . . . . be the first, and Philemon Dickerson, Esq., be the Second Brigadier-General of the said Province.

It being suggested, that divers persons in the Province are attempting to raise Companies of Light-Infantry, which may have a tendency to break other Companies that have been formed by Committees, pursuant to the former Militia Ordinance of this Congress: Resolved therefore, That no person whatever do presume to raise any Light-Infantry, or Independent Company, without the consent of the Field-Officers to whom they belong, and the approbation of the County or Township Committee, where there is no County Committee, be first obtained; and that all Companies formed before the 20th day of June last shall remain as they were formed, unless on such consent and approbation as aforesaid, such only excepted as have been constituted by permission from this Congress.

Thursday, August 17, 1775.

Resolved, That as there are a number of people within this Province, whose peculiar religious principles will not allow them in any case to bear arms—this Congress intend no violence to conscience; and therefore would earnestly recommend it to all such persons to contribute the more liberally, in these times of universal calamity, to the relief of their distressed brethren in the several Colonies; and to do all other services to their oppressed Country, consistent with their religious profession.

Resolved, That before any person shall receive a military commission, agreeable to the Militia Ordinance of this Congress, he shall sign the Association formed and recommended by the same; and if he hold a commission under the late Militia Act of Assembly, that he first resign such commission to the Governour of this Province.

Resolved, That Jonathan D. Sergeant, Esq., be and he is hereby appointed Provincial Treasurer to this Congress: and it is ordered, that the balance of Moneys in his hands, which he received towards paying the expenses of the Delegates of this Colony in the Continental Congress, together with such as may hereafter come into his hands, be applied to such uses as shall be directed by this Congress, or, during its recess, by the Committee of Safety. And that he do immediately call in the several sums yet due from any of the Counties; and in case of further neglect in them to discharge the same, that the said Treasurer do make report thereof to the next Provincial Congress.

The Congress taking into consideration the Remonstrance from the County Committee of Sussex, relative to the raising the prices of shop goods within the said County, occasioned by the advanced price in New-York and Philadelphia, do resolve that the said Committee are the proper persons to inquire into the complaint mentioned in the said Remonstrance; and if, on examination, they find it to be well founded, do then recommend that the said Committee make application to the Committees of New-York and Philadelphia, and represent the conduct of such traders in the said Provinces as shall appear to them to be culpable.

Ordered, That the several County Committees do appoint one Surgeon to each Regiment and Battalion belonging to their respective Counties; and certify the name of such Surgeon to the next Congress, or to the Committee of Safety, in order to his being properly commissioned.

Resolved, That this Congress do recommend to the several County Committees in this Colony, that they immediately employ Gunsmiths to make such a number of Arms as they shall judge to be necessary and wanting in their respective Counties; and that, in the manufactory of the said Arms, particular attention be paid to the directions of the Continental Congress.

Ordered, That Hendrick Fisher, Samuel Tucker, Isaac Pearson, John Hart, Jonathan D. Sergeant, Azariah Dunham, Peter Schenck, Enos Kelsey, Joseph Borden, Frederick Frelinghuysen, and John Schurman, be a Committee of Safety during the recess of this Congress.

The Congress adjourned to the 20th day of September next, unless sooner convened by the Committee of Safety.

PHILIP VAN RENSSELAER TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-York, August 5, 1775.

Whereas, I, the underwritten, Philip Van Rensselaer, of the City of Albany, and Province of New-York, merchant, being appointed by Walter Livingston, Esquire, for supplying the Troops under the command of General Schuyler: and as a large quantity of barrelled pork will be wanted for supplying the said Troops, and at present finding a great scarcity of that article in this Province, and am informed, cannot possibly be supplied with a sufficient quantity requisite and necessary for said Troops, without having assistance from the Province of Connecticut; in consequence of which begs leave to request, that the honourable Provincial Congress, or Committee now sitting for the said Province of New-York, would be pleased to take the same into their consideration; and humbly conceives, that were they to write to Governour Trumbull, or any other person or persons, which they may think proper, requesting that leave may be given to ship four hundred and fifty barrels good merchantable pork, they might be supplied, and consign the same to the care of Messrs. Dennis and Dawson of said City of New-York, merchants, who have my particular directions to receive the said pork on my account, provided leave can be obtained.

PHILIP VAN RENSSELAER.

In Provincial Congress, New-York, August 8, 1775.

Ordered, That Governour Trumbull be requested, and he is hereby requested, by this Congress, to permit the quantity of four hundred and fifty barrels of good merchantable Pork to be sent to New-York, to the care of Messrs. Dennis and Dawson, to be forwarded for the use of the Continental Army in the northern parts of this Colony.

A true copy from the Minutes:

JOHN MCKESSON, Secretary.

DAVID WELSH TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Ticonderoga, August 5, 1775.

SIR: The men at this place, belonging to the Colony of Connecticut, think they are not well used, as they were promised several things, they don't think there are any steps taken to fulfil it, our Commissaries being superseded by Commissaries in New-York Government; and they avow the principles, that if soldiers have bread and pork, it is enough; and Captain Phelps has wrote to the Colonel, that they tell him expressly that he has no business to buy any thing, but only to forward provisions. I heard a few days ago, that he is dismissed, but I don't know the certainty of that.

Several of the companies have no brass kettles to this day. About a week ago I got one for my company, and don't think I shall have any more this year. Pails and bottles we can't get as yet; and not more than one tenth part of the bowls that we were to have.

Some things commanded in the act of Assembly for the soldiers can't all be got here, but the chief of them might be got as well here as at Boston, but they would cost something more; and if some things can't be had, there is the more reason for having others; and if there had not been a shifting of Commissaries, I believe we should have been better provided. Several companies have no frying-pans. I have afore notified our Commissaries and them at Albany, that we want these things.

Our water here is very bad and unwholesome, and great part of the time there is nothing else for the Troops. At the present we have some beer, but it wont last long, and if our Commissaries do not get some, I don't think any body else will. Rum and molasses are wanted. The rum that comes, as far as I have seen, is worse than none. We expected to have had books and paper, but have not had one book, and but four quires of paper. I think there has not been one pound of soap bought for the Army. A small matter of coffee and chocolate was bought about two weeks ago, so that the sick have a small matter, but none for them that can keep about. Only one barrel of vinegar here and one at Crown Point has arrived, and that, all said, was not worth any thing. One barrel of sugar came here, and one to Crown Point, and that goes only to the sick. Since the Troops arrived here, it would take about half of their wages to make them live as well as they were to be provided by the act of the Assembly.

There are five companies from York Government at Lake George, and they have their complement of officers. They were to have forty or fifty men each, but I am well informed that they have not above eighty men on the ground.

There is not a soldier from York come over Lake George to stay, and I don't think we shall have any before the middle of September or October, unless something is done more than a New-York Congress will do. If you and our Colony rely on them to fulfil the engagements of our Colony, I assure you, Sir, that they are determined never to do it. They have not a soldier on this side of Lake George, that I know of, except a few sailors. Several officers are arrived, and more expected; and why all the places of profit should be filled up with men in York Government, I don't know, and our people be obliged to do all the drudgery. Commissaries' places are profitable, and commanders on board of the vessels profitable. And why should they have all the places of profit? Is it because we have no man capable of any thing but drudgery? Sir, unless you or somebody sees to it, I don't think we shall have one hundred and fifty men here by the middle of September or October from New-York Government. The advantage of their situation is such that it will make them rich. Are we to be wholly ruled by the Committee of New-York? Is it for their unfaithfulness in the common cause? Have they not been till very lately, a great part of them, as strong set against the common cause? Neither have I any reason to think that there is a thorough change in them. Why should Mr. Halsey be dismissed from the service to make way for a Yorker, when every man says he did well? Are our men fit for nothing but privates? If there is not a check put on them, you, Sir, will be put to it to raise men another year. They have a number of carpenters, and the building of batteaus, &c., goes on well; but upon a par, I suppose, it will take six of our men to replace as much money as one of them on a par, and one of our men will do as much as six of them.

I am informed that the Continental Congress are to give out commissions; if they do, unless it is well looked to, there will be a great number of officers, and but a few soldiers. Sir, you may rely upon it that the New-York Commissaries will not attempt to fulfil what the Colony of Connecticut have engaged; and unless they take some steps to do it themselves, I don't see how they can answer it, to promise great things, and not to take suitable care to fulfil.

Sir, please to excuse me for my troubling you with this letter.

I am, Sir, your most obedient and humble servant, &c.

DAVID WELSH.

To Jonathan Trumbull, Esq., Governour of Connecticut, &c.

PROVIDENCE (RHODE-ISLAND) TOWN-MEETING.

At a Town-Meeting holden, by adjournment, in Providence, on the 5th day of August, A. D. 1775:

The Honourable NICHOLAS COOKE, Esq., Moderator.

Voted, That the Committee appointed to erect the Batteries at Sassafras and Fox Points, immediately proceed to build one Floating Battery, such as they shall think proper.

Voted, That the said Committee be, and they hereby are directed to consider the practicability and usefulness of building other Floating Batteries, as a further defence to this Town, and make their report thereon to the next meeting.

Voted, That the Engine-House, now standing by the Market-House, be removed to the Battery erected at Fox Point, for a Guard-House at that place.

Whereas, certain evil-minded persons, inhabitants of this Colony, and acquainted with the Creeks and Channels of the Narraganset-Bay, have made it their practice of late to assist our inveterate enemies by piloting their armed Vessels up the River from Newport towards this Town, with the known design of distressing the loyal and peaceable inhabitants of the Colony, and piratically seizing their property, &c.:

Wherefore it is Voted by this Meeting, That the Deputies for this Town be, and they are hereby instructed to use their influence to procure an act of the General Assembly, for inflicting the severest punishment upon such atrocious offenders, as a means of discouraging such villanous conduct in future; and that such act be made to extend to all such persons who may be guilty of such practice on any part of the coast.

Voted, That for the present Captain Samuel Warner be appointed to have the care of the Battery at Fox Point, and of all the Guns, Stores, &c., belonging to the same.

Voted, That his Honour the Deputy-Governour, Ambrose Page, Esq., Capt. Joseph Brown, and the Members of the Committee of Safety, in this Town, or the major part of them present, be a Committee to order when the Beacon shall be fired to alarm the country.

Voted, That the Committee appointed to erect the Beacon be requested to fire the same on Thursday the 7th day of this month, at the setting of the sun, and that they procure one thousand handbills to be printed, to advertise the country thereof, that proper observations may be made of the bearing of the Beacon from different parts of the country; and that they notify the country that the Beacon will not be fired at any time after the said 17th day of August, unless this Town or some part of the Colony should be attacked by our enemy, in which case the Beacon will be fired, and three cannon discharged to alarm the country that they may immediately repair to this Town duly equipped with arms, &c.

Voted, That this meeting be adjourned to Saturday next, at four o'clock, P. M.; at which time I attended, and waited near two hours, but no other person except the Town Sergeant and Captain John Updike appeared.

T. FOSTER, Town Clerk.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO CONTINENTAL CONGRESS.

[Read September 14, 1775.]

Ticonderoga, August 6, 1775.

SIR: Enclose you copy of a report made me by the master of the schooner on Lake Champlain, confirming the account that vessels of force are building at St. John's.

The accounts of the persons employed in taking and garrisoning Crown Point and this place, are involved in such a cloud of confusion, that I shall find it very difficult to execute your orders on this head with precision. The Colony of Connecticut has paid some part of the money; so has the Massachusetts, and a small sum has been advanced by me. It will be necessary, therefore, that Congress shall order the accounts from those Colonies to be transmitted to me, (together with the returns of the men as made to them,) specifying who the people were that have received money; in which case I can take the receipts in full, charge the whole amount in my accounts, and give credit for what has been advanced by others. By the returns I have already received, I find that the same men are charged in two or three different accounts, so that none can be paid until the whole are returned, however necessitous they may be, and many of them are most truly so.

Two days after my arrival here, I gave such orders respecting the issuing of provisions, that I hoped an effectual stop would have been put to any further misapplication; in which I have been disappointed. In mentioning this, I do not mean to impeach the integrity of the men employed. I believe them honest and well meaning; but however willing they were to obey, they were so ignorant of forms, that it was not easy for them to get into a proper train, and therefore I ordered the Deputy Commissary-General to send up a person (whom I named and knew to be equal to the task) to give them such explicit directions and forms as that they will not hereafter labour under any difficulties to discharge their duty with propriety and regularity, and Mr. John N. Bleecker is now employed in that essential service.

Out of about five hundred men that are here, near a hundred are sick, and I have not any kind of hospital stores, although I had not forgot to order them immediately after my appointment. The little wine I had for my own table, I have delivered to the Regimental Surgeons. That being expended I can no longer bear the distress of the sick, and impelled by the feelings of humanity, I shall take the liberty immediately to order a physician from Albany (if one can be got there, as I believe there may) to join me with such stores as are indispensably necessary. If Congress should approve of this measure, they will please to signify what allowance of pay will be made. If not, I shall discharge the person whoever he be, paying him for the services he may have performed.

Lieutenant-Colonel Mott is still here. I am but a very indifferent judge of the engineering business; but from what I can discover, he appears to me as well qualified as any gentleman that can be got, who is not regularly bred to the business. I am sure he is active, and has the service much at heart; and I could wish, if his appointment is to be confirmed, that his commission might be transmitted to me.

It is more than probable before I can receive your answer to this letter, I shall have a sufficiency of boats to transport what troops I am likely to have to St. John's, if I should be ordered there, for (after deducting what will be absolutely necessary to garrison these places, and bring a supply of provisions,) I shall at most have only twelve hundred men; in that case I wish to be informed what I am to do with the carpenters that are here, for although I think it necessary to build more boats, yet I ought to know whether Congress means that I should build a naval force superiour to that of the enemy. If so, I must keep them, and beg some more good builders. The boats I have found on the lake are so bad, that the labour we have bestowed upon them is in a great measure lost.

As the commander of the sloop had left here, of which I was advised on my arrival at Albany, I wrote to the New-York Provincial Congress to send me up a man, which they have accordingly done, and I am just now informed that Congress has appointed another; if so, I beg the direction of Congress how I am to dispose of Captain Smith, the present commander.

I am, Sir, most respectfully, your obedient humble servant,
 PHILIP SCHUYLER.
 To the Honourable John Hancock, President, &c., &c.

Crown Point, Sunday, July 30, Anno 1775.

Weighed anchor and proceeded down the Lake Champlain. At 4 P. M. saw a boat under sail; brought her to by the fire of a gun, which proved to be Esquire Gilliland's boat. On board of the boat I found a man that came from St. John's, with a pass to pass and repass up and down the lake, from Major Preston, Commander-in-Chief at St. John's; and by Mr. Gilliland's information, found there was another man on shore that had a pass from General Carleton, and by an express was sent to St. John's as a cooper in His Majesty's service. By examining them asunder, I found their stories to disagree so much, that I sent them to your Honour to examine. John Shatford says there is but eight or ten guns at St. John's; the other says seventy or eighty; the former says they are hauled by his own door. Esquire Gilliland desired me to take particular care of the latter, viz: John Duguid, as he said he was not sure but he was a tory. I kept him on board all night. At 7 A. M. I sent them to Crown Point, under guard of three men. Immediately weighed anchor, and proceeded towards the Isle of Mott.

July 31.—Sailed down the lake some distance; meeting with heavy squalls to the northward, returned, and came to an anchor under Schuyler's Island for safety.

August 1.—Weighed anchor, and proceeded down the lake; nothing remarkable.

August 2.—Went on shore with the boat with the Lieutenant of Marines, to make discoveries.

August 3.—At 8 A. M. weighed the anchor from the southwest end, and proceeded to the northwest end to the Frenchman's house, with the Lieutenant of Marines and Sergeant, to make discoveries; and there met with Captain Baker, who went down to Vandelowe's, the Frenchman's, where his two men were taken prisoners on his last cruise. They inform him there are two schooners will be ready to sail from St. John's in ten days from this date, mounting sixteen carriage-guns each, besides swivels; they are fifty-two feet keel, by good information from the French and Indians who came on board us, and desired us to fortify at a place where the channel is very narrow and runs close into the shore, where no vessel can pass without passing through said channel. By receiving said information, with the advice of Captain Baker, thought it proper to return with all speed to your Honour to report; having a fine gale of wind, I immediately weighed anchor, and proceeded towards Crown Point, and arrived there the 4th of August, at 4 o'clock, P. M., 1775, on board the Schooner Liberty. JAMES STEWART, Commanding Schooner.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Ticonderoga, August 6, 1775.

I thank you, my dear General, for your very kind and polite letter of the 28th ultimo, which I just had the honour to receive.

Immediately on my arrival here, I issued such orders respecting the provisions and stores, (which I found had been most scandalously embezzled or misapplied,) as I hoped would effectually have brought matters into a right train; but it is the misfortune of the people here, that they do not know how to obey, although they should be willing. I have therefore directed the Deputy Commissary-General to send up a person (whom I named and knew to be equal to the business) to examine the Commissaries at the several posts on the communication, and to give them such directions as will, I hope, introduce regularity in future. Mr. John N. Bleecker is now employed in that essential business.

With respect to the returns of the Army, you will see by the last letter I had the honour to write to you, that I have had no success in getting them properly made, although I have drawn and given them forms, which I thought so clear that no possibility of mistaking them remained.

I foresaw, my dear Sir, that you would have an Herculean labour, in order to introduce that proper spirit of discipline and subordination which is the very soul of an army, and I felt for you with the utmost sensibility, as I well knew the variety of difficulties you would have to encounter, and which must necessarily be extremely painful and disgusting to you, accustomed to order and regularity. I can easily conceive that my difficulties are only a faint semblance of yours. Yes, my General, I will strive to copy your bright example, and patiently and steadily persevere in that line which only can promise the wished-for reformation.

Since my last I have had a verbal confirmation, by one of my scouts, of the intelligence contained in the affidavits which I sent you. I am prepared, with the utmost diligence, to obey my orders, and move against the enemy, unless your Excellency or Congress should direct otherwise. In the course of a few days I expect to receive the ultimate determination. Whatever it may be, I shall try to execute it in such a manner as will best promote the just cause in which we are engaged.

Not a man from this Colony has yet joined me, except those I returned to you, and who are raised and paid by the Committee of Albany; nor have I yet received those necessary supplies which I begged the New-York Provincial Congress to send me as long ago as the third of last month, and which the Continental Congress had desired them to do.

The troops here are destitute of tents. They are crowded in vile barracks, which, with the natural inattention of the soldiery to cleanliness, has already been productive of disease, and numbers are daily rendered unfit for duty.

I am so unfortunate as not to have one carriage for field artillery, so that if I am ordered to attack St. John's, and am able to get down the Sorrel River, I shall labour under vast difficulty to bring up the cannon through a very swampy country. They will be few, indeed, as I shall have less than a ton of powder when the troops are completed, to twenty-four rounds a man.

Congress has appointed Commissioners for Indian affairs. As one of them, I have ordered messengers to be sent into their country to invite them to a conference at Albany. I have also requested the Caughnawagas of Canada to meet me at this place.

The whole family of the late Sir William Johnson have held a line of conduct that evinces the most inimical sentiments in them to the American cause. Sir John Johnson has had four hundred men, partly Scotch Highlanders, in arms, to protect a scoundrel Sheriff who had repeatedly insulted the good inhabitants of that country, which at length they retaliated. The inhabitants have, however, drove off the Sheriff, and made the Knight promise he would interfere no farther. I should not have hesitated one moment to have secured him and his adherents, had I not been apprehensive of evil consequences from the Indians. I therefore thought it most prudent to advise Congress of the whole matter.

Although, Sir, I am much in want of men, and would wish to have the three New-Hampshire Companies mentioned in the copy of your letter of the 27th ultimo, yet they are so happily posted, either to await the Misisque Indians, or to march to the relief of the inhabitants of this Colony living to the westward of where these troops are now posted, on what are commonly called the New-Hampshire Grants, that in case of an attack from the savages I have mentioned, who, if any, are most our enemies, I could wish them to remain under orders there for that purpose.

I am extremely happy to learn that you are so well supplied with provisions. I have now a tolerable stock of flour, but very little pork; fat cattle are, however, coming up, so that I do not apprehend we shall suffer in that article.

My best wishes attend Colonel Reed and Major Mifflin. I am, most respectfully, your Excellency's obedient very humble servant,

PH. SCHUYLER.

His Excellency General Washington, &c. &c.

EDWARD MOTT TO GOVERNOR TRUMBULL.

Ticonderoga, August 6, 1775.

HONOURABLE SIR: Since I arrived at this place the General gave out in orders for returns to be made to him of all the forces that were first at the taking possession of those garrisons. I inquired of his Honour about the matter. He told me he had orders from the General Congress to pay off all their accounts, on which I informed him that our Government had paid considerable sums of money to some people who were in that service, and desired him not to pay any of those accounts till we knew to whom, and how much our Colony had paid. I further told him, that sundry of the people who were in that service afterwards entered into the service of the Massachusetts, under Col. Arnold; and I heard Colonel Arnold order some of them to make up their accounts from their first entering on the ground, so that I thought there was danger of great mistakes being made; on which his Honour concluded not to pay any of them until he had collected the whole, and transmitted them to your Honour and the Provincial Congress. If I have done wrong in my information to the General, your Honour will correct me.

I wrote a letter to your Honour about a month ago from Albany, informing something about the controversy that happened between Colonel Hinman and Colonel Arnold, and concluded to have given a further account from New-York, but being unwell while at New-York I neglected it. My brother and Mr. Halsey will be able to give a particular account of that affair.

I don't find that the money sent by Colonel Easton, or by any other person, from our Colony, was improved for the payment of the people that were at the reduction of this place. I hear that I am blamed on account of Colonel Easton's having that money from our Colony, as they say I recommended him to our Assembly. I did not in any shape recommend him, only by showing the copy of a letter I wrote the Provincial Congress, acquainting them that he had assisted in raising men for the service, &c., and desired his own Province to reward him according to his merits.

We have had the account of the disposition of the Canadians from sundry persons lately, of which my brother can give the particulars.

Lieutenant Halsey hath been from the Company ever since the latter part of June, on board the vessels, from which service he is now discharged, and is honourably paid for; but he still talks of not joining the Company any more. If he should not, should be glad of commissions to fill the Company.

I am, Sir, with respect, your most obedient humble servant,

EDWARD MOTT.

Honourable Jonathan Trumbull.

BLADENSBURGH (MARYLAND) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Committee of Bladensburgh, in Prince George's County, on Tuesday, the 1st day of August, 1775:

Mr. CHRISTOPHER LOWNDES, Chairman,
Mr. THOMAS WILLIAMS, Clerk.

Resolved, That George Munro's Letter to Messrs. Bruce and Ritchie be published in the Maryland Gazette; also, his Letters to the Committee.

Bladensburgh, June 18, 1775.

DEAR GENTLEMEN: I received yours of the 30th ult., by which I was glad to understand that our friend William found his way at last to peace and plenty; but on his arrival I am not surprised that he should find peace and plenty all reduced to poverty, as the war last summer has drained the country of corn and other grain; but with good luck, I hope the produce of your plantation will again enable you to live in plenty. I can assure you, my dear friends, it gives me an inward satisfaction to hear that you think our old scheme will turn out to great advantage, although I may never have the happiness to enjoy the fruits of it along with you. I am sensible that if these disputes between the two countries were once settled, we might carry into execution a great many schemes which would turn out to our mutual advantage. But times continue to wear such a dismal aspect, that I am very much at a loss what to do. We shall see in all this summer and fall how things are likely to turn out, and what A. Ross says on his return from the Mississippi, and likewise Mr. Bruce, as he intends to go down about that time; so I hope I shall then be better able to judge than at present. My father writes me in his last letter, that if I do not find the country I am in, or my particular situation, to my mind, I may leave it, either proceeding thence to Jamaica, where my brother is, or to take the first most convenient opportunity of a Clyde ship to go home, to be fitted out next for Jamaica, or any other place to be thought most proper. He says the last of these steps he would like best, if I should find it proper to leave America; and says the confusions which are likely to prevail on the Continent for some time, and which at least will ruin trade while they last, is the reason of this hint I give you; but says he leaves me to act as I will judge most prudent, and according to the advice of my friends present with me. He said he had thus signified his mind, that I might be in no difficulty to determine as I please. I wrote him for answer, that I should be determined by the time above mentioned what steps to take, but could not before. John Gray likewise advises me to come home to enter into copartnership with him, and to come out here to manage the business. The scheme he proposes might be carried on with a very small capital; but you know any such scheme must be put off for the present. We hear of nothing new down this way that can be depended upon. There are so many d—d lies going about the country, and in the newspapers, that it is not worth while mentioning any of them. One thing is true, that the New-Englanders have taken Fort Ticonderoga by surprise, in the night-time, when the soldiers were all asleep. There was only about forty soldiers in the fort. We have at last been obliged to muster to live on peaceable terms with the country people. Our company is commanded by Colonel Joshua Beall. We are all obliged to have a hunting-shirt, gun, bayonet, and cartridge-box; but if it is ever likely to come to blows this way, you know my determined resolution not —. I need not go any farther, as it is not advisable to trust one's sentiments on paper, as they now open all letters to the northward, and I suppose the Committees in every other place will follow the same laudable example. A ship arrived lately in Virginia from Glasgow. The Captain, upon his arrival, sent the letters from the company by express, to their factors, but before the express reached the place where he intended, two men followed him on horseback, took the letters from him, read them, and then returned them open.

Lord Dunmore and family are all gone on board of a man-of-war.

For more news I refer you to Captain Colvin, as he says he shall write you.

I shall expect to hear from you soon. You may depend upon hearing from me as often as possible. In the mean time, believe me to be, dear gentlemen, your affectionate friend,

GEORGE MUNRO.

To Messrs. Bruce and Ritchie, on King's Creek, and care of Alexander Ross, Esq., Fort Pitt.

P. S. I shall settle Mr. Bruce's account with Mr. Nicholas Free.

Bladensburgh, August 1, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: It is with unspeakable grief that I think of my hasty inconsiderateness, in writing what I ought not to have wrote, on the 18th of June, to two young men of my acquaintance, and am especially uneasy to find, from my letter, that I have used expressions which might affect others, when, in truth, I intended no such thing. My apprenticeship being out in this country, I intended, according to my father's inclination, to have gone to Britain, after assisting Mr. Henderson through the purchase, and I thought of nothing less than mustering in this country; but seeing him fond of it, and that it was generally done, I went into the company, but intended to go to my parents; and having no property to fight for here, I never had the least notion of enlisting to fight, because that would have obliged me to stay here, contrary to my father's inclination. I am induced to address this letter to you, because I have observed that an acknowledgment in writing is always required by the Committees from people who are guilty of such imprudence as I have been guilty of. My serious sentiments are not against the rights of the country; and I truly believe, that if the people in general in Great Britain were allowed to consider coolly the reasons set forth by the Congress, and were well informed of the oppressions of the Ministry, they would not be against America. I cannot now show my serious sentiments, having so inconsiderately got the ill will of my best friends by a letter which I never read over, nor kept a copy of, unless by carrying home with me the arguments of the Congress, and doing my poor endeavours to have them more generally understood at home than they seem to be by the people in general there. Upon the whole, I commit myself to you, and entreat you to meet immediately, not doubting but you will make charitable allowances for the inconsiderateness of youth; and am, gentlemen, your very humble servant,

GEORGE MUNRO.

To the Gentlemen of the Committee of Bladensburgh.

Resolved, That this Committee do adjourn to Monday, the 7th day of this instant.

RICHARD HENDERSON TO COLONEL JOSHUA BEALL.

Bladensburgh, August 2, 1775.

SIR: The letters which Mr. Johnson, the Adjutant, brought, were read at the head of the Company on Monday, according to your orders; and the question being put on Tuesday, for every man who would risk his life in defence of American liberty to repair to the colours, every man present made up to them.

Mr. Munro was put under arrest on Monday, because none of the Company would agree to see him forthcoming, as I was greatly provoked on reading a letter from one of my family, containing sentiments so different from mine; but I was prevailed on afterwards to become answerable for his appearance before the Committee, who were to meet the next day.

When I was employed with the Company on Tuesday, a great body of people came into the Town with loaded arms, and expressed a resolution to tar and feather him, whatever might be the determination of the Committee; and a lean horse was also brought, upon which he was to be set and drummed through the Town. This so frightened the young man that he got one of the horses belonging to the store, and rode off in such haste that he carried away the key of the money drawer. As soon as it was known that he had gone off, two gentlemen were immediately appointed by the people out of doors to ride after him and bring him back, who were supplied with money and horses at my expense.

The question then with the people out of doors arose, what was to be done with me; and with great difficulty, after I had offered to do every thing that I could possibly do, they consented that the Committee should allow me till Monday next to get Mr. Munro back.

I am sure, Colonel Beall, no person who knows me can harbour the smallest suspicion that I am an enemy to America, where I have so many children and all my property. My sentiments I never concealed, they have invariably been the same, and ever friendly to America.

On Monday next our Committee are again to meet. I have every reason to expect that a great concourse of people will assemble on the occasion. Mr. Munro's return is uncertain, and I, an innocent man, may be a victim of their resentment. In these times of general distress, it will, I hope, appear to the Convention to be necessary to prescribe some certain rules to be observed by the people, who ought, surely, for the sake of order, to be directed by the Committees, as the Committees at the same time ought to be by the Convention.

I flatter myself that my conduct hath ever been such that I have the general esteem of most in the circle of my acquaintance; yet I know I am not without enemies. As this matter of Mr. Munro's will spread far over the country, and many may hear that I am answerable for him, nay, perhaps, that I am myself guilty of some enmity to America, I think it incumbent upon me to have this letter printed, and also the copy of a letter which I wrote to Mr. Corbett, who had been my assistant, dated July 30th, 1774, and which Mr. Charles Wallace, of Annapolis, saw at my house, and approved of last winter, in order that the publick in general, as well as my friends and acquaintances, may be satisfied with regard to my conduct concerning the present unnatural and unhappy dispute between the Mother Country and her Colonies.

The immediate necessity of the Convention's coming to some determination relative to the present case, I hope will appear evident to the gentlemen there. Their determinations, and the opinions of the Committees, together with the rules of the Congress, I hold it my indispensable duty, as a friend to the cause of America, strictly to observe, without either falling short of, or going beyond those rules.

I am, Sir, your very humble servant,

RICHARD HENDERSON.

To Colonel Joshua Beall.

RICHARD HENDERSON TO CUNNINGHAM CORBETT.

Bladensburgh, July 30, 1774.

DEAR SIR: I wrote you what I thought would be the consequence of the act for blockading Boston; and now since the second act, destroying the Charter of Massachusetts-Bay, and the third, giving new powers in favour of the military, there is an amazing union of sentiment, from South-Carolina to New-England, as to the principle; but the means of obtaining relief are to be settled by a Congress of the first patriots, deputed from all the Colonies, to meet early in September, at which I should not be surprised to see all commercial intercourse with Britain stopped. Importation from Britain will assuredly be stopped, either wholly or very nearly so; but every honest heart is shocked at the ruin which a non-importation would bring on individual traders in Britain, who have put faith in us. Yet even this measure has many publick advocates, and I believe many more private ones, and it will assuredly take place, as the dernier resort, before the Americans will yield their rights. You know something of the disposition that rules the people here. As you go Northward, they are not less zealous, but more steady. And it is to be wished that those who attempt to give law to this Country, had correspondents among that set of men whom we call the country gentlemen of America, to correct the advices which they receive from other quarters. These men have ideas of liberty resembling the old English ideas. They have always hitherto been, as King Alfred said the English ought to be, free as their own thoughts. Indeed, even our commonalty have never been used to stand in awe of rank and station. They are a well-informed, reasoning commonalty too, perhaps the most of any on earth, because of the free intercourse between man and man that prevails in America. Their free access to courts of law, as parties and jurors, where they hear the rights of the subject nobly debated; their frequent and free elections, which give occasion for candidates to scan each other's principles and conduct before the tribunal of the people, together with the freedom and general circulation of newspapers, and the eagerness and leisure of the people to read them, or to listen to those who do. In such a country it is plain that the sentiments of the ablest patriots soon become the general sentiments. Our ancestors, say they, with a view of enlarging, not of diminishing the rights of their posterity, emigrated to a waste country, then useless, stipulating allegiance to the Crown, and coincidence of laws with those of England, and reserving all the rights of Englishmen, especially exemption from taxes, unless they should tax themselves. This contract was solemnly ratified in the face of the world by charters. England breaks the contract, claims a right of taxation, and sends an army to enforce it. If a contract, say they, must bind both parties, or else neither party, and she breaks loose, now are we bound?

If she refuses our dependance by contract, and claims it by power, she pursues a measure towards us, upon a resistance to which her own Constitution is founded. If her ancestors were right in refusing slavery, are not we also right?

If dependance on the will of others, for the enjoyment of possessions, constitutes political slavery, doth not the right claimed by the people of England, of granting at their wills to the Crown the property of Americans, constitute political slavery in America? The rights derived from our fathers we hold in trust for our children, to whom we owe protection from injuries during their infancy. Political slavery is the greatest of injuries; are we not therefore most indispensably bound to guard our infant children from it? We have, say they, answered the end of their original emigration. We have aggrandized the British Empire. All the spare produce of our lands, all the sweat of our brows goes to Britain, in obedience to her regulations of trade. We take in return manufactures, charged with the British taxes, and after paying all the produce of our lands, being still in debt for these taxed manufactures, it is plain that all the produce of our lands pays the British taxes. Where is the difference whether we be personally present in Britain, paying taxes, or be here, enabling men in Britain to pay them in our stead? Our taxation by commerce is constitutional, being consented to by us; a right of internal taxation, without our consent, is arbitrary. In proportion as arbitrary taxes are levied on us, (since we are in debt more than all the precious metals among us can pay,) we shall be disabled from consuming British manufactures, consequently our constitutional taxation will be less, as our arbitrary taxation becomes more. But our constitutional taxation, coming through the medium of the manufacturers, needs no addition of tax-gatherers. An arbitrary taxation of America would provide places for infinite swarms of ministerial tools. Hence we suppose a tyrant Minister and his dependants have dared to call the riot of a few, in consequence of arbitrary taxation, the rebellion of all; attempting to cover, under specious names, their iniquitous confounding of innocent and guilty, untried, unheard, in one ruin; their breach of national faith in overthrowing charters, and their hostile invasions to force arbitrary taxes upon us. We have granted our property in aid of the Empire in time of war. We even granted beyond our ability, and Parliament, sensible of this, refunded.

The Constitution of the Empire would cease if one legislative might grant aids out of the property of another. The idea of property would cease if one had a right to bestow what belongs to another. The regulation of trade is a power capable to govern the motions of the whole system; if that be lodged in the Parent State it is enough.

These are some of the reasonings prevailing in America; and although they come weak from my pen, yet they will be amusing to you, more especially as it is impossible but that all the attention of Britain must be drawn towards a measure big with the fate of the Empire.

Farewell, and believe me to be, &c.,

RICHARD HENDERSON.

To Mr. Cunningham Corbett, Merchant in Glasgow.

MR. GREEN: In justice to Mr. Henderson I must beg leave, through the channel of your press, to inform the publick that the above letter, dated July, 1774, was shown me last fall at his house as he above asserts. And I must further say, that I have frequently conversed with him on our present disputes, and he has always expressed principles the most friendly to the freedom of America.

I am, Sir, your most obedient servant,

CHARLES WALLACE.

Monday, August 7, 1775.

The Committee met according to adjournment, and proceeded to choose a Chairman, who made choice of Mr. Thomas Gantt, Chairman, Thomas Williams, Clerk.

The Committee resumed the consideration of the business before them on Tuesday the first instant. The following Letter was produced and read from Mr. Munro to the Committee:

Bladensburg, August 7, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: You would no doubt, after reading the letter I wrote you last Tuesday, be surprised at my sudden departure, when you had a right to expect my appearance before you when called for. I do solemnly declare, when I wrote that letter to you in the morning, that I had no intention to leave the place before I had appeared before you, and submitted to whatever might have been your determination with respect to me. If I had intended going away, I should most certainly have done it in the night time; but in place of that I think it was after twelve o'clock on Tuesday when I left the Town. My only reason for taking this step was, for fear of the violence some of the people threatened, and were preparing to inflict on my person at all events, whatever might be your determination. I confess to you, gentlemen, that my fear was so great as to give me no time to reflect on the danger in which my flight might involve Mr. Henderson, who had passed his word for my appearance before you, and who was ignorant of my going away. My only thought at that time was, to get out of the way of the people's fury until they should have time to think more coolly on the matter; but I never had any intention of leaving the country without appearing before you. As a proof of this, while I was down the river, and before I heard any persons were sent after me, two ships sailed for Glasgow, in either of which I could have gone. I think I can say with truth, that any person, if ever there was a person who felt as I did, on finding I was to be deprived of my only hope, (I mean the humanity and deliberation of your proceedings on my inconsiderate conduct,) and was to fall a victim to the rage of a few men, who I thought had not considered the nature of my case, nor the temperate and prudent rules of the Congress and Convention; I say, that any such person would excuse my going out of the way at that time. I am now, gentlemen, waiting to appear before you, and to submit to your determination, whatever it may be, and most earnestly implore your protection and interposition with this people, should they still be exasperated against me. Allow me to go safe home in obedience to my father, for I never intended, nor ever will injure America.

With great respect, I am, gentlemen, your most humble servant,

GEORGE MUNRO.

To the Gentlemen of the Committee of Bladensburg.

The Committee required the appearance of Mr. Munro, who appeared accordingly, and was asked the following Questions:

Question 1st. What Mr. Munro meant by the expression, We have at last been obliged to muster.

Answer. I had no particular person in my eye, and had no meaning in it, further than that I supposed others in the same circumstances with myself might entertain the same sentiments.

Question 2d. Mr. Munro was then asked whether he had any conversation with any person on the above subject.

Answer. That he had not.

Question 3d. Mr. Munro being asked what he would have expressed further when he said, I need not go any further, as it is not advisable to trust one's sentiments on paper.

Answer. He had no meaning at all in it.

Voted unanimously, That the said George Munro is inimical to American liberty.

Signed by order:

THOMAS WILLIAMS, Clerk.

WHITE CLAY CREEK (DELAWARE) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Committee of White Clay Creek Hundred, in New-Castle County, at Mr. Henry Darby's, in New-Ark, August 7, 1775, William Patterson, Esq., being in the chair, when the Rev. Morgan Edwards attended, and signed the following recantation, which was voted satisfactory, viz:

"Whereas, I have some time since frequently made use of rash and imprudent expressions with respect to the conduct of my fellow-countrymen, who are now engaged in a noble and patriotick struggle for the liberties of America, against the arbitrary measures of the British Ministry, which conduct has justly raised their resentment against me, I now confess that I have spoken wrong, for which I am sorry, and ask forgiveness of the publick; and I do promise, that for the future I will conduct myself in such a manner as to avoid giving offence, and, at the same time, in justice to myself, declare, that I am a friend to the present measures pursued by the friends to American liberty, and do heartily approve of them, and, as far as in my power, will endeavour to promote them. MORGAN EDWARDS."

SOUTHOLD (NEW-YORK) COMMITTEE TO THE PROVINCIAL CONGRESS.

Southold, Long-Island, August 7, 1775.

SIR: Our situation is such that we are obliged to call upon the honourable Congress for their immediate assistance. Yesterday thirteen sail, eight of which are supposed to be ships-of-war, were seen to be cruising the whole day betwixt Montauk and Fisher's Island, and are this morning riding at anchor betwixt the said island and the Oyster Ponds. We are in hourly expectation of their landing at Oyster-Ponds, or elsewhere, where our assistance will be absolutely necessary; but should that be the case, we are unable to defend ourselves, or others, being destitute of powder, as some of the honourable Congress well know. This being the true state of our case, we thought proper to send an express to inform you thereof, and humbly pray that the said honourable Congress would take our case into consideration, and provide ways and means for our immediate supply. Lieutenant Norton this minute appeared before the Committee, and informed them, that his Company are, many of them, entirely destitute of powder, and ten of them of arms; the part of the Company mentioned are from Brookhaven, and now present at Hubbard's, and their arms now examined by the Colonel and Major.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Lebanon, August 7, 1775.

SIR: Fessenden is not returned hither. Your letter to Major-General Schuyler was forwarded per express on the first instant. Enclosed is a copy of a letter from Colonel Saltonstall, received yesterday. I ordered him, as Colonel of the Third, Colonel Samuel Coit, of the Eighth, and Lieutenant-Colonel Samuel Abbot, of the Twentieth Regiment, in this Colony, forthwith to raise so many men of their Regiments as could be speedily got in readiness, to march for our defence and safety against any attacks or proceedings from that Fleet. I have also ordered Major Jonathan Latimer and Captain Edward Shipman, with their Companies, of the Seventh Regiment, raised for our special defence, to rendezvous for the present at New-London, notwithstanding the preceding orders given for their march to the camp before Boston; not doubting it would meet your approbation on the present emergency.

I am, with great truth and regard, Sir, your obedient humble servant,

JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

His Excellency General Washington.

GEN. WASHINGTON TO COUNCIL OF MASSACHUSETTS-BAY.

"In Council, August 7, 1775.

"The Committee appointed to wait on his Excellency General Washington, to request him to inform the Board of the extent of the powers delegated to him by the Continental Congress, reported the following Letter from his Excellency, and an extract of his Instructions; which were read, and ordered to be filed.

"PEREZ MORTON, Sec'y pro tem."

Camp at Cambridge, August 4, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Enclosed you have an extract of such parts of my Instructions as I conceive you want to be informed of. I did not know whether, as the proceedings of the Congress are not made publick, how far I was at liberty to communicate what I have; further I cannot go at present. I beg the favour of you to make a tender of my best respects to your honourable Board, and do me the justice to believe that I am, Gentlemen, your most obedient and humble servant,

GO. WASHINGTON.

P. S. There are now at this place two or three Surgeons from Philadelphia, very powerfully recommended to me by some of the Delegates of the Continental Congress, to be provided for. If you should want such, and will signify the same, I will inform them thereof; they are strangers to me, but have the appearance of gentlemen, and are strongly recommended as men of knowledge in their profession. Yours, &c.

"An extract from the Instructions of the honourable Continental Congress to General WASHINGTON.

"This Congress having appointed you to be General and Commander-in-Chief of the Army of the United Colonies, and of all the Forces raised or to be raised by them, and of all others who shall voluntarily offer themselves and join the said Army for the defence of American liberty, and for repelling every hostile invasion thereof, you are to repair with all expedition to the Colony of Massachusetts-Bay, and take charge of the Army of the United Colonies.

"For your better directions—First. You are to make a Return to us, as soon as possible, of all the Forces which you shall have under your command, together with their Military Stores and Provisions, and also as exact an account as you can obtain of the Forces which compose the British Army in America.

"Secondly. You are not to disband any of the men you find raised until further directions from this Congress, and if you shall think their number not adequate to the purpose of security, you may recruit them to a number you shall think sufficient, not exceeding . . . . .

"Thirdly. In all cases of vacancy, occasioned by death, or a removal of a Colonel, or other inferior officer, you are, by brevet or warrant, under your seal, to appoint another person to fill up such vacancy, until it shall be otherwise ordered by the Provincial Convention or Assembly of the Colony from whence the Troops in which such vacancy happens shall direct otherwise.

"Fourthly. You are to victual at the Continental expense all such Volunteers as have joined, or shall join the United Army, &c."

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE COUNCIL OF MASSACHUSETTS-BAY.

Head-Quarters, August 7, 1775.

SIR: By the General Return made to me for last week, I find there are great numbers of soldiers and non-commissioned officers who absent themselves from duty, the greater part of whom, I have reason to believe, are at their respective homes in different parts of the Country, some employed by their officers on their farms, and others drawing pay from the publick while they are working on their own plantations, or for hire. My utmost exertions have not been able to prevent this base and pernicious conduct. I must, therefore, beg the assistance of the General Court to co-operate with me in such measures as may remedy this mischief. I am of opinion it might be done, either wholly or in part, by the Committees of your several Towns making strict and impartial inquiry of such as are found absent from the Army, upon whose account they have left it, by whose leave, and for what time; requiring such as have no impediment of sickness, or other good reason, to return to their duty immediately, or, in case of failure, sending an account of their names, and the Company and Regiment to which they belong, that I may be able to make examples of such delinquents.

I need not enlarge upon the ruinous consequences of suffering such infamous deserters and defrauders of the publick to go unnoticed or unpunished, nor use any arguments to induce the General Court to give it immediate attention. The necessity of the case does not permit me to doubt the continued exertions of that zeal which has distinguished the General Court upon less important occasions. I have the honour to be, &c.

GO. WASHINGTON.

Watertown, August 7, 1775.

Since I came out of Boston, where I left all my effects to the mercy of a lawless banditti, to amuse myself have made several excursions into different parts of the country, and with pleasure have observed the firm, steady, and resolute spirit which animates every individual. My last tour was to Portsmouth, where, to my astonishment, and I dare say to the astonishment of all America, I was informed, that the Committee for that Town had voted to supply the Scarborough man-of-war, lying in their river, with from four to six hundred weight of fresh beef weekly. This account, I must confess, appeared to be scarce credible; but on making farther inquiry, found it too true; and the reason assigned for this conduct was owing to the threats of a paltry sloop-of-war to deprive the inhabitants of fresh fish, unless they afforded them such a quantity of beef. Too great a soul I hoped animated the breast of every American to submit to so insolent a demand; and instead of treating it with the contempt such insolence deserved, to the surprise of many of the worthy inhabitants, the Committee passed a vote to supply with provisions those butchers of our countrymen, who are daily pilfering and destroying our property, and exercising every act of cruelty to distress and destroy us, by this unexampled instance submitting to their imperious demands, and, like suppliants, entreating their favour. Such conduct, at so important a crisis, cannot but wring tears from every well-wisher to America. This fact is of so important a nature, that it ought in justice to be made publick; and I hope it will so affect the minds of the worthy inhabitants of that Town, as to exclude from all further service the timid members of a Committee who act in direct opposition to both Continental and Provincial Congresses. A TRAVELLER.

HARDWICK (MASSACHUSETTS) COMMITTEE.

In Committee of Correspondence for the Town of Hardwick, }
August 7, 1775. }

Whereas, Deacon James Fay, Jonathan Danforth, Abner Conant, Joseph Ruggles, Jun., Israel Corkey, and Jonathan Nye, all of Hardwick, in the County of Worcester, have, by their conduct in various instances manifested a disposition inimical to the rights and privileges of their countrymen. Therefore,

Resolved, That their names be published to the world agreeable to the Association of the Continental Congress; and that it be earnestly recommended to the inhabitants of this Town, County, and Colony, not to have any commercial connection with the said Fay, Danforth, &c., but to shun their causes and persons, and treat them with that contempt and neglect they deserve. And whereas, the said Committee have thought it necessary that the said Danforth, Fay, &c., be confined to this Town, and that they assemble not together more than two of them at a time, (except at publick worship and at funerals,) therefore further recommend it to the good people of this Colony, that if the same persons, or any of them, should depart out of this Town without a permit from said Committee, they take up and confine or send them back again.

Per order of the said Committee:

SETH PADELFORD, Clerk of Committee.

N. B. All printers in this Colony are desired to publish this.

ROCHESTER (MASSACHUSETTS) COMMITTEE.

Rochester, August 7, 1775.

Gideon Bestow, of Rochester, hath been guilty of contravening the Resolve of the Provincial Congress, by exporting the necessaries of life to the Island of Nantucket; and with whom all persons are desired to withdraw all sorts of connections, and have no dealings with him for the future.

By order of the Committee of Inspection for said Town:
JOHN DOTT, Chairman.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

In Committee of Safety, August 7, 1775.

SIR: The Congress of this Colony some time past raised three companies, consisting of sixty-six men each, including officers, to be a guard to the Western frontiers on Connecticut River; and upon receiving some late advices from Canada, we conceive they will not be needed there; have since applied to General Washington to see if he had occasion for them in his Army if not full, especially considering those companies consist of rangers, hunters, and men accustomed to the woods. He said he would write to you on the subject, which we expect you have received. The bearer, Colonel Bedel, commander of a Regiment of Militia on Connecticut River, to promote the great cause in which we are engaged, accepted the command of a company to guard as aforesaid; he is a person of great experience in war, and well acquainted with Canada; we would recommend him to you as an able officer to command a regiment, and if the circumstances of your Army will admit his reception and the aforesaid companies, we shall esteem it a favour done them, as they are companies of the deprivées of the service, being engaged in the general.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY TO COL. BEDEL.

In Committee of Safety, Exeter, August 7, 1775.

SIR: The Committee of Safety have waited on Gen. Washington, to endeavour to get the Company raised to guard the Western frontiers received into the pay of the Continent; but he informed us that he cannot, consistent with his instructions, receive more than two thousand men; but has, at our request, wrote to General Schuyler, recommending his receiving them; and the bearer, Captain Thornton, has a letter to the same purpose from General Sullivan.

As the expense of those companies will be so great in this Colony, and no danger as we apprehend on the frontiers, unless those companies can be received as aforesaid, they must be disbanded without going into actual service. Therefore, we would desire you without loss of time, take Captain Thornton and such other assistance as you judge necessary, and repair to General Schuyler at Crown Point, before he gets his Army filled up, and endeavour to get those three companies into that service; and if there is room for a regiment, you can have opportunity to negotiate that matter with him, as it must be a Continental, and not a Colony matter.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY TO MAJOR CILLEY.

In Committee of Safety, Exeter, August 7, 1775.

SIR: You are desired as soon as possible to apply to the Selectmen of the several Towns in this Colony, with whom was lodged the powder taken last winter from Fort William and Mary, take an account of what is now in their custody respectively, and request of them forthwith to convey the whole to Colonel Nicholas Gilman at Exeter.

By order of the Committee.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY TO COMMITTEE OF SUPPLIES.

In Committee of Safety, Exeter, August 7, 1775.

SIR: By Deacon Brooks we have sent you five hundred Pounds lawful money, which is all we can spare at present. As we understand that the Continental Congress have appointed a Commissary-General for the whole united American Army, we conceive there will be no further necessity for concerning yourselves with supplying our forces; therefore, we judge it most prudent that you close all your accounts as speedily as possible, and desire that you would let us know what further sums will be wanting to pay off all the debts you have contracted on account and for the benefit of this Colony, and we shall endeavour to send the amount in a very short time.

PROCLAMATION BY GOVERNOUR MARTIN.

NORTH-CAROLINA, ss.

By His Excellency JOSIAH MARTIN, Esq., His Majesty's Captain-General, Governour, and Commander-in-Chief, in and over the said Province:

A PROCLAMATION.

Whereas, I have seen a publication in the Cape Fear Mercury, which appears to be Proceedings of a general meeting of people styling themselves Committees of the District of Wilmington, signed Richard Quince, Sen., Chairman, in which the well known and incontestible facts set forth in my Proclamation, bearing date the 16th day of June last, are most daringly and impudently contradicted, and the basest and most scandalous falsehoods are asserted, evidently calculated to impose upon and mislead the people of this Province, and to alienate their affections from His Majesty and his Government, and concluding, in the true spirit of licentiousness and malignity that characterises the productions of these seditious combinations, with a Resolve declaring me an enemy to the interests of this Province in particular, and of America in general—an impotent and stale device that the malice and falsehood of these unprincipled censors have suggested, and which is their last contemptible artifice constantly resorted to and employed to calumniate and traduce every man in every rank and station of life, who oppose their infamous and traitorous proceedings:

And whereas, by the evil, pernicious, and traitorous counsels and influence of the well known leaders of these seditious Committees, a body of men was assembled in arms at Wilmington, on the 16th or 17th of July last, for the purpose, as was professed in a letter sent me on the night of the 18th of the same month, (signed The People) by a certain John Ashe, (who presumed insidiously to employ the more respectable name of the people to cover his own flagitious designs,) of removing the King's artillery from Fort Johnston, under pretence of preserving and securing the same for the use and service of His Majesty; and prefacing this declaration with sundry complaints of violence and misbehaviour on the part of John Collet, Esq., Governour and Captain of the said Fort Johnston, many of which it was in my power, and it would have been my duty to have redressed, if they had been represented to me, which letter, signed The People, I thought it proper to answer, and dissuade the deluded multitude from involving themselves in the criminal enterprise of removing the King's artillery, which had been dismounted by my authority and not by Captain Collet's, as had been pretended in order to deceive the people into a violence so dangerous and unwarrantable; and I am to lament that my said letter, in answer to The People, produced no better or other effect than to prevent the execution of their criminal intention of removing the King's artillery, which was all that their letter to me avowed; and that they proceeded under the lead of the said John Ashe, and the other evil-minded conspirators against the peace and welfare of this Province, to the said Fort Johnston, and wantonly, in the dead hour of the night, set on fire and reduced to ashes the houses and buildings within His Majesty's said Fort, that had been evacuated and disarmed, and was entirely defenceless; and that they returned next day and completed, before my face, the destruction of the wooden defences of the Fort, to which the fire of the night had not extended, burning the houses and desolating every thing in the neighbourhood of the place, with a degree of wanton barbarity that would disgrace human nature in the most savage state, and was an overt act of high treason against His Majesty, which justified my immediate vengeance, restrained by pity for the innocent, misguided, and deluded people, whom I considered as the blind instruments of their atrocious leaders; who, defeated in the still more flagitious designs they meditated, (of which I have the fullest evidence,) and already involved in guilt of the blackest dye themselves, it might be presumed urged on the people to every enormity that might make them appear principals in their own treasons, instead of blind instruments thereof, and by extending the guilt among many, screen themselves from the penalties which they had wantonly incurred; nothing doubting at the same time, that cool and sober reflection would justly turn the resentment and indignation of the people against the wicked contrivers and promoters of the violences into which they have been betrayed, to the disgrace of their Country and humanity; and that they would expiate their own guilt by delivering up their leaders to receive the condign punishment that the laws inflict on such atrocious offenders. But having seen with astonishment a publication in the Cape-Fear Mercury, of the 28th day of last month, in which a set of people styling themselves a Committee for the Town of Wilmington, and County of New-Hanover, have, to obviate the just effects that I expected from the return of reason and reflection to the people, most falsely, seditiously, and traitorously asserted, "that Captain Collet was, under my auspices, preparing Fort Johnston for the reception of a promised re-enforcement, which was to be employed in reducing the good people of this Province to a slavish submission to the will of a wicked and tyrannick Minister, and for this diabolical purpose had collected several abandoned profligates, whose crimes had rendered them unworthy of civil society," &c., intending by various false pretences therein set forth, to justify the enormities into which they had plunged the innocent people, who I am confident were for the most part strangers to all the ostensible motives to the outrages they were hurried on to commit, and which, according to the acknowledgment of this despicable seditious meeting, had no better foundation than resentment to Captain Collet, an individual whose offences the law's powers, and that which I derive from His Majesty, were competent to correct in a legal way; and seeing that the said Committee, as it is called, have artfully, by insidious compliments and flattery, and by their contemptible applause of the outrages and violences perpetrated in and about Fort Johnston, endeavoured to reconcile the minds of the people to treason and rebellion, in order to avert from their own heads the just wrath with which a due sense of those crimes would naturally inspire the people against the infamous persons who had basely betrayed them into offences of so dangerous and heinous a nature.

And whereas, I have also seen a most infamous publication in the Cape-Fear Mercury, importing to be Resolves of a set of people styling themselves a Committee for the County of Mecklenburgh, most traitorously declaring the entire dissolution of the Laws, Government, and Constitution of this Country, and setting up a system of rule and regulation repugnant to the laws, and subversive of His Majesty's Government; and another publication in the Cape-Fear Mercury of the fourteenth of last month, addressed "To the Committees of the several Towns and Counties of North-Carolina, appointed for the purpose of carrying into execution the Resolves of the Continental Congress," bearing date at Philadelphia, June 19th, 1775, and signed William Hooper, Joseph Hewes, and Richard Caswell, the preposterous enormity of which cannot be adequately described and abhorred. It marks the Assembly, from whose members it comes, to be the genuine source of those foul streams of sedition which, through the channels of Committees, have overflowed this once happy land, and at this moment threaten it with every species of misery, ruin, and destruction. This publication begins with a recital of the most unparalleled falsehoods that ever disgraced a sheet of paper; witness the infamous misrepresentation of the affair of Lexington, (which must be also wilful,) and the notoriously false position, that Britain cannot support her Navy without the aid of North-Carolina commodities, calculated to gull the people into a surrender of all the benefits of Commerce to the idle and absurd speculations and decrees of the affectedly omnipotent Congress at Philadelphia. It proceeds upon these false and infamous assertions and forgeries to excite the people of North-Carolina to usurp the prerogative of the Crown, by forming a Militia, and appointing officers thereto, and finally to take up arms against the King and his Government; impudently apprehending the people of this Colony for their inactivity in treason and rebellion; and concluding with a most contradictory, insidious, and nonsensical jargon of exhortation to the people, affronting to and inconsistent with reason and common sense, to exert themselves for the preservation of Britain; to strengthen the hands of Civil Government; to preserve the liberty of the Constitution; to look up to the reigning Monarch of Britain as their lawful and rightful Sovereign, and to dare every difficulty and danger in support of his person, crown, and dignity, after monstrously, in the same breath, urging the people to the distress and ruin of Britain; to the subversion of all Civil Government; to open rebellion against the King and his authority, and in the most pointed terms prompting them to arms and resistance; thus insidiously attempting to reconcile allegiance and revolt, and inviting the people to actual rebellion under the mask and guise and profession of duty and respect—a shallow concealment of horrid treason, that I have no doubt every honest man will explode and treat with its merited contempt and abhorrence; while no man can wonder at the absurdity of the Address, as it must invariably attend every like attempt to reconcile things in reason and nature inconsistent.

The treasonable proceedings of an infamous Committee at Neuborn, at the head of a body of armed men, in seizing and carrying off six pieces of artillery, the property of the King, that lay behind the Palace at that place; repeated insults and violences offered to His Majesty's subjects by these little tyrannical and arbitrary combinations, and, among others, to some of my own servants, who have been stopped when employed on my business, and forcibly detained and searched; the unremitting assiduity of those engines of sedition to sow discontent and disaffection, and the base artifices they employ to alienate and prejudice the minds of His Majesty's subjects, by confidently and traitorously propagating the most base, scandalous, and monstrous falsehoods of the King's religious and political principles, and of ill designs of His Majesty's Ministers, daring thus to defame and traduce even the sacred character of the best of Princes, whose eminent and distinguished virtues, by universal acknowledgment, irradiate with unexampled lustre his imperial diadem, and whose piety and strict and inviolable regard to the happy Constitution of his Kingdoms, in Church and State, and to the welfare and happiness of all his people, stand confessed and admired throughout the world, and confound and reprobate the infamous, traitorous, and flagitious falsehoods and forgeries to which faction hath upon every occasion resorted to prop and support the most unprincipled and unnatural rebellion that was ever excited in any part of the world upon which the light of civilization had once dawned; the dangerous, unconstitutional, and illegal measure to which the people are invited by an advertisement I have seen, signed Samuel Johnston, of electing Delegates to meet in Convention, on the twentieth instant, at Hillsborough, that is subversive of the whole Constitution of this Country, and evidently calculated to seduce and alienate His Majesty's faithful and loyal subjects in the interior and western Counties of this Province, whose steadfast duty to their King and Country, that hath hitherto resisted all the black artifices of falsehood, sedition, and treason, and hath already, on my representation, received the King's most gracious approbation and acceptance, which I am authorized and have now the high satisfaction to signify to His Majesty's subjects throughout this Province, and particularly to those in the Counties of Dobbs, Cumberland, Anson, Orange, Guilford, Chatham, Rowan, and Surry, who have given me more especial and publick testimonials of their loyalty, fidelity, and duty, and to give them assurance of His Majesty's most firm support, which I am confident will not only confirm the good dispositions of this faithful people, and strengthen them to baffle and defeat every effort of sedition and treason, but prompt them also to resist their first approaches, by withstanding the now meditated insidious attempt of the intended Provincial Convention to steal in upon them the spirit, and erect among them the standard of rebellion, under the cloak and pretence of meeting for solemn deliberation on the publick welfare.

And I have no doubt that they will convince the traitorous contrivers and abettors of this plot of the vainness of their treacherous devices to sow sedition and disaffection in that land of loyalty, by indignantly spurning from them the said intended Congress, or Provincial Convention, and not suffering its corrupted breath to pollute the air of their Country, now the pure region of good faith and incorruptible loyalty; to whose virtuous inhabitants, I trust, is yet reserved the glorious achievement of crushing unnatural rebellion; of delivering their Country from lawless power and wide-spreading anarchy; of restoring and preserving in it the free and happy Constitution of Britain, with all that train of envied rights and blessings which belong to that great and admired system of true and genuine liberty, now most alarmingly threatened with overthrow by rebellious, republican, and tyrannical factions throughout America.

To the end, therefore, that the people of this Province at large may be acquainted with the enormities, violences, and disorders herein before recited, which manifestly tend to the destruction of their peace and welfare, and to the utter subversion of His Majesty's Government, and the Laws and Constitution of this Country; and that I may faithfully discharge my duty to the King and His Majesty's people in this Province, (whose welfare and prosperity have ever been my constant study,) and in order fully to forewarn the people of the dangers and calamities to which the men who have set themselves up for leaders in sedition and treason are courting them, to support them in their flagitious enormities, or to screen themselves from the penalties to which they know they are become liable, by extending their crime among numbers of their innocent fellow-subjects, for whom I have every tender feeling of pity, compassion, and forgiveness, I have thought it proper to issue this Proclamation, hereby to exhort His Majesty's subjects, the people of this Province, as they tender the invaluable rights and privileges of British subjects, that they do seriously reflect upon and consider the outrages and violences into which the innocent inhabitants of many parts of this Province, and in the Counties of Duplin, New-Hanover, Craven, and Brunswick, in particular, have been betrayed by the seditious artifices of certain traitorous persons, who have presumed to take the lead among them; and to attend to the obvious and ruinous consequences of following the wicked and flagitious counsels of men, who, intent only upon romantick schemes and their own mistaken interest and aggrandizement, are cajoling the people by the most false assertions and insinuations of oppression, on the part of His Majesty and his Government, to become instruments to their base views of establishing themselves in tyranny over them, treacherously aiming, by specious pretences of regard to their rights and liberties, (that have never been invaded, or intended to be invaded,) to delude the people to work their own destruction, in order to gratify, for a moment, their own lust of power and lawless ambition, that would undoubtedly carry them, if they could possibly succeed, to reduce the people, upon whom they now call and rely for support in their criminal designs, to the most slavish submission to that very arbitrary power to which they would now climb upon the shoulders, and by the assistance of the people. Let the people but consider coolly and dispassionately the cause in which their infamous leaders would engage them, they will see it, from the beginning of the discontents in America, founded in erroneous principles, and to this day supported by every art of falsehood and misrepresentation; their best coloured and most specious arguments, fraught with sophistry and illusion, have shrunk back from the light of truth, and vanished confounded before the standard of right reason; yet still unabashed, the tools of sedition have impudently and unremittingly imposed falsehood upon falsehood on the innocent people, extravagantly profaning even the most sacred name of the Almighty, to promote their flagitious purpose of exciting rebellion, until they have shaken the allegiance and duty of great numbers, and actually involved some of the people in the most horrid crimes against their Sovereign, and the Laws and Constitution of their Country. And I do hereby next especially admonish His Majesty's faithful subjects in this Colony, that the holding what is called a Provincial Convention at Hillsborough, in the heart of this Province, is calculated to extend more widely the traitorous and rebellious designs of the enemies of His Majesty and his Government, and the Constitution of this Province, and particularly to influence, intimidate, and seduce His Majesty's faithful and loyal subjects in that neighbourhood from their King and Country, which they have hitherto so faithfully maintained; for the furtherance of which purposes, a certain Richard Caswell, one of the three persons deputed by a former illegal Convention, in this Colony, to attend a Congress, no less illegal, at Philadelphia, is sent an emissary from that Assembly, that hath already denounced ruin and destruction to America, to forward and superintend this meeting at Hillsborough, and to inflame it with the fatal example of said Philadelphia Congress—a part which he has entered upon with the most active zeal, after having often declared his principles averse to the cause in which he is engaged, thus exhibiting himself to the world a monstrous engine of double treason against his own conscience, and his King and Country. And whereas, I consider this is a most open and daring attempt to stir up unnatural rebellion in this Colony against His Majesty and his Government, I do hereby advise, forewarn, and exhort all His Majesty's subjects within this Province to forbear making any choice of Delegates to represent them in the proposed Convention at Hillsborough, as they would avoid the guilt of giving sanction to an illegal assembly, acting upon principles subversive of the happy Constitution of their Country, and that they, by every means in their power, oppose that dangerous and unconstitutional assembly, and resist its baneful influence. And whereas, to encourage the people to proceed in the treasons to which they have been blindly influenced and misled by the persons who have set themselves up for leaders among them, it has been represented, in order to inflame and render the people desperate, that they have offended past forgiveness, and that having no mercy to hope for from the King, their better chance is to prosecute their treasons to open rebellion and resistance of His Majesty and his Government, I think it proper, in tenderness and pity to the poor misguided multitude, and to obviate this abominable design of engaging them more deeply in transgression, hereby to offer, promise, and declare to all, each, and every of them, His Majesty's most gracious pardon for all violences done and committed to the date hereof, on their return to their duty to the King, and obedience to lawful Government, and renouncing their seditious and treasonable proceedings; and thereby offer ample reward and recompense to the people, or any of them, who shall yield and deliver up to me the few principal persons who seduced them to the treasonable outrages herein before-mentioned, to be dealt with according to law.

And whereas, the people in many places have been seduced to the choice and appointment of military officers among themselves, which is an usurpation and invasion of His Majesty's just and lawful prerogative; and whereas, no person whatever is entitled to hold, exercise, or enjoy any commission or authority over the Militia of this Colony, but such as are commissioned by His Majesty, or his Governour of this Province; and whereas, a certain John Ashe, herein before-named, who lately resigned to me his commission of Colonel in the Militia of the County of New-Hanover, has presumed to influence and conduct a body of armed men of the said County, and of other adjacent Counties, to the most daring and treasonable outrages; and a certain Robert Howes, alias Howe, hath also presumed, without commission from me, or any lawful authority, to take upon himself the style and title of Colonel, and to advertise and summon the Militia of the County of Brunswick to meet, in order to be trained to arms, I do hereby forewarn the people against any and every such election of officers to which they are or may be invited, and caution them against any obedience and regard to any persons who have been or may be so appointed and chosen, hereby declaring every such election illegal, unconstitutional, and null and void to all intents and purposes; and that the said John Ashe and Robert Howes, alias Howe, before-mentioned, and both of them, and every other person and persons who hath or have presumed to array the Militia, and to assemble them in arms within this Province, without any commission or authority, have invaded His Majesty's just and royal prerogative, and violated the laws of their Country, to which they will be answerable for the same.

And whereas, it is out of doubt that a majority of the people of this Colony, left to follow the impulses of their own hearts and understandings, are loyal and faithful subjects to His Majesty, and true and firm friends to the Constitution and Laws of their Country; and whereas, it appears that the assembling a Convention at Hillsborough will bring the affairs of this Country to a crisis which will make it necessary for every man to assert his principles, I do hereby conjure the good people of this Province, as they tender and regard the blessings of British subjects, that they do firmly persist and persevere in their duty and allegiance to His Majesty, hereby assuring them, in the King's name, and by His Majesty's authority, of his firm and determined resolution to maintain his faithful subjects in the full and free enjoyment of all their religious and civil rights, liberties, and privileges, and of His Majesty's utmost encouragement to them in the defence and support thereof against all enemies, rebels, and traitors whatsoever.

And I do hereby strictly require and command all His Majesty's Justices of the Peace, Sheriffs, and other officers, and all His Majesty's liege subjects, to exert themselves in the discovery of all seditious treasons and traitorous conspiracies, and of bringing to justice the principals and accomplices therein. And I do further strictly enjoin them to give all, and all manner of aid, countenance, assistance, and protection to all His Majesty's loyal and faithful people; and all persons are hereby required to take notice and govern themselves accordingly.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the said Province, on board His Majesty's Ship Cruiser, in Cape Fear River, this eighth day of August, Anno Domini 1775, and in the fifteenth year of His Majesty's reign.

JOSIAH MARTIN.

By his Excellency's command:

J. BIGGLESTON, D. Sec'y.

GOD save the King.

NORFOLK BOROUGH (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

Norfolk Borough Committee Chamber, August 8, 1775.

Whereas, it appears from undoubted testimony, that a certain John Schaw, of this Borough, did, in the presence of Lord Dunmore, officiously point out to the Soldiery at Gosport one Alexander Main, Fifer to one of the Volunteer Companies of this place, as a person who ought to be apprehended for his impudence (as the said Schaw expressed himself) in wearing a hunting-shirt in their presence, in consequence of which the unhappy man was apprehended, and is now, by his Lordship's order, confined on board the Otter, sloop-of-war; we therefore think it our duty to declare, that the said Schaw has herein shown himself a busy tool, and an enemy to American liberty, and as such, we advise every friend to his Country to have no further dealing or connection with him.

CAPTAIN HENRY B. LIVINGSTON TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Rhinebeck, August 8, 1775.

SIR: I have enlisted upwards of seventy-two men, some of whom have since deserted, and others have refused to appear. I now lack twelve men of the number prescribed me. I have kept those I have upon duty constantly from the time of their enlistment, and have them tolerably well disciplined. We are much in want of clothes, arms, shoes, &c. We are unfit for a march until we have these necessities; and some of my men who have families here, would be very unwilling to march until part of their pay is advanced to them. Several of them have been long upon duty, and their families want. I should be exceedingly obliged to you if you would make a proper representation of this matter to the Congress, and get our wants supplied. I am as yet ignorant of the name of my Colonel, or the Regiment to which I belong. This makes it difficult for me to know who to apply to for the aforementioned necessities. One of the men is very unwell, and at present incapable of duty; another has contracted the venereal disorder since I have enlisted him. I should be exceedingly glad to have directions how to proceed with these men, or any others who may hereafter be taken ill.

Sir, your most obedient humble servant,

HENRY B. LIVINGSTON.

To P. V. B. Livingston, New-York.

GENERAL MONTGOMERY TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Albany, August 8, 1775.

SIR: Finding by a letter from your Congress to the Committee here, that a return is required of the number of blankets wanting to furnish the Battalion raising in this quarter, and being extremely apprehensive the service will be retarded by such a delay, I venture to request by express, that the following articles may be forwarded with the utmost expedition, as without them the Regiment cannot possibly take the field, and General Schuyler is exceedingly anxious to be joined by the York Troops with the utmost despatch: 600 blankets, or something equivalent; 600 tomplines to carry packs; 130 camp-kettles; pouches for the whole Regiment; 88 stand of arms; a large quantity of shoes.

Should not all these articles be completed in a short time, I beg any proportion of them may be forwarded immediately which can be suddenly obtained.

I can't pass this opportunity of expressing my apprehensions, that some bad consequence may attend our indulgence to officers in His Majesty's service, and others whose principles are suspicious. You know, without doubt, that Captain Hutchinson left General Haldiman, and returned to Boston, after informing himself perfectly of our situation. It now appears, by the affidavit of a batteau-man, that Lieutenant-Colonel Allen McClean, (upon half pay,) who came to New-York about two months since in the packet, under pretence of taking up lands, and went to Boston on matters relative to that business, returned from thence to York, and passed in disguise through the country to Oswego, where he boasted of his exploit, put on a red coat, seemed to take upon him some command, and went to Canada with Colonel Guy Johnson. I must beg to refer you to a letter I had the honour of enclosing you the other day for Mr. Sears, touching some other suspicious persons. Should Mr. Sears not have been in the way, I beg you will open it. Mr. Sears's activity, zeal, and industry in the cause, induced me to trouble him on this occasion, well knowing you have more business than you can find time to go through.

I am, Sir, with the highest respect, your most obedient and very humble servant,

RICHD. MONTGOMERY, Brig. Gen.

To Peter Van B. Livingston, Esq.

P. S. As soon as any part of the First Regiment is ready, let them proceed.

We are told powder is no longer scarce. Tryon County wants it exceedingly. I have ventured to send them a little of what is come from Philadelphia.

COLONEL PHINEAS FANNING TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Oyster-Ponds, August 8, 1775, 12 o'clock at night.

SIR: This afternoon, at four o'clock, I received your orders of the 7th instant, agreeable to which I immediately went to the Militia to give them orders to be in readiness at a minute's warning; and on my way to the Oyster-Ponds I met an express from the Committee of the Oyster-Ponds to the Committee at Southold, informing them that this morning, at ten o'clock, the Ministerial Fleet, consisting of thirteen sail of square-rigged vessels, of which seven are ships, arrived from the west end of Fisher's Island, and came to an anchor off Gardiner's Island Point, where they now lie.

At five o'clock this afternoon, a small boat, which our people took to be a passage boat, detached Mr. Rufus Tuthill, who was landing about fifty sheep from Plumb Island, (he had landed about thirty on the north side of Oyster-Pond Point.) when said boat ran in shore and fired upon Mr. Tuthill, drove him from his boat, and immediately took his boat, with the remaining twenty sheep, and carried them off.

Upon receiving the express, I immediately sent an express to the officers of the Militia to repair to the Oyster-Ponds as quick as possible, as I look upon it they will make a descent upon Oyster-Ponds, Gardiner's Island, Plumb Island, Shelter Island, or upon all of them.

I am, Sir, your very humble servant,

PHINEAS FANNING.

To P. V. B. Livingston, Esq.

P. S. Sir, if any alteration should occur, you may depend on hearing as quick as possible. We are extremely in want of powder.

GOVERNOUR COOKE TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Providence, August 8, 1775.

SIR: Last evening Colonel Porter delivered me your letter of the 4th instant, to which I have paid all the attention the importance of it demands.

This Colony, the last fall, not confiding entirely in the precarious supply of powder that might be expected from the merchants, imported a considerable quantity, though not so large as was ordered. The supplying the inhabitants, who were in a manner utterly destitute, the Army near Boston, and our armed vessels, have so exhausted this stock, that the powder now left, which is all in this place, is greatly insufficient to resist even a short attack upon it. Our situation is the same with respect to lead, so that at present none of either article can be spared from the Colony.

By a vessel which arrived here on the 30th ultimo, from Cape François, we are informed that the Captain of the vessel sent from this port to the Cape for a quantity of warlike stores, in which the Committee of Safety for the Colony of the Massachusetts had interested themselves, had executed his commission, and was to sail with a large quantity in a day or two, so that she may be hourly expected. This Colony, about four weeks ago, despatched a suitable vessel, with money to purchase fifteen tons of powder and other warlike stores, which may also soon be expected. Of these vessels, we have the highest reason to think the enemy have gained intelligence, the ships-of-war upon this station having, for several days past, cruised continually off Block Island, and from thence to Montauk Point, and up the sound. This hath made us think it absolutely necessary to send the smallest of our armed sloops to cruise without the ships-of-war, and endeavour, at all hazards, to speak with the vessels expected with powder, and order them to another port. She will sail this day. The other armed sloop by her being within the river, prevents the cutters and barges from committing depredations, so that she cannot be spared; nor, indeed, is a vessel of her force required for the enterprise you mention. We have in this harbour a very fine sailing packet that would answer the purpose extremely well, which might be equipped with swivels, manned with about twenty men, and be ready to sail in less than two days. But as I do not think it prudent that her sole dependance should be upon getting powder at Bermuda, it will be necessary to send a sum of money to purchase a quantity at some other port, in case of a disappointment at Bermuda. In the present state of the Colony I do not think it probable that a sufficient sum can be procured here for that purpose before the sitting of the General Court of the Massachusetts-Bay to advance part of the sum necessary. I believe we may be able to supply one half the sum here.

Colonel Porter hath been at Bedford and along the Eastern shore, but can hear nothing of Harris. He is now bound as far as New-London, to endeavour to meet with him, but is greatly apprehensive that he is fallen into the hands of the enemy.

We have information that several ships-of-war and transports were the day before yesterday at New-London; and that the country round were all arming and mustering. We also hear that they have taken some stock off the east end of Long-Island.

Sensible of the great scarcity of lead in the country, I some time ago wrote to the Congress of the Massachusetts-Bay, and to our Delegates at the Continental Congress, recommending that a part of the large quantity of lead at Ticonderoga should be immediately brought down, and still think the measure necessary.

I shall immediately give orders to the Committee of Safety to purchase, for the use of the Colony, all the tow-cloth that can be had.

If the powder supposed to be at Bermuda be private property, it must be immediately paid for. If not, I imagine it will be settled with our other disputes. This is a matter that ought to be known and provided for.

Upon further consideration, I am very doubtful whether a vessel can be immediately provided with men here, and therefore am of opinion that twenty-five or thirty sailors had better be draughted from the Army, and held in readiness to embark immediately upon the arrival of Harris.

This letter waits upon you by my son, whom I beg leave to recommend to your favourable notice.

I am, with very great esteem, Sir, your most obedient and most humble servant,
NICHOLAS COOKE.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Lebanon, August 8, 1775.

SIR: I received your favour of the 4th instant; observe the contents. The new levies will come into camp in a short space, save that, on the present emergency, so large a fleet appearing on our coasts, I have ordered Colonel Webb to leave one Captain, with his Company, at New-Haven for the present, in addition to one quarter part of the trained soldiers of five of our Regiments lying on the sea-coasts and sound, to be officered, equipped, and in readiness to march at a minute's warning.

Yesterday letters were sent to our Commissaries to buy up all the tow-cloth in this Government, for the purpose you mention. The pattern will be sent from one to another, that suitable persons may be employed to make up the same, to be forwarded as directed.

It gave me pain to read your next paragraph, not having it in my power to afford further assistance, although it is hoped for and expected every day. But I have now the relief and pleasure to congratulate you on the supplies coming to you, and going to Ticonderoga and Crown Point.

I am, with great esteem and regard, Sir, your most obedient humble servant,
JONATHAN TRUMBULL.
General Washington.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Lebanon, August 8, 1775.

SIR: At nine last evening received your favour of 31st July last, enclosing letters to General Washington and Major-General Lee. Will forward them directly. Am alarmed at the delay in forwarding provisions. This morning, at seven o'clock, received your other of the 3d instant. Am encouraged to hope the obstacle relative to provisions will soon be removed. Tents for Colonel Hinman's Regiment I expect will be soon sent from New-York. For your information have enclosed copies of my correspondence with the Provincial Congress at New-York, with one paragraph of mine to the Delegates from this Colony at the honourable Congress, forwarded yesterday to Philadelphia.

On Wednesday, the 26th of July last, the Rose, Swan, and Kingfisher, ships-of-war, with a small tender, came to anchor before New-London. They chased a brigantine of Mr. Shaw's, outward bound, laden with cattle. She put about, and by the aid of a number of long-boats, got to Mr. Shaw's wharf, and landed the cattle about ten minutes before one of the King's barges came to her. The tender went the next day to the harbour's mouth, landed suddenly, broke off the nuts, and plugged up with files three or four cannon. Same day a number of the officers went upon Winthrop's Neck, viewed the ground and gun carriages there. At night, about ten or eleven o'clock, three or four barges paddled silently up, with design, as is supposed, to take off or destroy the carriages; but happily our people were too quick for them, had drawn and were drawing them away.

On Friday the ships weighed anchor, and we hear are returned to Newport.

On Sunday morning, at sunrise, appeared at New-London a fleet of ten sail at anchor, half way between Fisher's Island and the Light-House, viz: three men-of-war, five other ships, a brigantine, and schooner. They hove up anchor about six o'clock, and beat eastward on the first of the ebb for Fisher's Island Sound. It afterwards appeared there were fourteen sail. It is probable they have taken the stock off that Island. These are likely the same ships that lately sailed from Boston, which some feared were designed for Quebeck. From all my intelligence, cannot think that any ships or soldiers are gone from thence to Quebeck, or that any forces will arrive there very speedily from any quarter. It is my opinion the Ministry will not abandon their nefarious and hostile measures, nor is any speedy reconciliation to be expected. The dissolution of Parliament last fall, and their subsequent conduct, forbid such expectations.

Enclosed is a pamphlet containing the petition of West-India Planters and Merchants, with the evidence delivered thereon, and summed up by Mr. Glover.

Most sincerely wish every obstacle may be removed out of the way of your enterprise, that you may be able soon to conciliate the inhabitants of Canada with the rest of the United Colonies, and the Indians kept peaceable.

With my best wishes for your success, I am, &c.

JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

Honourable Major-General Schuyler.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Camp at Cambridge, August 8, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: It must give great concern to every considerate mind, that when this whole Continent, at a vast expense of blood and treasure, is endeavouring to establish its liberties on the most secure and solid foundations, not only by a laudable opposition of force to force, but denying itself the usual advantages of trade, there are men amongst us so basely sordid as to counteract all our exertions for the sake of a little gain. You cannot but have heard that the distresses of the Ministerial Troops for fresh provisions and many other necessities at Boston, were very great. It is a policy justifiable by all the laws of war to endeavour to increase them. Desertions, discouragement, and a dissatisfaction with the service, besides weakening their strength, are some of the natural consequences of such a situation, and if continued, might afford the fairest hope of success, without farther effusion of human blood.

A vessel cleared lately out of New-York for St. Croix, with fresh provisions and other articles, has just gone into Boston, instead of pursuing her voyage to the West-Indies. I have endeavoured to discover the name of the Captain or owner, but as yet without success. The owner, it is said, went to St. Croix before the vessel, from which, and her late arrival, I make no doubt you will be able to discover and expose the villain; and if you could fall upon some effectual measures to prevent the like in future, it would be doing a signal service to our common country.

I have been endeavouring, by every means in my power, to discover the future intentions of our enemy here. I find a general idea prevailing through the Army, and in the Town of Boston, that the Troops are soon to leave the Town, and go to some other part of the Continent; New-York is the place generally mentioned as their destination. I should think a rumour or suggestion of this kind worthy of very little notice, if it were not confirmed by some corresponding circumstances. But a four weeks total inactivity, with all their re-enforcements arrived and recruited, the daily diminution by desertions, sickness, and small skirmishes, induce an opinion that any effort they propose to make will be directed elsewhere.

I thought it proper to hint to you what is probably intended; you will then consider what regard is to be paid to it, and what steps it will be proper for you to take, if any.

I am, with great respect and regard, gentlemen, your most obedient and very humble servant,

GO. WASHINGTON.

The Honourable the Provincial Congress of the Province of New-York.

Cambridge, August 8, 1775.

Orders for Sergeant VARNUM, of Colonel BRIDGE's Regiment, in the MASSACHUSETTS Forces.

You are to proceed with the detachment under your command to Worcester, taking under your care and charge Peter Hanlan, Simpson Moore, and John Gale, Marines taken prisoners from the Ministerial Army. You are to deliver them to the Committee at Worcester, and the Chairman, or his Deputy there, will order them to be escorted by some of the Militia to Springfield, to remain in custody there until regularly discharged or exchanged, as may be hereafter directed. Richard Holland, a deserter from the Fourth Regiment, or Royal Welch Fusiliers, is to be permitted to pass where he pleases, upon his arrival at Worcester. As soon as you have done and performed this service, you are to return forthwith to camp.

Given at Head-Quarters, this 8th day of August, 1775.

HORATIO GATES, Adjutant General.

To whom it may concern.

Worcester, August 10, A. D. 1775.

Received of Sergeant Varnum, Peter Hanlan, Simpson Moore, and John Gale, Marines, prisoners, also Richard Holland, a deserter.

Received per

WM. YOUNG,

Chairman of Worcester Committee.

Springfield, August 23, 1775.

Received of William Young, Peter Hanlan, Simpson Moore, and John Gale; Henry Striker, sick on the road, to be received when he arrives.

NATHL. BREWER, Chairman.

Received of William Young, Andrew Hamilton.

ABNER SMITH.

JOHN CONNOLLY TO JOHN GIBSON.

Portsmouth, August 9, 1775.

DEAR SIR: I am safely arrived here, and am happy to the greatest degree in having so fortunately escaped the narrow inspection of my enemies, the enemies to their country, to good order, and to Government. I should esteem myself defective in point of friendship towards you, should I neglect to caution you to avoid an over zealous exertion of what is now so ridiculously called patriotick spirit; but, on the contrary, to deport yourself with that moderation for which you have been always remarkable, and which must, in this instance, tend to your honour and advantage. You may be assured from me, that nothing but the greatest unanimity now prevails at home, and that the innovating spirit amongst us here is looked upon as ungenerous and undutiful; and that the utmost exertions of the powers of Government, if necessary, will be used to convince the infatuated people of their folly. I could, I assure you, Sir, give you such convincing proofs of what I assert, and from which every reasonable person may conclude the effects, that nothing but madness could operate upon a man so far as to overlook his duty to the present Constitution, and to form unwarrantable associations with enthusiasts, whose ill-timed folly must draw upon them inevitable destruction.

His Lordship desires you to present his hand to Captain White Eyes, and to assure him that he is very sorry that he had not the pleasure of seeing him at the treaty, or that the situation of affairs prevented him from coming down.

Believe me, dear Sir, that I have no motive in writing my sentiments thus to you, farther than to endeavour to steer you clear of the misfortunes which, I am confident, must involve but unhappily too many.

I have sent you an address from the people of Great Britain to the people of America, and I desire you to consider it attentively, which will, I flatter myself, convince you of the idleness of many declarations, and of the absurdity of an intended slavery.

Give my love to George, and tell him he shall hear from me, and I hope to his advantage.

Interpret the enclosed speech to Captain White Eyes from his Lordship. Be prevailed upon to shun the popular error, and judge for yourself; act as a good subject, and expect the rewards due to your services.

I am, dear Sir, your sincere friend and servant,

JOHN CONNOLLY.

To Mr. John Gibson, near Fort Dunmore.

LORD DUNMORE TO CAPTAIN WHITE EYES.

Brother Captain WHITE EYES: I am glad to hear your good speeches sent me by Major Connolly, and you may be assured I shall put the one end of the belt which you have sent me into the hands of our great King, who will be glad to hear from his brothers, the Delawares, and will take a strong hold of it. You may rest satisfied that our foolish young men shall never be permitted to have your lands; but, on the contrary, the great King will protect you, and preserve you in the possession of them. Our young people in the country have been very foolish, and done many imprudent things, for which they soon must be sorry, and of which I make no doubt they have acquainted you; but I must desire you not to listen to them, as they would be willing that you should act equally foolish with themselves; but rather let what you hear pass in at one ear and out at the other, so that it may make no impression on your heart, until you hear from me fully, which shall be so soon as I can give you farther information, who am your friend and brother.

Captain White Eyes will please acquaint the Corn Stalk with these my sentiments; also, as well as the Chiefs of the Mingoes, and the other Six Nations.

Your sincere friend and elder brother,

DUNMORE.*

Philadelphia, August 9, 1775.

To the Spinners in this City, the Suburbs, and County:

Your services are now wanted to promote the American Manufactory, at the corner of Market and Ninth-streets, where cotton, wool, flax, &c., are delivered out. Strangers who apply are desired to bring a few lines, by way of recommendation, from some respectable person in their neighbourhood.

One distinguishing characteristic of an excellent woman, as given by the wisest of men is, "That she seeketh wool and flax, and worketh willingly with her hands; she layeth her hands to the spindle, and her hands holdeth the distaff." In this time of publick distress you have now, each of you, an opportunity not only to help to sustain your families, but likewise to cast your mite into the treasury of the publick good. The most feeble effort to help to save the State from ruin, when it is all you can do, is, as the widow's mite, entituled to the same reward as they who of their abundant abilities have cast in much.

GENERAL WOOSTER TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Oyster-Pond, August 9, 1775.

SIR: I have just time to acquaint your Honour that, by the request of the Provincial Congress of New-York, I yesterday embarked from New-York with four hundred and fifty men, and this afternoon arrived here. We find that the inhabitants are in great need of powder. There is none in New-York. I spared two hundred weight from my own stock, which was forwarded from New-York to this place, for the use of the York Provincials who were stationed here; of consequence our stock is reduced to about twenty rounds a man.

The Regulars have taken the cattle, sheep, &c., from Fisher's Island, and this day have employed themselves in the same business on Gardiner's Island; when they have got through with that we may expect them upon this.

I beg that your Honour would, with the greatest expedition possible, forward to me three hundred weight of powder, which I hope will be sufficient for the present exigency, both for our own Troops and the Militia here.

I am, Sir, in great haste, your Honour's most obedient humble servant,

DAVID WOOSTER.

Honourable Jonathan Trumbull, Esq.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM A GENTLEMAN OF PHILADELPHIA, DATED CAMBRIDGE, AUGUST 9, 1775.

We waited on General Washington, who I have the pleasure to inform you is much beloved and admired for his polite condescension and noble deportment. His appointment to the chief command has the general suffrage of all ranks of people here, which I think is no bad omen.

We viewed the lines, and were truly amazed at the extent and grandeur of the works, considering the short time in which they have been erected. The whole works from Winter Hill to Dorchester Neck, form a kind of semi-circle round Boston, Winter Hill being the northernmost; next comes Prospect Hill, very properly named from the fine prospect it affords, from its summit, of the Towns of Boston and Charlestown, the latter now in ashes, and nothing to be seen of that fine Town but chimneys and rubbish, having been burnt, as you know, about the twentieth of June, by the British barbarians; it affords also a distinct view of Bunker's Hill, about one mile distant therefrom. To the southward of this hill is a chain of breastworks and redoubts till you come to Cambridge River, from whence it is continued along by Roxbury and Dorchester Neck, being in the whole extent, as near as I can judge, about eight miles. The two hills appear to me almost impregnable, having forts within breastworks strongly picketed, and in many places planted with heavy cannon; add to these their natural strength from their great elevation. To the eastward of Winter Hill lies Penny-Ferry, where the said barbarians, out of mere wantonness, burnt a house a few days since, without any prospect of advantage to themselves. This day they have been blowing up the Castle; the explosions we could see from a high hill in the neighbourhood of Winnisimutt-Ferry.

The people bear their misfortunes with astonishing patience and magnanimity. It is no uncommon thing to see those who have lost one or two houses, and nearly all their effects, and some who have lost their all; yet you would discover nothing of this by their behaviour or countenances.

Gage has again agreed to let the people come out of Boston, but will not suffer more than two small boats to ply, which bring about twelve or fifteen in a day. The people say great pains are taken to persuade them to stay, by telling them that thirty thousand Hanoverians, thirty thousand Hessians, and as many Russians, are shortly expected, when they shall destroy all the Rebels at once.

We have an account from the eastward of our people having taken a man-of-war's tender, and one or two transports. The particulars are difficult to gather or ascertain; however, seven Marine officers are brought prisoners here, and are secured. There is just arrived an account of an engagement between our people and a man-of-war at Cape-Ann, wherein our people had the advantage; but no particulars that can be relied on are come to hand.

If any men-of-war or regular mercenaries should be sent to Philadelphia, I am in hopes my fellow-citizens will give a good account of them. I have pledged myself for their good behaviour.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM GERMANY, RECEIVED IN PHILADELPHIA, DATED AUGUST 10, 1775.

All Germany is fixed in admiration, wonder, and amazement, at the firm, determined, heroic spirit of the brave Americans, and are exceedingly pleased with the undaunted opposition they make against the several attacks of the formidable arms of England, employed to deprive them of their just rights to natural liberty, and to shackle them in chains of slavery and subjection ever after; and this will be the miserable consequence, should they subdue you by their fleets and armies.

Great numbers of the Germans live in America, and they highly experience, in that happy country, the sweets of freedom and liberty, and which they did not enjoy here under their petty arbitrary rulers. These men will exert every nerve in support of the righteous cause of freedom, so sweet to them. Their numerous friends and relations here are constantly and most ardently supplicating the great Divine Ruler of all events to interpose and assist you with the almighty arm, and to set at naught all the wicked enslaving attempts of your enemies. But they hope you will not fold your arms, and depend altogether on the efficacy of your praying friends, but that you will make use of defensive means. And they hope and believe that Providence will be propitious to your cause, which you have already had an earnest of, and that your oppressors may be discomfited. We wish, that as England is going to hire foreign troops, in vain hope of subduing you, (their own men becoming enervated and spiritless so soon as they tread American soil,) that they could obtain Germans to be sent on this errand; for in that case we foresee the event would turn in your favour, as you have an extensive country for Germans to cultivate, and no people love profitable labour better, or are better adapted for the purpose, (which America has long experienced,) and we know that they would soon drop their fire-arms and betake themselves to the cultivation of lands. We think highly of the wisdom of your American Congress, and of all their good regulations throughout that extensive Continent, and we cannot enough admire the decent, loyal, yet manly and spirited language contained in all their petitions and supplications to the Throne, and cannot enough detest the indecent treatment and scornful reception they have met with from those haughty men who guide all the movements of the Nation.

But we assure you that the unison cord has not been hit upon by your Congress, or all would, long ere this, have been well with America, and few would have known the true cause of the Army and Fleet returning to England. Two or three hundred thousand Pounds, judiciously applied, would have wrought this miracle and saved millions, which, for want of this knowledge, you are now expending in warlike preparations. France, Spain, Holland, and Germany, have long been acquainted with this prudent secret, and have frequently administered this specifick with the wished-for success. Money has removed mountains; it has turned the course of rapid rivers; it has built a barrier wall, to divide China from Tartary, of fifteen hundred miles in length; and surely it will influence the pliable yielding hearts of men. I hope this method will be adopted yet; it will never be unseasonable, for the English are as greedy and ravenous after money, as a hungry wolf is after a fat sheep. Their Kings are not proof against its fascinating charms, and we know that they have been bribed to the prejudice of England. Touch but Bute's palm and all will be right; he is the arch fiend, and has all the imps at his command. We believe him to be a Jesuit, and we know he is a blood relation of the banished Stuart King; and we believe he has been long working schemes to bring in one of that family to be again King of England. May his schemes all fail, and may he be transformed, not into a pillar of salt, but into a man of stone, as a lasting infamous monument for posterity to gaze upon.

NEWBERN (NORTH-CAROLINA) COMMITTEE.

Committee Chamber, Newbern, August 10, 1775.

The following Letters have fallen into the hands of this Committee. Their alarming tendency sufficiently apologizes for their publication. As Governour Martin stands singly as a Provincial Governour, in his unremitting ardour to commence hostilities against this Province, are ministerial orders to him different, or his officious zeal to injure the people of his Government prompted by any malevolent principles?

"North-Carolina, Cape Fear, June 13, 1775.

"MY DEAR SIR: I take the liberty to enclose herewith a letter to Mrs. Martin, whose safe arrival I am anxious to hear, the wind having been easterly almost ever since her departure.

"I shall be extremely obliged to you if you can send me, with the royal standard I mentioned to you some time ago, or without it if that is not to be had, a good tent and marquee, of the size of a Colonel's tent in the Army, with a tent-bed to fit the foot of it; and further, viz. mattress, holsters, and pillows, to be sent by any vessel bound to Cape-Fear River, or in default thereof to Newbern, directed to the care of Mr. Cornell.

"I should rejoice to see a prospect of a happy termination of the deplorable times, that more or less threaten the happiness of every man throughout the British dominions.

"My compliments and warmest good wishes attend you and Mrs. White, and all your family; and I am, dear Sir, ever yours,

JO. MARTIN.

"The Honourable Henry White, Esquire.

"I forbear to give you your due additions on the outside of my letter to obviate prying curiosity."

"Cruiser Sloop-of-War, Cape-Fear River, July 21, 1775.

"SIR: I have received your letter of the fifteenth instant by Mr. Cunningham, and highly approve your proper and spirited conduct, while I cannot sufficiently express my indignation and contempt of the proceedings of Captain-General Spencer and his unworthy confederates.

"You, and the other friends of Government, have only to stand your ground firmly, and unite against the seditious as they do against you, in firm assurance that you will be soon and effectually supported. I wait here to forward the purposes of the friends of Government, or I would have been among you. At a proper season you may depend I shall render myself among you, and in the mean time let nothing discourage you.

"The spirit of rebellion has lately received a most severe check in New-England, and I have not the least doubt that all that country is, by this time, entirely reduced by His Majesty's Army, which, by my latest advices, was carrying on its operations with the utmost vigour.

"Major Snead may be assured of my attention to all his wishes at a proper time.

"I beg my compliments may be presented to Colonel McDonald; and am, Sir, your most humble servant,

"JO. MARTIN.

"Lieutenant-Colonel James Cotton, Anson County."

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM A GENTLEMAN IN FINCASTLE, VIRGINIA, DATED AUGUST 10, 1775.

It appears that the Cherokees, after several iniquitous expedients, have been prevailed on to take up arms against this Colony. At first they were much averse to the business; but of late it appears otherwise; and a few days since they were to have a grand council, in which the business of going to war is to be ultimately determined. In a few days I shall have an account of the result of this council, which, if interesting, I will endeavour to transmit to you.

Winchester, Virginia, August 16, 1775.

By Capt. James Wood, who was deputed by our Assembly to invite the several Tribes of Ohio Indians to a treaty, to be held at Fort Pitt on the tenth of next month, and who returned last night, we learn that he had visited the Delawares, Shawanese, Senecas, Wyandots, and Tawas. That the commanding officer at Detroit, and deputy agent for Indian affairs, and Monsieur Baabee, a Frenchman, had sent belts and strings of wampum to seventeen Nations, including those above mentioned, informing them, unless they all united, the Virginians would take their country from them. That they purposed to attack them two different ways—one by the Ohio, the other by the Lakes. That the Virginians would invite them to a treaty, but that they ought by no means to go, as they (the Virginians) were a people not to be depended on. That many other diabolical artifices had been used by those tools of Government, to instigate these savages to attack our frontiers, particularly the Virginians, who were represented to them as a distinct people, and that their attacking them would not be resented by the other Colonies.

Captain Wood had this account first from the Delawares, who appeared friendly, and gave him the belt and string which had been sent them. All the other tribes confirmed this account, and promised to attend the treaty. The Shawanese assured him whatever they had received from Fort Detroit they had buried in the ground, never more to rise, but that the foolish Twightwees and Picts had accepted the belts. Chenusaw, one of the hostages who escaped from Williamsburgh some time ago, arrived at the Shawanese Town the day before Captain Wood. He had informed the Indians that all the people of Virginia were preparing for war, and determined to attack the Indians, except the Governour, whom the people had obliged to go on board of a man-of-war; that the hostage had discovered they were to be made slaves and sent to some other country, which he assigned as the reason for his escape. But on Captain Wood's explaining the matter to the Indians, they appeared entirely satisfied.

Captain JAMES WOOD'S information to the Committee of PITTSBURGH, AUGUST 10, 1775.

Mr. Wood informs the Committee that at Cushocton, a Delaware Town, on the 22d of July, he delivered a speech to the Chiefs of that place, inviting them to a treaty to be held at Pittsburgh the 10th of September; likewise he informed them that he understood that the Wyandots and French had lately been in Council with them, that they made a speech, and delivered a belt to them, and that he expected from the friendship that has for a long time subsisted between them and their elder brothers, the Virginians, that they would inform him what had passed between them. On the 23d of July, Newcomer and some other

Delaware Chiefs, delivered him a speech or answer to his of yesterday, in substance as follows:

"Thanking him for his speech, and that they would cheerfully meet the Virginians at the treaty; and to convince their brothers that they desire to live in the strictest friendship with them, they delivered to him a belt and string that was sent to them by an Englishman and a Frenchman from Detroit, with a message informing them that the people of Virginia are determined to strike them, and that they would come on them two ways, the one by way of the Lakes, and the other by the Ohio, and that the Virginians are determined to drive them off and take their lands from them; and that they must constantly be on their guard, and not pay any regard to what the Virginians would say to them, as they were a people not to be depended upon; and that the Virginians would invite them to a treaty, that they must not go by any means, and to take particular notice of the advice which they gave."

That he arrived at a Seneca Town the 25th of July, and found Logan there with some of the Mingoes that were prisoners at Fort Pitt. They all appeared very desirous to know his business. He called them together, and made the same speech to them that he did to the Delawares; they made no other answer than that they would acquaint the rest of their Nation with what he had said. These Indians appeared very angry, and behaved with great insolence to him. That on the 27th he delivered a speech to the Indians at the Wyandots Town, which was as follows:

"Brothers, the WYANDOTS and TAWAS: Your brothers of Virginia, in their Great Council, are desirous of brightening the chain of friendship between you and them; they have appointed Commissioners to meet the chiefs of the different Nations of Indians on the Ohio and the lakes, at Fort Pitt, in forty-six days from this time; and have ordered me to come to this place, to assure you that their hearts are good towards you, and that they hope to agree upon a peace with all the Indians, so that their children and ours may hereafter be in the greatest friendship; to give you a kind invitation to their Council Fire, and they will give you a hearty welcome. Brothers, it is with great concern I have lately heard that some people, whom I consider to be enemies as well to you as to us, have endeavoured to make you believe that the people of Virginia intend to strike your Nation; this you may depend upon is the greatest falsity, as I can, with truth, assure you, that they desire to live in strict friendship with all Indians, while they continue to live peaceably with us.

"Brothers, the TAWAS: It is with great pleasure I take this opportunity of speaking to you in the name of my countrymen, to return you thanks for the kind treatment given by your Nation to one of our young brothers, who was delivered into your hands last summer by the Shawanese, and to assure you that if any of your people should ever fall into our hands, they will meet with friendly treatment."

To which the War Post returned the following answer:

"Brothers, the BIG KNIFE: We have heard what you have said, and desire time till to-morrow afternoon to consider it, when we will meet you in the Council-House at the time mentioned."

The War Post, with six others, came to his camp. They told him they came to talk with him as friends; that they always understood the English had but one King, who lived over the great river, that they were much surprised lately to hear that we were at war with ourselves, and that we had several engagements at Boston, where a great many men were killed on both sides; and as they had heard many different stories, they would be glad to hear and know the truth. Captain Wood then explained to them the nature of the disputes, and acquainted them of the general union of all the Colonies, and undeceived them in an error he found the Wyandots had been led into, viz: that the Virginians were a people distinct from the other Colonies.

At the appointed time the War Post delivered the following answer to Captain Wood's speech of yesterday.

"Brother, the BIG KNIFE: You tell us you were sent to our Towns by the great men of Virginia, to let us know there is now a large Council Fire kindling at Fort-Pitt; that it would be ready in forty-six days, and that we should hear then and there every thing that was good. Brothers, we have listened to every thing you have said with great attention, and consider it well. We think it is good, and will immediately send over the lakes to our chiefs, and will be ruled in our determination by them. Brothers, I have nothing farther to say, than that it has always been a custom with us that whatever news we hear we immediately send it to our head-men, as we shall on this occasion."

He arrived at the Shawanese Towns on the 31st. He desired the headman to call the headmen of the different Towns together as soon as possible, that he had something to say to them from the headmen of Virginia. The headmen then informed him that Chenusaw, or the Judge, had returned home the night before; that he brought alarming accounts from Virginia, that all the people, except the Governour, were determined on war with the Indians; that the Governour was for peace, but was obliged to fly on board a ship; that the hostages found that they were to be made slaves and sent to some other country; that the white people were all preparing for war, and that they showed him many Indian scalps, amongst which the Wolf knew his brother's; upon which they determined, if possible, to make their escape, and accordingly set off all together in the night; that the next day, he, being behind the others at some distance, was seized by three men; that he heard them say they would kill him, and one of them began to load his gun, while the other two before the gun was loaded, held him by the arm, he found means to disengage himself and make his escape, leaving his gun and every thing else behind him; soon after, he heard several guns go off, and was sure that Cuttenwa and Newa were killed, as he had been sixty days travelling, and had heard nothing of them. Captain Wood told the headmen that the most of what Chenusaw, or the Judge, told him was false; and that he would be glad if he would send for him, which he did. As soon as he came Captain Wood explained the whole matter to him and many more Indians, and informed them Cuttenwa and Newa were both well, and on the road; and that they were bringing his clothes, and what other things he left behind him; and that it was very unlucky for him he did not turn back as the others did, and have a horse and a saddle to ride home as the others had.

On the first of August he inquired of sundry squaws concerning the speeches and belis sent to the Shawanese by the French at Detroit. They all gave the same accounts he had received before, with this addition, that the Picts and Twightwees had accepted the belts, but that the Shawanese had dug a hole in the ground, and buried them never to rise again.

The 2d of August he delivered a speech to the Shawanese, the same in substance to what he had delivered to other Nations. He explained the nature of the dispute with Lord Dunmore, and convinced them that Chenusaw had not told the truth, and likewise explained to them the nature of the dispute with Great Britain. The headman returned them the following answer:

"Brother, the BIG KNIFE: I am very thankful, as well as all my friends, who are now present, for your good speech this day delivered to us at our Council Fire. It gives us great pleasure to think that our brothers, the Big Knife, have not forgot us; and that we will have an opportunity of talking to them in friendship at the time you mention. We are much obliged to our brothers, the Big Knife, for their care in directing all their people to let our brother Chenusaw come to us. His coming away in the manner he did proceeded from a mistake. We are fully satisfied with what you have told us, and hope you will not think hard of us for his bad behaviour."

PETER T. CURTENIUS TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-York, August 10, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: I was yesterday informed by a member of the Continental Congress, that not a shilling of the Continental money would be paid, or even lent to pay, for the clothing or guns which I have purchased on the publick credit. If so, I shall be in a very disagreeable situation, because there is no fund established by the Provincial Congress as yet for that purpose. The goods I have purchased are all on the credit of the Provincial Congress, on condition to pay for them as soon as the Continental money came in my hands. As soon as it arrives, I shall have about three hundred persons calling on me for their money. Those I have purchased clothing from must be sent back without money, the consequence of which will be, abuse for deceiving them. Figure to yourselves the situation I shall be in. I hope some plan will be fallen on to borrow the money to pay for the clothing and making, or else I must lock myself up. I have stopped the gunsmiths this morning from purchasing any more guns, because they can't get any without the cash, and I have none to pay for them, having already advanced out of my pocket, in cash and goods, little short of one thousand Pounds.

My clerk is returned from Philadelphia, and informs me that he can get from Thomas and Isaac Wharton, blankets, watch-coats, &c., to the amount of eleven hundred and thirty-five Pounds, ten Shillings, and three Pence, Pennsylvania currency, (particulars as per invoice enclosed,) upon condition that I take the whole and pay for them before they are delivered out of their store.

As to duck, none can be had; drillings he could get about twenty or thirty pieces, price two shillings and four pence cash, and three shillings per yard on the credit of the Congress. The merchants here made no such conditions or distinctions. Several have been so generous as to sell their goods under what they could get for them from individuals, and as to provisions and blacksmith's work, I bought all at cash price.

I am, Gentlemen, your most obedient servant,

PETER T. CURTENIUS.

To the Members of the New-York Provincial Congress.

JOHN MCKESSON TO COLONEL PHINEAS FANNING.

New-York, August 10, 1775.

SIR: The Provincial Congress is favoured with your letter of the 8th instant, and are much obliged by the intelligence. The Congress is sorry to inform you that any farther supply of gunpowder is not to be procured at present. The powder, ball, and flints, sent by Mr. Foster and Mr. Clarke, are at your disposal, in the whole, two hundred and thirty-three pounds and a half of powder, and six hundred pounds of ball. If you should think it necessary to put any of this ammunition into the hands of the Militia, please to take care that they pay for the same.

Wishing you success, I am, most respectfully, your most obedient humble servant,

JOHN MCKESSON.

To Colonel Phineas Fanning, Southold.

HENRY B. LIVINGSTON TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Claremont, August 10, 1775.

SIR: I wrote to you yesterday, in a great hurry, before I had notice of the arrival of the clothes for the Troops at this place, which, to my great surprise, I find to be only a regimental coat and a blanket for each man; no hat, shirt, waistcoat, breeches, stockings, or shoes. All these things we have been led to expect from the tenour of our instructions for enlisting men, wherein we are directed to observe, "That the Troops raised by this Colony will be placed precisely upon the same footing, with respect to pay, clothing, &c., with other the Continental Troops now raised, or hereafter to be raised for the general defence." We did not know, with certainty, how the Continental Forces were to be supplied, but conjectured that they were to be furnished with every necessary, till some of our late papers came to hand, in which we observed the Captains for New-York had placed an advertisement, setting forth that volunteers in this service would be allowed one shilling, eleven pence per day, and a suit of clothes, arms, &c., to be found them; this was not contradicted by the Congress. Can the gentlemen who compose it conceive no necessity for a supply of shoes to a body of men who are to march two hundred and fifty miles through a rough country, (how much farther I know not,) or can they think that a regimental coat will make them uniform, when some of them have waistcoats, others none; some trowsers, others none; some hats, others without; some ragged, others whole. Want of decent clothing, I fear, will oblige many to desert the service who have engaged in it from principle, and with the sole view of extricating this country from its present difficulties. However, if it be the sense of the Congress that the Troops are to be furnished with these necessaries from their pay, and they think proper to advance it for that purpose, I will endeavour to bring the men in my company to agree to it, though I can't help thinking it will be a difficult task, as they are much displeased at the parsimony of the Congress; it has been very near creating a mutiny in my company already. This I have thought it my duty, as an officer, to mention to you, that if the Congress think it merits attention, they may have it in their power to apply a remedy in time.

Having thus fully laid before you the reasons for dissatisfaction among the men, I will now mention to you a circumstance that has given no little uneasiness to the officers of our Battalion. I have been offered the appointment of a Major to the Regiment to which I belong, and also of one other to the Third Battalion. I am much at a loss to account for the indignity that has been offered me in both these appointments, and fear that the Congress have imbibed some undeserved prejudices against me. By the Crown I was thought qualified, two years ago, for a majority, since which I have made it an object of some attention to fit myself for that station; though I must confess that I by no means think myself equal to the task, and therefore should readily have acquiesced in the nomination of gentlemen more experienced than myself. But when persons that have had the advantage of no experience are advanced from a lieutenancy over the head of a Major, it carries either the highest compliment to their abilities, or the greatest reflection on his. To the first I am so far from objecting, that I rejoice at the early dawning of that superior genius, in which the Congress see the want of experience so amply compensated, and the idea of the last excites a sensation which I do not care to express. I will only observe, that as a sense of duty, and a regard to the interests of this country, were the only motives that induced me to enter into the service, so the same principles will continue me in it till the Congress can with convenience supply my place, when I shall rejoice in my dismissal. In the meanwhile, as I know myself superior to little piques, I shall take care that they do not discover themselves in my conduct.

I remain, with all imaginable respect, your most obedient humble servant,

HENRY B. LIVINGSTON.

N. B. Lieutenant Paddock, my Second Lieutenant, has had my orders to be with me a fortnight ago. If he should not come, I should be glad to have John Banks, who is now with me as a common soldier, in his room. He is a man well qualified for a captaincy, and has seen a great deal of service last war.

GENERAL MONTGOMERY TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Albany, August 10, 1775.

SIR: The first division of the York Troops are arrived, but without powder; by accident it is in my power to furnish them. I beg that powder may be sent at the rate of a quarter of a pound per man, for the Troops destined for this route. As it is very improper they should march to Ticonderoga without it, I have been obliged to supply this division from a small reserve I had made for Tryon County, out of that which lately arrived from Philadelphia.

I am, Sir, with great respect, your most obedient servant,
RICHARD MONTGOMERY.

ALBANY COMMITTEE TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Albany Committee Chamber, August 10, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: We find ourselves once more obliged to trouble you with respect to the soldiers who were taken prisoners at St. John's, who have been furnished with provisions by Elisha Phelps, Esq., Commissary, appointed by the Governour of Connecticut, till a few days ago, when Mr. Phelps went into Connecticut upon business, and left no order with his Deputy to supply them, who being unwilling to supply them without orders from our Board, spoke to the Chairman, who told him he thought, as the Army was now properly organized, it was their business to give orders concerning prisoners, and referred him to Gen. Montgomery, who, as the said Deputy informed us, found much fault with their insolence, and thought it improper that they should be suffered to remain in this Town, as being a frontier place, where they might do disservice to the publick cause, and therefore declined doing any thing in the affair. Upon which Mr. Phelps's Deputy made application to us again, advising us at the same time, that the soldiers were so insolent as to threaten to take provisions by force if he refused to supply them. We have come to the resolution to supply them as formerly, till we have your further instructions in the premises.

We are, Gentlemen, your humble servants. By order of the Committee:

ABRAHAM YATES, JUN., Chairman.

To the Provincial Congress of the Colony of New-York.

R. McDONALD TO ALBANY COMMITTEE.

Albany, August 10, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: I am heartily sorry that I have to trouble you; these few lines will inform you of our situation at present. We are here as prisoners, and get nothing to support us. We think it a very hard case. We applied to the Commissary's Clerk, who told us that he had nothing for us. We have fasted for some days, and therefore I hope that you will take it into consideration and get us some supply. If so be that you will not look into it, we must get it where we can come athwart it.

Gentlemen, your humble servant,

R. McDONALD, Sergeant 26th Regiment.

The Gentlemen Committee.

DR. JOHN WILLIAMS TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Albany, August 10, 1775.

SIR: I arrived here in order to devise with Colonel Van Schaick how the medicines were to be obtained for the use of his Battalion, and, upon inquiry, I found Mr. Stephen McCrey was appointed Surgeon, at which I was greatly surprised, as my name was entered in the arrangement at the Provincial Congress before their late adjournment. Mr. Sylvester acquaints me that all the Surgeons were to pass an examination, which I would very readily have undergone. I cannot discover whence the partiality has arisen in regard to placing one in my room, after being already appointed, and had already planned my business accordingly.

As to my abilities, they are well known in this part of the country, and my practice is very extensive, particularly in surgery; and I have now a wounded man from Ticonderoga under my care, which has been given over by the Surgeons there, and hope in a few days I shall discharge him perfectly sound.

I have walked St. Thomas's Hospital, in London, one year, and can produce my diploma, certifying the same, which I look upon as a sufficient recommendation to my appointment, exclusive of being first mate in a man-of-war. I would have come down to York were it not for a crowd of business interrupting me. However, if it is required, I will immediately repair to New-York, or be examined by the Surgeons of those battalions now, or to be at Ticonderoga. Likewise I have amputating and all kinds of instruments fit for a campaign.

I am, with great respect, your very humble servant,

JOHN WILLIAMS.

To John McKesson, Esquire, Secretary in Provincial Congress, New-York.

When the report was made by the Committee appointed for the arrangement of officers in the New-York proportion of Continental Troops, to the best of my recollection I saw John Williams's name thereon as Surgeon of the Albany Regiment. While the report was under consideration, some person was proposed in the room of Mr. Williams, which I objected to upon this principle, that Mr. Williams was one of that Committee; that it ought to be presumed that the gentlemen who composed that Committee would not offer to nominate any person to such a place of trust and confidence, unless they were satisfied of his skill and abilities from their own knowledge, or the recommendation of others; and as he stood on the list of nominations, and was then absent, it would not be civil treatment to strike him off so hastily. It was then mentioned that he should not stand confirmed as Surgeon without a previous examination; which being reasonable, I consented and approved of it. In this situation that matter remained when the Congress adjourned, as far as I know or believe, and I know of no other appointment, change, or alteration of Surgeon, till I am now informed of it.

P. SILVESTER.

August 10, 1775.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Camp at Cambridge, August 10, 1775.

SIR: Your favour of the second instant is duly received, but it is out of my power to comply with the request it contains of forwarding commissions. All those I have yet received from the honourable Continental Congress are far short of the number required in this Army; for which reason, when at New-York, and by letter from this, I directed General Schuyler to apply to the Congress at Philadelphia for those of his department, as the shortest and easiest mode, to which I must also now refer you.

We have had no occurrence in the camp for several days worthy of notice.* But by some advices from Boston, and * Extract of a Letter from an Officer in the Army at Boston to his friend in London, dated August 12, 1775.

I shall give you some account of a most glorious victory obtained by the King's Troops over the Rebel Army on the seventh instant. On the preceding day it was resolved to attack the enemy on Roxbury Hill. The difficulty of the attempt was easily foreseen, but, if successful, the glory obtained would be immortal. Agreeable to the resolution, early in the morning General Gage detached five thousand chosen men under the command of General Hove. It being dark when we began our march, and the carelessness of the enemy's advanced guard favouring our design, we were close at the enemy's lines before they had the least knowledge of our motion. The consternation that ensued upon the discovery is not easily described, nor shall I attempt it, that through the bravery of our officers, and the intrepidity of our soldiers, we forced the enemy's intrenchments with a slaughter dreadful to think of. The number of the enemy killed is not exactly known, but we have made twenty-five hundred prisoners; amongst whom are General Putnam, General Lee, and several other officers of rank in the Rebel Army, who, in general, behaved with great resolution during the engagement. Our loss is very considerable, as the manner in which we attacked them into such immediate confusion on all sides, that they were unable to make any great resistance. Our greatest loss is by the death of a few brave officers, who fell in forcing the intrenchments. Among these is Colonel Pigot, whose conduct has gained his immortal honour. We have about one hundred and fifty men killed, and as many wounded. We have taken a considerable quantity of ammunition and military stores, as well as their cannon and every thing in the camp.

The glory which the Generals Hove and Burgoyne have acquired, will be recorded to the latest posterity; nor could any thing be more judicious than the disposition of our Troops, which was so well contrived that we attacked the enemy on all quarters at once with irresistible fury.

What will be the consequence of this overthrow is not yet known; but it has so far disabled the Rebels, that it will be impossible for them to take the field again for some time.

I am sorry my time will not permit me to give you a more circumstantial account, at present, of this very memorable action, but I will write again as soon as things are a little settled. At present the confusion is very great; provisions are tolerable plenty but dear. Our several concurring circumstances, we have great reason to suspect a part, or the whole of the Ministerial Troops are about to move. New-York is the place generally talked of as their destination. I give you the intelligence as it came to me, but do not vouch for its authenticity.

I am, with the most respectful regards to yourself and the body over whom you preside, your most obedient and very humble servant,
GO. WASHINGTON.

The Honourable Peter Van Brugh Livingston, Esquire,
President of the Provincial Congress at New-York.

TO HIS EXCELLENCY GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Winter Hill, August 10, 1775.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY: Whereas, your Excellency was pleased, in the orders of yesterday, to signify your Excellency's will and pleasure to have the names of those gentlemen who behaved themselves more valiant, bold, and brave than common in the late engagement on Bunker's Hill, in Charlestown; and as there are vacancies in the several Regiments, that your Excellency would use your endeavour to have them commissioned, if they are not commissioned, or promoted if they are, provided their good conduct be sufficiently evidenced.

We, therefore, beg that we, whose names are hereunto subscribed, may lay before your Excellency the conduct and undaunted courage of William Lee, of Colonel Reid's Regiment, who did service in the late engagement on said Bunker's Hill. The said William Lee not only fought well himself, but gave good advice to the men to place themselves in right order, and to stand their ground well. The said William Lee, belonging to Captain Spaulding's Company in Colonel Reid's Regiment, is the first Orderly Sergeant of Captain Spaulding's Company; and as men are in high spirits, and greatly flushed with their unparalleled victory.—London Publick Advertiser, September 12, 1775.

Extract of a Letter from a Gentleman at BOSTON, dated AUGUST 10, 1775.

On the 7th instant General Gage detached five thousand chosen men before the break of day, under the command of Generals Howe and Burgoyne, to attack the Provincials in their camp. They marched with the greatest expedition and silence, and being favoured by the negligence of the enemy, were close at the intrenchments before they were perceived, which they forced after a very spirited resistance; but the panic which the suddenness and unexpectedness of their attack occasioned, threw our gallant Provincials into unavoidable confusion. The King's forces found in the camp a vast deal of ammunition, &c., together with six thousand stand of small-arms, thirteen field-pieces, sixteen twenty-four pounders, and twenty-four twelve pounders, besides a vast quantity of provisions, and one hundred thousand pounds in specie. The loss of the King's Troops is computed at about four hundred, killed and wounded, and the loss of the Provincials between two and three thousand taken prisoners; the number killed is not exactly known, but must be great. General Putnam and General Lee are taken prisoners, and many more Provincial officers of note.

I would give you a fuller account, but imagine you will have received despatches before this. Nothing but consternation reigns in this devoted City, which, from plenty and affluence, is reduced to a state of poverty, misery, and destruction.—London Publick Advertiser, September 12, 1775.

Extract of a Letter from a Lady in BOSTON to her friend in CHESTER, (ENGLAND,) dated AUGUST 10, 1775.

We are subject to continual alarms and cannonadings, the Provincials being very audacious, and advancing near to our lines, since the arrival of General Washington and Lee to command them. Believe me, I welcome the dawn of the day every morning, upon finding the Town is not in flames. The night of the 29th ultimo, at Charlestown Neck, where General Howe commands, an attack was made on our out-posts, and seven of our soldiers were killed and missing. Eighty Provincials attacked twelve of them. Two thousand men from New-York, and as many from Virginia, have joined the Provincial Army in New-England. The enemy's intrenchments are extended many miles, one beyond another, two or three deep. They have plenty of fresh provisions, but want salt to season it. They were short of ammunition, but have got a supply of that and artillery, above forty pieces of cannon, and several mortars. It is said they are very sickly; the putrid fever, small-pox, and dysentery prevail amongst them. The transports which were expected are arrived, and General Grant came in the last on the 29th ult. Every body that can is quitting this place. Many families are embarking for England to settle there.

We were roused about one o'clock in the morning of the 31st ult., by the most dreadful cannonading I ever heard. It seemed to be a general attack on all sides round us. It is impossible to convey an idea how terrible it was in the dead of night, with the apprehensions that naturally seize every one, either of the enemy breaking in, or the Town being set on fire. It appears that they attempted again to cut off our out-posts, upon which General Howe attacked their intrenchments with cannon and bombs on that side; and we attacked them in several places besides at the same time, all in the dark. Our loss is small, the enemy's much greater. They have destroyed (a second time) the Light-house this morning, and taken above fifty men from thence. It is said they killed the commanding officer there in cold blood.—London, October 7, 1775.

there is a vacancy in the same company by a Lieutenant's death, it is desired for the Ensign to take his place, and Sergeant Lee to take the Ensign's or Second Lieutenant's. This is desired by the subscribers if your Excellency sees fit to grant it.

Mention has been made in the New-London papers of the gallant and intrepid behaviour of Captain Knowlton, Captain Coit, and Lieutenants Dana and Hide, in the late engagement at Bunker's Hill. I think it highly reasonable, that the names of all those officers, who by real and solid merit distinguished themselves in that action, should be recorded with honour, and had in everlasting remembrance by their countrymen; this is a tribute which a proper regard to merit, the dictates of justice and self-preservation, seem to require. I shall therefore proceed to mention a few persons (whose names I have obtained) that signalized themselves on this occasion, and whose conduct in the battle aforesaid has not been publickly noticed, hoping some friend to his Country will do justice to all as soon as they are known. In this list of heroes it is needless to expatiate on the character and bravery of Major-General Putnam, whose capacity to form and execute great designs is known through Europe, and whose undaunted courage and martial abilities strike terror through all the hosts of Midianites, and have raised him to an incredible height in the esteem and friendship of his American brethren; it is sufficient to say, that he seems to be inspired by God Almighty with a military genius, and formed to work wonders in the sight of those uncircumcised Philistines at Boston and Bunker's Hill, who attempt to ravage this Country, and defy the armies of the living God. Major John Chester, of Weathersfield, now Captain of a company in Gen. Spencer's Regiment, and Lieutenant Samuel Webb, who marched up to the lines with their men, and re-enforced the Troops, by their undaunted behaviour, timely and vigorous assistance, it is universally agreed, are justly entitled to the grateful acknowledgments of their Country. Capt. John Kyes, of Ashford, who is First Lieutenant in Capt. Knowlton's Company, and was on the left wing with him during the action, fought with spirit and invincible resolution; for the truth of this fact, I appeal to Capt. Knowlton himself, who was on the same wing and an eye witness to his martial spirit, animating and heroick behaviour. Lieutenant Thomas Grosvenor, of Pomfret, also merits a tribute of thanks for his valiant conduct in charging the enemy closely, and maintaining his ground like a hero, till disabled for action and forced to retire by reason of a wound received in one of his hands. Nor can I, without manifest injustice, pass over in silence the spirited and heroick actions of Lieutenant Bingham, of Norwich, and Ensign Bill, of Lebanon, who gave full proof of their courage and martial fire on that important day. These, with many other officers, perhaps, whose names are not yet publickly known, together with the soldiery under their command, beyond all question acquitted themselves with honour, and fought manfully for their Country and the Cities of God.

A FRIEND TO TRUTH.

MASSACHUSETTS ASSEMBLY.

Colony of the Massachusetts Bay, }
Watertown, August 10, 1775. }

The Committee of both Houses of Assembly, appointed to take into consideration a letter from his Excellency General Washington, with one enclosed from Gen. Greene, representing that one Captain Thomas Cowden, of Fitch- burgh, hath been soliciting an office in the Army of the United Colonies raised for the defence of American liberty, and that he hath invariably opposed every measure pursued for the restoration of our violated privileges; especially when the veins of our heroick countrymen were inhumanly opened at Lexington and Concord, he exerted himself in preventing that succour and relief which justice immediately called for; having taken said letters, and the evidences exhibited against him into consideration, and given the said Cowden a fair hearing in defence, do find it clearly proved, that the said Cowden hath heretofore been a constant opposer of the publick measures taken for the security of our violated rights, so far as he conveniently could, whereby he hath forfeited the affection and confidence of his Town, and they have justly considered him as inimical to his Country. And notwithstanding he professes a full conviction of his past errors and misconduct, the most sincere contrition for the same, a hearty friendship for his Country, willingness to risk life and fortune in its defence, humbly implores forgiveness of the General Assembly and his Country, and in the most solemn manner promises amendment and reformation, the sincerity of which hath of late in some measure been evidenced by an apparent friendly exertion with his countrymen, and a kind entertainment of the soldiery, and especially by discovering a great abhorrence of and indignation against that grand deceiver and betrayer of his Country, whose name and letters are equally execrated by all good men; yet the absolute necessity of taking the most effectual care that the Army be supplied with no officer but of known integrity and well approved friendship for the liberties of this Country, as well as of martial abilities and good courage, induce us to forbear recommending him as a person at present fit to be entrusted with a commission in the service.

Nevertheless, we humbly apprehend the voluntary confession by himself made, subscribed, and herewith exhibited, his solemn engagements to behave well for the future, and his late kindness to the soldiery, being some evidence of a reformation, render it safe and proper that he should be released from his present confinement, and allowed to return to his family and estate in peace, and that he ought, and hereby is recommended to the forgiveness and protection of his countrymen. And that a copy of this Report be given to said Cowden for his own security against the further resentment of the publick for his past offences, and that he have leave to publish the same, with his confession, if he sees fit, and that a copy thereof be sent to his Excellency General Washington in answer to his letter.

CONFESSION OF THOMAS COWDEN.

Watertown, August 8, 1775.

Whereas, I, Thomas Cowden, of Fitchburgh, in the County of Worcester, have been by many good people of this Province accused of being inimical to my Country, for the removal of which accusation I do now acknowledge that in some things I have acted very imprudently; as,

First: By allowing hands under me to work on the Publick Fast recommended by the Association of Boston Ministers.

Secondly: By speaking diminutively of the County Congress at Worcester, in which they recommended to the people not to take Hicks and Mills's paper.

Thirdly: By endeavouring to hinder two persons who were at work at a frame for me, to go down when the publick alarm was at Lexington.

Fourthly: By not sufficiently encouraging people to sign the Covenant.

Fifthly: By being too backward in Town affairs with regard to the liberties of the Country.

For all which I am truly sorry, beg the forgiveness of the honourable Board and House of Representatives, and all the good people of this Country, who have been aggrieved or offended thereby; yet in justice to myself I must say, that in these things I erred through judgment, not will, and am now ready to convince the world of this solemn declaration, not only by word and interest, but even by exposing my life itself if my Country calls me thereto.

THOMAS COWDEN.

COL. JEDEDIAH HUNTINGTON TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Camp at Roxbury, August 10, 1775.

HONoured SIR: I received your favour per post yesterday; am much obliged for the commissions and the intelligence respecting the men-of-war, &c., off New-London. I hope the worst consequence of their appearance will be the loss of ammunition that will be dealt out upon the occasion. There has been an affray between the man-of-war at Cape-Ann and the inhabitants; the former had taken a vessel from sea, which the latter retook and secured the cargo and vessel; afterwards two more in like circumstances, and gave the man-of-war so good a beating as to induce her to leave the port, but not without destroying and damaging a few houses.

I hope my brother will be successful in procuring the flour he is gone to purchase. The Connecticut Troops, whose provisions are thrown into common stock, do not like it very well that they are to help to eat up a large quantity of rye purchased for this Province. The new regulations in this camp in many things give uneasiness; but I hope and believe that when the Commissary-General has got his channels open, supplies will flow regularly and in plenty; at present they have not that provision which the Colony stands engaged for. All my companies are in except Tyler's, Rowley's, and Lyon's, part in tents, others in houses for want of tents. This day a return is to be made to head-quarters of all our covering, upon which I expect better provision will be made in that article. Our dangers are increasing; it behooves our land, and the Army in special, to have their eyes upon God, and trust in him. I desire your prayers that I may be faithful.

My love to mother, son, &c.; and am your dutiful and affectionate son,

JED. HUNTINGTON.

To Governour Trumbull.

New-London, August 11, 1775.

We hear from Westmoreland, in the western part of this Colony, that last Tuesday se'nnight about fifty Indians of the Six Nations came to that place, and encamped at a small distance from the settlement; the next day they came in and delivered a message, which was to this purpose: "That they were sorry to hear of the difference which subsisted between Great Britain and the Colonies; that they should not take up the hatchet on either side; that they meant to be at peace with the English as long as the stream ran down the Susquehannah River; that should differences in future arise between us and them, they would try every gentle and healing measure to obtain redress of the grievances; that as Colonel Guy Johnson had left his habitation, and they were destitute of a Superintendent, they desire Colonel Butler to take upon him that trust; and that the place for holding their future Congresses might be Westmoreland."

CAPTAIN BROOME TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

King's Bridge, August 11, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Some time past, while I was gone to our Provincial camp near Boston, an unhappy difference happened on a field day, between the Fusiliers now commanded by Henry G. Livingston, Esq., and my company. As such disputes might greatly injure the cause in which we are all engaged, and to prevent the like for the future, I last night withdrew my company from Colonel Lasher's Battalion. I am now on a journey to New-England; when I return I shall with pleasure join any other battalion, and act in any station you may please to assign me, in which I can best serve my Country. I take the liberty to give you this early information of the part I have acted, and what were my motives, lest any unfavourable impressions might be made upon your minds respecting my conduct.

I am, with great respect, Gentlemen, your most humble servant,

SAMUEL BROOME.

To the Gentlemen of the Provincial Congress, New-York.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO ALBANY COMMITTEE.

Ticonderoga, August 11, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: A party of our men fell in with Mr. White, Sheriff of Tryon County, accompanied with three white men and as many Indians at Mr. Gilliland's; they were secured and brought up here.

The Indians I have set at liberty, but lest any insult should be offered them, I have ordered an officer and a small party to attend them to Albany; and to convince them that no evil was intended them, I have desired them to call on you, and that you should make them a present, which I beg you to do, and call on Mr. Livingston for the money to pay it.

The sentiments thrown out by Mr. White and the other white men, are of so dangerous a nature that it may possibly be imprudent even to let Clement and Bone return to the Mohawk's country; but of this you are the most proper judges, as you can determine with more precision than I what the effects would be with the Mohawks if they should be detained, and you will act accordingly.

White and the other man I wish to have sent down under a guard to the Provincial Congress at New-York, and I beg that you will please to forward them.

I enclose you copies of two letters from Sir John Johnson; as also the examination of some of the party who took White and his party.

I am, Gentlemen, your most obedient and very humble servant,

PH. SCHUYLER.

To the Committee of Albany.

GOVERNOUR COOKE TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Providence, August 11, 1775.

SIR: Since my last to you, Mr. Ward, one of the delegates, hath returned from Congress. He informs me that some of the Bermudians had been at Philadelphia soliciting for liberty to import provisions for the use of the island. They gave information of the powder mentioned in your letter to me, and were of opinion it might easily be obtained. They were told by the delegates that every vessel they should send to the northward with powder, should be permitted to carry provisions to the island. Whether their situation will not probably prevent them from bringing the powder, I submit to your Excellency.

Mr. Porter and Mr. Harris are both here. To Mr. Porter, who can fully inform you in the matter, I refer you.

I have forwarded about thirteen hundred pounds of lead, which is all that can be procured at present, that article being extremely scarce among us. In my last to you I mentioned that I thought it might be brought from Ticonderoga with more ease than it can be procured in any other way, and am still of the same opinion.

I have given orders to the Committee of Safety to purchase all the tow-cloth that is to be bought in the Government, but am afraid the quantity will be small, the scarcity of coarse linens in the Colony having occasioned a great use of that article in families.

I am, with great esteem, Sir, your Excellency's most obedient humble servant,

NICH. COOKE.

General Washington.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Lebanon, August 11, 1775.

SIR: Yesterday twelve o'clock received your letter by Major Johnson; immediately gave the necessary directions. Some companies I ordered to New-London, others to New-Haven; Colonel Webb, with the companies that way, if not marched, to take his station at Greenwich. Same day at eleven o'clock, received a letter from Brigadier-General Wooster, dated the ninth, at the Oyster-Ponds on Long-Island; he had with him four hundred and fifty men, besides militia, designing to preserve the stock at that place. The ships were then plundering Gardiner's Island; the people on the island had left it. He applied to me for three hundred pounds of powder; before I had made my answer and order for the powder, (which I gave notwithstanding our exhausted condition,) on receipt of your's inserted an extract from it for his observation.

I am informed a quantity of powder for the camp is to be at Hartford this evening, and more to follow soon. We have none lately arrived, which is daily expected. I request your direction that of the next quantity that comes to Hartford, there may be lodged there so much as you shall judge expedient; if what is expected do arrive in the mean time, shall have no occasion to use your allowance.

I am, most respectfully, Sir, your most obedient very humble servant,

JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

His Excellency General Washington.

New-York, August 16, 1775.

The following is the best account we are able to collect of the late expedition of the piratical Regular traitors to the English Constitution and the British Colonies, in plundering Fisher's, Gardiner's, Plumb, and Block Islands, of Stock, Provisions, &c.

The design of the Regulars to plunder these islands having been communicated to the inhabitants and proprietors by the Congress of New-York, and other intelligences, as early as Tuesday, the eighth instant, there was time to have taken off all the stock, and some was actually taken off; but some differences having arisen between the proprietors and the Committees, concerning the expense of the business, before any thing could be determined the ships of the enemy appeared in sight. Despatches were immediately sent to alarm and assemble the people on the Connecticut and Long-Island shores, who, notwithstanding the utmost haste they could then make, were too late to prevent the execution of the felonious design of the enemy; who, on Friday, the eleventh instant, approached Gardiner's Island, with the following vessels and forces, viz: seven transport ships, two brigs, two men-of-war, one snow of ten guns, one armed schooner of seventeen men, and two hundred Regulars, as reported by the sailors, landed on the island, and, assisted by ten villanous Tories from Southold, &c., took off the following stock, &c.:

By the account of Benjamin Miller, the overseer, one thousand sheep, thirty hogs, thirteen geese, three calves, one thousand pounds of cheese, and seven tons of hay, were taken off, and much damage done to gardens, fences, fowls, &c. When they went away, they left on the table half a guinea and a pistareen.

The following letter was left by the commanding officer, and gives reason to suspect that the expedition (as to Gardiner's Island) was preconcerted with the proprietor or manager. The following is an exact copy, viz:

"SIR: As we have got loaded all the vessels, I can't come to your house, according to promise. I send you account of what I have got off your island, viz: sheep, eight hundred and twenty-three; fat cattle, fifty-nine; cows, three; calves, three—one of the calves got away; the cheese I will take account of. Send me some pigs, fowls, potatoes, and ducks, and some bread; and when you come to Boston I will secure your interest to you, if in my power. I am very sorry it is not in my power to come to your house; but so good a wind we can't stay. The hay you must send an account of by Captain Lawrence. Sir, I am yours,

ABIJAH WILLANT.

"August 11, 1775, 12 o'clock at night."

Besides the before-mentioned stock from Gardiner's Island, we are informed that the same crew of freebooters took from Fisher's Island twenty-six fat cattle, and about one thousand sheep; also from Plumb-Island, fourteen fat cattle. At this last island they had only one prize wood-boat and a transport brig. On their arrival and landing on one side of the island, they were fired upon by about one hundred of Colonel Wooster's Provincials, who had landed on the other side. But it being represented to the commanding officer, that the island was nearly surrounded by a number of the enemy's armed vessels, who would be likely to cut off their retreat, they fired but one volley, which did not appear to have done any execution, and then retired to the main land, when the fourteen cattle were taken off.

After these exploits, three more transports appearing in sight, on Tuesday morning the Rose and Swan, sloops-of-war, sailed to meet them, in order to make a descent upon and plunder Block-Island; the success of which attempt we have not yet heard.

It is the opinion of good judges, that only two hundred Provincial Soldiers, well posted on either of these islands, would have repelled the attack made upon it by the Regulars.

We have advice from Huntingdon, on Long-Island, that on Wednesday morning, the ninth, forty volunteers from that place, and many from the parts adjacent, went off to join General Wooster's forces, but that on the way being informed by false intelligence that they were too late, for that the enemy had done their business and were gone, they returned back, and on their way disarmed a number of Tories at Southold, and lodged one of the most obnoxious (the Rev. Mr. Lyon) under guard in General Wooster's camp.

The number of men who appeared to oppose these depredations of the Regulars, is supposed to exceed a thousand, with whale-boats ready to have carried them to the scene of action; but being deceived by false intelligence, they turned back, and only one company of about forty went to Gardiner's Island, where they arrived in time to see the enemy under sail, and in a few hours after their departure.

The following is an estimate of the value of the Stock feloniously plundered by the Men-of-War and Transports from Gardiner's Island, viz: 8 Oxen, £130; 25 Steers, three years old, £250; 25 Heifers, two years old, £137 10s.; 5 Cows, £48; 4 Calves, £8; 13 large Hogs, £39; 7 whey Hogs, £17 10s.; 16 Shoats, £12 16s.; 28 Geese, £2 16s.; 4 Ducks, 6s.; 1166 Sheep, £583; 90 Cheeses, £72; Damage, &c., £34 14s. 6d.—Total, £1335 12s. 6d. By half a Guinea, 18s. 6d.; Pistareen, 1s. 7d.—£1 0s. 1d. Balance due, £1334 12s. 5d.

MEETING OF COMMITTEES AT SAG-HARBOUR, NEW-YORK.

At a meeting of the Committee of the Towns of Southampton and Easthampton, and Shelter-Island, and convened at Sag-Harbour, in Suffolk County, the 14th day of August, 1775:

Whereas, several imputations have been industriously propagated and spread abroad concerning Colonel Abraham Gardiner, Thomas Wickham, and David Mulford, Esquire, Executors to the Estate of David Gardiner, Esquire, deceased, of being concerned in assisting the Troops under General Gage in getting the Cattle, Sheep, &c., from Gardiner's Island, either by previous contract or by designedly persuading the people there was no danger, when they supposed they really knew their design; we, the said Committee, having examined evidences under oath, and considered every circumstance relative to said affair, do unanimously conclude, that the said Colonel Abraham Gardiner, and the other Executors, are entirely clear from all such imputations, and that all such reflections were altogether groundless. Signed by order of the Committee:

BURNET MILLER, Chairman.

ANGUS McDONALD TO ANY OF THE PUBLICK PRINTERS IN NEW-YORK.

Fairfield Jail, August 11, 1775.

SIR: You will please to insert the under-mentioned advertisement in your next Thursday's paper, and the bearer will pay the charges; and in so doing you will much oblige your most humble servant,

ANGUS McDONALD.

This is to acquaint the publick in general, and particularly the Congress and Committee of New-York, of the usage the subscriber, who is a close prisoner in the above-mentioned jail, met with, contrary to the promise to him when sent there, with all other bad usage. On Tuesday, the 8th August, 1775, when a company of the riflemen marched into Town, five or six of them thought proper to try to take my life; first beginning with throwing sticks, stones, and bricks at me, then drawing bayonets. When they could not get at me with those instruments, one of them went with his gun, and putting it through the window at me, I not thinking that the villain intended to take my life, laid hold on the muzzle of the gun to take it in, he immediately fired at me, when the ball took part of my hair off one side of my head, and lodged in the chimney, right behind me, nor any satisfaction did I get. So I'll leave that usage to the world to judge whether right or wrong. This I can prove upon oath, and others beside. But if I be to suffer for what is laid to my charge, I desire to be brought from this place, and get a fair chance for my life, as law directs. I always, according to my station, behaved myself as well as any man this day in New-York; and even the meanest and poorest soldier belonging to His Majesty's service, who is prisoner of war, is better used and has more liberty than I have.

I am, &c.

ANGUS McDONALD.

P. S. And even should it be my intention still to leave the King, I scorn to run away from my liberty till such time as I am properly relieved and exchanged, if I must make my application that way.

To any of the publick Printers in New-York.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO A COMMITTEE OF THE GENERAL COURT OF THE MASSACHUSETTS-BAY.

Camp at Cambridge, August 11, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: I have considered the papers you left with me yesterday. As to the expedition proposed against Nova-Scotia by the inhabitants of Machias, I cannot but applaud their spirit and zeal, but after considering the reasons offered for it, several objections occur, which seem to me unanswerable. I apprehend such an enterprise to be inconsistent with the general principle upon which the Colonies have proceeded. That Province has not acceded, it is true, to the measures of Congress, and therefore it has been excluded from all commercial intercourse with the other Colonies; but it has not commenced hostilities against them, nor are any to be apprehended. To attack it, therefore, is a measure of conquest, rather than defence, and may be attended with very dangerous consequences. It might, perhaps, be easy, with the force proposed, to make an incursion into the Province, and overawe those of the inhabitants who are inimical to our cause, and, for a short time, prevent their supplying the enemy with provisions; but to produce any lasting effects, the same force must continue.

As to the furnishing vessels of force, you, gentlemen, will anticipate me in pointing out our weakness, and the enemy's strength at sea. There would be great danger that, with the best preparations we could make, they would fall an easy prey, either to the men-of-war on that station, or to some which would be detached from Boston. I have been thus particular, to satisfy any gentlemen of the Court who should incline to adopt the measure. I could offer many other reasons against it, some of which, I doubt not, will suggest themselves to the honourable Board. But it is unnecessary to enumerate them, when our situation, as to ammunition, absolutely forbids our sending a single ounce of it out of the camp at present.

I am, Gentlemen, &c.

GO. WASHINGTON.

COL. THOMPSON'S PROPOSAL FOR DESTROYING NOVA-SCOTIA.

For the Expedition purposed: One thousand men, including officers; four armed vessels and eight Transports; the men to be raised at the Eastward. The Fleet to be made up at Machias, and then proceed to Windsor; captivate the Tories; make all the proselytes we can; and then proceed to Halifax. If possible, destroy the King's Dock-Yard, and Town, if thought proper.

It may be undertaken for five thousand Pounds, lawful money, and all that can be procured from the Tories, or ten thousand, and the one-half of what is taken from them. At Windsor, we understand, there is abundance of goods, which is the next capital town to Halifax. We are lately informed, that there is not to exceed two hundred British Troops in Halifax.

GENERAL GATES TO JAMES OTIS.

Head-Quarters at Cambridge, August 11, 1775.

SIR: This will be presented to you by Lieutenant John Knight, of the Royal Navy of England, taken prisoner lately at Machias. In his company are six other gentlemen, midshipmen and warrant officers. The Commander-in-Chief has this moment sent a flag of truce to General Gage, to know in what manner he intends to treat the officers of the Army of the United Colonies, who are so unfortunate as to fall into his hands. Upon his answer depends the treatment Mr. Knight and his companions are to receive. You shall be advised of General Gage's answer the instant it arrives. I am, Sir, your most obedient humble servant,

HORATIO GATES, Adj. Gen.

The Hon. James Otis, Esq.

Head-Quarters, August 11, 1775.

SIR: By order of the Commander-in-Chief I sent to await your orders an officer's party to escort seventeen scamen, taken prisoners at Machias, and one tory, Ichabod Jones. Thirty prisoners more, taken at Cape-Ann, will be at Charlestown to-day. I believe you will think it best to detain this party at Watertown, until that from Cape-Ann arrives, when they may have your orders to what Town they are to march, to be confined. I have already sent a number of prisoners to Springfield, and Tories to Worcester. Perhaps you may approve of placing those at Northampton, as there are so many at present at Springfield. I am, Sir, your most obedient servant,

HORATIO GATES, Adj. Gen.

To the Hon. James Otis.

THEODORE ATKINSON TO GOVERNOUR WENTWORTH.

Portsmouth, New-Hampshire, August 11, 1775.

SIR: Immediately after I received your Excellency's letter of yesterday's date, (which was about ten o'clock this morning,) relative to the inhabitants of this Town firing on Captain Barclay's boat, I summoned the Council to meet at twelve, but did not make a quorum till this afternoon, when the Council was truly informed that a town-meeting was immediately notified, and a very full meeting of the inhabitants appeared, and regularly and deliberately passed a vote with a large and uncommon majority, in which they disapproved the transaction, &c. Your Excellency herewith hath the vote of the meeting attested, and also the minute of the Council.

Your Excellency will please to bear in mind the phrase of currat lex has been some time past interrupted. The King's Attorney gave it as his opinion, that the present situation was too uncertain and unsteady to enter any actions in the common course of law, and which advice was then approved; and I see no reason why the same cause should not produce the same effect now as then.

PORTSMOUTH (NEW-HAMPSHIRE) COMMITTEE.

Committee-Hall, Portsmouth, August 13, 1775.

The Committee of Safety, finding it inconsistent with the peace and good order of this Town that any further communication should be kept up between the Ship Scarborough and the Town, therefore,

Voted, That henceforward no Boats pass or repass from the said Ship or the Town of Newcastle, without a permit from this Committee, or the Selectmen or Committee of Newcastle.

By order of the Committee:

H. WENTWORTH, Chairman.

We are credibly informed, that in consequence of the above vote, Captain Barclay, of the Scarborough, has stopped all our shipping outward and inward bound.

GOVERNOUR WENTWORTH TO THEODORE ATKINSON.

Fort William Henry, August 17, 1775.

SIR: I desire that you would summon the Council to meet here this afternoon at four o'clock, if possible, if not, at nine o'clock to-morrow, without fail, having occasion to lay some matters concerning His Majesty's service before them for their consideration and advice. Please to send me an answer as soon as may be.

I am, Sir, your most obedient humble servant,

J. WENTWORTH.

The Hon. Theodore Atkinson, Esq.

THEODORE ATKINSON TO GOVERNOUR WENTWORTH.

Portsmouth, August 17, 1775, half after four o'clock, P. M.

SIR: I this instant received your Excellency's command of this day, but too late to summon the Council to attend your Excellency at Fort William and Mary, but shall endeavour to do it so as to attend on your Excellency on the morrow, as you order.

I am your Excellency's most obedient humble servant,
THEODORE ATKINSON.

GOVERNOUR WENTWORTH TO THEODORE ATKINSON.

Fort William and Mary, August 23, 1775.

SIR: I find it necessary to go to sea for a few days, and must desire that in the mean time you will use your best endeavours to preserve peace and quietness as much as possible. I am, Sir, your most obedient humble servant,

J. WENTWORTH.

Honourable Theodore Atkinson, Esq.

THEODORE ATKINSON TO GOVERNOUR WENTWORTH.

Portsmouth, August 29, 1775.

SIR: I received your Excellency's favour of the 23d, and shall use every method to preserve the peace of town and land. I hope it will not be long ere your return.

I have been importuned to write a few lines to the Commander of His Majesty's guard-ship at Nantasket, in favour of Mr. Hale appearing for the freighter of the Ship Elizabeth. A copy you have enclosed.

Your Excellency's most obliged and most obedient humble servant,
THEODORE ATKINSON.

Portsmouth, August 29, 1775.

SIR: Some time since the Ship Elizabeth arrived in the harbour from Granada, and was stopped by Captain Barclay, commander of His Majesty's Ship the Scarborough, for having, as he said, ordnance stores on board, and was from hence by him carried to Boston. The freight, to a considerable amount, she had on board, belonged to different merchants in this Town. The want of having certain necessary papers completed, prevented the owners of the freight, or their agent, from taking passage in one of those ships to Boston. They have thought it absolutely necessary to take this only method of sending Mr. Hale, the bearer of this, to Boston, to personate the owners' interest. I therefore think it reasonable that he be permitted to pass to Boston, and desire the boat and hands be suffered to return.

With much respect, I am your obedient humble servant,
THEODORE ATKINSON, President.

To the Commander of His Majesty's Ship the Boyn, in Nantasket Road, Boston.

CAPTAIN MACARTNEY TO THE MAYOR OF NORFOLK, VIRGINIA.

His Majesty's Ship Mercury, Norfolk, August 12, 1775.

SIR: I am just informed by his Excellency Lord Dummore, that Mr. Andrew Sprowle has received a summons to attend a Committee in Norfolk, on Thursday next. The accusations alleged against him are of a most extraordinary nature. In the summons he is charged with having harboured His Majesty's Troops in the stores at Gosport. I am not surprised that a summons grounded on such accusations should be alarming to Mr. Sprowle, particularly after the cruel and oppressive treatment Mr. Schaw lately received from a mob in Norfolk.

As I do most earnestly wish, and shall, upon all occasions, endeavour to promote the publick peace of this Province, I think it necessary to explain to you, as Chief Magistrate of the Town of Norfolk, the conduct I mean to pursue, in hope of preserving that peace and obedience to the laws so ardently to be wished for by all loyal subjects and good citizens. I am sent hither to be the guardian of a British Colony; to protect His Majesty's Governour, and all the loyal subjects in the Province of Virginia. This is my duty, and should wish it to be known that my duty and inclination go hand in hand. The same principles which have induced me not to harbour the slaves of any individual in this Province, will operate with me to protect the property of all loyal subjects. As I have before observed that I shall endeavour to promote the publick peace of this Province, it is hardly necessary to mention that I shall not remain an idle spectator, should any violence be offered to the persons or property of any of His Majesty's subjects.

I have reason to apprehend, that many gentlemen in this Province, from their connexions with Government, or their readiness to supply His Majesty's ships or servants with provisions, stores, &c., are held up as objects inimical to the liberties of America, and unjustly censured for their loyal conduct. Men under these circumstances are more particularly entitled to my protection. I have not the least doubt, from your desire and readiness upon a former occasion to preserve harmony in the Town of Norfolk, but you will heartily concur with me in my endeavours to suppress all party jealousies and animosities, so highly injurious to the welfare of a country. More effectually to perform my part, I shall, the first opportunity, place His Majesty's Ship under my command, abreast of the Town; and I must assure you, that notwithstanding I shall feel the utmost pain and reluctance in being compelled to use violent measures to preserve the persons and properties of His Majesty's subjects, yet I most assuredly shall, if it becomes necessary, use the most coercive measures in my power to suppress all unlawful combinations and persecutions within the Province of Virginia.

I am, Sir, your most obedient humble servant,

JOHN MACARTNEY.

To Paul Loyal, Esq., Mayor of the Town of Norfolk, Va.

PAUL LOYAL TO CAPTAIN MACARTNEY.

Norfolk, August 13, 1775.

SIR: I just now received yours of yesterday's date, by Mr. Swan. The summons you mention I believe did not go from a Committee of this Borough. I will make the necessary inquiry, and will answer your letter to-morrow.

In the interim, I am, Sir, your humble servant,

PAUL LOYAL.

To John Macartney, Esq., Commander of His Majesty's Ship Mercury.

Norfolk, August 14, 1775.

SIR: Since writing you yesterday, I find, upon inquiry, that the summons referred to in your letter was sent from a number of gentlemen who are freeholders, and compose the Committee of the County of Norfolk, and are therefore entirely without the jurisdiction of the Magistrates of this Corporation. I can only promise, that as the place of meeting for the purpose of considering Mr. Sprowle's conduct is said to be within the limits of this Borough, I will take proper care that he shall not be molested or injured in his person by any riot or mob, if he think fit to attend on the Committee. With respect to the treatment that Mr. Schaw received, I was a stranger to it till the disturbance was over; but can assure you, as soon as he put himself under the protection of a Magistrate, he was secured from danger.

The conduct which you are pleased to explain to me, as Chief Magistrate of this Borough, as your intention to pursue in preserving peace and obedience to the laws, in the station assigned you by His Majesty, must be commended by every good man. By that care in your department, particularly in discouraging the elopement of slaves, which of late it is notorious has frequently happened, from the countenance shown them by some enemies to this Colony, as well as to the British Constitution, much mischief and confusion may be prevented. Your suggestion, that gentlemen are in danger, by supplying His Majesty's Ships, &c., in this Colony with provisions, I cannot account for. I am very sure the Contractors for the Navy in this Town are under no apprehensions of danger, as they have been assured to the contrary in the most explicit manner. I hope suspicions of this nature, prejudicial to the loyalty of a number of inhabitants, who are as much attached to the just prerogative of their Sovereign as any subjects in the Empire, may not be hastily taken up and adopted without full and satisfactory proof.

I am much obliged by your favourable opinion of my readiness to concur in the suppression of all animosities. It has hitherto been, and I trust ever will be, the tenour of my conduct. I have always found the authority of the Magistracy sufficiently competent for the maintenance of Government and good order; and while I thank you for your cheerful offers of assistance for that purpose, yet I presume your intention is only to act within the line of your department. I confess I feel myself somewhat astonished at the last paragraph of your letter, which seems to me to imply a threatening that would eventually prove destructive to the persons and properties of His Majesty's subjects. A personal insult offered to an individual, by the ill-guided zeal of a number of thoughtless youth, can never justify a hint of this nature. At any rate, it is to be presumed, that gentlemen in military departments will not intermeddle in that capacity, unless particularly required by the civil authority, as I am determined, whenever I find any unlawful combinations or persecutions to prevail within the sphere of my jurisdiction, to take every legal method to suppress them. I have nothing further to add, but the strongest assurances of the earnest desire of the inhabitants of this Borough to live in the most perfect harmony with the gentlemen of the Navy, and hope that no little incident may interrupt it.

Sir, your most obedient humble servant,

PAUL LOYAL.

To John Macartney, Esq., Commander of His Majesty's Ship Mercury.

CAPTAIN MACARTNEY TO PAUL LOYAL.

His Majesty's Ship Mercury, Norfolk, August 15, 1775.

SIR: I was favoured with your letter of yesterday's date, and it gives me much real satisfaction to find that the inhabitants of Norfolk are so earnestly desirous of living in harmony with his Majesty's servants. You are pleased to assure me that no violence or insult shall be offered to the person of Mr. Sprowle; and upon the faith of your letter I have requested him to attend the Committee to-morrow. For some days past I have been much indisposed, but if I find myself well enough to-morrow, I mean to accompany Mr. Sprowle to the Committee, and will call upon you about eleven o'clock to-morrow morning. I must beg that you will go along with us.

You, I am sure, will agree with me that the summons sent Mr. Sprowle (a copy of which I have enclosed you) must be truly alarming to all good citizens. When any set of gentlemen assume to themselves the power of arraigning an individual for furnishing barracks for His Majesty's Troops, and pretend to censure a conduct which I must think highly laudable, it gives me but too much reason to apprehend that the authority of the civil magistracy is not competent for the support of Government and good order.

I am, Sir, your most obedient humble servant,

JOHN MACARTNEY.

To Paul Loyal, Esq., Mayor of the Town of Norfolk, Va.

PAUL LOYAL TO CAPTAIN MACARTNEY.

Norfolk, August 26, 1775.

SIR: When I had the pleasure of seeing you last, you mentioned having some letters that had passed between you and me published, which I gave you to understand might be done; since which, as those letters concerned the publick, I have thought proper to lay them before the Common Hall of this Borough. The Hall has made some Resolves on them, a copy of which I am directed to enclose you. My reason for not publishing the letters in this week's paper, is, that as they are of a threatening nature, they might perhaps give the people of this Colony great uneasiness, to prevent which I think there cannot be too much precaution used. As I am willing to believe your intentions are only to act within your own sphere, and not to intermeddle with the internal policy of this Corporation, if you still think proper to have the letters published, and will enclose them to me, I shall take particular care to have them put into the next Gazette.

My family join in best compliments, hoping you have recovered your health.

I am, Sir, your most obedient humble servant,

PAUL LOYAL.

To John Macartney, Esq., Commander of His Majesty's Ship Mercury.

Resolves of the Common-Hall above referred to.

NORFOLK BOROUGH, &c:

At a Common-Hall summoned and held August 21, 1775, sundry Letters from John Macartney, Esq., Commander of His Majesty's Ship Mercury, to Paul Loyal, Esquire, Mayor, were laid before the Hall; and the Hall taking the same into their serious consideration, and being greatly surprised at the contents thereof, it was thereupon

Resolved, That the letters from Captain Macartney to the Worshipful the Mayor, were evidently intended to alarm and intimidate the inhabitants of this Borough, were disrespectful to the Chief Magistrate of this Corporation, are an officious intermeddling in the civil Government of the Town, and contain an implied threatening which the Hall conceive to be unjustifiable, premature, and indecent: unjustifiable, inasmuch as no reason can be deduced from fact, or any authority be derived from law, to empower Captain Macartney, unsolicited by the Magistracy, to interfere in matters within their jurisdiction alone, and much less to hold up to them the idea of violence and compulsion, in a transaction so entirely without the line of his department; premature, as his conduct in this instance originates from ill-grounded suppositions and mistaken apprehensions, and without any sanction from facts to support them; indecent, because it impliedly charges the Magistracy with a wilful remissness in the exercise of the powers legally vested in them; because the menace is as particularly pointed against them, as if they were the abettors of riot and persecution; because it operates towards the destruction of the persons and properties of a number of His Majesty's subjects, chiefly on account of some accidental insults, alleged to have been offered by a few incautious youth to an individual; because so little regard is shown to the understandings and feelings of people, as, at the same moment in which this haughty declaration, so big with ruin, is denounced, it is pretended that the execution of it is to preserve the persons and properties of His Majesty's subjects, as if the utter destruction of their lives and estates could ever be deemed a preservation of their persons and properties.

Resolved, That the military power, agreeable to the British Constitution, is and ought to be under the control of the civil; and notwithstanding the utterly defenceless state of the Town, the body Corporate of this Borough will never tamely submit to the invasion of their privileges by the dangerous and untimely interposition of military force.

Resolved, That this Corporation will continue steadfastly to adhere to those substantial principles of good Government which ought to actuate the minds of all His Majesty's faithful subjects; and that they embrace this opportunity to make this publick and solemn declaration, that notwithstanding their exposed and defenceless situation, which cannot be remedied, unbiased by fear, unappalled at the threats of unlawful power, they will never desert the righteous cause of their Country, plunged as it is into dreadful and unexpected calamities.

Ordered, That a copy of these Resolutions be by the Mayor transmitted to John Macartney, Esq., Commander of his Majesty's Ship Mercury.

JOHN BOUSH, T. C.

CAPTAIN MACARTNEY TO PAUL LOYAL.

His Majesty's Ship Mercury, at Norfolk, August 28, 1775.

SIR: I am much obliged for your polite favour, which enclosed some strictures by the Corporation of Norfolk upon my first letter to you. I must beg you will be pleased to publish the letters which have passed between us in the Virginia Newspapers, that a candid publick may judge of the motives which actuate my conduct.

When I first wrote to you, it was not my intention to draw on a political discussion with the inhabitants of Norfolk, or to ascertain in particular cases the limits of the civil or military jurisdictions. I was desirous that His Majesty's subjects should know I ardently wished the peace of this Province, to promote which I shall strictly adhere to the tenour of my first letter.

I beg my respectful compliments to all your family, and have the honour to remain, Sir, your most obedient humble servant,

JOHN MACARTNEY.

To Paul Loyal, Esq., Mayor of the Town of Norfolk, Virginia.

To the Honourable the Provincial Congress of NEW-YORK: The Memorial of sundry persons within the City of NEW-YORK, sheweth:

That a difference of opinion hath arisen in this City with respect to the propriety of shipping flaxseed to Ireland from this Colony; some urging that it was not the intent of the Continental Congress that any should be shipped, and others insisting that the contrary appears, not only from the Resolutions of the Continental Congress, but from the declaration of several of the Delegates upon that subject. The memorialists are apprehensive that should flaxseed be shipped while this difference of sentiment prevails, it might create some uneasiness in this City; and being informed that some of the Continental Delegates have signified to this Congress that the sense of the late Continental Congress, respecting this matter, was, that we were left at liberty to ship flaxseed, the memorialists beg that the Congress will, by some act or publication of theirs, declare whether the people of this Colony are, or are not at liberty to ship flaxseed as aforesaid, and also to satisfy the publick of the sense of the Continental Congress on that subject, if such their sense has been communicated to this Congress as before suggested.

New-York, August 12, 1775.

FRANCIS STEPHENS TO GENERAL GAGE.

Office of Ordnance, New-York, August 12, 1775.

SIR: Since my letter to your Excellency of the 31st July, I have been honoured with yours of the 18th preceding, which has given me much uneasiness, as it seems to imply a remissness on my part in not getting more of the stores removed from hence agreeable to your Excellency's wishes. I must beg leave to observe, that I always used my utmost endeavours to comply with the orders I received, as far as circumstances would admit, but the multiplicity of bulky articles shipped on board the vessels, such as battering planks, boards, joists, bricks, straw, and many other particulars belonging to different departments, (the want of which was strongly urged to me,) took up so much room as to render it entirely out of my power to forward a further quantity of ordnance stores. Had the shipping ordered for that service been in a proper condition to have received their full load, I am well persuaded there would not, in that case, have any thing remained; but as some of them, particularly the ship Henry, had all her water, provisions, &c., on board, which the master refused to disembark, I was by that means prevented from sending many more articles which I should have otherwise certainly done.

If your Excellency will be pleased to order the several bills of lading to be laid before you, or an account of the many articles which were shipped from hence on board the different vessels, exclusive of the ordnance stores, you will judge of the vast deal of room they must have necessarily taken up on board these vessels, and which of course prevented my forwarding those stores that have since so very unfortunately fallen into the hands of the rebels.

The brig Countess of Darlington arrived in the sound, a few miles above Turtle Bay, on the twenty-fifth of April, and had I been permitted to have loaded her, should no doubt have sent to Boston every species of stores I stood charged with, (the largest sizes of shot and shells only excepted,) but the violent commotions which at that time prevailed amongst the people were such as to render it impossible, and the vessel was obliged, for safety, immediately to depart, without my being able to put the least article on board her.

With respect to the saltpetre, it was, at the time, deposited at Turtle Bay, where I conceived it to be equally secure with the rest of His Majesty's property, and that moving it might excite the jealousy of the people, who assiduously watched that no supplies should be sent to Boston. At this period I had no idea of powder-mills being erected, or that they would ever have the audacity to rob and plunder the store-houses in the manner they have since done; their declared intention at the time being to prevent all supplies going to Boston that might enable your Excellency to act with greater effect against their brethren and fellow-subjects in New-England.

I entreat your Excellency, therefore, to believe me when I assure you, that every thing was done which lay in my power, towards expediting and otherwise forwarding the good of His Majesty's service.

I am, with the greatest respect, Sir, your Excellency's most obedient and most humble servant,

FRANCIS STEPHENS.

To His Excellency the Honourable General Gage.

PETER T. CURTENIUS TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-York, August 12, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Enclosed is amount of the goods I have bought by virtue of your orders, on Continental and Provincial account. Some of the tradesmen's bills are not yet come in, and therefore it was impossible, on so short a notice, to give you the exact amount. I have a clerk constantly busy in posting the books, and am in hopes, in eight or ten days, to have them finished, when I shall be able to give you an exact account of the whole.

If I can get muskets and the whole quantity of blankets, besides about one thousand oars and some other articles which are not yet purchased, I shall want at least twenty-five thousand Pounds to make good my engagements.

As to give you a particular account what the clothing, &c., will amount to, it is impossible at this time to give you an account of. I have made a rough sketch at bottom for your government.

I am, Gentlemen, your most obedient servant,

P. T. CURTENIUS.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Ticonderoga, August 12, 1775.

SIR: Mr. Fitch, agreeable to your Honour's request, has had all the gun barrels here delivered to him. I did not think proper to have any appraisement made of them, as I consider them as belonging to the Associated Colonies, and if repaired, at the disposal of Congress, they paying the particular Colony which may have been at the expense of the repairs; and as arms are much wanted in this Colony, I have given directions for some of them to be left at Albany, and others sent to New-York, where they may be immediately made fit for present use.

I am your Honour's most obedient and humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

Honourable Jonathan Trumbull.

P. S. No tents for Colonel Hinman's Regiment are yet arrived.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Lebanon, August 12, 1775.

SIR: Since my letter of yesterday, desiring an allowance to retain at Hartford such quantity of powder as you shall judge expedient out of the next that comes, I have received a letter from the Honourable Henry Middleton and Edward Rutledge, dated Hartford, August 11, 1775, informing that a company of riflemen, with eight wagon loads of powder, have come into that town, and the article of which they have the charge would be absolutely necessary at New-York, in case an attack should be made upon that Colony; suggesting the propriety of sending off an express to you, informing of their situation, and to obtain an order to stay the riflemen and detain the powder there, as most likely to be conducive to the publick safety. All circumstances considered, I have directed two wagons of powder to be detained till your Excellency's orders are received—the riflemen to proceed with the other six. You will soon have the pleasure to see those two gentlemen at camp.

FOURTH SERIES.—VOL. III.

I am, with great truth and regard, Sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JONA. TRUMBULL.

Providence, Rhode-Island, August 12, 1775.

A gentleman from Goldsborough, at the eastward, informs, that about the middle of July, two armed vessels, one of eight, the other of four carriage guns, were sent by Admiral Graves on a piratical cruise to the eastern parts of the Massachusetts, and venturing too far up Machias River, the inhabitants of that place attacked them in a sloop they had fitted for that purpose, and took them both, without losing a man. The Machias people have now three armed vessels, which they took from the enemy; the largest of them is supposed to be worth £800 sterling. About the same time, five sloops, that had been sent by General Gage for wood, were taken by the inhabitants of Majabigwaduce, a small new settlement, not far from Fort Pownall; and as there was some reason to fear that the fort, which stood at the head of Penobscot Bay, might be taken by the King's Troops, and made use of against the country, the people in that neighbourhood dismantled it, and burnt the block-house and all the wooden work to the ground. The prisoners taken at Machias, and at Majabigwaduce, about forty in number, were on their way to Cambridge when the gentleman who brings this account came away. Among them is Captain Ichabod Jones, an infamous tory, who went down in the first armed vessel that was some time ago taken at Machias.

LOAMMI BALDWIN TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Chelsea, August 13, 1775.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY: I herewith send two men who deserted from the Lively, man-of-war, this morning, about three o'clock, and were taken up by our guard at Chelsea Beach, and conducted to me by a file of men.

We have had a small brush with the enemy to-day, which began about twelve o'clock, and ended about quarter of one, occasioned by two barges and two sail-boats going up to the floating battery, that lay near a neck of land at Charlestown, and bearing rather too near Malding Point; suppose Captain Lindsey's Company suspected they had some evil design, or a mind to revenge past injuries, gave them a pretty smart fire, which made them return down the river, and with their swivel-guns and small-arms began a fire at our Chelsea soldiers, who returned the fire briskly. Having been alarmed by the first firing at Malding, one of the sail-boats came round near to the old wreck upon Winisimit, where we gave them the best we had, and they soon made off down among the shipping, and the firing ceased. We suffered no damage by them; there was a great number of balls struck one of the boats, and believe wounded, if not killed, some of the men. Some of our men declare that they saw a number drop, as if they were shot dead, when a volley was fired from our men; its certain they never appeared much in sight again. Nothing extraordinary has appeared since. I send the observation as usual.

I am, with much esteem, your Excellency's most obedient humble servant,

LOAMMI BALDWIN, Lieut. Col.

AUTHENTICK AND PARTICULAR ACCOUNT OF THE ENGAGEMENT AT CAPE ANNE.

Gloucester, August 13, 1775.

On the ninth instant, the Falcon, sloop-of-war, Captain Lindsey, hove in sight, and seemed to be in quest of two schooners from the West-Indies, bound to Salem, one of which he soon brought to; the other, taking the advantage of a fair wind, put into our harbour, but Lindsey, having made a prize of the first, pursued the second into the harbour, and brought the first with him. He anchored, and sent two barges, with fifteen men in each, armed with muskets and swivels; these were attended with a whale-boat, in which were the Lieutenant and six privates; their orders were to seize the loaded schooner, and bring her under the Falcon's bow. The militia, and other inhabitants, were alarmed at this daring attempt, and prepared for a vigorous opposition. The barge men, under the command of the Lieutenant, boarded the schooner at the cabin windows, which provoked a smart fire from our people on the shore, by which three of the enemy were killed, and the Lieutenant wounded in the thigh, who thereupon returned to the man-of-war. Upon this Lindsey sent the other schooner and a small cutter he had, to attend him well armed, with orders to fire upon the damn'd rebels wherever they could see them, and that he would in the mean time cannonade the town; he immediately fired a broadside upon the thickest settlements, and stood himself, with diabolical pleasure, to see what havoc his cannon might make. "Now," said he, "my boys, we will aim at the damn'd Presbyterian Church. Well, my brave fellows, one shot more, and the house of God will fall before you." While he was thus venting his hellish rage, and setting himself, as it were, against Heaven, the Almighty was on our side; not a ball struck or wounded an individual person, although they went through our houses in almost every direction, when filled with women and children. Under God, our little party at the water side performed wonders; for they soon made themselves masters of both the schooners, the cutter, the two barges, the boat, and every man in them, and all that pertained to them. In the action, which lasted several hours, we lost but one man, two others wounded, one of whom is since dead, the other very slightly wounded. We took of the men-of-war's men thirty-five; several were wounded, and one since dead; twenty-four were sent to Head-Quarters; the remainder being impressed from this and the neighbouring towns, were permitted to return to their friends. Next day Captain Lindsey warped off with but half his men, never a prize boat nor tender, except a small skiff the wounded Lieutenant returned in.

BALTIMORE COUNTY: Charles Ridgely, Son of John, near Boston, on the 19th of April and 20th of May last, together with the hostile operations and treacherous designs now carrying on by the tools of Ministerial vengeance and despotism, for the subjugating all British America, suggest to us the painful necessity of having recourse to arms, for the preservation of those rights and liberties which the principles of our Constitution and the laws of God, nature, and Nations, have made it our duty to defend. We, therefore, the subscribers, freeholders and inhabitants of Tryon County, do hereby faithfully unite ourselves under the most sacred ties of religion, honour, and love to our Country, firmly to resist force by force, in defence of our natural freedom and constitutional rights, against all invasions; and at the same time do solemnly engage to take up arms, and risk our lives and fortunes, in maintaining the freedom of our Country, whenever the wisdom and counsel of the Continental Congress, or our Provincial Convention, shall declare it necessary; and this engagement we will continue in and hold sacred, till a reconciliation shall take place between Great Britain and America on constitutional principles, which we most ardently desire; and we do firmly agree to hold all such persons inimical to the liberties of America who shall refuse to subscribe to this Association.

Matthew Tilghman, Thomas Johnson, Junior, Samuel Chase, William Paca, Robert Goldsborough, John Hall, and Thomas Stone, Esquires, be a Committee to prepare a Letter to the Convention of Virginia, assigning the reasons why this Convention will not accede to their Resolution.

The Committee prepared the following Letter, to wit:

In Provincial Convention, Annapolis, }
August 1, 1775. }

GENTLEMEN: The resolution of your Convention, that no Flour, Wheat, or other Grain, or Provisions of any kind, should be exported from your Colony to any part of the world, after the fifth day of August, came to hand by your express yesterday afternoon. The Delegates from this Province have communicated to this Convention, that the utility and propriety of stopping exports had been fully considered by the Congress, and that they had not thought proper to stop the exports before the tenth day of September. We have received information that the Congress intends to adjourn the beginning of this week, so that this subject cannot again be brought before them. This Convention, on mature consideration, do not see that the advantages to the common cause, by an immediate stoppage of the export of provisions, could equal the inconveniences and distresses of individuals which would certainly be occasioned thereby, nor that any distress could be brought on the common enemy by our coming into your resolution, without the accession of the Colonies of Pennsylvania and New-York, which cannot be brought about sooner than the tenth of September, as the Convention of New-York will probably rise about the same time as the Congress; and the Assembly of Pennsylvania hath already adjourned. For these reasons we have unanimously resolved not to prohibit exports before that day.

We are, with great respect, your most obedient servants,
By order of the Convention:

MATTHEW TILGHMAN, Chairman.

To the Honourable Convention of Virginia.

Resolved, That on the delivery of two hundred barrels of Gunpowder, or any less quantity, by the said William Neale, he be paid therefor at the said rate, out of the Bills of Credit to be issued by this Convention: and further, that if the said William Neale will import and deliver good and substantial Muskets, Bayonets and Accoutrements, for arming any number, not exceeding five hundred Soldiers, then on the delivery of them he shall be paid a generous price therefor, out of the said Bills of Credit.

The Petition of Richard Henderson of Bladensburg, was read the first time, and ordered to lie on the table. (No. 8.)

Turbutt Wright and Walter Tolley have leave of absence.

On reading and considering the Petition of Richard Henderson, of Bladensburg, setting forth his apprehensions that some people of the neighbourhood of that place, if not advised to the contrary by this Convention, may do violence to his person or property on account of his becoming security for the appearance of George Munro, who hath absconded, it is resolved to be the sense of this Convention, that all persons refrain from all manner of violence to the said Richard Henderson and his property, on the occasion before mentioned, and that the Committee of Observation for Prince George's County are hereby empowered to determine and certify to this Convention, whether the said Richard Henderson did collude with or in any manner promote the said George Munro in his said escape, on which this Convention will take order therein.

And this Convention strongly impressed with an idea of the confusion and disorder which must inevitably ensue, and the disunion which must necessarily follow from the people at large being collected and inflicting punishments before a cool and temperate investigation of the case; and consequently the injury which may be thereby done to the common cause of liberty, confide, that the virtue of the people, and their attachment to the liberties of America, will guard them against a commission of the excess apprehended.

Resolved, That the said James Christie, by the said Letter, hath manifested a spirit and principle altogether inimical to the rights and liberties of America; that the said James Christie, by intimating the necessity of introducing a military force into this Province, has manifested an inveterate enmity to the liberties of this Province in particular, and of British America in general.

Therefore, Resolved, That the said James Christie is, and ought to be considered as an enemy to America, and that no person trade, deal, or barter with him hereafter, unless for necessaries and provisions, or for the sale or purchase of any part of his real or personal estate, of which he may at this time be seized or possessed.

Resolved, That no punishment be inflicted on the said James Christie, other than what is now directed by this Convention.

Resolved, That the Five Hundred Pounds sterling is to be good in sterling or other money at par; that the Resolutions of the Committee of Baltimore County are, by the determinations of this Convention superseded; and that therefore the said James Christie may negotiate his bills of exchange, and that he may assign, or he or any person for him may collect the debts due to him in the same manner as other persons may negotiate their bills of exchange, or assign or collect their debts.

The Committee appointed to inquire into the practicability of establishing a Manufactory of Arms in this Province, and the expense and best mode to carry the same into execution, brought in their Report, which was read a first and second time, and referred for consideration to the next Provincial Convention. (No. 12.)

Resolved unanimously, That the following Association be signed by the Members of this Convention, and by all other the Freemen of this Province. (No. 13.)

Association of the Freemen of MARYLAND, JULY 26, 1775.

The long premeditated, and now avowed design of the British Government to raise a revenue from the property of the Colonists, without their consent, on the gift, grant, and disposition of the Commons of Great Britain; the arbitrary and vindictive statutes passed under colour of punishing a riot, to subdue by military force and by famine the Massachusetts-Bay; the unlimited power assumed by Parliament to alter the Charter of that Province, and the Constitutions of all the Colonies, thereby destroying the essential securities of the lives, liberties and properties of the Colonists; the commencement of hostilities by the Ministerial forces, and the cruel prosecution of the war against the people of the Massachusetts-Bay, followed by General Gage's Proclamation, declaring almost the whole of the inhabitants of the United Colonies, by name or description, rebels and traitors; are sufficient causes to arm a free People in defence of their liberty, and to justify resistance, no longer dictated by prudence merely, but by necessity, and leave no alternative but base submission, or manly opposition to uncontrollable tyranny. The Congress chose the latter; and for the express purpose of securing and defending the United Colonies, and preserving them in safety against all attempts to carry the above mentioned Acts into execution by force of arms, resolved that the said Colonies be immediately put into a state of defence; and now support, at the joint expense, an Army to restrain the further violence, and repel the future attacks, of a disappointed and exasperated enemy.

We, therefore, inhabitants of the Province of Maryland, firmly persuaded that it is necessary and justifiable to repel force by force, do approve of the opposition by arms to the British Troops employed to enforce obedience to the late acts and statutes of the British Parliament, for raising a revenue in America, and altering and changing the Charter and Constitution of the Massachusetts-Bay, and for destroying the essential securities for the lives, liberties and properties of the subjects in the United Colonies. And we do unite and associate as one band, and firmly and solemnly engage and pledge ourselves to each other, and to America, that we will, to the utmost of our power, promote and support the present opposition carrying on, as well by arms, as by the Continental Association, restraining our commerce.

And as in these times of publick danger, and until a reconciliation with Great Britain on constitutional principles is effected, (an event we most ardently wish may soon take place,) the energy of Government may be greatly impaired, so that even zeal unrestrained may be productive of anarchy and confusion; we do, in like manner, unite, associate and solemnly engage in maintenance of good order and the publick peace, to support the civil power in the due execution of the laws, so far as may be consistent with the present plan of opposition; and to defend with our utmost power all persons from every species of outrage to themselves or their property, and to prevent any punishment from being inflicted on any offenders, other than such as shall be adjudged by the Civil Magistrate, the Continental Congress, our Convention, Council of Safety, or Committees of Observation.

Resolved, That the Committees of Observation in every County, as soon as conveniently may be, appoint persons in each Parish or Hundred to offer or carry the said Association to all freemen resident within their County, (the household of his Excellency the Governour excepted,) and require their subscription to the same; which Associations, when subscribed, shall be returned by the Committees to the Convention. And in case any freeman within their County shall not subscribe, upon application or within ten days thereafter, his name shall be returned by the said Committee to the next Convention, to the end that the Convention may take order therein.

The Convention resumed the consideration of the Report read on Wednesday last, which was debated by paragraphs, several amendments made, and the following parts agreed to.

Resolved, That there be forty Companies of Minute-Men enrolled in this Province as soon as may be, each of which Companies to consist of one Captain, two Lieutenants, one Ensign, four Sergeants, four Corporals, one Drummer, one Fifer, and sixty-eight Privates; and that the said forty Companies be enrolled in the Counties and proportions following, to wit:

In Worcester one, Somerset one, Dorchester two, Talbot one, Caroline one, Queen Anne's two, Kent one, Cecil two, St. Mary's two, Calvert one, Charles three, Prince George's three, Anne Arundel four, Baltimore five, Hartford three, Frederick eight—40.

And that for the enrolment of every such Company, a proper person be appointed by the Committee of each respective County, to enlist a sufficient number of men who shall voluntarily offer themselves, to make up the Non-commissioned Officers and Privates of each of the said Companies, for their respective County; in the enrolment of whom care shall be had that the men be strong and effective, and live as convenient as may be for their frequent and ready assembling and exercising together.

That the form of the enrolment of Minute-Men be as follows, to wit: "We, whose names are subscribed, do hereby enrol ourselves into a Company of Minute-Men for . . . . . County, agreeable to the Resolutions of the Provincial Convention held at Annapolis the 26th day of July, 1775, to continue such until the 1st day of March next, and engage that we will respectively march to such places, either in this or the neighbouring Colonies, and at such times as we shall be commanded by the Convention, or the Council of Safety of this Province, or by our Officers in pursuance of the orders of the said Convention or Council; and that we will respectively fight with and employ the arms wherewith we are entrusted for the preservation of American liberty, against whomsoever we shall be commanded, by such authority as aforesaid, with our whole power. Witness our hands this . . . . . day of . . . . . 1775."

That each Company as soon as enrolled and reviewed and allowed by the Committee of their County, or by such person or persons as shall be appointed by such Committee for that purpose, shall elect and choose their proper Officers, by ballot, who shall be appointed and commissioned by the Delegates of this Province sitting in Convention, or at any time when they are not sitting in Convention by the Council of Safety in the name of the Convention.

That the said Companies in Frederick County compose one Battalion; those in Baltimore and Harford Counties jointly another; and those in St. Mary's, Charles and Prince George's Counties jointly another; and that to each of the same Battalions there be one Colonel, one Lieutenant-Colonel, two Majors, one Quartermaster, and one Adjutant, appointed and commissioned as aforesaid, by the Convention or Council of Safety.

That as soon as conveniently may be, after the Officers to the said Battalions on the Western Shore are commissioned, eight men be draughted from every Company of the said Battalions, to compose one Company of Light-Infantry to each Battalion; to which Company the Convention or Council of Safety shall, as aforesaid, appoint and commission one Captain, two Lieutenants, and one Ensign; and the Captain of each Company of Light-Infantry may appoint non-commissioned Officers thereto.

That all the Officers of the said Minute-Men rank according to their commissions and the dates of priority thereof.

That the Minute-Men be exercised two days in every week, and that for one of those days each of the Non-commissioned Officers and Privates be allowed two shillings and six pence common money.

That each of the said Battalions in Frederick and Baltimore and Harford Counties, be exercised in Battalion, at such convenient times and places as shall be appointed by the Field-Officers of the respective Battalion, every of which times being accounted as one of the two days of exercise. And that the said other Companies of Minute-Men exercise with some Battalion of Militia, at the times of their being exercised in Battalion, in their respective County, and as to this purpose, be subject to the commands of the Field-Officers of such Battalion.

That until other arms are provided, the Minute-Men exercise with their own firelocks; but that as soon as others can be provided by the publick, each Colonel have delivered to him firelocks with steel ramrods and bayonets, cartouch boxes, worms, priming wires and brushes fitted thereto, and flints, sufficient for his Battalion; and he shall deliver to each Captain in his Battalion sufficient for his Company, who shall deliver and distribute the same to his Company; receipts of all which deliveries shall be given, the men being answerable to the Captains, the Captains to the Colonels, and Colonels to the Conventions, for the return of the said Arms and Accoutrements in good order, unless prevented by unavoidable accidents.

That the Companies of Minute-Men not so joined in Battalion, be armed and provided, and the Captains and men of those Companies responsible for the return of the publick Arms and Accoutrements, in the same manner as the men of the Battalions are to be armed and provided, and their Colonels, and they, are as aforesaid responsible.

That every able-bodied effective freeman within this Province, between sixteen and fifty years of age, (clergymen of all denominations, practising physicians, the household of his Excellency the Governour, Minute and Artillery Men, and such persons who from their religious principles cannot bear arms in any case, excepted,) as soon as may be, and at furthest before the 15th day of September next, shall enrol himself in some Company of Militia, in the following form, to wit: "We, whose names are subscribed, do hereby enrol ourselves into a Company of Militia, agreeable to the Resolutions of the Provincial Convention held at Annapolis the twenty-sixth day of July, 1775; and we do promise and engage, that we will respectively march to such places within this Province, and at such times, as we shall be commanded by the Convention or the Council of Safety of this Province, or by our Officers in pursuance of the orders of the said Convention or Council, and there, with our whole power fight against whomsoever we shall be commanded, by such authority as aforesaid. Witness our hands this . . . day of . . . 1775."

That each Company of Militia consist of such Officers as are recommended by former Resolutions of the Convention, and of about sixty-eight Privates.

That each Company already formed, if it now is, or before the 15th day of September next shall be made up to fifty Privates, or upwards, and shall have subscribed the said form of enrolment, shall confirm their election of Officers already made, or elect others in their stead, by ballot, as they shall think proper; and that Officers be so chosen for all Companies which shall be hereafter formed, as recommended by the said former resolves; after which confirmations and elections, and before the first day of October next, each Captain of Militia shall transmit a roll of his Company to the Committee of Observation which shall be appointed for his County, who shall, as soon as may be, transmit a memorandum or certificate of the names of the Captain, Lieutenants and Ensign, and of the numbers of Non-commissioned Officers and Privates, to the Council of Safety; in order that commissions may issue in the name of the Convention to those Officers; which shall be done by the same Convention or Council of Safety as aforesaid.

That no Company shall exceed the number of seventy-four Privates, or consist of less than fifty; and if a greater number than seventy-four shall be enrolled in any one Company, then the enrolment of any after the first sixty-eight effective Privates shall be deemed void, and such shall enrol in some other Company; and if a number of men shall be enrolled not amounting to fifty Privates, besides sufficient for Non-commissioned Officers for any one Company, they shall not be considered as a Company; yet the local circumstances of some neighborhoods may make it very inconvenient for a full Company of Militia to meet weekly for exercise at one and the same place, in such case the Officers may appoint two places, at each of which a several part of the Company may be mustered, not oftener than three times out of four; so that every fourth time at least the whole be mustered together.

That no Company be permitted to choose Officers before a sufficient number of men be enrolled to make up fifty Privates, besides Non-commissioned Officers.

That after enrolment in pursuance of these Resolves, no man be permitted to leave the Company in which he shall have been enrolled, without the consent of his Captain in writing.

That the Committee of Observation in each County make diligent inquiry after, and transmit to the Convention or Council of Safety, the name of every able-bodied effective freeman as aforesaid, in their respective County, if there shall be any such, who shall not enrol himself either as a Minute or Artillery Man, or in the Militia, according to the preceding Resolves, to the end that the Convention may take order therein; against whom no further proceedings or measures shall be taken, but by the future order of the Convention.

That the Committee of Observation for each County shall divide the Militia of their County into Battalions or Companies of Light-Infantry, each of which Battalions to consist of such eight Companies of Militia as the same Committee shall appoint; and the same Committee also assigning to each Battalion one Company of Light-Infantry, which Light-Infantry shall be armed in such manner as the Council of Safety shall direct; and that to each of the said Battalions there be one Colonel, one Lieutenant-Colonel, two Majors, one Quartermaster, and one Adjutant, who shall be appointed and commissioned by the Delegates of this Province sitting in Convention, or at any time when they are not sitting in Convention by the Council of Safety in the name of the Convention; which Officers shall rank and marshal the Companies of their respective Battalion.

That every Company of Militia be exercised one day in every week, and that every Battalion of Militia be exercised in Battalion at such times and places as the Field-Officers of the Battalion shall appoint, not oftener than once in every month, nor seldomer than once in every two months; the day of exercise in Battalion being accounted as the day of exercise for that week.

That the Colonel of every Battalion of Minute-Men and Militia shall employ a skilful and able Adjutant for his Battalion, who shall train and exercise the Battalion, and the several Companies thereof, according to the directions of the Colonel, and shall receive for a month of thirty days sixteen Dollars; and that the Companies of Minute-Men not formed in Battalion, as to the purpose of being trained and exercised by the Adjutant, be esteemed as a Company of the Battalion with which they shall exercise as before directed.

That every Field and Commissioned Officer, having no reasonable excuse, shall appear at the time and place of muster, and there do and perform his duty according to his office and station; and for every neglect or refusal he shall be fined a sum not exceeding fifteen shillings common money, to be adjudged, if a Field-Officer, by the Field-Officers present, or a majority of them; and if a Commissioned Officer below the rank of a Field-Officer, by the Commissioned Officers present, or a majority of them.

That every Non-commissioned Officer and Private of the Minute-Men and Militia appear at the time and place appointed for their respective appearance, for mustering, with his firelock and other accoutrements in good order, and there orderly, diligently, and obediently attend to instruction, and perform his exercise in arms, according to the commands and orders of his Officers; and if any Minute or Militia-Man shall not appear at the time and place of muster with his firelock and other accoutrements in good order, having no reasonable excuse, or shall not there, after appearance, behave himself decently, or in a manner suitable to the attention and care requisite in such exercise, he shall forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding five shillings common money for every such neglect or misbehaviour, which shall be determined by the Captain, Lieutenants and Ensign, or any two of them, either on their own view, or on representation and proof thereof; and on non-payment shall be committed to the custody of the Sergeant of his Company till payment.

That if complaint shall be made of gross misbehaviour, or breach of duty of any Commissioned Officer, by any Committee of Observation, or any two Commissioned Officers of the Corps or Company to which such Officer, against whom complaint shall be made, doth belong, or by any one Officer of superiour or equal rank to the Officer complained against, then the Council of Safety may appoint a Court-Martial, to consist of not less than five, nor more than nine of the Commissioned Officers, of the same Corps or County, who, or a majority of whom, shall hear, try, determine, and give sentence on such Officer, so that the same sentence extend not further than to a pecuniary fine, not exceeding ten Pounds common money, or to a publick and solemn acknowledgment of the fault of the offending Officer, or to a suspension or loss of his military commission; which sentence being transmitted to, and approved by the Council of Safety, shall be accordingly executed.

That all fines on Officers of inferior rank to a Field-Officer, and also on Non-commissioned Officers and Privates, shall be to the use of the Company to which such persons belong, and that all fines on Field-Officers be to the use of the Battalion to which they respectively belong.

That if any Company or Corps of Minute or Militia Men shall be called forth into actual service, the Officers and Men respectively who shall be so called forth, whilst they are in actual service, shall be subject and liable to the Rules and Regulations established by the Continental Congress for the government of the Continental Army, and shall for a month of thirty days, and so pro rata, be entitled to and receive the following pay, in common money, to wit:

A Colonel, - £20 0 0	Each Sergeant, £2 10 0

A Quartermaster, 7 10 0	Each Fifer, - 2 5 0
An Adjutant, - 7 10 0	Each Private, - 1 17 6
Each Captain, 9 0 0	A Surgeon, - 15 0 0
Each Lieutenant, 7 10 0	Each Surgeon Asst. 7 10 0
Each Ensign, 6 0 0

That if a sufficient number of men shall enrol to make up a Company of Artillery-Men, they may choose their proper Officers, who shall be commissioned as aforesaid, and subject to the same rules as the Militia.

And whereas it is absolutely necessary in this time of imminent danger that there should be some power existing, which may superintend the execution of the orders and regulations of the Convention, and occasionally, from time to time, promote the prudent and necessary preparations for defence, and in case of necessity, call forth a due proportion, or even the whole of the force of the Province, in an orderly and regular manner, whereby the strength of the whole will be greatly increased in the common defence, and the rights and liberties of all better secured:

Resolved, That sixteen persons, eight of whom residing on the Western Shore, and eight on the Eastern Shore, shall be chosen by ballot, by this Convention, and be styled and denominated the Council of Safety of Maryland.

That any nine or more of the said Council of Safety convened, or the major part of them, direct and regulate the operations of the Minute-Men and Militia; and may as aforesaid, grant all military commissions, and appoint and commission Field-Officers, and appoint and regulate the rank of all Military Officers; and in the recess of the Convention call forth the Minute-Men into action in any place or places in this Province or the neighbouring Colonies, and the Militia into action in any place or places in this Province, at such time and times, in such proportions, and on such occasions as they may judge necessary; and do all such other matters and things for the securing and strengthening this Province and for providing for the defence thereof, as they shall deem necessary and expedient, and execute such other powers as may be entrusted to them by the Convention of this Province.

That as at some times a necessity for taking speedy measures may be so pressing that a delay till the Council of Safety could assemble together would be highly dangerous, and many things of less moment may well and more conveniently be transacted by a majority of members residing on the respective Shores, the members residing on either Shore respectively, or the major part of them or of such of them as shall be in this Province, may not only grant commissions for Courts-Martial when applied for, and hear, determine, and punish high and dangerous offenders, according to the resolutions of this Convention, but may also, in case of instant danger, or pressing necessity, call forth the Minute-Men or Militia of their respective Shore; yet it is recommended, if time will permit, for the whole Council of Safety, or nine of them, to meet and consult together; that those of either Shore do not separately call forth the Minute-Men or Militia; and that if time will not permit such meeting and consultation, then, as soon after the separate act done as may be, the whole Council of Safety shall be summoned, and the orders and resolutions of a majority of any nine or more of them shall control or govern; it being the intention of this Convention that a joint Council, where the same can be held on things of moment, should have the supreme direction.

That any two or more of the said Council of Safety call a meeting of the members on their respective Shore, or of the whole.

That any Officer of the Minute-Men or Militia may be suspended from the exercise of his commission by the Council of Safety, or that branch of it residing on the Shore whereon such Officer resides; or if the Council of Safety should think proper, they may, upon full hearing, displace any Field-Officer, and appoint and commission another in his stead; and that on the death, resignation or removal of any Commissioned Officer, below the degree of a Field-Officer, from his office, the Council of Safety may appoint and commission another in his stead.

That the Council of Safety, or either branch thereof, for expenses incurred on its respective Shore, may from time to time draw orders on the Treasurer of their respective Shore for the Bills of Credit to be issued by virtue of the Resolutions of the Convention, who shall accordingly pay such orders.

That the Council of Safety may, in case they shall think it necessary, summon and call the Convention to meet before the day to which it may stand adjourned.

That the Council of Safety continue such until the next Convention, and no longer, and that they render an account of their proceedings, and always be subject to the control of the Convention.

Resolved, In order to prevent an abuse of power from a continuance thereof in the same persons, that at each Convention, eight members of the preceding Council of Safety, four residing on the Eastern and four on the Western Shore, shall be ineligible to the succeeding Council; and that the said eight persons, immediately before the choice of the new Council of Safety, be ascertained by ballot.

That for providing for the defence of this Province, and for encouraging and promoting the manufacture of Saltpetre, erecting of a Powder Mill, and the several other purposes directed by this Convention, Resolved, That Bills of Credit of the denomination of Dollars and parts of a dollar, to the amount of 266,666 Dollars, and two-third parts of a dollar, be printed and struck with all convenient speed, under the care and direction of Messrs. Thomas Hyde and William Wilkins, supervisors, in manner and form following, to wit:

"This Bill of . . . shall entitle the bearer thereof to receive gold and silver, at the rate of four Shillings and six Pence sterling per Dollar, for the said bill, according to a Resolve of the Provincial Convention of Maryland, held at the City of Annapolis, on the 26th day of July, 1775."

That the said Bills shall have such devices and marks as the said Supervisors shall think proper, and the numbers of the said Bills, as well as the denominations thereof, shall be the following, and no other, to wit: seven thousand and ninety-six bills of sixteen dollars each; seven thousand and ninety-six bills of eight dollars each; seven thousand and ninety-six bills of four dollars each; seven thousand and ninety-six bills of two dollars and two-thirds of a dollar each; ten thousand five hundred and twelve bills of one dollar and two-thirds of a dollar each; ten thousand five hundred and twelve bills of one dollar and one-third of a dollar each; ten thousand five hundred and twelve bills of one dollar each, and ten thousand five hundred and twelve bills of two-thirds of a dollar each.

That the Supervisors shall use the best of their care and diligence that the said Bills, according to their respective denominations aforesaid, and according to the manner and form aforesaid, be forthwith printed; and that the number of any of the denominations thereof be not exceeded, or any clandestine or fraudulent practice used by the printer, his apprentices, servants, or others concerned in printing thereof.

That the printer and all his apprentices and servants, which he may employ in the said work, before he or they enter upon the same, take before some Justice of the Peace, in the presence of one or both of the Supervisors, the following oath, to wit: "I, A. B., do swear, that I will truly, faithfully and honestly perform the duty of printer of the Bills of Credit directed to be printed by a Resolve of the Convention of Maryland; and that I will not advisedly print or stamp a greater number of blank Bills of Credit than in that Resolve mentioned, or of any other denominations than therein expressed, except such sheets as may be so blotted, unfair or imperfect in the impressing or printing thereof, that the same shall be unfit for use. So help me God."

That the printer shall not, by himself, servants, or any other person by him employed, print, stamp, stitch or bind the said Bills, or any of them, but in presence of one or both of said Supervisors; and in every intermission of the work the Supervisors shall safely and securely lock up the press and stamps with which the work shall be performed, and the impressions that shall be then made, in the room in which the printing and binding shall be done, and the keys of such room shall keep in their possession; and when all the said Bills shall be printed and stamped, the stamps shall be delivered by the printer to the said Supervisors, and by them to the Convention of this Province, or in their recess to the Council of Safety.

That Charles Wallace, Joseph Davidson, Nathan Hammond, Richard Tootel, James Brice, John Brice, Thomas Brook Hodgkin, John Duckett, Robert Lloyd Nicols, Samuel Sharpe, Richard Tilghman, Jr., James Hindman, Peregrine Tilghman, William Perry, Jeremiah Banning, and Joseph Bruff, be signers of the said Bills.

That the said Supervisors, as soon as the said Bills shall be printed, stamped, stitched and bound, shall deliver three fourth parts thereof in value to the Treasurer of the Western Shore, and the other fourth part thereof in value to the Treasurer of the Eastern Shore; and the said Treasurers shall deliver out to the Signers, residing on their respective Shore, sufficient of the said Bills, to be immediately numbered and signed by them, not only for payment of the money immediately demanded from them respectively, but also to the amount of three thousand Dollars over and beyond the same; and each of the same Bills shall be signed and numbered by some two of the said Signers, and returned again to the respective Treasurer; and so from time to time, shall the said Bills be delivered out, signed, numbered, and returned; either of the said Treasurers not keeping by him, at any one time, ready numbered and signed, more than three thousand Dollars beyond the said Moneys now payable.

That receipts of every delivery of the said Bills, before and after the numbering and signing the same, be given by the Treasurers and Signers.

That Thomas Harwood, Jun., be Treasurer for the Western, and William Hindman Treasurer for the Eastern Shore; who shall from time to time out of the said Bills of Credit, pay off and discharge all such drafts and orders as shall be made by order of this Convention, or the Council of Safety, or either branch thereof, as aforesaid.

That the Treasurer of the Western Shore, out of the Bills of Credit, pay to each of the Supervisors two dollars and two-thirds of a dollar for each day's attendance as aforesaid; to the Engraver of the said bills, one hundred and ninety-two dollars for his services; and to the Printer four hundred dollars for his services, and the paper, ink, and other materials necessary for the said work. And the said Treasurers shall also respectively pay to each Signer of every thousand of the said Bills, one dollar and one-third part of a dollar for his service.

That each of the said Treasurers shall retain, for his services, at the rate of one-half per cent. on all Moneys by him paid and delivered, and no more.

That the said Treasurer of the Western Shore shall give bond in the penalty of twelve thousand Pounds sterling, and the Treasurer of the Eastern Shore shall also give bond in the penalty of four thousand Pounds sterling; both of which bonds shall be with sufficient securities, to be approved of by any two of the obligees in the said bonds, and payable to the Honourable Matthew Tilghman and Daniel of St. Thomas Jenifer, Esqs., and Charles Carroll, of Carrollton, and Edward Lloyd, Esqs., conditioned for such Treasurer's faithful discharge of his trust.

That he will keep a just and true account of all Bills of Credit and Moneys which he shall receive or pay, and of the names of those to whom the same shall be paid or delivered; and that he will render a true and perfect account of all payments by him made to the Convention of Maryland, or the Council of Safety, or any other persons by a Convention of this Province appointed to examine his accounts; and that he will be answerable for all Bills of Credit and Moneys which he may receive, and pay all orders drawn by the Convention, or Council of Safety, or the branch thereof residing on his Shore.

That torn and defaced Bills shall be exchanged at reasonable and convenient times.

That the said Bills of Credit shall be redeemed and sunk, on or before the first day of January, 1786, by taxes, or other Legislative provision.

That this Convention bind their constituents, and pledge the faith of this Province, for the redemption of the said Bills, on or before the said first day of January, 1786.

Resolved, That the freeholders of each County in this Province, and other freemen having a visible estate of forty Pounds sterling, or qualified by law to vote for Burgesses, do on the second Tuesday of September next, meet together at the Court-Houses of their respective Counties, (except as herein after excepted,) and do there, under the inspection of their respective Delegates in this present Convention, or any three or more of them, to whom it is recommended to attend for that purpose, by a majority of the voices of such the said electors as shall be present, elect, of the most discreet and sensible of those who are qualified as aforesaid to vote, a Committee of Observation for each County respectively, for the term of one year then next following, to consist of the following numbers: that is to say, for St. Mary's County twenty-four; for Charles County, thirty-two; for Calvert County, fifteen; for Prince-George's County, thirty-three; for Anne-Arundel County, thirty-four; for Frederick County, fifty-three; for Baltimore County, thirty-seven; for Harford County, eighteen; for Worcester County, twenty-one; for Somerset County, twenty-one; for Dorchester County, nineteen; for

Caroline County, fourteen; for Talbot County, sixteen; for Queen-Anne's County, twenty-one; for Kent County, twenty-two; for Cecil County, sixteen. And that from and after such election the Committees of Observation in being, at and immediately before such election, in each County respectively, be and are hereby declared to be dissolved.

That the Committees so to be elected, or a majority of any seven or more of them met together, shall have full power and authority to carry into execution the Association and Resolves of the Continental Congress and Conventions of this Province, so far as the same relate to the commercial opposition to the measures of the British Ministry, in which the United Colonies are engaged; and to censure any person or persons, who within their respective Counties shall be by them adjudged to have been guilty of any breach or breaches thereof, in such manner and degree as hath been or shall be directed by the said Congress and Conventions. And shall further have full power and authority, on probable proof that any person has been guilty of any high and dangerous offence, tending to disunite the inhabitants of this Province in their present opposition, or to destroy the liberties of America, to cause such person to be apprehended, and forthwith sent, together with the charge against him, to the Council of Safety on that Shore where the offence shall be committed, who shall proceed to examine into the charge, and if the same shall be sufficiently proved, pronounce sentence thereon; that such person be imprisoned, in such place and manner, and for such time, as shall be adjudged, not beyond the rising of the next Convention, who, if they think proper, may take further order therein; or that he depart this Province within a certain time to be limited.

That all persons pay obedience to and acquiesce in the determinations of such Committees of Observation and Council of Safety, and that no person whatsoever, other than the said Committees and Council, presume to inflict any punishment for any such breaches or offences. And on the same day, or the next, to which the said Delegates are empowered to adjourn, the said electors also choose by ballot, five of the most discreet and sensible of such freemen, as aforesaid, of their County, to be Delegates for the same, in any Provincial Convention to be held for this Province, within one year then next following, with full power and authority to such Delegates, or any three or more of them, to appear and act for such County, in such Convention; and to consent and agree to, and bind such County to perform and execute all such matters and things as such Convention or a majority of the Counties of this Province shall determine to be necessary for the preservation of the liberties of America.

And in case any of the said Delegates shall die, or refuse to act, the said Committee of Observation for the respective County shall have power to appoint by ballot one of the said Committee to be a Delegate for the said County, with the like power and authority, in the place of any such Delegate who shall die or refuse to act; provided that no such appointment shall be made unless two-third parts of such Committee shall be present.

That each Committee of Observation shall, as soon as conveniently may be after their appointment, choose by ballot five of their members to be a Committee of Correspondence for their County, for the said term of one year, with power to any two or more of them to act as such.

That as the Small-Pox is now at Queen's-Town, and it will in all probability be dangerous to the inhabitants of Queen Anne's County to assemble there for electing the Committee of Observation and Delegates for that County, the election of the Committee of Observation and Delegates for the said County shall be held at the house of George Hanson, instead of the Court-House of that County.

That for the ease and convenience of the people of Frederick County there be three different places of election; that the said County be divided into three Districts, to wit: Upper, Middle, and Lower; the Upper District to be bounded by the South Mountain, and the lines of the County westward of the South Mountain; the Middle District to be bounded from the mouth of the Monocacy with Potomack to the South Mountain, with that mountain to the temporary line, with the lines of the County to the head waters of Patuxent, and with the lines of the Lower District to Poto- mack; the Lower District to be bounded with Potomack to the mouth of Monocacy, then with Monocacy to Bennett's Creek, and with the creek to the head waters of Patuxent. That there be elected in the Lower District one Delegate, two persons to act as a Committee of Correspondence, and seventeen as a Committee of Observation; that in each of the other Districts there be elected two Delegates and eighteen persons to act as a Committee of Observation; and that three persons be elected in the Middle District to act as a Committee of Correspondence. That the elections for the Upper District be held at Elizabethtown, those for the Middle District at Fredericktown, and those for the Lower District at Hungerford's; and that no person residing or voting in one shall be admitted to vote in either of the other Districts.

Resolved, That for encouraging the manufacture of Saltpetre a sum not exceeding one thousand Pounds, common money, be advanced on proper security, for erecting one or more Saltpetre Works, to be repaid in good merchantable Saltpetre at the rates herein after mentioned: and that for all good merchantable Saltpetre manufactured in this Province and delivered to the order of the Council of Safety before the first day of October, 1776, there shall be allowed at the rate of half a Dollar per pound, according to the Resolves of the Continental Congress.

That a sum not exceeding one thousand Pounds, common money, be appropriated for erecting and working a Powder Mill on the account of this Province; and that the said two sums of one thousand Pounds each, be under the management of the Council of Safety.

Resolved, That the Committee of Observation in each County appoint one or more person or persons in their respective County, to receive all sums of Money which shall be voluntarily given, to be applied towards the arming and defending this Province, or towards erecting Manufactories of any kind, or for the immediate relief of such of the inhabitants of this Province as are or may become necessitous, from the present general calamities; which persons shall give receipts for the Money by them respectively received, and keep and return accounts thereof to the Treasurer of their respective Shore, specifying and distinguishing from whom the same shall have been received, and if any, what part thereof shall have been given for either of the said purposes, particularly; and the said Money shall be paid to the said Treasurer, and may be applied and laid out by the Council of Safety, or that part of it residing on each Shore, respectively, for the purposes before mentioned; having regard in the application to the intention of the donors, and promoting the subsistence of the necessitous, either by erecting Manufactories, and the employment of such as labour therein, or in works of any kind, than by immediate gifts; it being the opinion of this Convention that such charities may be rendered much more extensively beneficial by having the same placed under a general direction.

Resolved, That the Council of Safety contract for, purchase, and provide five thousand stands of Arms, including those ordered and contracted for by this Convention, giving a preference, as far as they can, to those manufactured in the Country; and also purchase and provide nine small Brass Field-Pieces, and Carriages therefor.

And that the Council of Safety may also, on proper security and terms they approve of, advance a sum not exceeding one thousand Pounds, common money, for erecting and carrying on one or more Salt Works in this Province.

Resolved, That the Committee of Observation in each County, as soon as may be, transmit to the branch of the Council of Safety for their respective Shore, a particular account of all Arms and Ammunition purchased in their County, pursuant to Resolves of the Convention in December last, and of all sums of Money subscribed and actually paid in or contributed, and by whom, for the purchase of the said Arms and Ammunition; and that each branch of the Council of Safety order the Treasurer of their Shore to pay to such person as shall be appointed by each of the said Committees, on their respective Shore, the amount of the Money so paid in and actually expended in the purposes aforesaid, before the transmitting of such account, that the same, as well as all other Money paid in, not expended as aforesaid, may be returned to the subscribers or contributors thereof.

Resolved, That the Honourable Matthew Tilghman and John Beale Bordley, Esqs., and Robert Goldsborough, James Hollyday, Richard Lloyd, Edward Lloyd, Thomas Smyth, and Henry Hooper, Esqrs., residents of the Eastern Shore, and the Honourable Daniel of St. Thomas Jenifer, Esq., and Thomas Johnson Jun., William Paca, Charles Carroll, Barrister, Thomas Stone, Samuel Chase, Robert Alexander, and Charles Carroll, of Carrollton, Esqrs., residents of the Western Shore, or any nine of them, be a Council of Safety for this Province.

That every member of the Council of Safety before he enters on the execution of his office, having subscribed the Association, take before some Justice of the Peace the following Oath, to wit:

"You, A. B. do swear that any matter or thing which shall come to your knowledge as a member of the Council of Safety, and which you shall know is by a majority of the Council ordered to be kept secret, you will not divulge, unless in a Convention of Delegates, or to the members of the Council of Safety, or with the leave of the Convention, or of a majority of the Council of Safety. So help you God."

That the Clerk of the Council of Safety, or of either of the said branches thereof, shall, before he enters on the execution of his office, before some Justice of the Peace, take an oath in the same form, except, instead of the words "as a member of the Council of Safety," inserting "as Clerk of the Council of Safety," or "as Clerk of the Eastern or Western Shore branch of the Council of Safety," as the case may be.

Resolved, That the Resolution made by the Convention of this Province, held at the City of Annapolis in December last, "That no person ought to kill any Lamb dropt before the first day of May yearly, or other Sheep after the first day of January then next, under four years of age," be repealed, so far as it relates to the killing of Lamb; but it is earnestly recommended that the Continental Resolve respecting the killing of Sheep be most strictly observed.

The Convention resumed the consideration of the Report relative to the shutting of the Courts of Justice; which, after debate thereon, was recommitted for amendments, and the following parts were agreed to:

Resolved, That in all suits and actions now depending or commenced within this Province, where there is no real dispute, the suiters and attorneys proceed with all convenient speed to settle the same by judgment, reference, or other amicable way; and that all suits and actions now depending or commenced (where there are real disputes, and which cannot be settled in an amicable manner, or tried with justice to the parties) ought to stand and remain during these times of publick calamity in their present state and condition, or be continued until otherwise ordered by act of Assembly, or some future Convention; save and except only that bail may surrender their principals in their own discharge, and for want of other bail that the principal may be committed; and that hereafter proper provision ought to be made by act of Assembly for reinstating, re-establishing, and prosecuting the business of the Courts, and for barring the act for the limitation of suits.

Resolved, That in all suits and actions now depending or commenced, the depositions of any witness or witnesses, taken before two Justices of any County Court, or one of the Justices of the Provincial Court of this Province, in presence of the adverse party to him that requires such depositions to be taken, if upon due notice he thinks fit to be present, or upon notice doth refuse to be present, (the notice being proved,) ought to be received as good evidence in any of the Courts of this Province, as if such evidence were personally present upon the trial, and should declare the same viva voce; provided such witness or witnesses cannot be had at the trial of the cause in which such depositions shall be taken.

Resolved, That no civil original writ, suit, or action shall be commenced or renewed in any Court of Law, or any Magistrate's warrent of a civil nature issued, within this Province, after publication and due notice of this Resolve, unless in the following cases, to wit: actions founded in wrong done to the person or property, such as ejectment, trespass, trover, replevin, detinue; also all real actions; also actions for wards, and for money or tobacco actually had and received by one person for the use of another; attachments under the late acts of Assembly, and against persons non-resident; actions or process on Loan-Office bonds, without the license or permission of the Committee of Observation of the County where the debtors and defendants reside, which shall or may be granted in the instances and manner herein after mentioned, and not otherwise. That the said Committees respectively do, upon application, give license for bringing or prosecuting suits in the following cases, that is to say: where debtors refuse to renew their obligations or other securities, or to give reasonable security, or to liquidate and settle their accounts and give promissory notes for the balances, or to refer their disputes, if any, to one or more indifferent persons, or are justly suspected of intention to leave the Province, or to defraud their creditors. And that the said Committees may in their discretion grant licenses in the following cases, to wit: for the bringing actions by and against executors and administrators, as such, and their securities; and for the bringing actions against guardians for the recovery of filial portions, or the rents and profits of orphans' estates.

Resolved, That no execution shall issue upon any judgment obtained in the Provincial Court after April term last, or in the County Courts after the last March adjourned Courts, without such license as aforesaid, save only in the cases above specified, or where the original actions shall be brought by license from the Committee of Observation.

Resolved, That the Committees of Observation now in being in each County, and the Committees of Frederick County, in their respective Districts, meet as soon as they conveniently can, after publication and due notice of these Resolves, and that the Committees hereafter to be chosen, meet as soon as they conveniently can, at the Court-House, or some other place agreed upon by themselves, and appoint by ballot seven of their number to be a Committee for licensing suits; which said Committees shall meet on the first and third Mondays in every month, for the purpose of receiving applications, and give notice of the place where they intend to meet.

Resolved, That it is earnestly recommended by this Convention to all the inhabitants of this Province to make payment without compulsion where they are able, or give security as above mentioned, and particularly that they pay the publick taxes and interest money due in the Loan-Office; it being the design of this Convention to prevent oppression and imprisonment of poor debtors, but not to give any pretence of non-payment to those who are of sufficient ability to pay their just debts.

It appearing to this Convention that a person arrested by the Sheriff of Baltimore County, and in his custody for debt, had been rescued by some disorderly people in that County, and that the riot had been suppressed, and the prisoner so rescued had been restored to the custody of the said Sheriff by the intervention and activity of Captains Buchanan and Gist, and the Companies under their command: And this Convention being fully impressed with the necessity that the civil power in the ordinary administration of justice should be supported, it is Resolved, That this Convention do highly approve of the conduct of the said Captains and their Companies, in the suppression of the said riot, and support of the civil authority; and that this Resolve be communicated to the said Captains and their Companies, by the Delegates of Baltimore County in this Convention.

Ordered, That out of the publick Arms in the possession of Colonels Joshua Beall, Richard Lloyd, Edward Lloyd, and Henry Hooper, a quantity of Arms, with proportion of Lead and Ammunition sufficient for a Company, be by them delivered to such Captain of Minute-Men as the Council of Safety shall direct.

Resolved, That the late Committee of Observation for Cecil County be authorized to act as usual, until the second Tuesday of September next.

Doubts having arisen in this Province respecting the construction of the Continental Association, whether Merchandise or other commodities taken on board craft, or in any manner water-borne, before the tenth day of September next, may not be considered as exported, within the fourth Article of the Continental Association, although the said Merchandise or commodities be not before that time taken on board the ship or vessel which shall export the same:

Resolved, That where any such Merchandise, or other commodity whatsoever, is or shall, before the same tenth day of September, be laden on board the ship or vessel that shall actually export the same, such loading on board shall be deemed a sufficient exportation within the spirit and intention of said Article, and not otherwise.

Resolved, That the Honourable Matthew Tilghman, Esq. and Thomas Johnson, Jun., Robert Goldsborough, William Paca, Samuel Chase, Thomas Stone, and John Hall, Esqrs., or any three or more of them, be Deputies to represent this Province in Continental Congress, and that they, or any three or more of them, have full and ample power to consent and agree to all measures which such Congress shall deem necessary and effectual to obtain a redress of American grievances; and further we do authorize our said Deputies to represent and act for this Province in any Continental Congress which may be held before the 25th day of March next.

Ordered, That the Treasurer of the Western Shore pay to Thomas Johnson, Jun., Samuel Chase, William Paca, John Hall, and Thomas Stone, Esqrs., or either of them, the sum of five hundred Pounds, common money; and that the Treasurer of the Eastern Shore pay to the Honourable Matthew Tilghman and Robert Goldsborough, Esqrs., or either of them, the sum of two hundred Pounds, common money, to defray the expenses of their deputation to the next Continental Congress.

Resolved, That the Treasurer of the Western Shore pay the Delegates who attended the late Congress the sum of one hundred and twenty-six Pounds sixteen Shillings and six Pence, common money, out of the bills of credit to be issued, being the balance of their actual expenses; and that the several Counties which have not already paid in their proportion of money for support of said Delegates shall pay the same as soon as may be, to said Treasurer, for the use of the publick.

Resolved, That there be a Convention of Delegates of this Province at Annapolis, on the third Tuesday of March next, or on such day before that time as shall be appointed by the Council of Safety.

Ordered, That a Committee be appointed to report the expenses attending the sitting of this Convention, and that Mr. Chase and Mr. Goldsborough be a Committee for that purpose.

Who reported the expenses as follows, to wit:
 To Gabriel Duwall, for 20 days attendance as Clerk, at 20s. common money, per day, - - - £20 0 0
 To Robert Reynolds, for 20 days attendance as door-keeper, at 10s. per day, - - - 10 0 0
 To Robert Reynolds, for candles and cleaning the room, - - - - - 1 10 0
     £31 10 0

Ordered, That the Treasurer of the Western Shore pay the above sums.

Ordered, That John Hall, Charles Carroll, of Carrollton, William Paca, and Matthias Hammond, Esquires, be a Committee to revise the proceedings of this Convention, and publish such of them as they may think proper, and convey a number, securely made up, to each County, as soon as may be.

So ends this Convention.

PETITION OF PATRICK GRAHAM.

To the Honourable the Deputies for MARYLAND, met in Convention at ANNAPOLIS:

The humble Petition of PATRICK GRAHAM, of PORT-TOBACCO, in CHARLES County, sheweth:

That some time ago he very justly incurred the displeasure and resentment of the County, and the censure of the Committee of Charles County, for a breach of the Resolves of the honourable Continental Congress, by aiding a certain John Baillie secretly to land and dispose of sundry Goods imported by him contrary to those Resolves: Your Petitioner sincerely laments his imprudence and ill conduct, and being deeply sensible of his offence, with contrition for the same, and his most solemn promise and assurance, never more to do or encourage any thing inimical to American freedom, he most humbly solicits this Convention that he may be restored to his former rights of a citizen, as he has already suffered greatly, not only in his own person, property, and reputation, but should he continue much longer in the present situation, his offence must reduce an innocent wife and four young children to beggary and ruin.

We, the subscribers, being satisfied of the hearty repentance of Patrick Graham, set forth in the above Petition, do recommend him to the consideration and clemency of the honourable Convention.

PETITION OF JOHN BAILLIE.

To the Honourable the Provincial Convention of MARYLAND:

The humble Petition of JOHN BAILLIE sheweth:

That he now lies under the influence and suffers the extremity of a heavy, though just sentence of the Committee of Charles County, for having wilfully, though, in some degree, ignorantly broke the Association of the honourable Continental Congress.

Your petitioner is truly sensible that the sentence passed by the Committee is founded in justice, but executed with such rigour that it has been with the most extreme and hazardous difficulty he could obtain the necessary food to support a life rendered miserable by his conduct and the above-mentioned sentence.

Your petitioner begs leave to inform this respectable Convention, that no one views his conduct in a more odious light than himself; and should you be pleased to forgive your petitioner his past transgressions, and place him in his former state, with respect to the people and laws of this Province, he most solemnly promises to adhere strictly for the future to the Continental Association, and to do every thing in his power which can any way or in any manner forward the interest of this Country.

Your petitioner, therefore, most humbly prays that you will take his case into consideration, and that you will be pleased in your goodness to forgive his past crime, which he will endeavour to atone for, as far as he can, by his future conduct. And your petitioner, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

JOHN S. CHILTON, REUBEN DYE.

[No. 3.]

To the Honourable the Delegates of the Province of MARYLAND, in Provincial Convention assembled:

The Petition of ALEXANDER OGG, Merchant of CALVERT County, sheweth:

That your petitioner has, without any intention of violating either the Continental Association or Provincial Resolves, sold a few Goods at a greater advance than was allowed by the Resolves of the Provincial Convention; in consequence of which the Committee of Calvert County, agreeable to the Provincial Resolution, published your petitioner in the Maryland Gazette as an offender; by which publication your petitioner is prevented from pursuing any method to enforce the payment of the debts due to him.

Your petitioner in the most solemn manner declares his hearty sorrow and repentance for his transgression, and as the people of the County are fully satisfied that your petitioner will not in word or deed transgress in future, he prays that your Honours will restore him to his former condition, so that he may pursue his business. And your petitioner, as in duty bound, will pray.

[No. 3.]

To the Honourable Provincial Convention, ANNAPOLIS.

In Committee for Prince George's County, Mr. Thomas Gantt, Chairman; Thomas Williams, Clerk.

In consequence of a recommendation from the honourable Provincial Convention, directed to the General Committee of Observation for Prince George's County, Mr. Christopher Lowndes attended. The following questions were asked him, viz:

Quest. 1st. Whether the Brig Harriet, Captain William Scott, master, cleared out in May, 1775, by Mr. Lowndes, of this Province, for Barbadoes, was seized and carried to Boston by some officer or officers of His Majesty's Ships-of-War there stationed?

Answer. She was not taken nor carried to Boston.

Quest. 2d. Whether Mr. Lowndes ever received any Letter from Henry Lloyd, of Boston, respecting the said Brig Harriet or Cargo.

Answer. He never received any.

Mr. Lowndes produced the following evidences in his defence:

Letters to Mr. Lowndes, from his correspondents in Barbadoes, dated July 1st, 13th, and 14th, and from Philip Lytcott & Co.; from which it appears that 19 barrels of Flour, 2,545 bushels of Corn, 397 bars of Iron, 20 barrels of Pork, 20 barrels of Herring, 19,865 Shingles, and 2,718 Staves, were landed for Mr. Lowndes's account.

A Letter from Mr. Biddle, of Philadelphia, was produced by Mr. Thomas Richardson, of Georgetown, dated 31st July, saying that Captain Scott was arrived at Barbadoes, and that the Bread shipped by Mr. Richardson on board the Brig Harriet, was sold.

By the above evidence, and the deposition of John Tolson, who was a passenger on board the Brig Harriet to and from Barbadoes, it appears clear to this Committee, that there is not the least foundation for the charge of collusion propagated against Mr. Lowndes.

Mr. Lowndes prays these proceedings, with Mr. Tolson's deposition at large, may be published in the Maryland Gazette, for his vindication to the publick.

It is the opinion of this Committee, that these proceedings be published as soon as possible.

Signed by order: THOMAS WILLIAMS, Clerk.

COPY OF JOHN TOLSON'S DEPOSITION.

At a meeting of the Committee of Observation for Prince George's County, at the house of Richard Carnes, in Piscataway, on Friday, the fourth day of August, 1775, Present: William Digges, Jun., Chairman; Wm. Beanes, Junior, Luke Marbury, Thomas Dent, Edward Edelin, Nathaniel Newton, Thomas Clagett, and Richard Carnes.

In consequence of its being recommended by the Provincial Convention to the General Committee of Observation for the County aforesaid, to call all evidences before them who may be expected can give the proper information respecting a report that prevails of Mr. Christopher Lowndes having cleared out a Brig from this Province for Barbadoes with Provisions, that were thrown into the hands of some of the officers of His Majesty's Ships-of-War, for the purpose of supplying the Army under the command of General Gage, this Committee summoned before them Mr. John Tolson, aged sixteen years, and of good reputation, who being sworn on the Holy Evangelists of Almighty God, before Luke Marbury, one of the Right Honourable the Lord Proprietary's Justices of the Peace for Prince George's County, deposeth and saith, that on or about the twentieth day of May last, he sailed from Alexandria, on board the Brig Harriet, Captain William Scott, belonging to the said Christopher Lowndes, and that he went passenger on board of her to the Island of Barbadoes, where she discharged her cargo, and that to his, the said deponent's knowledge, she did not discharge or dispose of any part of it till she arrived in the Road of Barbadoes; and that no part of the said cargo was put into the hands of any officer of His Majesty's Ships-of-War, for the purpose of supplying them or the Army under the command of General Gage.

This deponent likewise saith, that in Hampton Roads, on their way out, they were boarded by some people who said they belonged to a vessel of war, who took one of the hands from the said Brig, and this deponent saith no more.

JOHN TOLSON.

Sworn before: LUKE MARBURY.

Ordered, That a copy of these proceedings be sent to the Provincial Convention, now sitting at Annapolis.

True copy from the Records.

Signed by order of the Committee:

THOMAS CLAGETT, Clerk.

[No. 4.]

Richmond, Virginia, July 27, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: The Convention of Delegates for this Colony, now sitting, have almost unanimously come to the enclosed resolution, for stopping the exportation of all kinds of provisions after the fifth day of next month.

At a time when the most secret arts are practising to furnish our enemies with the means of protracting the unhappy dispute with the Mother Country, the necessity of adopting this measure appears so evident, that this Colony have cheerfully sacrificed a very considerable part of its property by agreeing to this resolution.

I am directed to transmit the resolution to you as early as possible, and have no doubt but you will as cheerfully come to a similar one. I am, with great respect, your most obedient servant,

PEYTON RANDOLPH,
President of the Convention.

In Convention, Monday, July 24, 1775.

Resolved, That no Flour, Wheat, or other Grain, or Provisions of any kind, be exported from this Colony to any part of the world, from and after the fifth day of August next, until the Convention or Assembly of this Colony, or the honourable the Continental Congress, shall order otherwise; that no quantities of the said articles, more than are necessary for the use of the inhabitants, be brought to, collected, or stored in the Towns or other places upon or near the navigable waters; that the respective County Committees be directed to take care that this Resolve be effectually carried into execution; and that all contracts made for the sale and delivery of any such articles for exportation, between this time and the tenth day of September next, be considered as null and void.

PEYTON RANDOLPH, President.

[No. 5.]

PETITION OF A. CAMPBELL AND W. LILBURN.

To the Honourable Provincial Convention:

The Petition of ARCHIBALD CAMPBELL and WILLIAM LILBURN humbly sheweth:

That your petitioners have undesignedly fallen under the censure of the Committee of St. Mary's County, for a supposed breach of the Resolves of the late Provincial Convention; which censure, they apprehend, was grounded on a misconception of the letter and spirit of the prescribed regulations, and therefore beg leave to submit the same, together with a copy of the proceedings of the aforesaid Committee, to the consideration of the honourable Convention.

They beg leave to represent, that for a considerable time past they have been engaged in mercantile transactions, the first as factor for John Glassford and Company, and the other for James Buchanan and Company, at their respective stores on Potomack River, which concerns have chiefly related to vending of Goods for Tobacco, and shipping the same to their principals in Great Britain; that many persons have constantly dealt at their several stores on credit, and have been supplied with such commodities as they imported for sale; in return for which they have received Tobacco payments, and applied the same in loading such vessels as were consigned to them by their constituents. They further represent, that in this commercial intercourse their usual customers have always relied on them to supply their exigencies, and that justice and gratitude prompted them not to abuse the confidence reposed in them, by disposing of their effects to others, in prejudice of those with whom they constantly traded.

That their conduct in this respect is not singular, but conformable to the general practice of those who are engaged in similar traffick, cannot be denied; and they are induced to think that on mature consideration it cannot be deemed an infraction of these Resolves, (which they are anxious to observe,) but justifiable on every principle of reason and justice.

Your petitioners shew, that in the present scarcity of British manufacture, they had not any greater quantity of coarse Linens than was sufficient for the use of those who, for the reasons suggested, they were bound to supply; and that the said Archibald Campbell had engaged all the Osnaburghs remaining in his store to the different customers who frequented it. From hence it will appear, that he could not, consistent either with his express or implied contracts, furnish Mr. Reeder with the articles he requested; the refusal of which is a ground for the late complaint against him.

Your petitioner, Archibald Campbell, also sheweth, that he had received advice of a vessel intended to be consigned to him, and which shortly after arrived, to be laden with Tobacco. That he had no other means of procuring her cargo, than by the sale of Goods to those who usually supplied him with that commodity. If, therefore, he was compelled to receive Cash for his Merchandise, the vessel must have returned without her freight, to the great injury and expense of his employer: add to this, as an obvious consequence of such compulsion, that any rival in trade with a command of Cash, might buy up the Goods of others, and thereby gain an undue advantage in this branch of commerce. It may not be improper further to remark, that in the course of retail dealings, it is necessary to keep an assortment of Merchandise, and that an uncontrolled liberty to the purchaser, and an obligation on the seller to permit him to select all the saleable articles in a store, would be promoting the interest of one at the ruin of the other; nor can a charge of partiality or oppression be with justice alleged against a merchant who is desirous of preferring those who resort to him for general supplies to him whose application is casual, for a scarce and necessary article.

Your petitioners further shew, that they have endeavoured to pay due deference to such regulations as were thought necessary for publick interest, and have contributed with cheerfulness to the general service; they, therefore, feel with the most poignant concern their late (and flatter themselves) unmerited proscription.

They have however the consolation to declare, that if they have erred it was without consciousness of guilt, and hope integrity of intention may not be imputed to them as wilful disobedience. On this subject the discernment of their present judges renders prolixity of argument unnecessary, and to their decision they submit with respectful acquiescence.

On what particular part of the sixth Resolve the Committee have thought proper to ground their sentence, is not certainly known. If conjecture is indulged, the following words may be supposed to comprise the accusation: "That no merchant or other person ought to engross any Goods, Wares, or Merchandise, whatsoever." As laws should admonish before they condemn, it is difficult to conceive with what propriety this restrictive rule could be applied to the case in question. Engrossing is, in legal idea, an unjust accumulation of property, with an intent to sell it again; which, by enhancing the price, tends to the publick injury. If the acquisition is lawful, one constituent part of the offence is wanting, and the term in the Resolve is not properly applicable. To say that the word may have an extensive import to comprehend what is not expressed, would be to confound language, and entrap the unwary. With submission permit us to observe, that we ought not in these instances to substitute artificial for real conviction, and thereby give footing to a code of polity which may hereafter be turned to the destruction of that manly freedom for which we are now contending. Who can be safe if we resort to subtle and criminal construction as the glossary of common life?

Your petitioners, therefore, humbly pray that the proceedings of the Committee may be reconsidered. If they have erred, let concessions deprecate resentment; it is, however, hoped that a rectitude of intention will shield them from imputed guilt.

At a meeting of the General Committee for the County of St. Mary's, held at the Court-House in Leonardtown, on Tuesday, the eighteenth day of July, Anno Domini 1775:

Mr. John Reeder, Junior, in the Chair;

Among other were the following proceedings, to wit:

On complaint made by Doctor Henry Reeder against Mr. Archibald Campbell, factor for John Glassford, Esq., and Company, at their store in Leonardtown, for refusing him Goods for ready money, and at the same time declaring, that he would not sell his Goods for Cash, but for Tobacco only:

Resolved, That Mr. Archibald Campbell be required immediately to attend this Committee, to answer unto the matter wherewith charged.

Whereupon, Mr. Archibald Campbell appearing, Doctor Henry Reeder was, by and in the presence of the said Archibald Campbell, examined relative to the complaint as aforesaid made, who proved the fact as alleged to the general satisfaction of the Committee; who thereupon proceeded (after having first heard what Mr. Campbell had to offer in his defence) to take into their consideration the tendency of such a procedure; which, upon being fully debated, duly weighed, and maturely considered, was almost unanimously judged to be a manifest violation of the sixth Resolve of the Provincial Convention, held at Annapolis by adjournment, on the eighth day of December, 1774.

And therefore, Resolved, for ourselves and constituents, That no Gentleman of the Law, from this time forward, ought to bring or prosecute any suit for any debt due to the store of John Glassford, Esquire, and Company, at Leonardtown, of which the said factor, Mr. Archibald Campbell, has the management.

Resolved, also, That the proceedings against the said Archibald Campbell be published in the Maryland Gazette, to the intent that all persons concerned may have due notice thereof.

At the same time, upon complaint made by Captain George Cooke, against Mr. William Lilburn, factor for Mr. James Buchanan and Company, at their store at St. Inegoe's Warehouse, for acting in a similar manner; which the said William Lilburn, here present, admits to be true:

Resolved, That the said Lilburn has violated the aforesaid Resolve, and that he also be published in the Maryland Gazette, to the intent as aforesaid.

In testimony that the foregoing is a true copy taken from the Minutes kept for the Committee for the County of St. Mary's, I have hereunto set my hand, this twenty-second day of July, Annoque Domini 1775.

TIMOTHY BOWERS, Clerk of the Committee.

[No. 6.]

At a special meeting of the Committee, at the Court-House, on Tuesday, the 13th July, at four o'clock, P. M.

Present: Mr. William Smith in the Chair, and twenty-eight Members:

A Letter from James Christie, Junior, Merchant of this Town, directed to Lieutenant-Colonel Gabriel Christie, of His Majesty's Sixtieth Regiment, at Antigua, having been intercepted, was laid before the Committee, and ordered to be read; which was accordingly done, and the following paragraphs are part of its contents:

"Baltimore, February 22, 1775.

"We are in such horrible confusion here with our politics there is no depending on any thing; and that, added to other things, makes me wish myself out of the Province. We are little behind the New-Englanders in mustering, purchasing arms, ammunition, &c. We have some violent fanatical spirits among us, who do every thing in their power to run things to the utmost extremity, and they have gone so far that we moderate people are under a necessity of uniting for our own defence, after being threatened with expulsion, loss of life, &c., for not acceding to what we deem treason and rebellion.

"The Provost and family are very well. Our publick affairs vex him, and he wishes himself away; but I know not when, or if ever that will happen. A part of yours, or any other Regiment, I believe, would keep us very quiet."

The Committee then summoned Mr. Christie to attend them, but being confined to his bed, he was unable to do it. They then sent Messrs. James Calhoun, William Buchanan, Thomas Harrison, Thomas Jones, William Goodwin, and Isaac Vanbibber, to wait on him at his house, and inquire whether the said Letter was wrote by him.

The gentlemen returned, and report that Mr. Christie had been shown the Letter, and acknowledged that it was wrote by him, but requested that any further proceedings thereon might be postponed until his health would permit his personal attendance.

The Committee not thinking it proper to comply with his request, as Mr. Christie had confessed that he had wrote the Letter, immediately gave him notice thereof. Upon which Mr. Robert Christie attended on his behalf; but it growing late, and many of the Members being withdrawn, the Committee directed a guard of nine men, under the command of an officer, to be placed round Mr. Christie's house, and then adjourned till to-morrow morning, at nine o'clock.

Friday, July 14, 1775.

The Committee met according to adjournment. Present: Mr. William Smith, Chairman, and thirty-two Members.

They resumed the business of yesterday. Mr. Robert Christie, Junior, attended, and declared, that Mr. James Christie was very sorry for the Letter he had wrote Lieutenant-Colonel Christie; that he did not mean any harm by it, and that he was very willing to acquiesce in the determination of the Committee.

On motion, Resolved, That Dr. John Boyde and Mr. John McLure (Members of the Committee) do wait on Mr. Christie, and inquire of him who those moderate people were that united for their defence, as mentioned in his Letter, and that they take his answer in writing.

The gentlemen returned, and report, that Mr. Christie declared there never was any association between him and his friends for the purpose alluded to, or for any other purpose, and all that he remembers to have passed on the occasion was, that some time last winter he was informed, that he, with some of his friends, were to be made a publick example of, for not uniting with the Town in the present opposition; and this being spoken of accidentally among two or three of his friends, it was proposed, whether an association for mutual defence would be advisable; but no determination being then made, and they soon after being convinced that no threats worth notice had been thrown out against them, the matter dropped, and was never afterwards thought of, or attempted, and that it was at this time of doubt and apprehension that he had wrote the Letter in question, which accounts for that part of it alluded to in this inquiry.

The Committee proceeded to take Mr. Christie's conduct with respect to said Letter into further and deliberate consideration, and were unanimously of opinion, that by representing in said Letter the people of this Town to be concerned in treasonable and rebellious practices, and that a number of soldiers would keep them quiet, he has manifested a spirit and principle altogether inimical to the rights, privileges, and liberties of America. They do, therefore, think it their duty to advertise the said James Christie, Junior, as an enemy to this Country, and all persons are desired to break off all connection and intercourse with him.

The Committee do further Resolve, That as the crime of which the said James Christie is guilty is of so dangerous and atrocious a nature, they will lay the same before their Delegates at the Continental Congress, for their advice; and in the mean time it is Ordered, That as Mr. Christie is confined to his bed, and cannot be removed with safety to a place of security, the same guard be continued at his house, to prevent any escape attempted either by himself or the assistance of his friends, and that Mr. Christie pay each man five Shillings for each twenty-four hours, and the officer seven Shillings and six Pence.

A report having been circulated that a number of Arms and a quantity of Ammunition were secretly lodged in the house of Mr. James Christie, and the same being mentioned in the Committee, they directed two of their Members, Captain Clopper and Mr. James Cox, to go immediately and search Mr. Christie's house; which they accordingly did, and reported that they had examined the house attentively in every part, attended by Mr. Robert Christie, Junior, and that they only found two Guns and a pair of Pistols, and no Ammunition, and were convinced no others were in the house.

At a special meeting of the Committee, July 21, 1775. Present: Mr. Samuel Purviance in the Chair, and twenty Members.

A Letter from the Deputies of this Province at the Continental Congress was laid before the Committee, wherein they inform the Committee that they had laid the Proceedings on Mr. Christie's Letter before the Congress, and that body thought it proper to refer it to the Provincial Convention.

The following Letter was laid before the Committee:

"July 21, 1775.

"SIR: I am now a little better, and the doctor is of opinion that fresh air and moderate exercise would contribute much to restoring my health. I have to entreat of you to represent this to the Committee, and to request of them for me that if they think proper I may have my liberty for the above purpose, on my giving such security as the Committee may require for my appearance before them when required. Your favour in this will oblige, Sir, your most obedient servant,

JAMES CHRISTIE, JUN.

"To Mr. Samuel Purviance, Chairman of the Committee."

On considering the premises, the Committee refer the determination to a fuller Committee on Monday next, and in the mean time that Mr. Christie may be permitted to ride out attended by his guard.

At a meeting of the Committee, July 24, 1775, Present Mr. Samuel Purviance in the Chair, and forty Members:

Mr. Robert Christie appeared in behalf of Mr. James Christie, and requested that his guard might be dismissed on security being given to the satisfaction of the Committee for his appearance before the Committee or Provincial Convention when thereunto required, and that he would not depart the Province without their permission; which being debated, it was resolved to accept five securities, by a majority of twenty-one to fourteen, and accordingly the following security was entered into and signed.

Copy from the Minutes: Wm. Lux, Sec'y.

"I do hereby solemnly engage not to depart this Province without the permission and consent of the Committee of Observation for Baltimore County, or the Provincial Convention, first had and obtained. As witness my hand this twenty-fourth day of July, 1775.

"JAMES CHRISTIE, JUN.

"Witness: Robert Alexander, Richard Buchanan."

"We, whose names are hereunto subscribed, do hereby undertake and solemnly engage that James Christie, of Baltimore Town, shall not depart this Province without the permission and consent of the Committee of Observation for Baltimore County, or the Provincial Convention, first had and obtained, but shall stay and abide the determination and sentence that shall or may be pronounced against him by the next Provincial Convention, for the heinous offence committed by him against the community; and in case the said James Christie shall depart this Province without such leave, we and each of us do hereby voluntarily agree to submit to the same punishment that would have been inflicted on the said James Christie if he had not departed. As witness our hands this twenty-fourth day of July, 1775.

Melvill's Warehouse, August 2, 1775.

At a meeting of the Committee of Caroline County, Captain Matthew Driver in the Chair; were present: Messrs. Thomas Hardcastle, Giles Hicks, Daniel Skinner, Thomas Pennington, Aaron Downes, William Rich, John White, William Haslett, William Chipley, Ezekiel Hunter, Robert Hardcastle, David Robinson, John Stevens, William Bell, and Solomon Mason, Esquires.

The Committee being informed by Capt. Henry Downes that he having been advised that a certain John Williams had endeavoured to dissuade sundry persons enrolled in his Company from mustering, and had made use of many expressions which highly reflected on the Americans, for having taken up arms in defence of their rights and privileges, which had induced him, assisted by many of the Sons of Liberty, to take the said Williams, on the sixteenth day of June last, and carry him to Tuckahoe Bridge; but after some inquiries had been made by the people then present, they judged it most expedient to refer Williams to the Committee of Observation for a discussion of his conduct, and the first Wednesday of August was fixed for a meeting of the Committee for that purpose; agreeable to which appointment the said Williams now appears.

Patrick Hart and James Walker being both duly sworn, depose and declare, that John Williams did censure them both for mustering, and said they took up arms against their King, and were fools.

And it further appears to this Committee, that when Companies were first formed, agreeable to the recommendation of the Provincial Convention, that the said Williams joined a certain John Cooper in forming a Company to act in opposition to said recommendation; and after Cooper had renounced those principles, and resigned his post in said Company, he the said Williams did persist and endeavour to keep up said Company, and now declares that he never will exercise on the principles now adopted for the preservation of our constitutional rights.

Resolved, That he be kept by the Sheriff of this County, assisted by a Guard of a Sergeant and six Men, in the Jail, until otherwise ordered by the Provincial Convention or this Committee.

Ordered, That Thomas Hardcastle be appointed to go to Annapolis, and present a copy of this day's proceedings to the Provincial Convention, now sitting, and there beg their instructions in writing to this Committee respecting the above-named John Williams.

The Committee adjourns to Monday next.

[No. 8.]

To the Honourable Convention at ANNAPOLIS:

The Petition of RICHARD HENDERSON, of BLADENSBURGH, humbly sheweth:

That your petitioner being in great hazard of his person and property, through the means of another, begs leave to lay before you the following facts, which are substantially true, although, from the confusion usually thrown upon the mind in times of extreme and unexpected danger, they may not be in every minute point fully related.

On Monday last, the 31st of July, being for the day commanding officer of the Bladensburgh Company, a letter from Colonel Joshua Beall was put into my hands, to be read to the Company. Our Company was not full, wherefore I put the letter into my pocket, intending to wait the coming of more men. But the Company being impatient, I opened it, and to my astonishment found that it contained an intercepted letter, written by a youth who assisted at my store, expressing the strongest sentiments. I called for the Clerk to read it, but he being absent, I was forced to read it. The Company then proposed to put the youth, whose name is George Munro, under arrest, unless some person would be answerable for his appearance before the Committee on the next day.

I refused to be answerable, so he had sentries placed on him; but afterwards, he being sick, and it seeming to be the wish of the Company that I should become answerable, I complied.

On Tuesday morning I saw him, and he expressed no apprehension about appearing before the Committee; and therefore, at the beating to arms, I joined the Company, and never afterwards saw him, being with the Company constantly till near evening, when I was sent for by the Committee, and asked to bring Mr. Munro. I went, but about noon a great number of men, with loaded arms, having come to Town, and declared their determination to tar and feather him, and having brought an old, lean, sore-backed, dull horse, whereon to set him and drum him through the Town, whatever might be the sentiments of the Committee, the youth was struck with an agony of fear, and rode off. It must have been the fright which induced him to go, for he had an opportunity in the night. When it was found that he was gone, the people out of doors having beset the Committee, became outrageous, and at last, after I had done all in my power with the utmost difficulty, they allowed the Committee to grant me till Monday next to produce Mr. Munro. I had before this sent two active men, appointed by the people, after him, at my expense, and there are two men gone since, to whom I pay a dollar a day each, their expenses, and find horses.

Notwithstanding all this, and that I made oath that I fully expected he would not have gone away before attending the Committee, the private animosity of some men renders my property insecure, and brings my family into the utmost terror. Jasper Wirt, who built the house in which I have peaceably lived for these ten years, has endeavoured to get people to join him in pulling it down, alleging that when I drew the articles of agreement which he and I interchangeably signed and sealed, I read those parts only which I thought fit, and passed over other parts, thereby deceiving him; every part of which allegation I have already offered to Captain Andrew Beall's Company to prove, and can at any time prove by authentick papers to be utterly false.

At the request of your petitioner, the Committee have appointed Monday next to determine what course of conduct should be pursued; however, there is reason to fear, from the temper and disposition of many who were present at the late examination, that the attempts of the Committee to preserve peace and good order will prove ineffectual, unless this Convention will take the matter under their consideration, and manifest the impropriety and injustice of inflicting punishment on a person no otherwise culpable than by being incapable of procuring the absconded party, whose flight was occasioned by a breach of that good order which was by a former Convention enjoined.

RICHARD HENDERSON.

ANNE ARUNDEL COUNTY, ss., AUG. 4, 1775:

Richard Henderson made oath that the foregoing narrative is, to the best of his knowledge, just and true.

Sworn before me:

WILLIAM EDDIS.

In Committee, Bladensburgh, August 7, 1775.

Mr. Thomas Gantt, Chairman.

The Committee took into consideration the Letter from the honourable Provincial Congress, relative to Mr. Munro's escape from Bladensburgh, and are of opinion, that Mr. Richard Henderson was no ways aiding, assisting, or even privy to the said George Munro's escape.

Signed by order:

THOMAS WILLIAMS, Clerk.

PRINCE GEORGE'S COUNTY, AUG. 3, 1775:

I, Thomas Macgill, being one of the Committee of the County aforesaid, make oath on the Holy Evangelists of Almighty God, that on Tuesday last, after Jasper Wirt, with a body of people, had expressed great vengeance against Richard Henderson, I was in company with James Hoggan, and Jasper Wirt coming up, Mr. Hoggan asked him why he was so violent; on which Jasper said that he had now dispersed the company, but they would meet again on Monday. Mr. Hoggan asked him what the people would meet for; to which Jasper answered, that he had not yet forgotten the building of Mr. Henderson's house.

THOMAS MACGILL.

Before me:

CHRISTOPHER LOWNDES.

[No. 9.]

To the Honourable the Delegates of the Freemen of the Province of MARYLAND, in Convention now assembled: The Memorial of JAMES CHRISTIE, Jun., of BALTIMORE County, humbly sheweth:

That your memorialist did, on the twenty-second day of February last, write the letter (a copy of which is hereunto annexed) to his friend and cousin germane, Lieutenant-Colonel Christie, in the Island of Antigua; that at the time of writing the said letter your memorialist unfortunately could not approve of the measures then pursued in this Province, as a Petition from the honourable Continental Congress was then lying at the foot of the Throne of Great Britain, the result of which was not at that time known in America.

That the said letter having been intercepted by means to your memorialist altogether unknown, was, on the 13th of July, instant, laid before the Committee of Baltimore County, who came to such resolutions on the same as will appear to this Convention by copy of the proceedings hereunto annexed. That in pursuance of the said resolutions, your memorialist has already suffered a painful imprisonment, and hath paid to the guard appointed by the Committee the sum of thirty-one Pounds, seventeen Shillings and six Pence, current money, as will appear by the receipt for the same, ready to be produced.

That by a subsequent Resolution of the said Committee on the 24th instant, the said guard was discharged, on the application of your memorialist for that purpose, upon your memorialist giving an obligation, with five securities, not to depart the Province without leave of the said Committee, or this Convention. And your memorialist presumes, with all deference, to say, that the letter in question, the contents of which has excited so much uneasiness in the minds of the good people of this Province, could not be productive of any ill effect, being wrote by a private individual to his friend and relation, a person who had not the power, if he had the inclination, and who, from regard to his own private interest, and from the ties of blood, (his wife, family, and fortune, being in this Country,) cannot be supposed to be active in devising measures to crush the liberties thereof. And in the most solemn manner your memorialist avers, that he never harboured a wish to introduce a military force into this Province for the purpose of enslaving the inhabitants thereof. And your memorialist begs leave to add, that he is extremely sorry that his private opinion should have given any offence; he was far from intending any; he considered himself as writing to a friend in confidence, and had no expectation or wish that such private opinions would ever appear in publick, or be productive of any publick measures whatever.

That the said Committee having referred all further proceedings on your memorialist's case to the gentlemen delegated by this Province to the Continental Congress, and they having referred the same to the consideration of this Convention, obliges your memorialist to make this application, humbly to request that this honourable Convention will consider your memorialist's case, and discharge your memorialist and his securities from the said obligation, and also grant permission to your memorialist to depart the Province with all convenience, without molestation in person or property.

Your memorialist, relying upon the wisdom and humanity of this honourable Convention, most cheerfully submits his case to their decision, humbly praying that the blessings of peace and tranquillity may be restored to every part of the British Empire. That the rights and privileges of America may be established on a firm and lasting basis, and a speedy and honourable reconciliation take place between the Parent State and her Colonies, is the sincere wish of your memorialist,

JAMES CHRISTIE, JUN.

Baltimore, July 27, 1775.

[No. 10.]

Annapolis, August 11, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: We are, jointly with Mr. William Russell and Mr. Daniel Bowly, of Baltimore, owners of the Brig Nancy, Captain Sands. Some time in the month of May last, we chartered this brig to Messrs. Wallace, Davidson, and Johnson, to load with tobacco in Potomack, for London. She is now loaded, and ready to clear out on her intended voyage, but she having lain longer by a considerable time than was expected, in collecting her cargo, and the season having been remarkably dry, the worm have injured her bottom to such a degree as to render her unfit to proceed to sea; and before she can do so her cargo must be relanded and her bottom sheathed. Work of this kind cannot be done where she lays: we must have her up to Baltimore. Under these circumstances, the work being tedious, we are apprehensive the vessel cannot be finished previous to the tenth of September. It is our wish to make rules formed for the benefit of the community our line of conduct, nor would we, we assure you gentlemen, under any specious pretences, endeavour to infringe them. Our situation is a very peculiar one. We beg you will take it into consideration, and allow us, if not in our power to do it before, to reload the above cargo after the tenth of September. The vessel and cargo shall be cleared out before. We desire to be sworn as to the fitness and condition of the vessel to take in her cargo at the time of her going from Baltimore to Potomack.

We know the arduous business in which you are now engaged, gentlemen, must take up much of your attention. We are sorry to be an interruption to it, but hope our situation will be a sufficient apology, as well as further excuse us in desiring your speedy directions in this business, the condition of the vessel being such as to render some immediate steps necessary to be taken with her.

We are with respect, Gentlemen, your most obedient servants,

WILLIAM LUX,
MATTHEW RIDLEY.

[No. 12.]

August 2, 1775.

By the Committee appointed by the Honourable Provincial Convention to inquire into the practicability of establishing a Manufactory of Arms within this Province, and the expense and best mode to carry the same into execution:

Your Committee are of opinion, that the establishing a publick Manufactory of Arms in this Province would be attended with great expense, much delay, and would by no means answer the exigencies of the Province; but from the best information in so short a time to be procured, do conceive that Arms may be furnished sooner and at less expense, by engaging immediately all gunsmiths and others concerned in carrying on that business.

We, therefore, beg leave to recommend, that proper persons be appointed in each County to contract with the gunsmiths in their several Districts, and that a sum of publick money be lodged in their hands, to be advanced at their discretion to the contractors (on security) to enable them with greater expedition to fulfil their engagements.

There are three gunsmith shops in Baltimore Town, one in Georgetown, four in Fredericktown, one near Fredericktown, two in Hagerstown, and one in Jerusalem Town; in the whole amounting to twelve. We are informed that each of these shops can in one month complete twenty substantial Muskets, (the dimensions of which may be forty-two inches in length, three-fourths of an inch clear in the bore, one and a half inch diameter at the breech, and seven-eighths of an inch at the muzzle,) with steel Rammers, and Bayonets twenty inches in length, including the Stock.

The price of the Musket with its Bayonet may be about four Pounds; the Cartridge Box, of twenty three charges and sling, the sling for the Musket, the scabbard and belt for the Bayonet, will altogether cost about twenty Shillings; so that by this mode two hundred and forty Muskets may be furnished monthly: besides we are informed there are several gunsmiths on the Eastern Shore, and in other places.

And we apprehend, from the great encouragement artificers in this business will receive, their number will soon be greatly increased, and therefore the quantity of Arms we want may be furnished in a much shorter time than the above calculation supposes; and we offer it as our opinion, that a proportion of Rifles may be also had, if it should be found necessary. Should that be the case, we recommend them to be three feet four inches in length, and one half inch the bore; which we suppose may be had, well fixed, at about five Pounds each; and we apprehend that Swords and Tomahawks may also be manufactured in this Province.

If this mode meets with your approbation, we recommend that each Gun be proved before it shall be received, and when proved that the word "Maryland" be stamped on the barrel.

We further offer our opinion that the persons to be appointed to contract, shall from time advise the . . . . . of the number of Guns by them received, to the end that some further provision may be made in case this mode shall not be found to answer the purpose of procuring Arms with expedition.

All this we humbly submit to the consideration of the honourable Convention.

(No. 13.)

Association of the Freemen of MARYLAND, JULY 26, 1775.

The long premeditated, and now avowed design of the British Government to raise a revenue from the property of the Colonists, without their consent, on the gift, grant, and disposition of the Commons of Great Britain; the arbitrary and vindictive statutes passed under colour of punishing a riot, to subdue by military force and by famine the Massachusetts-Bay; the unlimited power assumed by Parliament to alter the Charter of that Province, and the Constitutions of all the Colonies, thereby destroying the essential securities of the lives, liberties and properties of the Colonists; the commencement of hostilities by the Ministerial forces, and the cruel prosecution of the war against the people of the Massachusetts-Bay, followed by General Gage's Proclamation, declaring almost the whole of the inhabitants of the United Colonies, by name or description, rebels and traitors; are sufficient causes to arm a free People in defence of their liberty, and to justify resistance, no longer dictated by prudence merely, but by necessity, and leave no alternative but base submission, or manly opposition to uncontrollable tyranny. The Congress chose the latter; and for the express purpose of securing and defending the United Colonies, and preserving them in safety against all attempts to carry the above mentioned Acts into execution by force of arms, resolved that the said Colonies be immediately put into a state of defence; and now support, at the joint expense, an Army to restrain the further violence, and repel the future attacks, of a disappointed and exasperated enemy.

We, therefore, inhabitants of the Province of Maryland, firmly persuaded that it is necessary and justifiable to repel force by force, do approve of the opposition by arms to the British Troops employed to enforce obedience to the late acts and statutes of the British Parliament, for raising a revenue in America, and altering and changing the Charter and Constitution of the Massachusetts-Bay, and for destroying the essential securities for the lives, liberties and properties of the subjects in the United Colonies. And we do unite and associate as one band, and firmly and solemnly engage and pledge ourselves to each other, and to America, that we will, to the utmost of our power, promote and support the present opposition carrying on, as well by arms, as by the Continental Association, restraining our commerce.

And as in these times of publick danger, and until a reconciliation with Great Britain on constitutional principles is effected, (an event we most ardently wish may soon take place,) the energy of Government may be greatly impaired, so that even zeal unrestrained may be productive of anarchy and confusion; we do, in like manner, unite, associate and solemnly engage in maintenance of good order and the publick peace, to support the civil power in the due execution of the laws, so far as may be consistent with the present plan of opposition, and to defend with our utmost power all persons from every species of outrage to themselves or their property, and to prevent any punishment from being inflicted on any offenders, other than such as shall be adjudged by the Civil Magistrate, the Continental Congress, our Convention, Council of Safety, or Committees of Observation.

KENT COUNTY (DELAWARE) COMMITTEE.

Agreeable to the recommendation of the late Committee of Inspection, "to choose a new Committee for said County," an election was held on the 14th instant in the several Hundreds of the County, when the following gentlemen were elected and chosen, viz: The Honourable Cesar Rodney, Esq., William Meredith, John Dill, James Moor, James Tilton, John Banning, William Killen, Vincent Loockerman, Benedict Brice, Benjamin Coombe, Nathaniel Luff, John Clark, John Davis, Ryneer Williams, Elijah Morris, Belitha Laws, Benjamin Clark, William Cullen, William Cahoon, Edward Rees, Isaac Carty, Thomas Skillington, Silas Snow, Ezekiel Needham, Wil- liam Jordan, James Starling, James Wells, Jacob Stout, John Bell, Emanuel Stout, Risden Bishop, Joshua Gordon, John Gordon, Vincent Loockerman, Jun., Jonathan Caldwell, Thomas Rodney; who convened at Dover on the 17th instant, formed themselves in Committee, and proceeded to the choice of a Chairman and Clerk, when the Honourable Cesar Rodney was unanimously elected Chairman, and Mr. Mark McCall, Clerk.

The Committee then proceeded to appoint a Committee of Correspondence, and the following gentlemen were unanimously chosen for that purpose, to wit: Thomas Rodney, James Tilton, William Killen, John Banning, and Vincent Loockerman. MARK MCCALL, Clerk.

PHILADELPHIA COMMITTEE.

Committee Chamber, August 14, 1775.

Resolved, That this Committee recommend to the inhabitants to choose the new Committee for six months.

August 15.—It being represented to the Committee by the inhabitants of Southwark, that the mode of voting in a general ticket at the ensuing election, is disagreeable to them, it is now agreed and recommended that they vote for their Representatives in Committee in a separate ticket.

Resolved, That the Fourth Article of the Association of the General Congress be inserted in the publick prints; and that this Committee are of opinion, that by the said Resolution no Vessel can be permitted to sail for Great Britain, Ireland, or the West-Indies, after the 9th day of September next.

"Fourth. The earnest desire we have not to injure our fellow-subjects in Great Britain, Ireland, or the West-Indies, induces us to suspend a non-exportation until the 10th day of September, 1775; at which time, if the said Acts and parts of Acts of the British Parliament hereinafter mentioned, are not repealed, we will not, directly or indirectly, export any Merchandise or commodity whatsoever to Great Britain, Ireland, or the West-Indies, except Rice to Europe."

The Committee resumed the consideration of the conduct of Messrs. Blackburne, Ashton, and John Dobson, of Liverpool, in shipping a cargo of Salt, per Brig Polly, to America.

It appeared that those gentlemen, having a full knowledge of the Association of the American Congress, had knowingly and wilfully concurred in shipping the said Salt, in direct violation of the same; that recourse had been had to artifice and interest with the Captain, in behalf of his owner, to influence him to take the Salt on board; and that the Captain had been expressly, in writing, directed to inform himself of the names of such persons in America as should oppose or obstruct the landing of the Salt, and transmit the same to England, under the seal of the Governour of the Province, or, if that could not be procured, of a Notary Publick.

Resolved, That the above be made publick, in order that the conduct of those gentlemen may be known to the good people of America, and that the Resolves of the Congress with respect to such persons may be strictly and sacredly carried into execution.

R. B. SMITH, Secretary.

DECLARATION OF JOHN BERGUM.

Philadelphia, August 14, 1775.

Whereas, it has been made to appear by the evidences of several of my fellow-citizens, that I, John Bergum, have made use of sundry expressions derogatory to the liberty of this Country: I do hereby confess myself very much to blame for my behaviour, and do promise that I will, for the future, conduct myself as a true friend to America, and assist those of the inhabitants thereof who are now struggling against the encroachments of arbitrary power, by every means I am capable of, and do freely and without restraint agree that the above Declaration be published in the Newspapers of this City; as witness my hand this 14th day of August, 1775.

JOHN BERGUM,

Inn-Keeper, at the Sign of the Bull's-Head, in Strawberry Alley, Philadelphia.

NEW-PALTZ COMMITTEE TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

HONOURABLE GENTLEMEN: Agreeable to your order of the ninth August, 1775, the East District of New-Paltz assembled on the fourteenth of this instant, and chose, by plurality of voices, of the soldiers belonging to said District, the following officers for their Militia, viz:

Peleg Ransom, Captain; Nathaniel Potter, First Lieutenant; Hugh Cole, Second Lieutenant; William Danielson, Ensign.

We are, Gentlemen, your very humble servants,

EBENEZER PERKINS,

ABRAHAM DONALDSON,

Two of the Committee of New-Paltz.

ULSTER COUNTY COMMITTEE TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Kingston, August 14, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: As our officers have made a promise to the men they have enlisted in the Continental service, that each soldier should have a coat, a drilling jacket, and breeches, two shirts, two pair of stockings, a pair of shoes, and a hat, over and above their monthly pay and subsistence:

Whereas Colonel Wynkoop has received orders to march the companies that are here raised, and has also received a resolve of your honourable Board, that each man is to have only a coat and blanket, which makes the soldiers almost in general very uneasy, and say they will not stir or march before they have received what is promised to them by the officers, or at least that the officers shall pass their word that they shall receive their full clothing in Albany, (then they are willing to march immediately;) we are at a loss how to act in this affair. We beg the favour of you to lay this matter before the Congress immediately, for their further orders and directions. In case the men shall not be allowed any more than a coat and a blanket, we are afraid the men almost in general will refuse to march. We beg of you to send us further directions, by this express, without fail. The Colonel has ordered the companies to march the latter end of this week.

We are, Gentlemen, your most obedient and most humble servants. By order of the Committee:

JOHANNES SLEIGHT, Chairman.

GENERAL WOOSTER TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Oyster-Ponds, August 14, 1775.

SIR: Your favour of the 10th instant, with three hundred pounds of powder, per Captain Griffin, I received; and now acquaint your Honour, that last Friday morning a large sloop-of-war and twelve transports sailed round Plumb-Island. After they had got through the gut, I sent one hundred and twenty men in three boats, which were all the boats we then had, to said island, if possible to get off the stock, with orders to return immediately upon the first appearance of the enemy's attempting to bring away any of their shipping between the island and Oyster-Pond Point, lest their retreat might be cut off, it being impossible to support them without boats. Before the last boat had got over, the sloop-of-war was observed to be returning, and wind and tide favouring her, our boats were obliged to put back again, the hindmost of which had several cannon fired at her, but at so great a distance they did no damage. A cutter came within fifteen or twenty rods of our last, but discovering there were armed men in the boat, stopped their pursuit. Our soldiers in the boat, and some others on the beach, then fired at them, but I fancy to little effect, as our boat was obliged to make all sail possible to keep out of the reach of the cannon from the ship-of-war, which was close behind them. The sloop-of-war then came to anchor between the point and the island, and that night took from the island nine cattle, and then joined the fleet, which came to very early on Saturday morning, and I suppose have gone to Boston.

I have since taken from Plumb-Island their cattle and sheep, and the inhabitants have engaged to thrash out their grain and convey it from the island as soon as possible. I shall to-morrow go to Gardiner's Island, and make such dispositions as shall appear most conducive to the common good. I expect by Thursday to be able to embark for New-York.

I am informed Colonel Willart told the people on Gardiner's Island that he intended to pay Long-Island a visit before fall; and also, that the King's Troops had been invited to purchase provisions at Brookhaven and Flushing. In consequence of this intelligence, the Committee of Brookhaven, Smithtown, and the other adjacent Towns, have taken and sent to me the Reverend James Lyon, a Church of England Clergyman, a man of infamous character, but a pretty sensible fellow, who they say has corresponded with Henry Lloyd, of Boston. This Parson Lyon, by what I can learn, is the main spring of all the tories on that part of Long-Island. He has considerable money at interest in different hands among his neighbours, which gains him an ascendancy over them, and he has been indefatigable, both by writing and preaching, and in every other way, to gain proselytes; and by his connexions with those in other parts of the country, who are inimical to the cause we are embarked in, he will be able to do great mischief. The Committees of the several adjacent Towns, thinking him a very dangerous person to remain among them, have desired me to take care of him. I shall therefore, by the first opportunity, send him to the care of the Committee of Hartford, till they can receive your Honour's orders concerning him.

I am, with the greatest sincerity, your Honour's most obedient humble servant,
DAVID WOOSTER.

P. S. I enclose Colonel Willart's account of the stock he took from Gardiner's Island.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Ticonderoga, August 14, 1775.

SIR: Your Honour's favour of the 8th instant, enclosing a pamphlet, &c., I received this morning.

I hope the Provincial Congress of this Colony will make no delay in forwarding Colonel Hinman's tents, as I propose moving in a few days, although not so strong as I could wish, and very indifferently appointed. Should the tents not arrive in time, Colonel Hinman's people will suffer much, and so will Colonel Easton's; the former has yesterday returned me one hundred and forty-six sick; of the latter, forty-eight out of one hundred and ninety-six.

Permit me to congratulate you on your son's appointment, which must be the more agreeable to you, as I find it is universally approved of.

Having very little paper left, I am under the necessity of sending this without cover, and which also induces me to get your Honour to send a line to Colonel Mott to make all possible haste up, as I shall not be able to move without him, unless Congress prevents my going forward.

I am your Honour's most obedient humble servant,

PH. SCHUYLER.

The Hon. Jonathan Trumbull, Esq., &c. &c.

COLONEL HINMAN TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Ticonderoga, August 14, 1775.

SIR: This morning I received your favour of the 8th inst.; am sorry to tell you that my Regiment is yet sickly; a great number unfit for duty; those well in good spirits; hope soon to be employed in action. Colonel Waterbury's Regiment about half arrived; the rest soon expected. The Province of New-York abounds with officers, but I have not had my curiosity gratified by the sight of one private.

Your Honour has expectation that my Regiment will speedily be supplied with tents, as New-York has undertaken it. Shall be glad if disappointed in my expectation, for we shall much want them.

I am, Sir, your Honour's obedient humble servant,

BENJ. HINMAN.

Governour Trumbull.

MAJOR JOHN BROWN TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Crown Point, August 14, 1775.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY: On the 24th of last month, by the General's order, I set out for Canada with four men, with directions to penetrate the country, and get all the intelligence that could be had in regard to the military preparations making there by the King's Troops, Canadians, or Indians; what the situation of St. John's Chamblly, Montreal, and Quebeck; how many Troops at each place; whether the Canadians designed to take up arms against us; whether any re-enforcement had arrived in the Colony, &c.

I arrived in Canada on the 30th; had a tedious and fatiguing march through a vast tract of swamp lying on the west side of the lake, in which I lodged three nights; but passing by the particulars of the adventure, how pursued and surrounded by a large party of the enemy, when in a house escaping out of a back window, and pursued two days on my return; notwithstanding which I continued in the country four days, being protected by the Canadians, who, I can assure you are our friends, without whose protection I must have fallen into the hands of the enemy. It is impossible for me to describe the kindness received from the French, as also their distressed situation, being threatened with destruction from the King's Troops, by fire and sword, because they refuse to take up arms against the Colonies. They wish and long for nothing more than to see us with an army penetrate their country. They engage to supply us with every thing in their power. The Indians are determined to act in conjunction with the Canadians.

Colonel Guy Johnson has arrived at Montreal with a party of three hundred, mostly tenants, unacquainted with arms. There are also some Indians arrived with him, via Swago. They held a council with the Iroquois and St. Louis, and are determined to act with Canadians, except it be to go on discovery.

The Regulars are fortifying St. John's; have raised two batteaus, which mount nine guns each. They have intrenched and picketed out some distance from their other works. Two large row-gallies, of sixty or eighty feet length each, are on the stocks, and will be finished soon; they mount twelve guns each. There are about seven hundred of the King's Troops in Canada, near three hundred at St. John's, about fifty at Quebeck, the remainder at Montreal, Chamblly, and at the upper post.

Now, Sir, is the time to carry Canada. It may be done with great ease and little cost, and I have no doubt but the Canadians would join us. There is a great defection amongst them. They have lately raised a mob, fired on the French officers lately appointed, and taken away their commissions. They were under arms several days, and it seemed that the King's Troops dared not resent it; but their Captain, with one of my men, (a Canadian), whom I sent to Montreal to do business, are both taken prisoners, and in close hold. This, I imagine, will raise the resentment of the Canadians to a higher pitch than any thing that has yet been done.

I left the county on the 3d instant. Being informed by the Canadians, that two scouts, of fifty men each, were sent out often, the one up the lake, the other to Montreal, I steered to the east-northeast three days, and came to the Bay of Missisque, where I got a small canoe, and on the 10th instant arrived at the Point.

Should a large re-enforcement arrive in Canada, it will turn the scale immediately. The Canadians must then take up arms, or be ruined. It seems that some evil planet has reigned in this quarter this year, for notwithstanding the season is far advanced, and a fine opportunity presents of making ourselves masters of a country with the greatest ease, which I fear may cost us much blood and treasure if delayed, New-York have acted a droll part, and are determined to defeat us, if in their power. They have failed in men and supplies, &c.

I beg your Honour's pardon for troubling you with this letter; but as every friend and well-wisher to the success of our arms are curious to the probability of the success, I have taken on me to acquaint your Honour of the state of Canada, which doubtless you may have from the General in a more perfect manner. It is by Mr. Bennet's motion, in part, that I give your Honour this trouble. I hope as my paper, ink, and eye-sight are bad, that you will pass by mistakes.

I am, Sir, your Honour's most obedient humble servant,
JOHN BROWN.

To Governour Trumbull.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER DATED CROWN POINT, AUGUST 14, 1775.

Yesterday came in two subalterns who had been down the lakes, as far as Onion River, to procure all the watercraft on the lake. On their return one of them turned in to see one Gilliland, a Justice of the Peace, late a merchant in New-York, now settled about thirty miles down the lake, a man of great interest and our zealous friend. They were scarce seated when one White, High Sheriff of Try-on County, (at Sir William Johnson's), with two others, entered without ceremony, and inquired for Mr. Gilliland. After a few words our men disarmed them. Soon after came up one more white man, with three Indians, who, seeing the situation of their friends, attempted to make their escape, but were soon taken and safely conducted to this place. The Indians say they came to take Mr. Gilliland and carry him to Canada, as White and his accomplices could stay no longer at Tryon County, the people there were so enraged against them. The Indians are dismissed with presents, but the others sentenced to Newgate, in Simsbury, whose gloomy mansions are judged a suitable abode for those sons of darkness.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Camp at Cambridge, August 14, 1775.

SIR: Your favour of the seventh, eighth, and twelfth instant, are all received. The detention of the new-raised levies has happily coincided with my intentions respecting them. In the present uncertainty I think it best they should continue where they are, and I hope their officers will be assiduous in disciplining and improving them in the use of their arms.

Upon the subject of powder I am at a loss what to say. Our necessities are so great, and it is of such importance that this Army should have a full supply, that nothing but the most urgent and pressing exigence would make it proper to detain any on its way. I have been informed that fifteen hogsheads were lately landed at New-York, and that further supplies were daily expected, both there and at Connecticut. Should there be any arrivals, I beg no time may be lost in forwarding this from Hartford, and what can be spared from the necessary Colony stock. Indeed, at present, I should choose you to forward one of these wagons, and the other may remain where it is till we see the issue of our expectations on this head. The removal from Boston I consider as very precarious, by no means desiring to have so much stress laid on it. We begin to feel a scarcity of lead; and as I do not learn that we are to expect any from the southward, I have concluded that a part of the stock found at Ticonderoga should be brought down, and for this purpose have wrote to General Schuyler. I am not sufficiently master of the geography of the country to know the easiest mode of conveyance, but from the time in which letters have come through your hands, I apprehend through Connecticut must be the best and most expeditious. You will therefore be pleased to give us your assistance, and take the direction of this matter into your own hands, to which I have not the least doubt you will attend, as well to the expense as other circumstances conducive to the publick service.

Nothing new in the camp for several days past. Three deserters have come in within these eighteen hours, but they bring no intelligence of any consequence.

I am, Sir, &c.

GO. WASHINGTON.

P.S. Since writing the above, I have been informed there is a lead mine in your Colony which may be worked to advantage. Cut off from all foreign supplies, every internal resource is worthy of attention; and I make no doubt, if my information is just, some proper steps may be taken to turn this to the publick advantage.

Governour Trumbull.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GOVERNOUR COOKE.

Camp at Cambridge, August 14, 1775.

SIR: Your favours of the eighth and eleventh instant are duly received; the former I laid before the General Court of this Province, but one of the Delegates having communicated to them what Mr. Ward did to you, of the proceeding of the Continental Congress touching this powder, nothing was done towards the providing of specie, that the vessel might proceed to other places in case of a disappointment at the first. I am of opinion that the collection of any considerable sum here would be difficult in the time proposed, and I think there is the less necessity for it, as there are few Colonies who have not some vessel out on this errand, and will probably bring all that is at market. Having conversed with Colonel Porter, and further considered the matter, I am of opinion that it ought to be prosecuted on the single footing of procuring what is in the magazine. The voyage is short; our necessity is great; the expectation of being supplied by the inhabitants of the island, under such hazards as they must run, is slender: so that the only chance of success is by a sudden stroke. There is a great difference between acquiescing in the measure and becoming principals; the former we have great reason to expect, the latter is doubtful. The powder, by all our information, is publick property, so that, as you observe, it may be settled with our other accounts. The draughting of men from hence would be very difficult, and endanger a discovery of the scheme. I am not clear that I have power to send them off the Continent; and to engage them as volunteers it would be necessary to make their destination known. I should suppose the Captain, who is to have the direction of this enterprise, would rather choose to have men whom he knew, and in whom he could confide, in preference to strangers. From what Colonel Porter informs me, I do not see that Harris's presence is absolutely necessary; and as his terms would add considerably to the expense, after obtaining from him all the intelligence he could give, his attendance might be dispensed with. The vessel lately sent out to cruise for the powder, seems to me the properest for this voyage; and as the ten days will soon be out, if no objection occurs to you she might be despatched.

I have given directions respecting the lead at Ticonderoga, which I am of opinion, with you, is the surest mode of supply in that article.

I have sent, by this opportunity, a hunting-shirt pattern. I should be glad you would inform me of the number you think I may expect.

I had flattered myself that the vigilance of the inhabitants on the islands and coasts would have disappointed the enemy in their late expedition after live stock. I hope nothing will be omitted by the several Committees and other persons, to guard against any future attempts, by removing all the stock from those places where their shipping can protect them in plundering. I do assure you, Sir, that it would be rendering a most essential service to the publick interest. Their distresses before were very great, and if renewed after their present supply is exhausted, must be productive of very great advantages.

I am, Sir, &c.,

GO. WASHINGTON.

To Governour Cooke, Rhode-Island.

COLONEL HUNTINGTON TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Roxbury Camp, August 14, 1775.

HONOURED SIR: There is the ensign in my own Company vacant. I have one Mr. Newell, in Major Clarke's Company, to fill it, if it is agreeable. I am told three of my Companies are ordered to New-London. I hope they will soon join the Regiment consistent with the publick safety. The Army is very sickly, but there are not many deaths. Captain Chester has had thirty-one of his Company in the hospital together.

Our medicine chests will soon be exhausted. As soon as the supply of powder expected arrives, I imagine General Putnam will knock up a dust. He has got one floating battery launched, and another on the stocks.

I remain, with proper respects to all, your dutiful and affectionate son,

JED. HUNTINGTON.

Governour Trumbull.

Watertown, August 14, 1775.

Let this be published in all the Publick Prints.

It is requested by very many people, that all the Committees throughout the Continent do take down the names of any person or persons who shall depreciate the credit of, or refuse the circulating paper currency of any Colony in payment of debts, goods, wares, or merchandise, and make return of such persons' names, upon oath, to the Congress of such Colony whose money may be so refused, that they may take measures accordingly.

VOX POPULI.

STEPHEN PEABODY TO NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Atkinson, August 14, 1775.

SIR: Yours of the eighth instant lately came to hand, in which I have an invitation from the honourable Committee aforesaid, to engage in the character of a Chaplain in the service of my Country. In answer to which you will give me leave to say, that the proposal was to me new, and altogether unexpected, and my domestick affairs at present in a situation somewhat unfavourable to such an undertaking. But, Sir, the honour of the invitation, the justice of the cause, together with my own sincere desire to promote the weal of America, and her freedom from a state of vassalage, are considerations which by far outweigh personal interest or private embarrassments, and therefore, with gratitude and self-diffidence, I have concluded to undertake the services of that important trust, humbly imploring that wisdom and prudence which shall enable me to perform every duty with fidelity, and not to reflect dishonour upon this Colony. And as I have had but short notice to prepare, should take it as a favour if the time of my joining the Army might be for a few days postponed, circumstances admitting; however, shall wait your farther commands, and govern myself accordingly.

With wishing that all your councils may be under the divine direction, and crowned with abundant success, I am, Sir, with all proper diffidence, your most obedient humble servant,
STEPHEN PEABODY.

To the Honourable Matthew Thornton, Esq., Chairman of the Committee of Safety, for the Colony of New-Hampshire, now sitting at Exeter.

NEW-YORK COMMITTEE.

The Committee met August 15, 1775. Present: Henry Remsen, Chairman, and thirty-three Members.

The Sub-Committee appointed to examine the evidences which were named by the Provincial Congress, made their Report, with the examinations, concerning the destruction of the Barge; which was accepted, and the Chairman, or his Deputy, ordered to sign the same, and deliver it to the President of the Provincial Congress.

Ordered, That the following Members be a Committee to consider of the most expeditious and effectual method to carry into execution the Resolves of our Provincial Congress of the ninth instant, for dividing this City and County into Districts or Beats, and make a return of the names of the inhabitants that by said Resolves are to serve in the Militia, viz: Jacob Van Voorhies, Wm. Denning, George Janeway, Gabriel H. Ludlow, Frederick Jay, Hercules Mulligan, John Berrian, Comfort Sands, Peter Byanck, Cornelius P. Low, William Bedlow, Abraham Brinkerhoff, Oliver Templeton, John Broome, Eleazer Miller, Nicholas Roosevelt, Theophilus Anthony, Wm. Gilbert, Gerret Kettletas.

New-York, August 16, 1775.

The Sub-Committee, appointed by the General Committee to divide the City and County of New-York into Beats or Districts for forming the Militia, agreeable to the Resolution of the Continental and Provincial Congresses, request that the Captains of Colonel Lasher's Battalion, the Independent and Associated Companies, Captains of Light-Horse and Hussars, furnish their respective men forthwith, with certificates of their being enlisted in their said companies, the better to enable the Committee to form the said Beats agreeable to the said Resolution.

WILLIAM BEDLOW, Chairman.

WILLIAM DUER TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-York, August 15, 1775.

SIR: I had the honour of receiving by Col. Campbell your letter of the 20th of July last, enclosing me a commission as Deputy Adjutant-General to the Continental Army, with the rank of Colonel.

As your honourable House has been pleased to confer this honour on me unanimously, and without my solicitation, I consider with respect and gratitude this mark of their confidence in my zeal for the publick service.

I lament, extremely, that it has not been in my power to officiate immediately in this necessary department; but my appointment being totally unexpected, I have not been able to arrange my connexions with my brothers in the Island of Dominica, so as to prevent the risk of their fortune by my political conduct; were I to neglect this point, I should be insensible to honour, and consequently unworthy of the trust reposed in me. I have, therefore, proceeded to Town on the immediate receipt of your letter, in order to submit my engagements with my brothers to the opinion of such friends whose candour and judgment are most likely to assist me, and entreat the favour of your Convention to grant me an indulgence of three days, before I declare whether or not I can accept of the commission you have been pleased to nominate me for.

Be assured, Sir, that my bosom glows with the warmest zeal for the cause of America, and that I will strenuously support it at the risk of every thing except honour and virtue.

I am, with great respect, your obedient humble servant,
W. DUER.

Peter Van Brugh Livingston, Esq.

JACOB WYNKOOP TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-York, August 15, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: It is with the utmost reluctance I am induced to trouble you with the mention of any private or personal discontent, and thereby to withdraw any part of your attention from the weightier publick matters with which it must be engaged; but I confide in your candour that the causes of it will appear to you so reasonable, as to be admitted a sufficient apology for my involuntary intrusion.

I feel the difficulty of addressing you in a manner that may seem to carry the appearance of arrogating to myself a higher degree of merit than you have thought me possessed of, by placing me in the station you did; but as I have reason to think you were unacquainted with the circumstances from which arises my dissatisfaction with the appointment you have been pleased to honour me with, I hope it will not be esteemed improper or unbecoming, to lay them before you.

I have served in the two last wars both by sea and by land, and have been in many engagements. I have a commission from General Shirley as Captain of a company of batteauxmen; and in consequence of an action under Col. Broadstreet, in which we lost forty-nine men the first fire, I was honoured, with the command of His Excellency General Gage, to be called by the name of his company, to whom his baggage was always entrusted; and had likewise the offer of a commission in the "Royal Americans." I have a good deal of experience of cannon as well as small arms. To these circumstances let me add, I am now fifty-one years old.

I confess I expected to have had an appointment in the First Battalion; but by arrangement lately published, I find I am postponed to the Fourth, and there hold only the rank of Eighth Captain. According to this adjustment, I am to receive the command from thirty-seven Captains who are made my superiors in rank and authority, which, considering my age and experience, and the youth and inexperience of most of those who are placed above me, not to disparage their intrinsic merit, appears to me to exhibit a very exceptionable and derogatory preference, which cannot fail being extremely unpleasant to any man tinctured with but a moderate share of emulation.

With humble deference, therefore, I entreat you will condescend to take the matter under consideration, and if you conceive my complaint well founded, will be pleased to redress it; for in justice to myself I am compelled to declare, that though I am ready with alacrity to hazard my life in the cause of my Country, yet I cannot be satisfied to do it on terms which I must confess I look upon as somewhat degrading, since a preference is given to many, whose title to a superiority over me I am unable to discern the foundation of.

I am, Gentlemen, with the utmost respect and regard, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JACOBUS WYNKOOP.

To the Honourable Provincial Congress of New-York.

A Return of the names of the persons for the Officers of the Second Battalion in SUFFOLK County, taken according to the directions of the Provincial Congress by the Committees of EASTHAMPTON and SOUTHAMPTON.

First Company: David Howell, Captain; Jeremiah Post, First Lieutenant; Paul Jones, Second Lieutenant; Zephaniah Rogers, Ensign.

Second Company: John Dayton, Jun., Captain; Isaac

Mulford Hunting, First Lieutenant; John Miller, Jun., Second Lieutenant; William Heges, Jun., Ensign.
 Third Company: David Pierson, Captain; Daniel Heges, First Lieutenant; David Sayre, Second Lieutenant; Theophilus Pierson, Ensign.
 Fourth Company: David Fithan, Captain; Samuel Conkling, First Lieutenant; Thomas Baker, Second Lieutenant; Daniel Conkling, Ensign.
 Fifth Company: Stephen Howell, Captain; John White, Jun., First Lieutenant; Lemuel Wick, Second Lieutenant; Isaac Halsey, Ensign.
 Sixth Company: William Rogers, Jun., Captain; Jesse Halsey, First Lieutenant; Henry Halsey, Second Lieutenant; Nathaniel Rogers, Ensign.
 Seventh Company: Josiah Howell, Jun., Captain; Nathaniel Howell, First Lieutenant; Matthew Howell, Second Lieutenant; William Stephens, Ensign.
 Eighth Company: Samuel L'Hommiedieu, Captain; Silas Jessup, First Lieutenant; Edward Conkling, Second Lieutenant; Daniel Fordham, Ensign.
 Ninth Company: John Sanford, Captain; Edward Topping, First Lieutenant; Philip Howell, Second Lieutenant; John Hildreth, Ensign.

Signed by order of the Committee:

DANIEL HOWELL, Chairman,

August 15, 1775.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Ticonderoga, August 15, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Yesterday I was favoured with a line from Mr. Francis Lewis, dated Philadelphia, August 2d. He advises me that Congress was adjourned, and that in future I was to address myself to you; that he had received several of my letters to the Continental Congress, which he would lay before you; but as he does not mention of what date, I suppose there are none later than the 27th ultimo, and that the subsequent ones of the 28th and 31st ultimo, 2d and 6th instant, had not come to hand; copies of the two last of which I enclose you, with copies of such of the papers alluded to as may be of consequence, lest those letters should not be delivered you.

Since my last, Major Brown is returned from Canada; he did not complete my wishes; enclosed you have his reports. I cannot learn that either the Regular Troops or Indians have been farther south than the latitude of 45; I suppose they are apprehensive of an attack. Captain Smith fell in with an officer, sergeant, and ten Indians; he wished to speak to them, but they retired to their boats, and on his approach they fired three volleys, but did not shoot or wound any.

I shall soon have boats sufficient to move what men I am likely to have here, and therefore wish that any of the articles requested in my estimate, and which have not yet been sent, together with such as I have subsequently applied for, may be immediately forwarded to me. Cartridge paper, and the various articles necessary in the artillery branch, (except guns,) I have none of, and as I cannot make a substitute for any, I wish that not one moment's delay may be made in sending them from New-York, with orders that they may not be detained at any place.

I am, Gentlemen, with great respect and esteem, your most obedient humble servant,

PH. SCHUYLER.

To the New-York Provincial Congress.

FAIRFIELD (CONNECTICUT) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Committee of Inspection for the Town of Fairfield, held in the Court-House on the 15th day of August, A. D. 1775:

It was voted and agreed, that the Committee of Inspection in each Society be desired to notify the inhabitants in each Society in this Town, to meet in Society meeting on Monday next, in order to subscribe an Association, to show that they are friends to the liberties and privileges of their Country, and that the enemies of it may be known. And that said Committee do, after said meeting, apply to all such persons as shall not attend, in order to give them an opportunity to subscribe; and that they also take down in writing the names of all those enemies of their Country that are of age, who refuse to subscribe; and that said Committee make report of their doings to this Committee, at their meeting to be held at the Court-House on the last Monday of August.

The following Association being prepared, was ordered to be sent into the different parts of the Town to be subscribed by the inhabitants, viz:

"Whereas, the British Administration have long been plotting against the liberties of America, and finally stepped forth and openly avowed their wicked system, and are now pursuing measures, which, if successful, will terminate in the total destruction of American liberty: And whereas, the United English Colonies, by their honourable Delegates in Congress, have entered into an Association which, if strictly and faithfully observed, will, in our opinion, have a happy tendency to awaken the attention of our fellow-subjects in Great Britain, and other parts of the British Empire, and convince them of the ill policy and injustice of those measures: And whereas, by a blind infatuation, the British Government have been persuaded to lend their aid to our misinformed Sovereign, and his wicked Ministers, to send Troops and Armies into our once happy land, for the purpose of enforcing certain oppressive and unconstitutional acts of Parliament: The United Colonies, firmly persuaded of the justice of their cause, and that resistance is indispensable, committing their cause to Heaven, have opposed force to force, and are determined to die or be free. We, whose names are underwritten, being alarmed at the present state of publick affairs, and finding no alternative but to resist with force or submit, are determined to make a bold struggle, and use every manly effort to defend those rights which we claim as men, Christians, and freemen. In the first place, we do hereby declare our hearty approbation of the Continental Association, and our fixed resolution faithfully to observe and comply with the same, according to the true spirit and meaning thereof, without any equivocation or mental reservation. And we do further declare, that we are fully persuaded of the necessity and perfect justice of the forcible resistance that has already been made to the Ministerial Troops sent into this Country to dragoon us into slavery; and do gratefully acknowledge and notice the smiles of Divine Providence on all our means of defence, in crowning all our warlike enterprises with unparalleled success; and being determined to pursue the same line of conduct that has already been pursued, we do now unanimously agree and associate with each other, and with all the friends of liberty throughout this land, to exert ourselves in every manly, prudent, and effectual measure in concert with our brethren throughout this Continent, in opposition to every lawless attempt that may be made by our unnatural enemies to deprive us of our liberties, and subject us to a state of slavery, choosing rather to die freemen than live in a state of servile subjection to any man or body of people on the face of the earth."

Which, agreeable to order, was offered to the inhabitants of the Town of Fairfield, and subscribed by eight hundred and fifty-five male persons of the age of sixteen years and upwards; and there were seventy in number that refused to subscribe the same, whose names are as follow, viz:

Daniel Wheeler, Eliphalet Wheeler, Daniel Cable, John Jackson, Jun., Nathan Jackson, Adin Jackson, Samuel Bennet, James Chambers, Nathaniel Hubbel, Solomon Burton, Jun., Ebenezer Edwards, Hezekiah Jennings, Eleazer Hall, Benjamin Curtis, Daniel Lyon, Gershom Lyon, Jonathan Lyon, Daniel Lyon, Jun., Thomas Lyon, Gershom Lyon, Jun., William Cardwell, John Mann, Ebenezer Lord, Joseph Edwards, Timothy Hubbel, Ebenezer Lyon, Abel Curtiss, Joseph Lyon, Abel Lyon, Thomas Turney, Benjamin Turney, Thomas Turney, Jun., Ebenezer Thorp, John Thorp, Ebenezer Mills, Josiah Cable, Benoni Dimon, Moses Burr, Epaphras Murwin, Enoch Turrel, Stephen Gilbert, Gershom Dimon, Calvin Wheeler, Rev. John Sayre, Benjamin Whitear, Samuel Adams, Samuel Turney, Stephen Gold, Archibald Campbell, John Sturgis, Ebenezer Hall, John Lockwood, Jabez Lockwood, Ephraim Lockwood, Ebenezer Gray, Lockwood Gray, Josiah Wheeler, Bailey Stilson, Jonathan Coley, Peter Guyer, Ebenezer Guyer, Daniel Morhouse, David Morhouse, Samuel Lord, Jabez Thorp, Jun., Gideon Lockwood, Thaddeus Squier, John Adams.

The above and foregoing is a true copy of the votes and proceedings, which were ordered to be made publick.

THADDEUS BURR, Clerk to said Committee.

Mr. HOLT, Sir: The Letter which the Rev. Mr. Sayre sent unto the Committee, I send you, as he is very desirous of having it published, to show the world why he did not sign the Association, and the Committee have agreed that it may be. I am, Sir, your very humble servant,

THADDEUS BURR.

GENTLEMEN: Yesterday my neighbour, Mr. Lewis, called on me with a paper, styled an Association, which he informed me was sent by your desire with a view that I should subscribe it. Of that paper I requested a copy, that I might have time to consider of the propriety of the desired subscription, and was served with it the same day about noon, and now beg the candid attention of the gentlemen of the Committee, while I give them my answer to their requisition.

I shall first consider the paper with respect to its particular parts, and then with regard to its general intention.

The first clause contains a recital of some of those things which are commonly charged against the Mother Country, as unconstitutional (and therefore unwarrantable) exertions of power on her part; and of the Resolutions of the "United Colonies" on their part, to resist by force of arms the measures prescribed by the Parent State; and to die or be free. I beg to be considered as a servant (though unworthy) of the gospel of Christ, who am informed by one of its inspired preachers, that the "weapons of our warfare are not carnal, but mighty through God, to the bringing every thought to the obedience of Christ;" which expressions plainly designate them to be spiritual. I dare not, therefore, promise to take up and use any carnal arms at all. The same apostle teacheth me, that "in whatsoever state I am, therewith I must be content." If, therefore, the providence of God should bring me into a state even of slavery itself, I desire that his will may be done; and that I may be content with that lot, (however hard,) and considering myself at the same time as being the Lord's freeman, may cheerfully as well as faithfully discharge my duties in that state, knowing that in Christ Jesus there is neither bond nor free. I dare not, therefore, resolve that I will be free, because I am sensible that many better men than myself have, by the providence of God, been permitted to be brought into a state of bondage; and that I ought not to complain if I should be made partaker of the same affliction.

The second clause of the paper before me contains a hearty approbation of the Continental Association, and a resolution "faithfully to observe and comply with it, without any equivocation or mental reservation." There is one part of that Association (especially as it hath been practised upon here) with which I dare not promise to comply. My conscience will not permit me to act upon it, and our common Master hath commanded me to "let my yea be yea, and my nay nay;" and I am also enjoined "to speak the truth to my neighbour in love." I must not therefore, gentlemen, equivocate with you.

The part I mean is that which prohibits me from extending the kind offices of humanity and hospitality to any who may refuse to be bound by it. The Saviour of the world, whose servant I am, hath commanded me "to feed the hungry; to give drink to the thirsty; to clothe the naked; to take in the stranger, or traveller; to give to him that asketh of me, and not to turn away from him who would borrow of me." Here it will be to no purpose to say, that such or such persons are mine enemies; because our Lord hath expressly, and that too in an especial manner, commanded me to extend my good offices to mine enemies as such. And I beg the Committee to remember, that Ministers of the Gospel are, in a particular manner, commanded to keep hospitality.

The first paragraph of the last clause in the Association sent me, I have spoken to already. The remainder of it commenceth with a declaration, that we notice and gratefully acknowledge the divine interposition in favour of all our warlike enterprises, crowning them with the most unparalleled success. I know not, gentlemen, that this, if it be true, is a proper rule for Christians to judge upon concerning the goodness or badness of any cause of this kind, in any controversy; for history, sacred and profane, furnisheth us with many instances in which we shall all agree in saying, that the most unjust cause did not always meet an overthrow, nor the most just prosper. Thus, in the first efforts for the establishment of the Protestant Religion, the Protestants, in the Smalcaldie League, were entirely battle of Mulburgh, on the 24th of April, 1547, when one routed by the Romish Emperour, Charles the Fifth, in the of the two great champions in the Protestant cause, the Elector of Saxony, was taken prisoner; the other, the Landgrave of Hesse, was forced to surrender himself, and beg pardon of Charles.

There are sundry prophecies, yet to be fulfilled, which declare, that the potentates of the earth shall have power to make war against the saints and to overcome them.

I look on the present unnatural war as being a just judgment of God on the people of old England, as well as on us Americans, for our many crying offences against his most holy laws, and a loud call to a sincere and immediate return to him and to our duty. It is, therefore, a constant part of my prayers to Him, who does not afflict willingly, nor grieve the children of men, that he would make it effectual to the production of a true and general reformation in both Countries, to the glory of his mercy.

What follows in the paper seems to be a recapitulation of the substance of what was said before; it is therefore unnecessary for me to add any thing farther, as to the particulars of it. I shall, therefore, proceed to consider it as to its general intention.

I take it for granted, that the design of this Association is to make a discrimination between the friends of America and its liberties, and the enemies of both. And I now beg the Committee to believe me, when I declare, in the presence of Him who knows all hearts, and before whom I am to be finally judged in that awful day, when the secrets of all hearts shall be revealed, that I am a most sincere friend to both.

America is my native Country; all my connexions are in it. I have enjoyed the liberty and plenty of it, through the goodness of God, too long and too thankfully not to be sensible of the value of both, and to desire a continuance of them, if it be his will.

It can be matter of very little importance to the community, whether I subscribe the Association or not; for I am no politician; am not connected with politicians as such, and never will be either. These things belong not to my profession, and I find sufficient employment for my head and for my heart in that honourable, though arduous calling, to which, in the presence of the adorable Trinity, I have vowed to devote my whole life.

After this open testimony, I cannot fear that you, gentlemen, will run any risk of a breach of the ninth commandment, by advertising me as an enemy to my Country.

Praying that infinite wisdom may guide the councils of my Country; infinite power protect it in all its lawful privileges; and infinite love pardon our misdoings, and comfort us here and forever, I subscribe myself, Gentlemen, your sincere friend and servant in Christ Jesus,

JOHN SAYRE.

To the Gentlemen of the Committee of the Town of Fairfield.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Cambridge Camp, August 15, 1775.

DEAR SIR: I received your favour of the 31st July, informing me of your preparations to cross the lake, and enclosing the affidavits of John Shatforth and John Duguid. Several Indians, of the tribe of St. Francois, came in yesterday, and confirm the former accounts of the good dispositions of the Indian Nations and Canadians to the interests of America—a most happy event, on which I sincerely congratulate you.

I am glad to relieve you from your anxiety respecting troops being sent from Boston to Quebeck. Those reports, I apprehend, took their rise from a fleet being fitted out, about fourteen days ago, to plunder the islands in the sound of their live stock—an expedition which they have executed with some success; but you may depend upon it, no troops have been detached from Boston to Canada, or elsewhere.

Among the wants, of which I find you have your proportion, we feel that of lead most sensibly; and as we have no expectation of a supply from the southward, I have concluded to draw upon the stock found at Ticonderoga when it fell into our hands. I am informed it is very considerable, and a part of it may be spared without exposing you to any inconvenience. In consequence of this, I have wrote to Governour Trumbull to take the direction of the transportation of it, supposing the conveyance through Connecticut the most safe and expeditious. I expect he will write you on this subject by this opportunity.

I have nothing new, my dear Sir, to write you. We are precisely in the same situation, as to the enemy, as when I wrote you last, nor can I gain any certain intelligence of their future intentions. The troops from the southward are come in very healthy, and in good order. To-morrow I expect a supply of powder from Philadelphia, which will be a most seasonable relief in our present necessity.

God grant you health and success equal to your merit and wishes. Favour me with intelligence as often as you can, and believe me, with very sincere regard, dear Sir, yours, &c.

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To General Schuyler.

AMHERST (MASSACHUSETTS) COMMITTEE.

"Amherst, Hampshire County, August 15, 1775.

"Whereas, divers complaints have been made against me to the Committee of Correspondence for the District of Amherst, and several evidences have appeared before said Committee, by whose testimony it evidently appears I have heretofore been unfriendly to my Country; I do hereby publicly acknowledge the offence aforesaid, and ask the forgiveness of all my friends and fellow-countrymen, and promise for the future to act in conjunction with my countrymen, in all ways and methods which shall be judged proper for the recovery of the just rights and privileges of the injured Americans, hoping thereby to gain the friendship of my fellow-subjects, which I have most justly forfeited.

WILLIAM BOLTWOOD."

At a meeting of the Committee of Correspondence above-mentioned:

Voted, That the above confession and declaration of Lieutenant William Boltwood is fully satisfactory to this Committee, and they do recommend him to the favour and esteem of the publick.

FAIRFIELD (CONNECTICUT) COMMITTEE.

Connecticut, August 16, 1775.

At a meeting of the Committee of Inspection for the Town of Fairfield, held in Fairfield, by adjournment, on the 15th of August, 1775, it was Voted and Agreed, That if any person in this Town shall presume to export any Flax-Seed out of this Colony until further advice from the Continental Congress, he shall be deemed an enemy to his Country.

The above is a true copy of the vote:

THADDEUS BURR, Clerk.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO COUNCIL OF MASSACHUSETTS.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, August 16, 1775.

SIR: I am informed that Captain Oldien, or some other person, has stopped the baggage of the officers taken at Machias, as a compensation for some expense incurred, which the General Court did not think proper to allow him. A procedure of this kind would, in my opinion, much dishonour the American arms, and be attended with very disagreeable consequences. I trust therefore, Sir, that the General Court need only to be informed of the transaction to do what is proper; and, as the prisoners are entirely under their direction, will, before they remove them to the place of their destination, give such orders in the matter as to prevent any reasonable cause of complaint. I am, very respectfully, Sir, your most obedient humble servant,

GO. WASHINGTON.

The Honourable the President of the Council of the Massachusetts-Bay.

ORDERS TO THE DETACHMENT SENT TO CAPE ANNE.

Head-Quarters, August 16, 1775.

SIR: You are to proceed with the detachment of Riflemen under your command to Cape-Anne, where you are to endeavour, not only to protect the inhabitants from all attempts of the enemy, but to do your utmost to distress and annoy any detachment from the Ministerial Army that may be sent from Boston to plunder or destroy that settlement. Upon your march, and during your residence at Cape-Anne, as well as upon your march back to camp, you will observe strict discipline, and on no account suffer any under your command to pillage or maraud; upon your arrival at Cape-Anne you will despatch a messenger to acquaint the General with the state you find things in there, and you will frequently report to the General all extraordinary occurrences that may happen.

I am, Sir, your most obedient humble servant,

HORATIO GATES, Adj. General.

Cork, Ireland, August 17, 1775.

Yesterday Major Boyle Roche, Representative in Parliament for Tralee, who is raising a body of men for His Majesty's service, began recruiting here, and met with great success, which is not surprising, if we consider his connexions, and the uncommon support he has received from the noblemen and gentlemen of this Province. His method of enlisting was uncommon, as it was pleasing to those who viewed the Procession, which was as follows:

Major Roche, bearing a large purse of Gold.

Captain Cowley.

A great number of likely Recruits.

An elegant Band of Musick, consisting of French Haut-boys, Clarionets, and Bassoons, playing
"God save the King."

A large Brewer's Dray, with five barrels of Beer, the Horse richly caparisoned and ornamented with Ribbands.

Two Draymen, with cockades, to serve the Beer.

The Recruiting Sergeants.

Drums and Fifes.

Another Division of Recruits.

The recruiting Soldiers.

Prodigious concourse of Spectators.

The following speech was made by Major Roche to the populace, viz:

"Gentlemen and Fellow-Countrymen:

"Being appointed, through the favour of our most excellent Governour, to raise a body of men for the service of His Majesty, I think it the most happy circumstance of my life to be the instrument of leading you to honour and renown. The laurels fought for and obtained in all parts of the globe last war, have procured us a fame so glorious as not to be equalled by any people in any age—a fame not to be sullied by the assaults of prejudice, nor the effects of time. Not an action in which we are not victorious; not a siege in which we are not honoured. Will you, my dear countrymen, permit those laurels to fade, or those actions to be forgotten? No, forbid it Heaven! Let us, now that we have it in our power, convey to latest posterity a renewal of our fidelity, and a confirmation of our loyalty. A more critical period never presented itself, nor had we ever a fairer opportunity of showing our attachment to the illustrious house of Hanover, than the present; as His Majesty's deluded subjects in America are in open rebellion, and, like unnatural children, would destroy their ever indulgent parent, forgetting the torrents of blood spilt, and heaps of treasure expended for their preservation.

"His sacred Majesty now calls us, and our fidelity obliges us, and I hope your inclinations prompt you to obey the dictates of so good and lenient a master. Let us, then, my brave and loyal countrymen, join hearts and hands, and cheerfully step forth in the glorious cause of our Creator, our King, and our Country. We have it in our power, by unanimity and inexhaustible resources, to reduce those Rebels to a due obedience to their Sovereign, and submission to the laws of their Country, which will give a fresh conviction to all Europe that Hibernian laurels have not faded by time, but, on the contrary, are increasing in bloom and verdure."

EXTRACTS OF A LETTER RECEIVED BY THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS, DATED LONDON, AUGUST 17, 1775.

The design last spring was to have divided the troops sent out, as it is said, according to a plan of Governour Tryon's, which he gave to the Ministers, for carrying on the American war; but Gage's necessity has altered that plan for the present, and has obliged him to collect all the troops together at Boston; and Tryon, with all his malignity of heart, is compelled to sit still this season. As Tryon, for his conduct in North-Carolina, is in high estimation with the Ministry, his plan of attacking the different Colonies at the same time is still to be followed, and the talk is that troops will be sent to New-York, Pennsylvania, and Virginia. It is long since Carleton has received orders to enter the frontiers of the Northern Colonies, with the Canadians; and by his proclamation of martial law, he is endeavouring to put his orders in practice. It was part of Tryon's scheme to meet Carleton with the four Regiments that were ordered to New-York. This idea is not yet given up; for I understand it is intended, if the shipwrights can be forced or cajoled to work again, to construct a number of flat-bottomed boats here, so contrived as when they touch the shore to throw down a platform, that will land at once six armed men, or may be used to fire field-pieces or swivel-guns from; they are, when completed here, to be taken to pieces, and sent to Canada to be used on the lakes. Besides the armies on foot, every Colony should diligently attend to training their militia, for their own internal defence. All valuable goods should be removed from Rhode-Island into the country, that the island may not be surprised as Boston was. The same thing should be done in the City of New-York; and at the same time fortify some strong passes, to prevent any troops getting into the country. It would be a capital stroke to get possession of Tryon's person. Philadelphia must also look to itself in time.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Philadelphia, August 17, 1775.

SIR: The Committee of Safety for this City and Province being informed on Saturday last, that a ship from Cork had come up to Gloucester, with some passengers, officers of the Ministerial Army, and a quantity of clothing for that Army at Boston, immediately sent down Captain Bradford with thirty men, to take those officers prisoners, and at the same time an armed boat to bring up the clothing; both of which orders were accordingly executed. The officers we have enlarged upon their written parole, to render themselves at your camp, and two soldiers taken with them, being their servants, on the parole of Major

French, the principal officer, copies of which paroles are enclosed. The Major requested, when he signed the parole, that we would, for his qualification, give him a certificate of his making a claim in behalf of himself and the others, and that his claim was not admitted. We gratified him in this, and a copy of our certificate is also enclosed. They were allowed to take with them their own baggage; but the baggage of some other officers now in Boston, which he also requested, was refused, on account of the detention of the effects of our friends there by General Gage. So this baggage, with the clothing, which we understand is for two regiments, is stored, to remain for the direction and disposition of the Congress. The officers and soldiers are to set out for your camp on Tuesday, the 22d instant, accompanied by two respectable gentlemen of this City, Captain Willing and Captain Wharton, whom we beg leave to recommend to your notice, who will protect the officers on the road, and forward their journey. No more gunpowder is yet arrived here. On the 10th instant we sent twenty-two hundred weight to General Schuyler, which was all we could possibly spare.

With great esteem and respect, we have the honour to be, Sir, your most obedient humble servants.

By order:

B. FRANKLIN, President.

P. S. With this you will also receive a packet directed to an officer of the Ministerial Army, which we have not opened, but submit it to your discretion.

PENNSYLVANIA COMMITTEE OF SAFETY TO THE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY FOR NEW-YORK.

Philadelphia, August 17, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: I am directed by the Committee of Safety for this Province, to request the favour of your Board to appoint a Committee to receive into their custody the sundry trunks, boxes, &c., described in the enclosed receipt. They go from hence for your City by the stage, and we have given the master thereof a certificate of what they are, recommending them to the care of all persons into whose custody they come, until safely delivered to you or your Committee. These packages contain the clothing and other necessities of Major French, Ensign Rotton, and Cadet McDermott, three officers of the Ministerial Troops, and their two servants, who having lately fallen within our District are made prisoners of war, and sent from hence for his Excellency General Washington's camp, upon their parole to surrender themselves to his orders, and not to bear arms against the United Colonies for twelve months, unless exchanged, nor to give intelligence of any publick affairs during the term of their parole. They are escorted by two Captains of our Military Association, and we have promised that their baggage should be sent forward to the camp with safety and expedition. It is judged that this application to you will be the best method of performing our promise, not doubting you are as desirous to preserve the publick faith, and promote the publick service, as we are. Major French will pay the charges attending the baggage; or if he is gone from your City, or does not pass through it, we will pay the same to your order; therefore we have only to add our desire that you will forward the whole to the care of General Washington, in such manner as you may judge safest, most expeditious, and least expensive. I am further commanded to assure you that this Committee are ready at all times to pay the like attention to your Board that they expect from it; and on behalf of the Committee, I have the honour to be, gentlemen, your obedient humble servant,

B. FRANKLIN, President.

To the Committee of Safety for the Province of New-York.

ISAAC STOUTENBURGH AND OTHERS, TO THE NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-York, August 17, 1775.

MR. PRESIDENT AND GENTLEMEN: We beg leave to inform you that several Independent Companies, already formed in this City, propose to unite together and establish a second Independent Battalion. And in confidence that the Congress will readily countenance every measure which hath a tendency to promote the publick good, they are thereby encouraged to request their patronage.

As the appointment of field-officers belongs to the Congress, they would humbly beg leave to recommend the following gentlemen for that purpose, being persons whom, upon mature consideration, they find will be most acceptable to the companies which compose the battalion, viz: Captain Wm. Heyer, Colonel; Captain Ch'r Barker, or Mr. P. Curtenius, for Lieutenant-Colonel; and Mr. William Malcom, as Major. They flatter themselves that this nomination will be agreeable to the Congress, and that they will indulge the companies therein. With respect to the two gentlemen who are named as Lieutenant-Colonel, the preference of the Congress will be cheerfully acquiesced with.

They particularly request that the Congress will take this matter into their consideration, as soon as more weighty affairs will permit, as they would wish to get the battalion in a respectable situation before the season is too far advanced.

In behalf of four companies, we are, with due respect, Mr. President and Gentlemen, your most obedient servants,

ISAAC STOUTENBURGH, CHRISTOPHER BENSON,
JOHN LABOYTEAUX,
JEREMIAH WOOL.

To the Honourable the Provincial Congress, New-York.

WESTCHESTER (NEW-YORK) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Committee for Westchester, at the White Plains, on Thursday and Friday, the seventeenth and eighteenth days of August instant: The Committee divided the said County into Districts or Beats, agreeable to the directions of the Provincial Congress, for forming Militia and Minute Companies, and directed the members of the Committee, residing in each District or Beat, to advertise in some publick places, and to give personal notice to the inhabitants to meet, embody themselves, and choose their officers on next Thursday, and then entered into the following Resolutions, and agreed that the same be published, viz:

1. Resolved, That all persons who shall sell or buy any Tea in this County, and all boatmen and others who shall purchase Tea at New-York or elsewhere, out of the County, for the use of themselves or others residing in the County, after the twenty-fourth day of August instant, shall be considered and treated as contemnors of the Resolutions of the Continental Congress and this Committee, and as inimical to the liberties of this Country.

2. Resolved, That it be recommended, and it is hereby recommended to the inhabitants of this County immediately to desist from Horse-racing and all kinds of gaming; and that persons who do not, shall be considered as foes to morality and good order, and to the prosperity of this Country, and be dealt with accordingly.

By order of the Committee:

GILBERT DRAKE, Chairman.

MAMACOTING (NEW-YORK) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Committee of the Precinct of Mamacoting, in Ulster County, agreeable to notice from the Chairman, on Thursday, the 17th August, 1775: The Committee taking into consideration the Provincial Congress' Resolve of the eighth of this instant, concerning the purchasing or hiring of Arms, have resolved that each and every member of this Committee do make particular inquiry in their respective Districts, and endeavour to purchase or hire all the Arms fit for immediate service, and that they do return the same to Mr. William Rose, on or before the twentieth of this instant, who is appointed to deliver them to Colonel Clinton or his order.

Resolved secondly, That Jacob R. De Witt is chosen Captain of the Peinpack Company, agreeable to the Resolve of the Provincial Congress on the ninth of this instant; Abr'm Cuddeback, First Lieutenant, Robert Cook, Second Lieutenant, and Samuel King, Ensign; and that they be returned to the Provincial Congress accordingly.

By order of the Committee:

JOHN YOUNG, Chairman.

To the Provincial Congress at New-York, to the care of Colonel James Clinton.

ALBANY COMMITTEE TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Albany Committee Chamber, August 17, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Yesterday came down here from Ticonderoga, under a guard consisting of a sergeant and thirteen men, Alexander White, Esquire, Sheriff of Tryon County, John Connor, Peter Boon, and Lewis Clement, who had been taken prisoners by a party of General Schuyler's men at one Gilliland's, on Lake Champlain, accompanied by three Indians, who were also taken and brought before the General at Ticonderoga. On their arrival the Indians were by us forwarded in a wagon to Schenectady, on their way home, after receiving a present, in conformity to the General's letter, a copy of which we enclose you. We send down under guard, White and Conner; the other two, viz. Clement and Boon, we have thought most prudent to detain here until we hear from you on the subject, as we were apprehensive that sending them down might create some jealousy and discontent among the Indians, (among whom they have some influence,) whose friendship we most ardently wish to cultivate.

That you may be able to judge of the matter with the more precision, we enclose a state of the case which occasioned Mr. White's flying from Tryon County, and a copy of the examination taken by General Schuyler of the party who took White's party, as also copies of two letters from Sir John Johnson to Mr. White.

We are, Gentlemen, your very humble servants. By order of the Committee:

ABRAHAM YATES, JUN., Chairman.

COLONEL HUNTINGTON TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Roxbury Camp, August 17, 1775.

HONoured SIR: I have your esteemed favour of the fourteenth August. I could wish to have my companies join the regiment, but submit willingly their disposition to the publick service. If the Ministerial Troops do not leave us before some works are finished, which are near completed, and a supply of powder is in, I expect we shall be ordered to begin the salute. There is not proper and sufficient provision made for our sick, and some other necessary matters. I could wish the Governour and Council would order Gen. Spencer to see that it be done. Many of our sick are in a suffering condition for want of house-room, &c. Many of our soldiers might as well be at home as here, whose arms are out of order, no armourers established. I have made frequent applications for iron, but I cannot obtain any. If the officers here had authority to procure such things as the publick service absolutely requires, it would, I trust, be quickly and prudently done; but we are not willing to do much of our own heads. Brother John will be in my mess. The post calls. The enemy are now endeavouring to molest our people at work near Lamb's Dam, by cannon and bombs.

I conclude with that I am, most respectfully, your dutiful and affectionate son,
JED. HUNTINGTON.
Governour Trumbull.

COMMITTEE OF INSPECTION OF POWNALBOROUGH, EAST PRECINCT (NEW-YORK.)

To deprive a man of the benefits of society, by holding him up to the world as an enemy to his Country, is a task that must be disagreeable to humanity; but the duty incumbent on every person who is intrusted with power, to prevent the violation of the American Association, makes it necessary to publish the following facts:

At a meeting of the Committee of Inspection for the East Precinct of Pownalborough, on the 20th day of May last, they sent for Abiel Wood, against whom some complaints were made, and the following facts were proved against him, viz:

1. That when the result of the Continental Congress was made publick, the said Wood declared his disapprobation of the same in every respect, and reported that the Members of said Congress drank thirty bumpers of wine a piece before they passed their Resolves, and added, if said Resolves were adhered to, the Country would be ruined; and said Wood declared he would not abide by said Resolves.

2. That said Wood did order out Cordage, Sail-Cloth, and Salt, after he had read the Continental Association.

3. That the said Wood spoke disrespectfully of the method recommended by the Provincial Congress for choosing Officers, and said the Officers were rebels and traitors, and discouraged the men in this Parish from exercising under said Officers, saying they would be hanged if they should learn to exercise.

4. That the said Wood brought from Boston certain pamphlets, entitled "An Address to all reasonable Americans," and spread the same, and extolled the pamphlet, saying it contained nothing but the truth, and was the best book that was ever wrote; and the said Wood, speaking of a pamphlet wrote in England, entitled "Considerations on Measures now carrying on in America," said it began with a lie and ended with the same.

5. That the said Wood was a Selectman in 1774, and being applied to, to call a Town-Meeting in order to choose a Committee of Inspection, he would not grant a warrant for so doing, saying it was against law, and there was an Act of Parliament against Town-Meetings.

6. That said Wood reported for truth, that the Province of New-York, and twelve Towns in this and Connecticut Provinces, had voted not to abide by the result of the Continental Congress, and thereby endeavoured to discourage the people of this Parish from approving of the same.

7. That the said Wood declared the Acts of Parliament for raising a revenue in America were not grievances, but ought to be submitted to; and that the Act for blocking up the Port of Boston was a just punishment; and said that John Hancock, Esquire, Samuel Adams, and Josiah Quincy, were the cause of all the disturbances and difficulties we are involved in.

8. That the said Wood declared the Provincial Congress of this Province ought not to be minded, for the greatest part of said Congress were damned villains, and that they destroyed the tea, and acted only to deceive the people and stir up rebellion; and that the Resolves recommending the choosing the Officers in this Province was high treason.

9. That the said Wood commended the coasters for carrying timber to the Troops.

10. That the said Wood being asked why he did not carry timber to the Troops, said, because he was afraid of the people; and added, it was time now to throw off fear, for he had lost thousands by fearing to supply the Troops; and on being informed the Provincial Congress had forbid supplying the Regular Troops, said Wood declared most of the Congress were damned villains, saying there was Hancock, Adams, and others, acted out of selfish views in destroying the tea; and being informed Mr. Hancock did not destroy the tea, the said Wood offered to give his oath before any Justice of the Peace, that Mr. Hancock was the first man that went on board the vessel to destroy the tea, and that the devil had made them believe that one of them should be a King, another a Governour, and that they should be in some great places of honour and profit, and their views were to stir up the people to sedition, in order to accomplish their designs. This was spoke concerning Mr. Hancock and the Provincial Congress, in April, 1775.*

* Ebenezer Whittier, of lawful age, testifies and declares, that some time in April last, Abiel Wood, merchant, commended the coasters for carrying up boards and timber for the Troops; that the said Wood being asked why he did not carry timber to the Troops; he, the said Wood, said it was because he was afraid of the people; and added, it was time now to throw off fear, for he had lost thousands by fearing to supply the Troops; and on being informed by the deponent the Provincial Congress had forbid the supplying the Regular Troops, he, the said Wood, said the most of the Congress were damned villains, saying there was Hancock, Adams, &c., acted out of selfish views in destroying the tea; and being told by the deponent Mr. Hancock did not destroy the tea, the said Wood offered to give his oath before any Justice of the Peace, that Mr. Hancock was the first man that went on board the vessel to destroy the tea, and that the devil had made them believe that one of them should be a King, another a Governour, and that they should be in some great places of honour and profit, and their views were to stir up the people to sedition, in order to accomplish their designs. This was spoken concerning Mr. Hancock and the Provincial Congress, in April, 1775. That the said Wood spoke disrespectfully of the method recommended by the Provincial Congress for choosing officers; and that the said Wood reported for truth, that the Province of New-York, and twelve Towns in this and Connecticut Province, had voted not to abide by the result of the Continental Congress, and thereby endeavoured to discourage the people of this Province from approving the same.

EBENEZER WHITTIER.

LINCOLN, ss., June 9, 1775:

The said Ebenezer Whittier made oath to the above writing by him subscribed, before me,
THOMAS RICE, Justice of Peace.

The Committee thereupon voted, that Abiel Wood was an enemy to his Country.

On the 24th of May last the Ship Christian, Christopher Williamson, master, arrived here, having on board one hundred and ninety-eight coils of Cordage, one hundred and seventy-eight bars of Flat Iron, and six Anchors, which were shipped by John Hatly, of Whitehaven, on the 20th day of February last, on account and risk of Abiel Wood, and to be delivered to him at said Pownalborough, the dangers of the seas only excepted.

The Committee ordered the Cordage, Anchors and Iron should be sent back forthwith.

The said Ship sailed the 28th following, and Abiel Wood went in said Ship to Nova-Scotia. A Sloop of said Wood sailed about the same time, and at sea said Wood had part of the Cordage taken out of said Ship and put on board his Sloop. Said Wood had all the Cordage, Anchors and Iron above-mentioned carried to Nova-Scotia, and there landed and disposed of the same. Said Wood has also made another trip to Nova-Scotia, (since he carried the Cordage,) with Salt, and on the 8th instant arrived here, having cleared out from Nova-Scotia to New-York for Provisions.

The Committee therefore think it their duty to, and they hereby publish the said Abiel Wood as a violator of the American Association, and an enemy to this Country, and that he ought to be treated as such, notwithstanding a late publication in Mr. Hall's paper, by the Committee of Correspondence, to the contrary.

By order of the Committee of Inspection for the East Parish in Pownalborough:

TIMO. LANGDON, Chairman.

East Precinct, Pownalborough, August 17, 1775.

TIMOTHY PARSONS TO THE PUBLICK.

A certain Abiel Wood, of Pownalborough, having laid a plan, with the assistance of Thomas Rice, and the rest of the Committee of Correspondence of that Town, to supply the inhabitants of Nova-Scotia with provisions, contrary to, and in direct violation of the Resolves of the Continental Congress, I think it my duty to expose them, and every person who shall endeavour to break through the grand rules by which alone we must expect to effect a defeat of our unnatural enemies.

Wood, after he had been to Nova-Scotia with a large quantity of goods, which he imported in opposition to the Continental Association; after he had committed the numerous outrageous crimes mentioned in a publication of the Committee of Inspection of Pownalborough, in Mr. Edes's paper of the 11th ultimo; after, by his finesse and low cunning, he had raised many and great disturbances in this place, by forging and spreading lies in favour of the British Ministry, and against America; after, when by his friends he was advised to desist from such male-practices, seeing he could not effect his purpose of torifying the whole Town, and that his efforts would only tend to disturb the peace and virtue of the people, (for he had many, if not a majority of them dependant upon him,) replied, if the Town was ruled by his opinion, that a pepper-corn would turn a scale, and that he was determined to persist in what he had undertaken, and the worst the Committee could do, was to publish him in the papers, which he cared not for. After all these things, the said Committee of Correspondence, of which Mr. Rice is the principal, met at Wood's house, notwithstanding they were knowing to the truth of the above; and furthermore, that he had the very goods he imported, as mentioned, then on sale in Nova-Scotia; and having eat dinner with him, and drank up all his ale, they composed the piece which appeared in Messrs. Hall's paper, purporting that he had not violated the Association in any respect, &c., and that for the rash words he had spoken he had made an acknowledgment, which acknowledgment has never appeared other than the dinner and ale; and consented that he might go to Nova-Scotia with a large quantity of salt, for the support of the British fisheries, in opposition to the Continental Resolves to the contrary, which he religiously executed with his sloop; and on his return he cleared out for New-York, but he touched in here.

The Committee of Inspection, alarmed at so violent an act of opposition as the supplying our enemies with provisions, or even the violation of the Congress' Resolves, which is the grand criterion of every friend to his Country in his Committee conduct, met and voted that it was not safe he should proceed until he had liberty from the General Court of this Province. An evidence respecting Wood's design, follows, viz:

"I, Stewart Hunt, of lawful age, testify and say, that some time in June or July last, I heard Abiel Wood, of Pownalborough, say he was determined to carry on trade to Nova-Scotia, and that he could get corn at the southward, and that he would go a voyage for corn, and clear it out for Nova-Scotia, and that on his voyage he could come into Sheepscot, and leave part of his cargo there, and then proceed to Nova-Scotia with the remainder of his cargo, in order to cancel his bonds; and I heard the said Wood say, that he hoped John Hancock and the Adamses would be hanged, for they have made all the disturbances; and if some of the leaders were hung, the rest would be easy; and that there would be no peace till some were hung; and at many other times he seemed disposed to terrify the people, by saying all that have signed the covenant would certainly be hanged, &c. I do now solemnly declare the above to be the truth.

STEWART HUNT.

"Pownalborough, August 25, 1775."

The General Court having ordered that the Committee of Correspondence in the several Towns should be authorized to clear out vessels, the property of well known friends to this Country, to go to the southward after provisions, the said Thomas Rice, with the rest of the Committee, cleared out said Wood's Sloop, Zebulon Baker, master, although he has been published an open enemy to this Country. It is therefore hoped, in justice to the cause of liberty, as well as to prevent said Wood from supplying the people in Nova-Scotia, where he has a store, and carries on trade now with provisions, contrary to the Resolves of the Continental Congress, that the Committee, in what port she now is or may be at, will detain her so as to prevent such abandoned designs being executed.

The following is an Address to the Committee of Correspondence.

Question 1. Did you clear out Abiel Wood's Sloop because he has made it his business for nine months past to curse both Continental and Provincial Congresses, and tell the most scandalous lies of them which he could invent?

2. Was it because he endeavoured to discourage the good people of this place from regarding the Continental Association?

3. Was it because he tried to frighten the people of the Town from choosing Militia Officers, and a person for learning them the exercise, by telling them it was high treason, and they would all be hanged for it; and by such actions has got a party of about forty men in the Town to join with him; has deterred the youth from their noble designs, by reading the law respecting the London apprentices, and concluded by saying, if they met to exercise, they would be hanged in the same manner with them?

4. Was it because he, in a most notorious manner, broke the Continental Association, and in consequence was published in the papers as an enemy to his Country?

5. Was it because he traded, and now continues to trade, to Nova-Scotia, in open violation of the Continental Resolves, and his determination of carrying the provisions there, for which his vessel is gone by your recommendation?

6. Was it because the Committee of Inspection voted it unsafe to let his sloop proceed on her voyage, as she was going with supplies to a place prohibited by the Congress?

7. Was it because he, with Thomas Rice, Esq., one of your Committee, granted a warrant for the annual March meeting, agreeable to one of the Acts of Parliament, against which the present noble resistance is made?

8. Was it because you are determined to avert the just punishment which he is liable to for violating the Association, by assisting him to carry on a trade with the enemy?

9. Was it because you thought him a friend to this Country, by endeavouring to establish the mild Acts of Parliament lately exported from England; Acts which were granted to take our money without our consent; block up our ports; alter our ancient, valuable Constitution; stop our fisheries, which the God of nature had given us in such plenty for our easy and cheap maintenance; seize our vessels, and stop our trade?

Such, gentlemen, are the real facts which you know Wood has been guilty of; and if from them you draw the conclusion that he was a friend to this Country; or if it was from other motives, I should be glad to have them in answer to this, through the channel of the newspapers, so that your conduct, which appears to be that of the Town, may appear to the world in its true, proper or improper light.

I am, Gentlemen, your humble servant,

TIMOTHY PARSONS.

Pownalborough, October 3, 1775.

TIMOTHY LANGDON TO THE PUBLICK.

Pownalborough, October 6, 1775.

As the dismissing a Committee of Inspection reflects disgrace on the Town that dismiss it, or the Committee dismissed, I desire you would publish the following state of facts relative to the dismissing the Committee of Inspection for the East Precinct of Pownalborough, that the publick may judge whether they were dismissed for good reasons or no:

Abiel Wood, of Pownalborough, having been guilty of many misdemeanours, and violated the Association, the Committee thought it their duty to publish him to the world as an enemy to his Country. A state of facts, relative to his conduct, was drawn up in May last, and laid on the table of the late Congress. The Committee thought it prudent to suspend the publishing his name in the papers, as he had sailed with his family for Nova-Scotia.

The Town of Pownalborough having been without a Committee of Correspondence till the 22d of June last, the inhabitants then assembled, and made choice of Thomas Rice, Esq., Messrs. Michael Sevey, John Decker, Jun., Edmond Bridge, and Obadiah Call, for that purpose.

Soon after the Committee of Correspondence was chosen, Mr. Wood returned from Nova-Scotia, and made application to the above gentlemen, whereupon they voted him a friend to his Country, though they knew that he had violated the Association by importing cordage, &c.; they also gave him a permit to go to Nova-Scotia, in direct violation of the Resolve of the American Congress in May last; they also published a piece in Messrs. Hall's paper, declaring to the world that Mr. Wood was a friend to the Country.

The Committee of Inspection thought themselves aggrieved by the publication of the Committee of Correspondence, and sent a Petition to the General Court, with a state of facts; they also sent a state of facts relating to Mr. Wood's conduct to the press. The General Court took the Petition of the Committee of Inspection into consideration, and passed the following Resolve:

"In the House of Representatives, Watertown, }
August 3, 1775."

"Resolved, That the facts alleged in the Petition of Timothy Langdon, and others, Committee of Inspection for the East Parish of the Town of Pownalborough, against Mr. Abiel Wood, respecting his conduct, were proper to be considered by the Committees of Inspection; and that from their representation they had sufficient evidence of the facts to deem him an enemy to his Country; and that Committees of Inspection are the only bodies recommended by the Continental Congress to judge and determine respecting infringements of the Association of the Continental Congress; and that Committees of Correspondence are not authorized for that end; and that, from the representation made by the Committee of Inspection, this Court approve of their conduct. Sent up for concurrence:

"JAMES WARREN, Speaker.

"In Council read and concurred:

"Attest: P. MORRIS, Secretary pro tem.

"Consented to, by fifteen of the Council."

Between the time of sending the Petition to Court, and the return of the General Court's doings, Mr. Wood returned from his second trip to Nova-Scotia. He drew a Petition, which was signed by a number of the inhabitants, and sent it to the Selectmen for a Town-meeting to be called, to dismiss the Committee of Inspection. One of the Selectmen refused to grant a warrant for that purpose; two Selectmen signed it, and as it is in Mr. Wood's hand-writing, and he may think me partial unless I publish it, I shall give the article to the publick.

1st. To choose a Moderator for said Town-meeting.

2d. To see if the Town approve of the proceedings of Ebenezer Whittier, Timothy Langdon, Timothy Parsons, or any of the Committee of Inspection on the East side of said Town.

3d. To see if the Town will dismiss the old, and choose a new Committee of Inspection on the East side of said Town.

The Town accordingly met on the 4th of September, but the Selectmen, either conscious they had done wrong in granting the warrant, or some other reasons best known to themselves, did not appear at the meeting. Mr. Wood's party were at first thrown into confusion, and some of them went to the Selectman who would not sign the warrant and ordered him to the meeting, but he refused to go; they then returned to the meeting, and after consulting with one who thinks himself a judge of law, they determined they could hold a meeting without the Selectmen, or either of them being present. They then (to their immortal honour be it spoken) made choice of a man for their moderator who at the last March meeting had the audacity to declare that he hoped before six months were at an end he should see half the Continent in fetters.

One of the Committee desired leave to read the above Resolve of the General Court, which being granted, and the Resolve read, Mr. Moderator and Mr. Wood assured the assembly they did not know the men who signed the Resolve, that they had nothing to do with them, and that the Resolve had nothing to do with the Town-meeting. They then passed the following votes, viz:

Voted, That they do not approve of the proceedings of the Committee of Inspection on the East side of the Town.

Voted, To dismiss the old, and choose a new Committee for the East side of said Town.

One of my brethren and myself moved, that the assembly would act consistently, and record the reasons for dismissing the Committee, but Mr. Moderator assured us there was no article in the warrant for that purpose.

After the assembly had dismissed the Committee of Inspection, Mr. Wood applied to the before-mentioned Committee of Correspondence, and they gave him liberty to take his sloop, which the Committee of Inspection had stopped for trading to Nova-Scotia; they also gave to him (or one Baker, who has been in the sloop trading to Nova-Scotia) a certificate of his being a friend to the Country, agreeable to the Resolve of the General Court, that he might go to Philadelphia for provisions, although they knew that, at the time of granting the certificate, Mr. Baker had a clearance for that sloop from Nova-Scotia for New-York. And it does appear by a deposition which is ready to be published, that Mr. Wood declared he would get a certificate from the Committee, and make use of it to get provisions, and trade to Nova-Scotia.

The above being facts, it is incumbent upon the Town of Pownalborough to give some reasons for their conduct, and upon the Committee of Correspondence to justify their proceedings to the world.

I am, Sir, your humble servant,

TIMOTHY LANGDON.

The Hague, August 18, 1775.

Their High Mightinesses the States-General have this day issued a Proclamation, of which the following is a translation:

PROCLAMATION.

The States-General of the United Provinces, to all who shall see, or hear these presents read, greeting:

Be it known, that as the reasons which induced us heretofore to prohibit the exportation of Ammunition to the English Colonies still subsist, we have again thought fit absolutely to prohibit, and we hereby absolutely do prohibit all exportation of Ammunition, Gunpowder, Guns and Shot, by ships belonging to the dominions of Great Britain, for the further term of a year, on pain, not only of confiscation of the Arms and Ammunition which shall be found there on board, but also of a fine of a thousand guilders over and above, at the charge of the commander, whose ship shall be answerable and liable to execution for the same.

That we have further thought fit to enact, and we do hereby enact, that during the aforesaid further term of one year, no Gunpowder, Guns, Shot, or other instruments of war, shall be embarked on board any other ships, whether foreign or belonging to this Country, to be transported abroad, without consent and permission of the College of Admiralty, under whose jurisdiction the embarkation shall be made, on pain of confiscation of the Arms, Gunpowder, Guns, Shot, or other Ammunition, which shall have been embarked without permission, and of the commander's incurring a fine of a thousand guilders, on board of whose ship the said Arms and Ammunition shall have been embarked, and his ship be answerable and liable to execution for the said fine.

And that no one may pretend ignorance hereof, we call upon and require the States, the hereditary Stadtholder, the Committee of Council, and the deputations of the States of the respective Provinces, and all other the officers and justices of these Countries, to cause this our Proclamation to be forthwith promulgated, published, and affixed in all places where the same is necessary, and where such publication is wont to be made; and we further charge and command the Counsellors of the Admiralty, the Advocates-General, and Commis-General, together with all Admirals, Vice Admirals, Captains, Officers, and Commanders, to pay obedience to this our Proclamation, proceeding, and causing to be proceeded against the transgressors thereof, without favour, connivance, dissimulation or composition; for such have we found meet.

Given at the Hague, under the seal of the State, the signature of the President of our Assembly, and the counter-signature of our Greffier, August 18, 1775.

G. VAN HARDENBROEK.

By order of the States-General:

H. FAGEL.

NANSEMOND COUNTY (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting held for Nansemond County, August the 18th, 1775:

It being reported that Messrs. Donaldson and Hamilton, merchants in the Town of Suffolk, had intentionally shipped a considerable quantity of Provisions to Boston, in the Brigantine John, Hugh Kennedy master, contrary to a resolution of the Committee of New-York, made April 27th, 1775, and acceded to by the several Provinces; the aforesaid gentlemen appeared, and several depositions and protests being read, fully convinced this Committee that the said Donaldson and Hamilton intended the voyage of the said brig for Antigua, and that it was by the express direction of the Governour and Captain of the man-of-war, (who had information of her loading with Provisions three weeks before she sailed) that the said brig was taken, and carried to Boston. The aforesaid gentlemen being charged with shipping some Ham and Butter, on the 17th of April last, to Henry Lloyd, a gentlemen of Boston:

Resolved, That the said gentlemen in so doing have not violated the Association, the said articles being shipped prior to any resolution to the contrary.

By order of the Committee:

JOHN GREGORIE, Clerk.

THOMAS JOHNSON, JUN., TO HORATIO GATES.

Annapolis, August 18, 1775.

MY DEAR SIR: I received yours of the 21st July, and in a day or two afterwards forwarded your letter to Mrs. Gates, by my brother, with directions, if she had left Fredericktown, where she then was on a visit, and had no immediate good opportunity, to send a servant on purpose.

I shall be very unhappy that petitioning the King, to which measure I was a friend, should give you or any one else attached to the cause of America and liberty, the least uneasiness. You and I, and America in general, may almost universally wish, in the first place to establish our liberties; our second wish is, a reunion with Great Bri- tain; so may we preserve the empire entire, and the constitutional liberty, founded in whiggish principles, handed down to us by our ancestors. In order to strengthen ourselves to accomplish these great ends, we ought, in my opinion, to conduct ourselves so as to unite America and divide Britain; this, as it appears to me, may most likely be effected by doing rather more than less in the peaceable line, than would be required if our petition is rejected with contempt, which I think most likely. Will not our friends in England be still more exasperated against the Court? And will not our very moderate men on this side of the water be compelled to own the necessity of opposing force by force? The rejection of the New-York petition was very serviceable to America. If our petition should be granted, the troops will be recalled, the obnoxious acts repealed, and we restored to the footing of 1763. If the petition should not be granted, but so far attended to as to lay the groundwork of a negotiation, Britain must, I think, be ruined by the delay: if she subdues us at all, it must be by a most violent and sudden exertion of her force; and if we can keep up a strong party in England, headed by such characters as Lord Chatham, and the others in the present opposition, Bute, Mansfield, and North, and a corrupt majority, cannot draw the British force fully into action against us. Our friends will certainly continue such as long as they see we do not desire to break from a reasonable and beneficial connexion with the Mother Country; but if, unhappily for the whole Empire, they should once be convinced by our conduct that we design to break from that connexion, I am apprehensive they will thenceforth become our most dangerous enemies; the greatest and first law of self-preservation will justify, nay compel it. The cunning Scotchmen and Lord North fully feel the force of this reasoning; hence their industry to make it be believed in England that we have a scheme of Independence, a general term they equivocally use, to signify to the friends of liberty a breaking off all connexion; and to Tories, that we dispute the supremacy of Parliament. In the Declaratory Act is the power of binding us, by its acts, in all cases whatever; the latter we do most certainly dispute, and I trust shall successfully fight against, with the approbation of every honest Englishman.

Lord North's proposition, and consequent resolution of Parliament, were insidiously devised to wear the face of peace, and embarrass us in the choice of evils—either to accept and be slaves, or reject and increase the number and power of our enemies. I flatter myself that your petition will present to him only a choice of means injurious to his villanous schemes.

Our Convention met the very day of my getting home. The meeting was very full; we sat close many days, by six o'clock in the morning, and by candlelight in the evening. Our people were very prompt to do every thing desired; they have appropriated £100,000 for the defence of this Province, a great part of it to be laid out in the military line immediately, part contingently, and the rest for establishing manufactories of salt, saltpetre, and gunpowder.

We have an association ascertaining the necessity and justifiableness of repelling force by force, to be universally signed; and strict resolutions with regard to our Militia, which is to be as comprehensive here as perhaps in any country in the world, when called to action. We are to be subject to the congressional rules and regulations for the Army. A Committee of Safety, composed of sixteen, is, in the recess of the Convention, to have the supreme direction. We yet retain the forms of our Government, but there is no real force or efficacy in it; if the intelligence we have from England looks toward war, I dare say this Province will not hesitate to discharge all officers, and go boldly into it at once.

I have not lately heard any thing particular from Virginia that can be depended on; their Convention has had a long sitting, and I have no doubt but spirited measures, becoming themselves and adequate to their circumstances, are adopted. We have the pleasure now and then to hear of your successful skirmishes. I long to hear that you have all your riflemen, and am particularly anxious as to their conduct. The spirit has run through our young men so much, that if the business proceeds, notwithstanding the scarcity of men in this and the other Southern Provinces, I believe we must furnish you with a battalion or two; if, as

I hope, those who are gone acquire reputation, many of our youth will be on fire; the difficulty now is to regulate and direct the spirit of the people at large; and I verily believe, that instead of their being discouraged by a check on our military achievements, a sore rub would inflame them nearly to madness and desperation. I have already solicited your notice of several young gentlemen from Maryland; Lieutenant Griffith and Daniel Dorsey, volunteers with Captain Cresap's Company, and all young men of connexion with us; their fathers, with whom I have an intimacy and friendship, are ambitious that they should be regarded by you, and desire I should make a favourable mention of them with that view. You must not be surprised; the rank you hold in the opinion of my countrymen must make you the military father of the Maryland youth. I have not a personal acquaintance with these three young gentlemen, but their passion for the service is a powerful recommendation.

Our Convention set one example of banishment. Our association, I believe, will occasion a good many, chiefly Scotch, to return again to their own country. On a late alarm, twelve out of thirteen North Britons enrolled in one company, refused to march, on which they were disarmed; the alarm proved false, within an hour after the fatal discovery. I am very unwilling to do any thing harsh, but it is surely time to know who may be depended on. Under pretence of neutrality, our inveterate enemies will remain silent till we are on the hip, and then fall on like devils to overthrow us.

I have done myself much pleasure in writing you this loose unconnected letter, and I shall have more in knowing the length of it does not tire you. My best wishes attend you.

I am, my dear Sir, your most affectionate servant,
THOMAS JOHNSON, JUN.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Lebanon, August 18, 1775.

SIR: I have before me his Excellency General Washington's letter of the 14th instant, wherein he mentions, "We begin to feel a scarcity of lead. I have concluded that part of the stock found at Ticonderoga should be brought down; for this purpose have wrote to General Schuyler."

He desires me to take the direction of this matter, and be cautious and not suffer it to be water-borne when there is any danger of the enemy's shipping. His letter to you on that head I conclude is enclosed. I have wrote to Mr. Commissary Phelps that it will be sent by the returning teams from Lake George to him at Albany, from thence he is to direct it in the safest, least expensive, and directest way to the camp before Boston; not to suffer it to be water-borne where there is any danger. Possibly it may be best to carry it down the North River, as far as Colonel Hoffman's, and there taken into carts or wagons, and carried in the best and most direct way by land.

We have at Middletown, in this Colony, a lead mine, about seven or eight tons of ore raised, and preparations making to smelt it. It is expected saltpetre will soon be made in plenty, and there is no doubt of finding sulphur. These internal resources for ammunition will prevent the operation of the mischievous measures by cutting us off from all foreign supplies. Eight wagon loads of powder went into camp before Boston yesterday. Five deserters have come in lately. Our forces have the advantage in all little skirmishes. They have about one hundred prisoners. Friday last his Excellency wrote to General Gage, desiring him to free our prisoners from the common jail, in which both officers and soldiers are confined; informing him that unless he liberated them from that confinement, his officers and soldiers should be treated in the same manner. I have not heard the answer. People continue to come out slowly from Boston, who agree not more than six thousand men fit for duty in the enemy's fortress and camp.

August 21st.—Since writing the above I am favoured with your letter of the fourteenth, with yours to my son. I hope with you concerning the tents for Colonel Hinman's Regiment, although I am not without fears of unnecessary delays. I doubt not it will recover many of the sick to find they are going in action. I perceive a complaint of bad water; hope they will go where they will find better. Am obliged for your congratulations on my son's appointment. 'Tis truly agreeable to find it approved of. He set out for New-York on Thursday seven-night, and this day received a letter from him, informing that he is going to Philadelphia for the money. He has orders for one hundred thousand Dollars, and mentions your right to draw for two hundred thousand more if needed. Shall send an express to meet him at New-York. I have sent to Colonel Mott to make all possible haste up. I am surprised at the mention of Congress preventing your going forward at so promising an opportunity. Our enemies are the Ministerial Troops in Canada, while the Canadians are our friends, and will join us at a time when they are able and not forced to the contrary by our enemies. The Indians will join the Canadians, and it will save both blood and treasure to make our approach while our enemies are few and every thing looks promising. There are at least seven hundred and fifty men, who may possibly be spared, who are yet in this Colony, to assist in the enterprise. Since receiving yours, have given the intelligence to General Washington, and shall expect his answer soon. Surely it is not the intention of the Continental Congress to prevent your going forward.

I am, with great esteem and sincerity, Sir, your obedient and humble servant,
JONATHAN TRUMBULL.
The Honourable General Schuyler.

REHOBOTH (MASSACHUSETTS) TOWN-MEETING.

At a Town-Meeting of the inhabitants of the Town of Rehoboth, on the 10th day of July, 1775: Said Town hearing divers reports about the unfriendly conduct of sundry of the inhabitants of the Town of Swansey, the Town of Rehoboth ordered the Committee of Inspection to go to Swansey, and join their Committee, and inquire into the aforesaid reports; who accordingly went to Swansey, and a number of the respectable inhabitants of Rehoboth, and also a number of the respectable inhabitants from sundry of the Towns in the Colony of Rhode-Island and Swansey, met and attended with them. And the Committees of Rehoboth and Swansey joined, and caused a number of the inhabitants of Swansey to be convened before them, whose conduct was inquired of by witness; and a number of said inhabitants that were called appeared to be innocent, and a number more owned they had violated against the rules of the Congresses and promised reformation, whose names we spare. But what gives us pain is, that we ourselves cannot follow the rules of the Congresses without publishing the names of Jerathmeel Bowers, Esq., Charles Slead, and Gideon Sherman, to be persons that have acted contrary to the rules and directions of the Congresses, though not in matter of trade, and make no retraction thereof.

By order of the Committee:

JOSEPH ALLYN, Chairman.

JERATHMEEL BOWERS TO THE PUBLICK.

Swansey, August 8, 1775.

A piece having appeared in the Providence Gazette, and yesterday in the Boston Gazette, under the signature of Joseph Allyn, 2d, publishing "the names of Jerathmeel Bowers, Charles Slead, and Gideon Sherman, as persons that have acted contrary to the rules and directions of the Congress, though not in matters of trade, and made no retraction thereof."

I now demand of the Committee, who it is said have ordered the above-mentioned publication, (or of the said Joseph Allyn, Chairman, if he did it without order,) to shew forth, in any one instance, wherein I have counteracted the directions of the Congress.

To accuse a man of being guilty of crimes, and not at the same time to show what those crimes are, is contrary to every principle of justice and the express word of God; for who can defend himself against slander when he knows not the particulars of his accusation. If that Committee, or Chairman, or any other person, friend or foe, will undertake to inform the publick in what instance I have counteracted the Congress, I shall then know my accusation and be upon even ground. And as I know my innocency in that behalf, will cheerfully explain all my conduct, if it needs explanation; but until that is done, I shall consider all such insinuations, whether Committees or Chairmen, to be under an evil influence, and treat them and their publications with the contempt they deserve.

JERATHMEEL BOWERS.

REHOBOTH COMMITTEE TO COUNCIL OF MASSACHUSETTS.

Rehoboth, August 15, A. D. 1775.

Whereas, Colonel Jerathmeel Bowers hath, in the Boston Gazette, disowned the charge we accused him with, in saying that he had disobeyed the order of the Congress, which charge we are able to prove; but having but this day seen the denial of the charges we laid against him in the Providence Gazette, and therefore have not time to collect our evidence, as we were previously engaged in other matters of weight. But we purpose to make proof of the charge, in full, within a few days, and print it in the Boston Gazette.

By order of the Committee:

JOSEPH ALLYN, 2d., Chairman.

To the Honourable Council of the Province of the Massachusetts-Bay.

COMMITTEES OF REHOBOTH AND SWANZEY.

Swanzy, August 18, 1775.

Whereas, the joint Committees of the Towns of Rehoboth and Swanzy did, on the eleventh day of July last, at Swanzy, carefully examine into the conduct of Colonel Jerathmeel Bowers, &c., and caused the said Bowers, &c., to be advertised in the public papers as being unfriendly to his Country; since which it appears by a Cambridge paper, of August the tenth instant, that said Bowers has called upon said Committees to show why, or in what particulars he hath shown himself unfriendly, or in any ways inimical to his Country: Not having the least inclination to exaggerate the charges against Colonel Bowers, we have collected facts, well attested, and leave the impartial public to judge whether Colonel Bowers has acted as a friend to his Country.

By order of the Committees:

JOSEPH ALLYN, Chairman of the Committee.

Swanzy, August 18, 1775.

I, Philip Slead, of Swanzy, in the County of Bristol, &c., being of lawful age, testifieth and saith, that Colonel Jerathmeel Bowers hath publicly and repeatedly opposed our outstanding Province taxes to be paid to Henry Gardiner, Esq., of Stow, and opposed our militia to be equipped out of our Town stock. And he has appeared against said Town raising of minute-men, from time to time, till he, with others, had accomplished their designs; and he has practised drinking of tea since the restriction of the Continental Congress. And about the first of June he told me that our men were very fond of offices, and would go to set up Government soon, but that he would have no hand in it. I asked him who he thought they would set up for Governour. He answered General Ward; but he could not see what should make them so fond of offices, for it was his opinion five thousand of the Regulars would drive our whole Army, and the necks of our officers would be subject to the halter; but he did not design his neck should be subject to the halter by his conduct: and they had been making of money, but he never would have any thing to do with it, for it was good for nothing. I also heard said Bowers say, when enumerating the vast charge that would accrue for the maintaining and support of thirteen thousand men raised for the defence of our Colony, we should not be able to pay the cost; and he believed that his cousin Clark, who was then present, that his opinion was right: he being asked what it was, he said we should not be able to pay such an army, and that they would make use of the sword put into their hands against us for their pay. I don't remember I ever knew the said Bowers did any thing to encourage the regulation of our militia in said Town, since the unhappy dispute with our Parent Country; but his conduct ever since has intimidated our inhabitants in general. I also heard said Bowers say, it will never do for us to fight against old England. Moreover, at a Town-meeting on Monday following the battle at Bunker's Hill, in order to raise a number of minute-men to be ready for the defence of our Country on the shortest notice, which was voted, notwithstanding the violent opposition said Bowers made; but he and his adherents were uneasy at the great charge that would accrue for their pay; and said Bowers declared none of his estate should go to pay them, for the meeting was illegal, for every man should vote according to his interest, and be tried by the rate-street; whereupon, by his influence, the said minute-men were dismissed. Then a motion being made, if there was no need of men nor money for our defence, there was no need of a Committee; and it was moved and seconded by Colonel Bowers that the Committee be dismissed, and they were accordingly. After Col. Bowers withdrew from the meeting, the Town, thinking it dangerous, chose another Committee. And I have often heard said Bowers say it was a devilish affair the putting down the Courts, for it would be hard to get them set up again.

PHILIP SLEAD.

BRISTOL, ss., WARREN, August 18, 1775:

Philip Slead, the within-named, personally appeared, and being cautioned to testify the truth, made solemn oath to the truth of the within and above deposition by him subscribed.

Before me: JOHN KINNICUT, Justice Peace.

Swanzy, August 18, 1775.

I, David Peirce, of Swanzy, in the County of Bristol, &c., being of lawful age, testifieth and saith, that I heard Colonel Jerathmeel Bowers publicly oppose the militia of said Town to be equipped out of the Town stock, and that he has opposed the raising of minute-men in said Town. And I also heard him say, when enumerating the vast charge that would accrue for the support and maintenance of thirteen thousand men, raised for the defence of our Colony, we should not be able to pay the cost; and he believed that his cousin Clark, who was present, that his opinion was right: he being asked what it was, he said that we should not be able to pay such an army, and that they would make use of the swords put into their hands against us for their pay. And some time last May I was on the road with said Bowers, and I told him the trouble and disappointments I had met with in settling and regulating the militia of our Town; that Captain Luther Thurber had promised me, that if I could get the soldiers to sign and to choose him, he would serve as Captain; and he has now told me he is disinclined to serve. Bowers answered and said Thurber was not a man fit for Captain. I said to him, what shall we do, the greater part of the company had chose him for their leader, and as we border on a navigable river, and in danger of the enemy making depredations on us, and if they should, in that case we should be like a flock of sheep without a shepherd? He said it was no matter, when that time comes you and I will choose our officers and settle the company. And I have heard said Bowers blame some of the Committee of said Town for examining a person whose conduct had been inimical to the Constitution and interest of our Country; and Captain Robert Gibbs told me that said Bowers advised him to lie still, and not to act in our difficult affairs. Furthermore, I don't remember I ever knew the said Bowers did any thing to encourage the regulating the militia in said Town since the unhappy dispute with our Parent Country; and it is my candid opinion that his conduct has intimidated many of our inhabitants.

DAVID PEIRCE.

David Peirce, the above-named, personally appeared, and being cautioned to testify to the truth, made solemn oath to the truth of the above deposition.

Swanzy, August 18, 1775.

We, the deponents, of lawful age, do testify and say, that at a Town meeting called in order to raise a Company of Minute-Men, to be ready to march on any emergency, soon after the battle at Bunker's Hill, Jerathmeel Bowers, Esq., appeared very fierce against raising said Company, and said there were no men wanted, for there were more men there than they knew what to do with, and that it was not expected that Swanzy should raise any; and after a long debate with him it was voted to raise said Company. Afterwards said Bowers made a speech to the people against their proceedings, telling them how costly it would be, and how hard it would be on the Town to pay the cost; that the learning the exercise would do them no good, and also that it hurt our cause, and earnestly moved to the Moderator to call a vote to dismiss said Committee; and after a dispute the vote was called, and the Committee was dismissed by one or two majority. Then a motion being made and seconded, to settle the military in said Town, and for more cash to be paid for learning the exercise, said Bowers appeared very much against doing any thing about it, saying that they had better be easy; that money was the sinews of war, and if they voted for money to be paid, so it should be by the rate-street, for his estate should not pay one penny of the cost. Then a motion was made, if there was no need of men nor money for our defence, there was no need of a Committee; and it was moved and seconded by said Bowers, that the Committee be dismissed; they were accordingly.

The above is according to our best remembrances.

I, Jeremiah Brown, of Swanzy, in the County of Bristol, &c., being of lawful age, testifieth and saith, that I heard Colonel Jerathmeel Bowers publicly oppose the Minute-men to be raised, and also oppose the Militia of said Town to be equipped out of the Town stock; and at a Town-meeting, on Monday following the battle of Bunker's Hill, in order to raise a number of Minute-men to be ready for the defence of our Country on the shortest notice, which was voted, notwithstanding the violent opposition said Bowers made. I, Daniel Brown, being of lawful age, do testify and say, that Jerathmeel Bowers* sued me on two notes of hand, at Taunton, last September Court, and the Courts fell, and he endorsed his notes to the Sherburns, at Boston, and sued me to January Court last at Boston. Further saith, that he, said Bowers, has always appeared against the Country's moneys being paid to the Congress Treasurer, raising men or money to pay them to fight for their liberty.

FURTHER REPORT OF THE COMMITTEES OF REHOBOTH AND SWANZEY.

The Sub-Committee of the joint Committees of Rehoboth and Swanzy, being conscious to ourselves that we, with the utmost decency and moderation, have acted on the rules of the Congress in the case of Jerathmeel Bowers, Esquire, of Swanzy, being willing, at our first publication, to publish his name only, as an offender against the rules of the Congress, without publishing his crimes, which appeared to us of a very dangerous nature, humbly hoping that the great end of discipline would be answered thereby, which is to take away the sin and save the sinner: We have procured some further depositions to be published herewith, so that the impartial publick may be able to judge for themselves in a case of this importance to the bleeding cause of America, the said Bowers being by far the most popular man in the Town where he lives, and over which he apparently presides, as appears by the tenour of the depositions.

JOHN WHEELER, ISRAEL BARNEY,
JOHN MASON, PELATIAH MASON,

A quorum of the said Town's Sub-Committee chosen for this purpose.

Swanzy, August 18, 1775.

I, Patience Law, of Swanzy, in the County of Bristol, &c., being of lawful age, testifieth and saith, that on Wednesday following the battle at Bunker's Hill, Colonel Jerathmeel Bowers asked Mary Slead if her husband was gone to the Congress; she answered him yes. He asked her if Philip Slead had heard any news that made him go; he said it is best for the Town to lay still, for there was an army there, and let them fight it out. And I have known him to use tea since the restrictions of the Continental Congress.

PATIENCE LAW.

BRISTOL, ss., SWANZEY, Aug. 18, 1775:

Patience Law, above-named, appeared, and being cautioned to testify the truth, made solemn oath to the truth of the above deposition by her subscribed. Before me:

EDW. LUTHER, Town-Clerk of Swanzy.

Swanzy, August 18, 1775.

We, the deponents, of Swanzy, in the County of Bristol, &c., being of lawful age, testifieth and saith, that on Wednesday following the battle at Bunker's Hill, Colonel Jerathmeel Bowers asked Mary Slead, one of the deponents, if her husband was gone to the Congress; who said yes; he said he had no need to have gone there, for it is best for us to lie as still here as we can. She asked him for what reason; he said there was an army there, and let them fight it out. And we have known him to use tea since the restrictions of the Continental Congress.

MARTHA CHASE.

BRISTOL, ss., SWANZEY, Aug. 18, 1775:

EDW. LUTHER, Town-Clerk of Swanzy.

Swanzy, September 4, 1775.

I, Samuel Law, of Swanzy, in the County of Bristol, being of lawful age, testifieth and saith, that being in Freetown about the latter part of last March, when I saw several of the inhabitants of said Freetown receiving the King's Arms out of Colonel Thomas Gilbert's house, said Gilbert said to me, that Colonel Bowers and about ten more had occasioned all this difficulty, and if Bowers had behaved himself always as he had for three months back, it would have been better for him, the said Bowers, and your Town too. I asked him for what reason; he answered me and said, because he was your Representative, and your Town must answer for his conduct.

SAMUEL LAW.

BRISTOL, ss., WARREN, Sept. 5, 1775:

The above-named Samuel Law appeared before me, and being cautioned to depose the whole truth, made oath to the truth of the above deposition.

Before me: JOHN KINNICUT, Just. Peace.

I, the deponent, of lawful age, do testify and say, that at a Town-meeting called in Swanzy, in order to raise a Company of Minute-men, to be ready on the shortest notice to march in defence of our Country, soon after the battle at Bunker's Hill, Col. Jerathmeel Bowers appeared to be very fierce against raising said Company, and said there was no man wanted, for there were more men there than they knew what to do with, and that it was not expected that Swanzy should send any; and after debate with him, it was voted to raise said Company; and it was proposed to allow each man three Shillings a day, if they went out of the Town on alarm, which thing Col. Bowers fiercely opposed, signifying that if they had three Shillings a day, and went out of the Town, they would not care when they returned; and we could not get a vote in the Town to allow them any thing.

BENJAMIN MARTIN.

BRISTOL, ss., WARREN, Sept. 5, 1775:

The above-named Benjamin Martin appeared before me, and being cautioned to depose the whole truth, made oath to the truth of the above deposition.

Swanzy, September 5, 1775.

We, Benjamin Cole, 2d, and James Mason, of Swanzy, of lawful age, testify and say, that we were at a Town-meeting in Swanzy, on Monday following the battle of Bunker's Hill, where a motion was made and seconded to raise a Minute Company, to be ready on the shortest notice, for the defence of our Country, which was opposed by Colonel Jerathmeel Bowers; notwithstanding it was voted. After which the said Bowers said much about no men being wanted, and that many would be sent back that were gone; and then it was moved to reconsider the said vote, and it was done; after which it was moved to enlist as many of the Militia of the Town of Swanzy, in order to be ready on the shortest notice, for the defence of the Country, and to allow them eighteen Pence a-piece for every half day that they should exercise by order of the Selectmen of the Town; and the above-said Bowers opposed it, saying he would protest against the meeting, for it was illegal, and that every man should be taxed by the rate-street, for his estate should not pay any of the cost, and called upon the people to take notice that he was against it, and would always be against it. And it was said by some, if we did not want men nor money, we did not want a Committee; and it was moved and seconded to have the Committee dismissed, and it was done accordingly.

BENJAMIN COLE, 2d,
JAMES MASON.

BRISTOL, ss., WARREN, Sept. 5, 1775:

The above-named Benjamin Cole and James Mason appeared before me, and being duly cautioned to speak the whole truth, made oath to the truth of the above deposition.

Before me: JOHN KINNICUT, Just. Peace.

Swanzy, September 5, 1775.

I, Simeon Mason, of Swanzy, in the County of Bristol, being of lawful age, testifieth and saith, that being at a Town-meeting of the inhabitants of the Town of Swanzy, some time last fall, for the raising of a supply of a stock of powder for said Town, that Colonel Jerathmeel Bowers being there, opposed the stock being raised by them, and prevailed upon the inhabitants of said Town not to raise said stock, notwithstanding the agreements of many of the inhabitants of said Town to the contrary. Likewise, I being at a meeting of the inhabitants of said Town of Swanzy, the Monday after the fight at Bunker's Hill, for raising an Alarm Company in defence of our lives and liberties, and our Country, Colonel Jerathmeel Bowers being there, very much opposed it, and said it was contrary to the rules of the Congress to do it; and likewise said it was contrary to the plan, and very much opposed it; and said there was men enough at our camps at Roxbury; and said it was needless for us to raise any, for many that were there would be sent back again, for they was not wanted.

SIMEON MASON.

BRISTOL, ss., WARREN, Sept. 5, 1775:

Afterwards, when Colonel Bowers withdrew from the meeting, the Town thinking it dangerous to be without a Committee, chose a new Committee. We now say that we think said Bowers has acted an unfriendly part to his Country, in intimidating his townsmen for about a year last past, so that they have done little or nothing for the good of the common cause.

ALSTEAD (NEW-HAMPSHIRE) COMMITTEE.

The Committee of Correspondence for the Town of Alstead being applied to, by complaint, sundry times and from sundry persons, against Simon Baxter, of said Alstead, he being inimical to his Country in a most dangerous manner, accordingly appointed Friday, 18th of August, inst., for a time to examine into the matter: and after having served a citation upon said Baxter to attend and answer to any allegation that might be laid against him on that account, accordingly met with the Town in general, and a number of persons from adjacent Towns, and went into a full hearing of said matter. And after hearing the evidence against said Baxter, with his own declaration, which was that he would victual Gage's Army had he an opportunity, with sundry other open and dangerous declarations against the peace and good of the Country, under the present unhappy situation, therefore determined, with the advice of all present, that the said Simon Baxter's conduct has been, and still his avowed principles by his open and dangerous declaration before this body, is highly inimical, &c.; and adjudge that the said Baxter be confined to his farm in Alstead, and that he give up his arms, and that all persons be cautioned to withhold commerce and dealings with him, the said Baxter, until the advice of three adjacent Towns, by their Committees, be known, which shall be immediately called in.

Notwithstanding the foregoing determination, the said Simon Baxter is deserted and gone off from the Town of Alstead; and it is suspected that he, the said Simon Baxter, is gone off with contempt, and upon some bad design against his Country, therefore all persons, friends to the Country, are desired to take notice and beware of the said offender, that he may be brought to a sense of his duty.

INTERCEPTED LETTERS.

Extracts of several Letters brought by Captain Robbins, in the Schooner Two Sisters, lately seized by an armed vessel in the service of the United Colonies.

Published by order of the Congress:

CHARLES THOMSON, Secretary.

Extract of a Letter from a Gentleman in CORK to an Officer in BOSTON, dated AUGUST 19, 1775.

My imagination cannot point out the extreme uneasiness of your friends and relations here, at the very disagreeable situation you are in. Your letter of the 7th of July last has been some consolation, as by it find you and family were well. God protect you is all I can say, and to assure you of our hearty wishes that a speedy and happy reconciliation may take place. I promise you we are not a little alarmed here; for when all our Troops are gone, the rabble here, 'tis dreaded, will take advantage, and commit disorders of every kind. I see, from the War-Office, thirty-one Battalions are to go to you in the spring, each to consist of twelve companies of sixty privates, making twenty-two thousand men. Shocking work it is!

As to your private affairs, these bad times, I will venture to give you my opinion: First, take great care to what officers you give your money, as these gentlemen's bills oftener prove bad than otherwise; and as they are more liable to death than others at this time, you could never recover should any of their bills go back protested. In the next place, as you must be in a money-making way, and as affairs are in, at best, a very precarious situation, you should make lodgments of what you can spare, and as fast as you can in London. This is what I would do was I in your situation.

Thirty-one Battalions to compose the American Army in the spring of 1776, each to consist of twelve Companies of sixty rank and file, making twenty-two thousand three hundred and twenty men, viz: Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, Eighth, Tenth, Fourteenth, Fifteenth, Sixteenth, Seventeenth, Twenty-Second, Twenty-Third, Twenty-Sixth, Twenty-Seventh, Twenty-Eighth, Thirty-Fifth, Thirty-Seventh, Thirty-Eighth, Fortieth, Forty-Second, Forty-Third, Forty-Fourth, Forty-Fifth, Forty-Sixth, Forty-Seventh, Forty-Ninth, Fifty-Second, Fifty-Fifth, Sixty-Third, Sixty-Fourth, Sixty-Fifth. The Eighteenth and Fifty-Ninth are to return home.

Six Battalions of Hanoverians, three to Gibraltar, and three to Minorca; three Regiments to return home from Gibraltar, and two from Minorca.

Extract of a Letter to an Officer at BOSTON, dated YOUGHALL, AUGUST 20, 1775.

I take the opportunity of a sloop going to Boston to ask you how you go on. If I had known in time of her going I would have sent you something acceptable, as I suppose your present situation requires many things to make it tolerable. I was very happy to find you were not of the detachment to Bunker's Hill: never was such a slaughter; I shudder at the recollection! so many of our friends, but the other day parted, so butchered! We are preparing to send you more help; five Regiments to embark the beginning of September. I will send you something or other by them. We wait with much impatience for the meeting of the English Parliament. I cannot write to you as fully as I would wish, as I imagine this will undergo inspection. If you can find time, if you will write me one line now and then, be assured you will give very great pleasure to a person who sincerely regards you. According as I hear in your next, if you think I may venture politicks, I will give them to you very fully.

Extract of a Letter to an Officer at BOSTON, dated FORT HENRY, AUGUST 25, 1775.

Never was I so much surprised as to hear of the stand the Americans have made against His Majesty's Troops. I must own my opinion was, that if they ever came to an action, it would be of no longer a duration than they could take to their heels and run away; but by the accounts, how much I have been mistaken in them; and I believe most people that had served in America were of my opinion. I am sincerely sorry your Army is blocked up in the manner we hear you are; the disagreeableness of such a situation I have experienced, but hope it will not be of longer duration than till the arrival of the next re-enforcement of Troops, which are now near Cork. Our papers mention an Army of twenty-two thousand men, commanded by General Sir Jeffery Amherst, joining you in the spring, but I hope the command will not be taken from General Howe, for whom I have a very sincere regard, and wish him success and happiness. Many noblemen and others have offered to raise Regiments at their own expense in this Country, but none of them I believe have been accepted of as yet. Lord Bellamont was one of them, and he has now advertised that the Lord-Lieutenant has given him the inspection of the recruiting parties of the Ninth, Thirty-Third, and Thirty-Fourth, which he shall regularly attend to; what his scheme by this is I cannot conceive.

Extract of a Letter to an Officer in BOSTON, dated CORK, SEPTEMBER 8, 1775.

People are much divided in their sentiments about the Americans. Placemen, Pensioners, Tories, and Jacobites, with some stupid, ignorant, mercenary Whigs, are violent against them, but the bulk of the people of England and Ireland are strongly in their interest. My brother so far retains the prejudices of his late profession as to be a great enemy to them; but I own I am of the number of those who think they are hardly used, and wish they may retain their liberties. I entirely coincide with General Lee; and can't help thinking that the declaration of the Continental Congress and their address to the people of England, must convince every one who has the least particle of judgment or attention, of the justice of their cause. It is the general opinion, (and General Burgoyne's letter to General Lee seems to countenance it,) that had the Ministry certainly foreseen the unanimity and firmness of the Americans, they would hardly have ventured on the steps they have taken. How this unnatural combustion will end, the Lord only knows; but one thing I know, that I wish you and my other friends were removed from a service at once so disgraceful and so dangerous. Never did the recruiting parties meet with such ill success in every part of this Kingdom as at present, so invincible is the dislike of all ranks of people to the American service. The inhabitants of Bandon, Youghall, Birr, and other Towns, have entered into a resolution not to suffer any among them to enlist for the purpose of enslaving their American brethren. There have been no less than five parties at once in Charleville, and after stunning the Town, God knows how long, with their fife and drums, they were able to pick up only one recruit, who was under Mr. Robert's influence. Though the principal Romanists in Cork and Limerick have formed associations and offered bounties to such recruits as shall list on this occasion, yet have they very little success; for though the heads of that communion are in the interest of Government, the lower class, who have not sagacity enough to make proper distinctions, are, to a man, attached to the Americans, and say plainly the Irish ought to follow their example. Even Lord Kenmare, who on this occasion took the lead, had his recruiting party severely beat in Traloe, and their drum broke to pieces. The renowned Captain in harlequin, whose success in this Town last war has encouraged him to renew his antick tricks here, now finds himself with all his buffoonery sadly disappointed, and several of those he had trepanned have already deserted. Many of the draughts that are come here to fill up the Regiments ordered abroad, swear they will never draw a trigger against the Americans, among whom they have all relations; and most of the English and Irish soldiers that left this last April and May expressed so much repugnance to the service they were ordered on, that I am fully persuaded, if your Army was not shut up in Boston, it must suffer exceedingly by desertion.

But, though I write thus freely, I would have you very guarded, for all the letters from your side are opened; and yet there are many letters in this Town which give a most tragical account of your present situation. The carnage on Bunker's Hill is to every humane breast shocking beyond expression.

Extract of a Letter to Lieutenant JONES, of the Sixty-Third Regiment at BOSTON, dated at CORK, SEPTEMBER 10, 1775.

They [the Americans] will be scourged severely, and it is the opinion the soldiers will have all the forfeitures. I wish you all health, and that you may finish as gloriously as you have begun. The Sergeants give one guinea to every man, besides the King's bounty; these people are to be formed into Companies additional to each Regiment to recruit it. We have taken it into our heads here that the Admiral and his fleet have not been as active as they should be, and are told he is sent for home. I am, Sir, most affectionately, yours ever, R. GORDON.

Extract of a Letter to Captain GARDNER, Aid-de-camp to General BURGOTNE, at BOSTON, dated at CORK, SEPTEMBER 10, 1775.

I arrived here this day, and never was mortal more hurried than I am at present, but a Yankee schooner just going to leave this for Boston's great township, I ought not to let slip the opportunity.

I enclose in this a letter to Colonel Pigot, which when you have read, seal it and deliver it to him. If you have any interest with him you will employ it in my favour, for you must know there is a damned strong Scotch party in our Regiment, which would be glad to deprive me of the paymastership. I should have been a Major before this, if it had not been for this cursed rebellion, but every thing is for the best; perhaps I may soon get that rank without purchase, if I escape the blazing irons of the saints, for I am eldest Captain in the Regiment, except Major Gray. General Burgoyne's letter to him, [General Lee,] is deservedly much admired, and though short, I believe has made more converts to sound policy than any other production that has appeared upon the subject. The King's Proclamation has greatly confounded the turbulent, mis-called patriots.

"Strike off their pensions, by the setting sun,
"All England, if not Europe, is undone.

Some of my old acquaintances, the Skiragathry's, should be let slip upon the back settlements; I am convinced they would not desire better sport, and likewise convinced that nothing would sooner bring those liberty-mad gentry to reason. Your present situation must be very disagreeable, to be cooped up by such a set of dirty ragamuffins as I know they are: however, this may comfort you, the fiddle is tuning for them, and early next spring they will have such a dance as I hope will bring them to themselves. Believe me, dear Harry, to be affectionately yours, V. GARDNER.

P. S. The transports for the Seventeenth, Twenty-Seventh, and our Regiment, sailed for this the 28th of August. You may depend that we shall have early next spring twenty thousand Russians.

Adieu! laurels and life to you.

Extract of a Letter to an Officer at BOSTON, dated CORK, SEPTEMBER 14, 1775.

There are several young men going out volunteers, who have deposited the purchase money of commissions, so that you will not want opportunities of selling out, therefore we earnestly entreat you to come home. Were you on actual service against the French or Spaniards, our natural enemies, I should be the last man in the world to suggest a thought of quitting your profession: for though much I prize your safety, you may depend that the preservation of your character holds the first place with me.

Any thing you may desire to have from hence shall be punctually executed, provided the quantity does not exceed the consumption of your own family, for as to assisting any other officers employed in this black business, I beg to be excused; they may even go dine with Duke Humphry for me.

Now for publick matters. Lord Kenmare gives a bounty of ten shillings and six pence to all volunteers enlisting with Major Roche. The Papists of Limerick and the Papists of Cork have subscribed to give as much more to the first five hundred. The Popish Bishops have likewise been applied to, to use their influence with their flocks, which they are willing to do provided the officers are Papists. These are blessed times.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

In Committee of Safety, Philadelphia, August 19, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: We have received and considered your application for a supply of gunpowder. We had already furnished to the Army and to the neighbouring Colonies all we could safely spare, when an express arriving from General Schuyler, dated 2d of August, at Ticonderoga, expressing his great want of powder, we forwarded to him twenty-two hundred weight, directed to the care of the Committee at Albany. At the time we sent it, we were not informed that a large quantity which arrived in New-Jersey from South-Carolina, had been forwarded to him a short time before, which it is likely he had not heard of when he wrote, but which would make our last supply unnecessary. As probably that may not be gone from Albany, we leave it to your consideration whether it may not, on an application to General Schuyler, be brought back from thence for your use.

We are, Gentlemen, your most obedient humble servants,

By order: B. FRANKLIN, President.

To P. V. B. Livingston, Esq., &c., New-York.

PHILADELPHIA COMMITTEE.

Committee Chamber, August 19, 1775.

Whereas, by the eleventh Article of the Association of the Congress it is directed "That a Committee be chosen in every County, City, and Town, by those who are qualified to vote for Representatives in the Legislature, whose business it shall be attentively to observe the conduct of all persons touching this Association; and when it shall be made to appear to the satisfaction of a majority of any such Committee, that any person within the limits of their appointment has violated this Association, that such majority do forthwith cause the truth of the case to be published in the Gazette, to the end that all such foes to the rights of British America may be publickly known and universally contemned as the enemies of American liberty, and thenceforth we respectively will break off all dealings with him or her."

And whereas Mr. Schlosser having reported that a summons has been served upon him at the suit of William Conn, and marked with the name of Isaac Hunt, as his attorney, which Mr. Schlosser alleges was occasioned by his acting in the line of his duty as a member of this Committee:

Resolved, That Mr. Hunt be desired to attend this Committee immediately.

Mr. Hunt accordingly attended, and declared that when he ordered the writ to be issued, he did not know or believe that Mr. Schlosser had detained the Linen, for which he had issued the summons, as a member of this Committee, under a suspicion that it had been imported contrary to the Association of the Congress.

On motion, That Mr. Hunt be asked if he means to prosecute the action against Mr. Schlosser, now he is informed that Mr. Schlosser acted in the above instance in the line of his duty as a member of this Committee? The said question was accordingly proposed to him, when Mr. Hunt desired time to consider, and to consult his client, engaging to answer the Committee at their next meeting.

August 22, 1775.

Mr. Hunt attended the Committee, and after much conversation, requested to have the question proposed delivered to him in writing, with leave to answer it in the same way; on which Mr. Hunt was desired to withdraw.

Mr. Hunt was called in again. The Chairman informed him that an explicit answer ought now to be given, and that if he had it written the Committee would receive it; on which he declared he had nothing further to offer.

Resolved, That Mr. Hunt's conduct and declaration are by no means satisfactory.

August 29, 1775.

The Committee having taken the conduct of Mr. Hunt into consideration, are of opinion that he has, by issuing the above-mentioned summons and prosecuting the same, endeavoured, as much as in him lies, to contravene the Association entered into by the Continental Congress, and that he has not acted with candour in declaring, "that when he ordered the writ to be issued, he did not know or believe that Mr. Schlosser had detained the Linen, for which he had issued the summons, as a member of this Committee, under a suspicion that it had been imported contrary to the Association of the Congress," which will fully appear by the following affidavit:

William Conn, of the City of Philadelphia, maketh oath: That as he passed the house of Mr. George Schlosser, of the said City, on Thursday, the 17th instant, with three pieces of Linen in his hand, Mr. Schlosser called him, and asked if they were for sale, to which he replied they were, and delivered one of the pieces into the hands of Mr. Schlosser, expecting he meant to bargain for it; but instead of doing so Mr. Schlosser inquired how he came by it: that he, the said Conn, evaded the question by a feigned story, thinking it hard to be so closely pressed to say how he came by it; hereupon Mr. Schlosser told him it was his duty as a Committee-man to inquire, and would not part with the Linen until he was satisfied how it was imported; that he (Conn) need not be uneasy that the Linen was detained, but if he was so, he should have security for the safe return of it as soon as it should appear to have been imported according to the Continental Association. He, the said Conn, then said Mr. Schlosser might do as he pleased, as he could prove that he came honestly by the Linen; that hereupon he, the said Conn, applied to Mr. Ackroyd's clerk (Mr. Ackroyd not being at home) and obtained a certificate signed by him, that the piece of Linen then in question had been sold by himself for Mr. Ackroyd to the said Conn, and delivered the same to Mr. Schlosser, demanding his Linen. Mr. Schlosser said the certificate was not satisfactory; and that although he knew Mr. Ackroyd, he did not know his clerk; however, that he would lay the whole before the Committee, who would meet shortly and judge of it. That on Saturday, the 19th instant, he, the said Conn, having called at Mr. Schlosser's house several times, and not finding him at home, grew dissatisfied, and applied to George Bryan, Esq., and informed him that he had a complaint to make concerning a piece of Linen detained from him, and was proceeding to relate his case when Mr. Bryan (before he had time to mention Mr. Schlosser's being a Committee-man) stopped him and said it was a matter he had nothing to do with—it was the business of a lawyer. That he, the said Conn, having some knowledge of Isaac Hunt, Esq., applied to him, and informed him fully of his case, and in particular did acquaint Mr. Hunt that Mr. Schlosser had said he detained the piece of Linen as a Committee-man; Mr. Hunt gave it as his opinion that the piece of Linen might be recovered by a suit at law, and at the request of him, the said Conn, did commence a suit against the said George Schlosser accordingly.

WILLIAM CONN.

Sworn before me this 25th day of August, A. D. 1775:

JAMES YOUNG.

Ordered, That the above be published.

J. B. SMITH,
R. STRETTEL JONES, } Secretaries.

TO THE PRINTERS OF THE PENNSYLVANIA JOURNAL.

GENTLEMEN: We trust the necessity of the following publication, and the design of its appearing, will be a sufficient apology for the length and inaccuracy of the same, and for our requesting a place in your very entertaining paper:

When any matter becomes so publick as to be the subject of general conversation, and when the minds of some of the good people of the City may be under apprehensions for the peace of it, from a suspicion (however groundless) that a spirit of riot and licentiousness has taken possession of the minds of many of the inhabitants, it may not be amiss to lay the transactions of the sixth instant, with the cause and rise of them, before the publick, that they may be enabled to judge with candour and impartiality in the case, and not be imposed upon, either by their own fears, or the artful insinuations of designing men.

At this time, when large Armies are levied, bloody battles fought, and the lives of the best men in America every day exposed, in the support of the laws of the Congress and the liberties of America, it might well have been expected that no one, however disaffected to our cause, would openly and avowedly espouse the cause of the enemy. In such cases the laws of nature and the custom of nations will justify the severest punishment, especially if the person who acts such a part be a native or inhabitant of the country against which he practices. In the present unnatural struggle, where the child is obliged to defend itself against the violence of the parent, an attempt on our liberty is made, under the form of law; and being destitute of particular established forms of our own to appeal to in the case, we were obliged to recur to the first principles of the Constitution, and to delegate to men, chosen for the purpose, powers to suspend the former laws and customs of our Country, so far as was necessary for the preservation of our privileges, and to establish others of a temporary nature, to answer the present exigencies. This our honourable Congress performed: and that their laws might fully answer the purposes for which they were made, they recommended to their constituents to choose in our several Towns and Counties, Committees to take care that those laws were complied with. On the conduct of these Committees depends the whole success of our measures; for however good the laws of the Congress may be, if they are not faithfully executed, they answer no valuable purpose.

Isaac Hunt, Esq., having for a long time done every thing in his power to hurt the cause of American liberty, at last found an opportunity, which, if properly improved, he imagined would at once overturn what we were so long endeavouring to support. He issued a summons against one of our Committee for doing his duty as a Committee-man, hoping, if he could once turn against us the enginery of our laws, which were made for and answer the most salutary purpose, but which neither do nor can apply in all cases in our present circumstances, he would then play off an artillery which would do more execution than all the cannon of Great Britain. The Committee sent for him, attempted to convince him of his error, and prevail on him to relinquish the prosecution of the summons: but no! he had luckily found the occasion he so long had sought, of signaling himself against his Country, and of playing off the established laws of the land against us, and therefore treated the endeavours of the Committee with the utmost insolence and contempt, and refused to withdraw his name from the summons; which was all the Committee ever requested him to do, as they well knew that the withdrawing of the writ itself was not in the power of an attorney, but must depend on the will of his client.

The Committee, knowing the heinous nature of his crime would excite the just indignation of the publick, gave him a week to consider of the matter; but finding him determined to give them no kind of satisfaction, they then published his case, placing his conduct in the most favourable point of view that the facts would admit of, and forbearing to mention that the evening of the day on which the summons was issued, was the time appointed for a meeting of the Committee, who, it is well known have in every instance determined in cases of the like kind, without the least unnecessary delay, and would undoubtedly have done so in this case. And as in this attempt is not only involved an endeavour to destroy the Continental Association, but also to overturn the power and authority of the Committee, they left it to their constituents to determine what punishment such traitors and enemies to their Country deserved, being thoroughly convinced that the whole of their future power to execute the laws of the Congress depended on the spirit with which the publick resented such audacity. But Mr. Hunt, fearing the publick would not be fully sensible with how much contempt he treated the Committee, as soon as he knew they were about to publish his case, and before he saw what they intended to publish, sent a note to the printer, wherein he not only ridicules, plays with, and contemns their proceedings, but indirectly gives them the lie, by hinting to the publick that his state of the matter would differ greatly from theirs.

Thus stood the affair with Mr. Hunt, whose attempt was considered as having the most dangerous tendency, and it was therefore expected that he would have been taken into custody by the commanding officer of some of the Battalions, or by the Committee of Safety, and expelled the Province forever; for as the crime was committed against the Committee of Observation and Execution, it would have been improper for them to have done any thing further in the affair. But several of the freemen of the City, men of prudence and discretion, seeing the inactivity of those who ought to have stepped forward on the occasion, and the ruin to which the cause and the Committee would be exposed if Mr. Hunt should escape the publick resentment, which he so amply merited, met on the evening of the 5th instant, consulted with coolness and deliberation on the matter, and agreed that it was necessary to bring Mr. Hunt before the publick to receive such punishment as his crime deserved, and to recommend it as their opinion that he ought to receive an American coat of tar and feathers, laid on with decency, without further injury to his person, and then to be expelled the Province forever. They appointed a number of sober, spirited men, to seize on his person, and a guard of men under arms, to surround and protect him from injury and insult, until he had received his doom. This was in part executed: he was taken by the gentlemen appointed to that service, and the guard did their duty, but they met with such opposition from some who ought to have stood foremost in support of the Committee, and from whom they expected such conduct, that to avoid all confusion and riot, which some men of fortune laboured hard to excite, they agreed for the present only to cart him round the Town, and then to dismiss him in safety. In performing this they thought it proper to halt before the door of Dr. John Kearsley, who is known to every one to be a violent enemy to the cause, and one of Mr. Hunt's principal associates and advisers, in order that he, seeing the fate of his friend and fellow-advocate in the cause of opposition, might be induced to behave so as to give no further offence to his fellow-citizens by his toryism; but they had it not so much as in contemplation to touch his house or person. What happened to him arose from his own madness and folly.

While the cart stood before his door, to give Mr. Hunt an opportunity of publishing his recantation, a lad who followed the cart knocked at the Doctor's door, upon which the Captain of the guard called to him to desist, requesting that no insult might be offered to the house; another lad, one of the crowd, took hold of one of the window shutters and partly opened it, upon which the Doctor threw up the sash and pushed wide open the shutters, and taking up a pair of loaded pistols, cocked, presented, and snapped one of them. The crowd then gave way, and one of the guard seeing the Doctor determined to take away some lives, advanced with a charged bayonet, and making a pass at his breast he wounded the Doctor in the left hand. Another of the guard advanced immediately, and the Doctor snapped a second pistol at him as he came up; he then seized the pistol, and the Doctor snapped it a second time against his breast, while in his hand. This second person in attempting to wrest the pistol out of his hand, brought the Doctor down upon the pavement. He was instantly twisted into the cart with Mr. Hunt, and the people gave a loud huzza, and the Doctor to show his contempt of the people, took his wig in his wounded hand and swinging it around his head huzzaed louder and longer than the rest: when his wig was put on it appeared all bloody from the wound in his hand, which made many believe he was wounded in the head. He was then carted to the Coffee-House, and thence round the City, with a determined resolution to tar and feather him, if it could be done with safety to his life; but the people flocked together in such numbers, and were so exasperated at the insolence of his behaviour, that the men under arms were afraid to proceed to the operation, lest the violence of the people should put it out of their power to protect his person, which they were determined to do at the risk of their lives: they therefore conducted him safely into his house. This so enraged the people who followed the cart, and marked his behaviour, that they fell to, with the utmost violence, and broke his windows and doors with stones and brickbats. But it ought to be recorded to the honour of the associators, that as far as the men under arms know or can find, not one of them offered the last violence to the house. This was done by a number of hearty jolly tars, market people, and others out of the crowd, who were enraged that he escaped from them without tarring and feathering. The gentlemen who planned the affair, and those who conducted it, are far from being mobbish or mobbishly inclined: it was conducted with sobriety, decency and decorum on their part, and with the utmost safety to the persons of the Doctor and Mr. Hunt, as is evident from the repeated thanks which they received from both for their kind protection; and notwithstanding men who ought to have behaved differently, acted as they did, it was carried through with great calmness and solemnity. What happened to the Doctor's house, was wholly owing to this circumstance; for had the people been suffered to take revenge on his person for his insolent behaviour, the house would in all probability have escaped.

The design of those who conducted this affair was to bring a publick and notorious offender to publick disgrace without danger to his person or life. They did so: the wound the Doctor received, and the carting which followed, were brought on by his own conduct, and after he had attempted what would have justified their putting him to death on the spot, which it is probable the person who wounded him at first intended. The pistols he attempted to discharge against them, without the least violence being offered on their part, were loaded with a ball and two buck shot in each; wherefore we are exceedingly surprised at the conduct of some gentlemen on the occasion, especially of him who threatened to use his influence to have four of us whipped at the cart's tail, and of him also who laboured so indefatigably to bring a battalion to fire upon us. We appeal to the world, and to those very gentlemen, whether we have ever attempted to exhibit any one as a publick spectacle, but such as were regularly convicted of guilt; and now, notwithstanding our zeal in the cause of our Country, we defy any one to point out the man who has suffered as much as his crimes deserve. Mr. Hunt's crime was of such a nature as deserved the utmost resentment of the publick: the consequences which it involved in it, were much more dangerous to our liberties than the crime for which Mr. Christie is fined in five hundred pounds sterling, and banished the Province of Maryland forever. We therefore waited two days, to see if the Field-Officers of the Battalions, or the Committee of Safety, would undertake the matter; while Mr. Hunt and his associates were triumphing in the success of their measures, declaring publicly, that the Committee had rendered itself ridiculous by attempting to interfere with Mr. Hunt's proceedings, and that he despised what they or the publick could do—he was not to be intimidated. Even the Congress did not escape their insulting triumph; but they even expected to gain a victory over that honourable body, and rejoiced in the prospect of their future success.

In this exigency a number, we repeat it again, a number of sober, prudent men, determined to step forward, and teach all such enemies to their Country, that the man who should attempt to contravene the measures of the Congress, despise the authority of the Committee, or attempt to turn the laws of the land against our liberties, should find Philadelphia too hot for him.

It gives the people of the City but an indifferent opinion of the virtue and love for the freedom of America of those persons who are loud in their lamentations for the fate of Messrs. Hunt and Kearsley. Our brethren may be sacrificed by thousands on the plains of New-England; the best blood on the Continent may be spilled, or daily in danger of spilling, and there is no sorrow, no lamentation on that account; but take up Dr. Kearsley or Isaac Hunt, Esq., who are well known enemies to their Country, one of whom the day before he was carted, had the effrontery to go into a gentleman's store and take up a book, entitled, "Trials for High Treason," and in a sneering, insulting manner, asked him, if this would not be a proper book for Mr. Adams to peruse? we say, only take and cart such enemies to their Country round the City, under an armed guard to protect their persons from violence, and then all is lamentation, all is mourning with these persons. The cry is, violence! riots! mob! no innocent man is safe! with a thousand ranting expressions of like import. We would have such to know, that no innocent man has hitherto suffered, and that we are determined none shall, while we are able to defend them. We would likewise have them to know, that as we have devoted our lives to the service of our Country, so we shall never risk them with more cheerfulness and alacrity than in bringing those offenders to punishment who despise the authority of the Committee, and refuse to abide by the laws of the Congress, with all their aiders and abettors.

But some who would willingly be thought friends to the cause of America vent floods of wo in lamenting, not for those gentlemen, as they express themselves, but for their innocent wives and children. Mr. Kearsley's and Hunt's wives and children are the objects of their compassion—they are indeed objects of compassion, and their distress ought to wring the hearts of those who have disgraced them. We feel for their distress; and did those people who lament so pathetically for the innocent connexions of those enemies to America, express half the concern for the widows and orphans of those brave patriots whose blood has already stained the hills of the North, we might have charged it to the account of their humanity. But, are the wives and children of traitors to their Country, who are either possessed of considerable property, or under the care and protection of an indulgent and an affectionate grandfather, to be lamented, while twenty thousand inhabitants of Boston, many of whom have been accustomed to live in peace and affluence, are wandering from place to place in the utmost distress, and many of them depending on the hand of publick charity for the bread they daily eat, partake not of our compassion? Their misfortunes and distresses have either arisen from or been prolonged by the infamous arts of such men as Messrs. Hunt and Kearsley. Are we then to retain all our tenderness for such as have brought our distresses upon us, and to feel no compassion for those of our friends who have fallen the first victims to their diabolical thirst after Ministerial favour?

We give forth this publication on purpose to explain the principles on which we act; and to give the strongest assurances to such as may not be acquainted with our designs, that we mean not to disturb the peace and quiet of the City, but will to the utmost of our power preserve the same, as far as is consistent with the welfare of our Country. We are determined to bring publick offenders against our Country to publick disgrace; but in doing this we shall mark our conduct with calm solemnity; and this we apprehend necessary in our present circumstances and situation; for as no law can reach the present case, but such as are made for the present purpose, and as no magistrate is commissioned to act against those who attempt to destroy the Continental Association, or any other law of the Congress, but our Committees, so we are determined to bring the affair before no other body. Transgressors against their body shall be brought before the publick: and while we assure every man who has not discernment sufficient to draw such a conclusion from our former conduct, that no man shall be hurt in his person, while under our care, we would have them to know that the person who attempts to rescue such offenders from the punishment they deserve, be he who he may, or act in what character he please, shall undergo the same fate with the offender whom he attempts to screen. Publick punishment we are determined to see inflicted upon publick offenders; and herein we differ from those who recommend the exercise of private revenge, rather than the execution of publick justice. And we thus publickly declare, that we will pay no more respect to the person of the rich than to the person of the poor; but we will cheerfully risk our lives in bringing all publick offenders against the cause of our Country to the fate which their crimes shall merit. It will be extremely disagreeable to us to be at any time obliged to enter into a contention of this nature with any of our fellow-citizens; but if they will risk their lives in attempting to screen or rescue any publick offender against the cause of America, from the punishment he deserves, they may assure themselves that we will meet them half way, it being a matter of the utmost indifference to us, whether we risk our lives against an internal or external enemy.

Let those gentlemen who may, under pretence of civil or religious authority, hereafter attempt to rescue the guilty from the publick resentment which they have so justly incurred, remember, that if we have spared their insolence once, they are not to expect it a second time. The freemen of this County would have those gentlemen, who value themselves so highly on their wealth, and possessions, to know that they do not esteem it the sole end of Government to protect the rich and the powerful, however obnoxious they be; but that, on the success of the present controversy, depends the right of the industrious to the bread he earns by his labour. And they think it of infinitely more consequence to mankind that they should enjoy it undisturbed, than that the rich should riot in luxury; and that therefore no title nor dignity shall hereafter save offenders; nor shall they hereafter be treated as friends to the cause America who are exceedingly active in screening the enemies of our liberty from the publick resentment, while they have no zeal, no spirit to support the Committee in the execution of the unbounded important trust reposed in them by the publick.

Note.—As some persons, who have not had an opportunity of being well informed of the rise of this extraordinary transaction, have unjustly censured Mr. Schlosser for the part he acted, it is become necessary to lay before the publick, in addition to what has been published by the Committee, one circumstance which must fully justify him in the eye of every impartial man. Mr. Schlosser inquired of Conn, whether he had any more Linens than those he had with him? To which Conn replied that he had one hundred pieces.* Mr. Schlosser then asked him, how he came by them? Conn replied, that he had them from New-York. I would now ask whether Mr. Schlosser would not have been justly censured by his fellow-citizens had he suffered Conn with his Linen to pass without further inquiry? Indeed it may justly be made a question, whether he ought not to have seized and secured the person of Conn, until he made it appear that the Linens had been imported agreeable to the Association.

MAMACOTING COMMITTEE TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Mamacoting, Ulster County, August 19, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: We return you the following persons as officers chosen under the inspection of two of this Committee, agreeable to your Resolve published in John Holt's newspaper of the tenth instant, to wit: John Craye, Captain; John Graham, First Lieutenant; John McKinstry, Second Lieutenant; and John McCreery, Ensign. We desire you will be pleased to send up their commissions as soon as possible.

Signed by order of the Committee:

JOHN YOUNG, Chairman.

To the Gentlemen of the Provincial Congress.

COLONEL JAMES CLINTON TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Little-Britain, August 19, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: I thought I would have been obliged to return to New-York when I left it, before I proceeded to Albany, in order to collect my Regiment from the different Counties in this Province, but as I see by a resolve of the Congress the three companies on Long-Island belonging to my Regiment are excepted from marching with the rest of our Regiments, I think I have no occasion to go down, therefore I intend to set off for Albany with the seven companies belonging to my Regiment next Monday, at which time I have reason to think they will be nearly supplied with arms, and if we should be deficient I suppose we can receive some from New-York or Albany.

* This is the story alluded to in Conn's deposition, where he says he evaded Mr. Schlosser's question by a feigned story.

I hope you will inquire if the Commissary has sent up every thing belonging to my Regiment to Albany, that we may not be delayed there, for we cannot march without tents and blankets; we want axes, tomahawks, &c. I believe I could have bought blankets enough for a company from the country merchants if I had had orders, and I believe I must buy near thirty to bring with us to Albany, for fear they should not be sent there before we get up.

I am, Gentlemen, your most humble servant,

JAMES CLINTON.

To the Honourable Peter V. B. Livingston, President of the Provincial Congress, New-York.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Saratoga, August 19, 1775.

SIR: Yesterday Lieutenant-Colonel Ritzma delivered me your favour of the 8th instant, with the papers referred to, and inclosed in it.

The mode of procuring arms which you have adopted I believe will afford a sufficient and an immediate supply; but, after all, I fear they will be very indifferent, if I may judge from the Connecticut arms, many of which were procured in the same way. This induced me to hint that no time ought to be lost in supplying ourselves with this necessary article, and that they should be made in every part of the Colony where there is any artist that understands it. I have ordered an hundred gun-barrels to New-York, and as many as the gunsmiths at Albany and Schenectady can repair, to those places, of those that were found at Crown Point.

Colonel Ritzma with the four companies under his command is to march this morning from Mr. Niel's, two miles above this. His detachment has a quantity of baggage, sufficient for three complete Regiments. I hope the remainder of the Troops will leave New-York less burdened.

I am very happy that you have appointed John Duer Deputy Adjutant-General. Should that gentleman refuse to accept, you will I hope immediately appoint another, as I stand much in need of one.

Without an artillery officer it will be almost needless to have cannon, for I cannot find any person amongst the troops that was ever employed in that branch. There are gentlemen who have practised in New-York, and I should hope that if the request was made, that none would refuse to serve his Country on this occasion.

Please to favour me with a list of your military arrangements, that I may know what gentlemen are appointed; those with Colonel Ritzma I had not the pleasure of being acquainted with at New-York.

Fourteen of Col. Ritzma's men have already deserted since his arrival at Half-Moon; and I believe he will lose many more before he reaches Ticonderoga. If those gone are like some that remain, we have gained by their going off.

If it be determined that Ticonderoga is the place to be kept, I should know it the soonest possible, that such men as may be left there may be set to work in making the necessary repairs.

I arrived here yesterday on a visit to Mrs. Schuyler, who has been dangerously ill, but is happily out of danger, and propose to return to-morrow to Ticonderoga.

I am, Sir, very respectfully, your most obedient humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

Peter V. Brugh Livingston, Esq., &c., &c., &c.

GENERAL MONTGOMERY TO NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Ticonderoga, August 19, 1775.

SIR: The command of the Troops having devolved on me during the absence of General Schuyler for a few days, I do myself the honour of acknowledging your favour in behalf of the Committee of Safety of New-Hampshire, bearing date the 7th instant.

I cannot help thinking three companies, such as you describe them, and under an officer of Colonel Bedel's character, a very seasonable re-enforcement, the Troops here being much weakened by sickness, and the pressing urgency of the occasion will not permit the General to wait for all the New-York levies destined for this service.

FOURTH SERIES.—VOL. III.

Every intelligence from Canada evinces the necessity of a vigorous and speedy effort to crush their naval armament before it gets abroad, however ill prepared we may be to encounter a well appointed enemy, though few in numbers. There is great reason to believe it will not be a disagreeable visit to the inhabitants, who seem very sensible of the blessings of liberty, and wish to shake off the yoke of tyranny. May we have the honour of accomplishing it?

When your Committee consider how much we are pressed in time, you will excuse the irregularity of my requesting Col. Bedel to march without waiting your immediate directions. With respect to your warm recommendations of that gentleman, I can only say, that I make no doubt General Schuyler will be happy to pay all the attention to them the Congress have put in his power.

I have the honour to be, Sir, with the deepest sentiments of esteem for your respectable body, your most obedient and very humble servant,

RICHARD MONTGOMERY, Brigadier-General.

To Matthew Thornton, Esq., Chairman of the Committee of Safety for New-Hampshire.

DUBLIN (IRELAND) MIDSUMMER ASSEMBLY.

Midsummer Assembly, July 21, 1775.

Resolved unanimously, That the thanks of the Sheriffs and Commons be presented to our worthy countryman and former representative, his Grace the Duke of Leinster, in testimony of our approbation of his conduct in supporting the rights and liberties of our injured fellow-subjects in America.

Which being presented to his Grace by the Sheriffs, they received the following answer:

Leinster House, August 20, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: It is with the greatest pleasure that I this day received, by the hands of your worthy Sheriffs, your vote of thanks. Give me leave to assure you, nothing can be more satisfactory than to think my conduct in regard to our distressed brethren in America, should meet with the approbation of so respectable a body as the Commons of the City of Dublin.

I am, Gentlemen, your most obedient, and obliged humble servant,

LEINSTER.

To the Sheriffs and Commons of the City of Dublin.

Ordered, That the foregoing Resolution, and his Grace's Answer, when received, be published.

Signed by order:

ALFRED HOWARD, Clerk of the Commons.

Post Assembly, August 23, 1775.

By the Sheriffs and Commons of the City of DUBLIN:

Whereas, at the Quarter Assembly held April 28, 1775, a Petition of certain of the Commons was lodged, praying "that the Right Honourable the Lord Mayor, Sheriffs, Commons, and Citizens, would take into their serious consideration the oppressions and grievances which our brethren of America labour under, and the evils that from thence are likely to fall upon this Country; and that their Lordship and Honours would present a dutiful and loyal Petition to the King, stating the above facts, and praying relief."

And whereas, on said day, upon the unanimous requests of the Sheriffs and Commons to the Lord Mayor and Board of Aldermen, that they would be pleased to concur in presenting an Address, as above, they were pleased to return for answer "that the matter was of the highest importance and therefore inexpedient:"

And whereas, the said Petition of certain of the Commons was again lodged on the last Quarter Assembly, when a Committee of six Aldermen and as many of the Commons was appointed, with the assistance of Mr. Recorder, to draw up a Petition and Address to His Majesty, as above stated; who after several weeks deliberation, agreed to the following one:

"To the King's Most Excellent Majesty.

"GRACIOUS SOVEREIGN: We, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Lord Mayor, Sheriffs, Commons, and Citizens of the City of Dublin in Common Council assembled, conceive it would be highly improper in us at this alarming crisis of affairs to observe a criminal silence and an unfeeling indifference.

"We see the horrors and calamities of civil war raging in America, the hands of fellow-subjects imbrued in the blood of each other, and without searching for, or investigating the cause, we cannot hesitate to pronounce its effects destructive to the British Empire at large, and particularly and essentially ruinous to the limited commerce of this Kingdom.

"At a period of time when every political eye is intent on the movement of the armament fitted out by the Court of Spain, our natural and hereditary enemy, when that powerful force has been frustrated in its first attempt, and when this Country may with reason think, that such great preparations will not be suffered to become entirely abortive; we are naturally led to inquire into our means of defence against any sudden invasion, but have the mortification to find the military force drained from this Kingdom, to enter into an unnatural conflict with Protestant subjects of the same Empire.

"Your Majesty will be pleased to consider how much our trade, credit and manufactures are connected with peace in America, and that we cannot but feel the most lively distress and apprehensions at a continuance of a war which must necessarily involve in ruin our staple commodity, almost the only source of wealth to your faithful subjects of Ireland.

"It is not the intention or wish of us, your Majesty's dutiful subjects, to pretend to determine from whence the evils complained of have originated, or what has introduced your Majesty and your subjects into a situation unprecedented, delicate, dangerous, and distressing.

"Permit us to apply to your Majesty's wisdom and virtue, and to implore your parental interposition in promoting such means as will at once quiet the fears of your subjects in America, and preserve the constitutional rights of your Majesty and the British Legislature.

"Then may we expect the return of that peace so long a wanderer, an unnatural separation of the Colonies from the Mother Country prevented, the British Constitution throughout your Majesty's wide and extended Empire established on the firmest basis, and its necessary attendants, civil liberty and political security.

"The sword of discord once sheathed, Great Britain shall recover her wonted unanimity and importance; commerce shall again revive, and those torrents of your people's blood now flowing in the cause of civil commotion, be reserved for the noble purpose of asserting the just prerogative of your Majesty's crown, and the liberty of your People, in support of which we are ever ready to sacrifice our lives and fortunes."

Resolved unanimously by the Committee.

And whereas the Right Honourable the Lord Mayor and Board of Aldermen have this day put a negative on the said Address:

Now we, the Sheriffs and Commons, anxious to preserve our reputations from the odium that must remain to all posterity on the names of those who in any wise promote the acts now carrying on in America, and feeling the most poignant grief, as well on account of the injured inhabitants of that Continent, as on that of our brave countrymen sent on the unnatural errand of killing their fellow-subjects, have

Resolved, That it is the duty of every good citizen to exert his utmost abilities to allay the unhappy disputes that at present disturb the British Empire.

Resolved, That whoever would refuse his consent to a dutiful Petition to the King, tending to undeceive His Majesty, and from which it could be hoped that the effusion of one drop of subject blood might be prevented, is not a friend to the British Constitution.

Signed by order:

ALFRED HOWARD.

The Lord Mayor and Board of Aldermen put a negative on the Petition and Address.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER TO A GENTLEMAN IN PHILADELPHIA, DATED CHARLESTOWN, SOUTH-CAROLINA, AUGUST 20, 1775.

Every thing here is suspended but warlike preparations. It is said that there are scarce two hundred men in town not enrolled. The country is unanimous. Our two regiments of foot are every day training, and almost complete. About a week ago a small sloop from this Town boarded a snow from England, in Augustine Bay, and carried off between twelve and fourteen thousand pounds of powder, mostly belonging to the King. She had been sent privately with thirty resolute men well armed by our Committee, in order to intercept the vessel on the coast, but was disappointed, being rather too late, for there were forty thousand pounds landed, with four brass field-pieces, the day before our sloop boarded her. There were twelve soldiers sent from Augustine to assist and defend the snow, to whom our people gave ten guineas for helping them out with the powder, and being so modest as not to resist. A man-of-war was in sight, but fortunately aground the few hours our people stayed. We spiked up the snow's guns, and then went off triumphant, although attacked by three boats full of armed men. One got within a hundred and fifty yards, it being quite calm, but that moment a fresh gale sprang up. Our people brought their booty safe to Beaufort, a town on the coast, about seventy miles S. W. of this place. It was reported they were pursued by the armed vessels from Augustine, to which place, on hearing of this, our Council of Safety despatched fifteen Artillerymen and fifteen Grenadiers, by water, and a company of our Provincials to Beaufort, to assist the country people in the defence of the acquisition. We are putting the Town in a posture of defence, and are all determined to oppose whatever Troops may come here. Yesterday a negro was hanged and burnt for intended sedition, and burning the Town, &c.

REV. WILLIAM TENNENT TO HENRY LAURENS.

Bullock's Creek, August 20, 1775.

DEAR SIR: We expect to write you a publick letter next Wednesday, but opportunity offering I must inform you, that after visiting the upper part of Col. Richardson's regiment, and the High Dutch in the fork between Broad and Sahuda Rivers, the former with great success, the latter with very little, we have at length visited the great and mighty nabob Flethall. We found him surrounded by his court, viz: Cunningham, Brown and Robinson, who watch all his motions, and have him under great command. We soon found the unchangeable malignity of their minds, and the inexpressible pains they are at to blind the people, and fill them with bitterness against the gentlemen, as they are called.

General Gage's pamphlet is raging through the District, and greedily read. The readers have taken the same methods with the Romish church, to keep the people ignorant; and in general they firmly believe that no man that comes from below, and that no paper printed there, can speak the truth. This was necessary in order to prevent any thing we can say from taking place. We soon found that reasoning was vain with those who were fixed by royal emoluments; but perceiving that Flethall affected to play between, we let him know that we had discovered things which he thought were a profound secret, and surprised him much. He confessed receiving a letter from the Governour within five days last, and offered to swear there was no harm in it, and that he would not take arms against the country. But we surprised him into a promise to assemble the regiment next Wednesday, which highly affronted Cunningham and the rest of the Upper House; some of whom treated us with insolence upon it. We expect to meet the regiment accordingly, and many of our friends, whom I have advertised of it, will be there; some having intimated a design to put some trick upon us.

In the mean time Mr. Drayton has gone up to his iron works, and to the people about Lawson's Fork, where he will do something. I turned my course into the New Acquisition, where I am to have a meeting from day to day, in Colonel Neel's regiment. I think I shall fix this District in the right cause. I discovered on my way a scheme to surprise Fort Charlotte, and take all the powder and arms away; took an affidavit of it, and sent it express to Mr. Drayton, so hope it will be prevented. The Governour has undoubtedly given orders for it, and they are privately enlisting volunteers to the service. I shall this morning privately obtain affidavits to prove that Major Robinson has attempted to enlist many in the King's name, assuring them that he had a number of commissions in his pocket which should be distributed to the most worthy, and that they should have King's pay after ten days. He is just returned, and it is known that he met the Governour at Dorchester. They think that they are nearly ripe to show themselves, and make no scruple to threaten the whole Province with devastation in a short time.

They say that Cameron is among the Overhill Cherokees, and will soon join them with three thousand gunmen. I have just heard that the lower Towns will not join them; but confess that the Overhill Indians are preparing to fight for the King. In short, your friends in Town are preparing a great dish of blood for you, and expect soon, by their army, not only to have an asylum to fly to, but to bear down all before them. This both you and I have prophesied many times, but a lethiferous slumber seems to have sealed the eyes of some of our brethren. Robinson assures the people here, that a great multitude in Town of those who have signed the Association, are in the scheme and will join them upon notice.

I am now convinced that a certain affidavit which some have so much despised, is, with a small exception, true in every particular. There is here all the appearance of an hellish plot; and the friends of America have no ammunition, and may be surprised without remedy; I wish the Council would think of this. We have greatly weakened, and expect more to weaken them; but to overset the plan immediately is impossible. I have formed one, and am forming in this District another troop of volunteer horse rangers, who are as good as sworn to the Council of Safety, when they enlist. We are hemming in the dissidents on all sides as much as possible; but their leaders seem determined if possible to bring the people to draw blood, before they have time to be enlightened. I have forsook my chaise, and ride on horseback from day to day, meeting people.

And in great haste, am, dear Sir, your most obedient servant,
WM. TENNENT.

P. S. If you don't keep a look out, these people and the savages will receive ammunition by wagons from Town, or from Dorchester, from on board the fleet: they have no doubt of a supply.

Colonel Richard Caswell proposed for President Samuel Johnston, Esq., who was unanimously chosen President; and Mr. Andrew Knox was appointed Secretary; and Mr. James Glasgow an Assistant; Francis Lynaugh and Evan Swann Doorkeepers, during the continuance of the Congress.

Resolved, That Colonel Francis Nash wait on the Rev. George Micklejohn, and request him to attend and perform divine service. Pursuant to which he attended, and opened the Congress by reading prayers in the Church at Hillsborough.

The Congress having been informed that John Coulson, of Anson County, charged with dangerous practices against the liberties of America, was now in custody in this Town:

Resolved, That Messrs. Samuel Spencer, John Patten, John Johnston, Walter Gibson, Robert Ellis, Richard Cogdell, Solomon Sheppard, James White, Thomas Benbury, David Smith, Thomas Gray, Simon Bright, Henry Irwin, Memucan Hunt, Alexander Martin, John Jordan, Lawrence Baker, Nicholas Long, Benjamin Williams, William Williams, John McKnitt Alexander, William Hooper, Allen Jones, Richard Kennon, Henry Rhodes, John Williams, Miles Harvey, Robert Salter, William Sharp, Robert Lanier, William Kennon, John Rand, Joseph Hewes, William Brown, William Tisdale, Cornelius Harnett, Maurice Moore, Willie Jones, Francis Nash, Hugh Montgomery, and Jethro Summer, be a Committee to inquire into the conduct of the said John Coulson, and make report to this Congress to-morrow morning.

Resolved, That Mr. Hooper, Mr. Howe, Mr. Burke, Mr. Willie Jones, Mr. Maurice Moore, Mr. Allen Jones, and Mr. Penn, be a Committee to prepare a Test to be signed by the Members of this Congress.

Whereas, it is manifest that endeavours have been used by enemies to the liberties of America to persuade several of the inhabitants of this Province, who were engaged in the late insurrection, that they remained still liable to be punished, unless pardoned by His Majesty; and that pardons can only be obtained on condition that they shall, when required, take Arms, and act offensively against such persons as shall be devoted to destruction for having taken an active share in defence of American liberty: And whereas it is well known that no punishment can now lawfully be inflicted on any persons concerned in the said insurrection, whether mentioned in the act of Outlawry on that occasion or not:

Resolved therefore, That the late Insurgents, and every of them, ought to be protected from every attempt to punish them by any means whatever, and that this Congress will to their utmost protect them from any injury to their persons or property which may be attempted on the pretence of punishing the said late insurrection, or any thing in consequence thereof.

Resolved, That Mr. Maurice Moore, Mr. Caswell, Mr. Thomas Person, Mr. William Kennon, Mr. Knox, Mr. Locke, the Rev. Mr. Patillo, Mr. Burke, Mr. Hunt, Mr. Benjamin Harvey, Mr. Thomas Jones, Mr. Penn, and Mr. George Moore, be a Committee to confer with such of the inhabitants of this Province who entertain any religious or political scruples with respect to associating in the common cause of America, to remove any ill impressions that have been made upon them by the artful devices of the enemies of America, and to induce them, by argument and persuasion, heartily to unite with us for the protection of the constitutional rights and privileges thereof.

Resolved, That the Rev. Mr. Henry Patillo be desired to read prayers to the Congress every morning, and the

We, the subscribers, professing our allegiance to the King, and acknowledging the constitutional executive power of Government, do solemnly profess, testify and declare, that we do absolutely believe that neither the Parliament of Great Britain, nor any member or constituent branch thereof, have a right to impose Taxes upon these Colonies to regulate the internal police thereof; and that all attempts by fraud or force to establish and exercise such claims and powers are violations of the peace and security of the people, and ought to be resisted to the utmost: And that the people of this Province, singly and collectively, are bound by the Acts and Resolutions of the Continental and the Provincial Congresses; because in both they are freely represented by persons chosen by themselves; and we do solemnly and sincerely promise and engage, under the sanction of virtue, honour, and the sacred love of liberty and our country, to maintain and support all and every the Acts, Resolutions and Regulations of the said Continental and Provincial Congresses, to the utmost of our power and abilities. Resolved, That Mr. Maurice Moore, Mr. Hooper, Mr. Howe, Mr. Caswell, and Mr. Hewes, be a Committee to prepare an Address to the Inhabitants of the Province of North-Carolina, stating the present controversy in an easy familiar style and manner, obvious to the meanest capacity; calling upon them to unite in defence of American liberty, and vindicating from a necessity to which Administration has reduced us, the taking up arms, and assuming the control of the Militia; and ascribing the silence of the legislative powers of Government to his Excellency the Governour refusing to exercise the functions of his office, by leaving the Province and retiring on board a man-of-war, without any threats or violence to compel him to such a measure.

Resolved unanimously, That the said Paper is a false, scandalous, scurrilous, malicious, and seditious libel, tending to disunite the good people of this Province, and to stir up tumult and insurrections dangerous to the peace of His Majesty's Government, and the safety of the inhabitants, and highly injurious to the characters of several gentlemen of acknowledged virtue and loyalty; and further that the said Paper be burnt by the common hangman.

The Committee appointed to receive Intelligence and Petitions, &c., reported that they had taken into consideration the several matters laid before them, which they begged leave to lay before the Congress.

Ordered the same be read. Read the same, and is as follows, viz:

The Petition of Frances Dunn, (wife of John Dunn), and Dorothy Boote, (wife of Benjamin Boote), being referred to this Committee, and the allegations therein contained examined into, it appears to us, that from the notorious inimical conduct of the said John Dunn and Benjamin Boote, mentioned in the said Petition, to the cause of America, the apprehending and sending the said Dunn and Boote to South-Carolina, was necessary and justifiable in these times of general danger; and as to the future disposal of the said Dunn and Boote, we submit to the consideration of this honourable Congress.

The Petition of a number of Inhabitants of the Town of Salisbury, respecting the election of the said Town, being also referred to this Committee, it is our opinion, that the several matters contained in the said Petition, as objections to the election of a Member for the said Town, to sit in Provincial Congress, are groundless, and that the said election is good and valid.

The information of Thomas Wade, Thomas Polk and John Walker relative to the hostile intentions of Governor Martin, Indians and others, being laid before this Committee, in writing, it is our opinion, that the matter therein contained is of so serious and important a nature, that we beg leave to submit it to the consideration of this honourable Congress.

RICHARD COGDELL, Chairman.

From Governour Martin to Colonel Cotten, 21st July, 1775.

Likewise an Address from Rowan County to Governour Martin.

The Order of the Day being read, for taking under consideration the state of the Province, and the expediency of employing a Military Force for its defence against foreign and domestick invasions:

Resolved, That the same be deferred till Thursday next.

Whereas, some doubts may arise respecting the construction of the fourth article of the Continental Association relating to exportation:

Resolved, That it is the opinion of this Congress, that no Ship or Vessel shall clear out, or take on board any part of their Cargoes after the tenth day of September, 1775, but that Vessels actually laden or their Cargoes on board lighters, and cleared out before that day, may sail at any time after.

Mr. Caswell from the Committee appointed to take into consideration and report a state of the Publick Funds, reported as follows, viz:

Whereas, in order to make a proper and correct state of the Publick Funds, it would be necessary your Committee should have recourse to the publick accounts, which are in the hands of the Treasurers, and to the estimates of publick allowances and journals of the Assembly, which cannot conveniently be had here: they have therefore proceeded on the best information they have been able to obtain, and find that there are divers large sums of money due from sundry Sheriffs and other collectors, a great part of which, in the opinion of your Committee, will be lost to the publick, unless some method is immediately fallen upon to enforce the payment of the same, which your Committee earnestly recommend to the attention of the Congress.

That there are also divers sums of money due from the publick to individuals, and no money in the hands of the Southern Treasurer on the contingent fund to discharge the same: what may lie in the Northern Treasury on that fund your Committee have not been able to inform themselves.

That since the passing a resolution in the Assembly that the Rum Duties, and the one Shilling Tax for sinking the old Bills should cease, the law imposing the same having had its effect, sundry sums have been paid for such duties to the Collectors and to the Sheriffs for the said tax. Your Committee are of opinion that the money received on the former should be returned to the persons from whom the same was received, and also that the latter be either returned to the persons from whom received, or allowed them in the payment of any future tax. All which is submitted to the consideration of the Congress.

R. CASWELL, Chairman.

Ordered, The same lie for consideration until Saturday next.

The Congress taking into consideration the Letter from the Committee of Intelligence of Charlestown, the Remonstrances of Benjamin Boote and John Dunn, and the Petitions of Frances Dunn and Dorothy Boote, and the several Papers relative thereto:

Resolved, That the President of the Congress, by Letters addressed to the Committee of Intelligence of South-Carolina, thank them for their friendly interposition in behalf of this Province, by receiving and securing the persons of John Dunn and Benjamin Boote, thereby disappointing the endeavours of those men to defeat the American Association, in support of their just rights and privileges; and requesting of the said Committee to detain the persons of the said Dunn and Boote within that Province, till the inhabitants of North-Carolina, by their Delegates, again meet in Convention, or till they make such recantation of their principles as shall be satisfactory to the Committee of Charlestown: that this Province will on a similar occasion be ready to render a similar service to their worthy neighbours of the South Province. In the mean time that they pledge the credit of this Province to reimburse the expenses which they may be at by reason of such detention; and express at the same time that we have the fullest confidence, that the same humanity which has distinguished the proceedings of that Province, will actuate them in this instance.

Resolved, That no person whatsoever, charged as being an enemy to the American cause, shall be carried out of this Province privately, or by any act of violence, except by the directions of a Committee duly empowered to take cognizance of the offence with which they are charged, and who shall, upon fair and candid hearing thereupon, think such measures prudent, just and necessary; but as the particular circumstances which attended the seizure of Boote and Dunn, rendered a previous application altogether impracticable to any Committee appointed for the purpose of examination, we acknowledge ourselves under the greatest obligations to the persons who have rendered the signal service to this Province, of removing from amongst them men who were exerting their utmost endeavours to defeat the attempts of the virtuous inhabitants of this Province to preserve inviolate the rights of the British Constitution.

Ordered, That William Hill, William Gray and Zedekiah Stone be added to the Committee of Conference.

The Congress adjourned till to-morrow morning, nine o'clock.

The Congress met according to adjournment.

The Order of the Day being read, for taking under consideration the state of the Province, and the expediency of employing a Military Force for its defence against foreign and domestick invasions:

Resolved, That His Majesty's faithful and loyal subjects in this Colony are reduced to a dangerous and critical situation, by the attempts of a British Ministry to carry into execution by force of arms several unconstitutional and oppressive Acts of the British Parliament, for laying Taxes, and for altering and changing the Constitution and internal police of the United Colonies, in violation of the natural rights of the Colonists.

Resolved, That hostilities being actually commenced in the Massachusetts-Bay by the British Troops under the command of General Gage, and a number of the inhabitants of that Colony actually destroyed, the Town of Boston having been long occupied as a Garrison Town, and, as if in an enemy's country; the inhabitants thereof treated with a severity not to be justified towards declared enemies; re-enforcements being also threatened and every day expected to add to the misery of that wretched people, and to execute the cruel determined measures of Administration against this and the rest of the United Colonies:

And whereas, his Excellency Governour Martin, hath taken a very active and instrumental share in opposition to the means which have been adopted by this and the other United Colonies for their common safety, as well to disunite this from the rest, as to weaken the efforts of the inhabitants of North-Carolina to protect their lives, liberties and properties against any force which may be exerted to injure them; or for the express purpose of compelling us to submit to the operation of the acts:

That therefore, for the express and sole purpose of securing and defending this Colony, and preserving it in safety against all attempts to carry the said acts into execution by force of arms, this Colony be immediately put into a state of defence.

Resolved, That this Congress think it absolutely necessary for the support of the American Association and safety of the Colony, to raise a body of Forces, consisting of one thousand men; and upon the faith of the Resolve of the Continental Congress this Congress do resolve that one thousand men be immediately raised and embodied.

Whereas, the Committees of Mecklenburgh, Rowan, Bladen, and Cumberland, have respectively purchased of sundry persons Gunpowder, and agreed to pay such price as should be ascertained by this Congress for the same:

Resolved, That the Committees of Mecklenburgh and Rowan pay to the persons from whom they received Powder, the sum of five Shillings, Proclamation Money, per pound; and the Committees of Bladen and Cumberland four Shillings per pound, for all the Gunpowder they have purchased as aforesaid.

Saturday, September 2, 1775.

The Congress met according to adjournment.

The Southern Treasurer informed the Congress that he had advanced, agreeable to the directions of the House of Assembly, about nine hundred Pounds to the Delegates who attended the two former Congresses; that some Counties had not paid their first proportion of that sum, and that only one County had paid the last proportion.

Resolved, That such of the Counties from which the Treasurer hath not received the said first proportion, immediately pay him the same; and that the Treasurer return the Money he hath received for the last proportion directed to be paid him as aforesaid, to the County from which he received the same.

It is therefore Resolved, That the Treasurer be allowed so much of the Money as he has advanced to the Delegates aforesaid, as shall not be replaced by the sums paid, or to be paid him, of the first twenty Pounds directed to be raised in the several Counties in this Province, and the same shall be allowed in his accounts with the publick.

Mr. Boyd laid before the Congress two hundred Pastoral Letters from the Synod of Philadelphia, addressed to the inhabitants of this Province; which were dispersed among the Members.

Resolved, That the said Adam Boyd be allowed the sum of . . . . . Proclamation Money, to be paid by the Publick Treasurers, or either of them, and be allowed in their accounts with the publick.

Resolved, That the thanks of this Congress be given to William Hooper, Joseph Hewes, and Richard Caswell, Esquires, for their patriotick and faithful discharge of the important trust reposed in them as Delegates on the part of this Province at the late Continental Congress.

In consequence whereof, the President returned them thanks in the following manner:

GENTLEMEN: The honourable and patriotick conduct you have pursued in discharge of the high and important trust unanimously committed to you, with the most unlimited confidence, by the late Convention of this Province, has justified and done honour to their choice, and now calls forth the grateful thanks of your fellow-citizens; which thanks, in order that the most honourable testimony of your conduct may be transmitted to posterity, the Congress have commanded me to deliver in this place.

I do accordingly, with the greatest pleasure, return you the thanks of this Congress in behalf of their constituents, for the manly, spirited, and patriotick discharge of your duty, as Delegates representing this Province in the Grand Continental Congress at Philadelphia.

To which the Delegates returned the following answer:

We, the Delegates of this Province, to whom our fellow-citizens thought fit to consign, with the most unlimited confidence, the great and important charge of representing them in the late Continental Congress, beg leave to express our most sincere thanks for the honourable testimony which, through you, they have thought fit to render of our services in that capacity.

With hearts warmed with a zealous love of liberty, and desirous of a reconciliation with the Parent State upon terms just and constitutional, we flattered ourselves that the integrity of our motives would plead an excuse for our want of abilities, and in the candour and charity of our constituents, our well meant, however feeble endeavours would find their apology. Our expectations are more than answered: and this publick approbation of our conduct, the greatest reward a subject can receive or a people bestow, will stimulate us, whether in private or publick life our lot shall be cast, to imitate the virtues of our patriotick fellow-citizens, and to be distinguished by our usefulness in society, as we have this day been by the honours with which they have marked our former endeavours.

While our hearts overflow with gratitude to this respectable assembly, we cannot omit to offer our best acknowledgments to you, honoured Sir, for the polite manner in which you have been pleased to convey to us the sense of this House; and to congratulate them that their councils are conducted under the auspices of a character so justly esteemed, and which adds dignity to the seat in which it presides.

Resolved, That William Hooper, Joseph Hewes, and Richard Caswell, Esquires, be, and are hereby appointed Delegates in behalf of this Province, for the term of one year, to attend the General Congress, to be held at Philadelphia, on the fifth day of September instant, or at any other time and place that shall be appointed for that purpose. And they are hereby invested with such powers as may make any acts done by them, or any of them, or consent given in behalf of this Province (not inconsistent with such instructions as may be given by this Congress) obligatory upon every inhabitant thereof; and that each of them be paid five hundred Pounds, Proclamation Money, on performing the services aforesaid, to be paid by either of the Treasurers out of any moneys in their hands; and this Congress engage to indemnify such Treasurer or Treasurers for money they may advance on that account.

Ordered, That Messrs. Devotion Davis, Michael Rogers and Joseph Spruill have leave of absence during this session.

The Order of the Day, for considering the Report of the Committee relative to the state of the Publick Funds, being read, was ordered to lie over till Monday next.

The Congress adjourned till Monday morning, eight o'clock.

Monday, September 4, 1775.

The Congress met according to adjournment.

His Honour the President laid before the Congress a Letter from Mr. Biggleston, the Governour's Secretary, asking the favour of this Congress to give sanction and safe conduct to the removal of the most valuable effects of Governour Martin on board the Man-of-War, and his Coach and Horses to Mr. Farquard Campbell's.

Resolved, That if Mr. Biggleston should think proper to remove on board the Man-of-War all the Governour's effects, as well as his Excellency's Coach and Horses, as every article thereof, this Congress is even ready to give them, as to all other private property, every safeguard and security in their power to prevent their receiving any molestation or injury, however ideal the fears of Mr. Biggleston in this instance may be of meeting any interruption in carrying such design into execution; but as Mr. Farquard Campbell, a member of this Congress, has expressed a sincere desire that the Coach and Horses should not be sent to his house in Cumberland, and is amazed that such a proposal should have been made without his approbation or privity, they conceive they can by no means suffer the Coach and Horses to be removed to Cumberland County. This House further take this opportunity to express their surprise at his Excellency the Governour having deserted the Palace, as he might have enjoyed all the conveniences of the same in a state of perfect security, without insult or injury to his person or property.

Resolved, That Farquard Campbell, Esquire, hath, in the opinion of this Congress, conducted himself as an honest member of society and a friend to the American cause; and that any confidential expressions that have been dropped by Governour Martin, or any of his friends, with respect to any reliance they may have upon the services of the said Farquard Campbell against the American cause, have been without any encouragement from the said Farquard Campbell, but have been made use of in order to bring his character into distrust, and lessen the esteem which for his faithful services he deserves from the inhabitants of this Province.

Resolved, That the Secretary give Certificates to such of the Protesters, as from a conviction of the evil of their past conduct, have or shall hereafter sign the Association or Test entered into by the Members of this Congress during this session, setting forth that they are accepted as friends to American liberty.

Ordered, Mr. Hambricht have leave to absent himself from the service of the Congress.

The Order of the Day being read, for taking into consideration a paper purporting to be a Confederation of the United Colonies:

Resolved, The Congress resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole House.

The Congress resolved into a Committee of the Whole House accordingly, and unanimously chose the Reverend Mr. Patillo Chairman; and after some time spent therein, came to a Resolution thereon.

On motion, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Chairman reported as follows, to wit:

That the Committee have taken into consideration the plan of a General Confederation between the United Colonies, and are of opinion that the same is not at present eligible. And it is also the opinion of the Committee, that the Delegates for this Province ought to be instructed not to consent to any plan of Confederation, which may be offered in an ensuing Congress, until the same shall be laid before and approved by the Provincial Congress.

That the present Association ought to be further relied on for bringing about a reconciliation with the Parent State; and a further Confederacy ought only to be adopted in case of the last necessity.

Then, on motion, Resolved, The Congress do approve of the above Resolution.

The Congress adjourned till to-morrow morning, nine o'clock.

Tuesday, September 5, 1775.

On motion, Ordered, That Mr. Willie Jones, Mr. Nash and Mr. John Ashe be a Committee of this Congress to make an arrangement of Minute-Men for the safety of the Province, and report their proceedings to this Congress.

On motion, Ordered, That Mr. Skinner, Mr. Starkey, Mr. Locke, Mr. Caswell, Mr. Thomas Person, Mr. Burke, and Mr. Coor, be a Committee of Ways and Means, and that they make report of their proceedings.

Mr. Caswell, from the Committee of Ways and Means, reported as follows, viz:

That it is the opinion of your Committee, that the expenses of the thousand men to be raised and paid at the expense of the Continent, ought to be defrayed out of the fund provided for that purpose by the Continental Congress; and that the Provincial Congress, or such officers as they shall empower, do draw for one hundred thousand Dollars immediately, and for other sums as there may be occasion afterwards.

That it is the opinion of your Committee, sixty thousand Pounds be emitted in paper Bills of Credit, to be applied towards defraying the expense of the Militia and Minute-Men, for purchasing Arms and Ammunition, and paying bounties for the encouragement of Manufactures, expresses and other contingences; this sum to be sunk by a tax of two Shillings every year on each taxable person in this Province, to commence for the year 1777, and continue for seven years after its commencement.

RICHARD CASWELL, Chairman.

Ordered, The said Report lie for further consideration.

Resolved, That Mr. Penn, Mr. Harnett, Mr. Webb, Mr. Blount, Mr. Locke, and Mr. Coor, be a Committee to recommend proper persons for Commissaries for the several Troops.

The aforesaid Committee returned, and reported that several gentlemen had offered themselves as candidates, which they approved of, and recommended that the House should make choice of four of the said gentlemen for that purpose.

Pursuant to which Mr. William Kennon was appointed Commissary for the District of Wilmington, Mr. Robert Salter Commissary for the District of Newbern, Mr. Andrew Knox Commissary for the District of Edenton, and Mr. Robert Lanier Commissary for the District of Salisbury.

And the said Committee shall inquire into the truth of the accusation, and if it shall appear to twelve of them that there is sufficient proof to convict him, he shall be remanded to prison, there to remain until a convenient power shall be established for hearing and determining the matter, agreeable to the constitutional mode heretofore used in all capital cases; and if he shall be convicted on such future hearing, or shall stand mute, or challenge more than twenty of the petit jury, he shall suffer death as a felon, without benefit of clergy. But if the said Committee shall be of opinion that there is not sufficient proof to convict him, he shall be discharged; and the persons who shall first commit him shall take necessary measures to compel the witnesses, as well for as against him, to appear at the meeting of the said Committee of Safety and give testimony.

The Report of the Committee, appointed to bring in a plan for regulating Minute-Men and Militia, being taken into consideration:

Resolved, That the Province be divided into six Districts, as they stood heretofore under the Superiour Court Law, viz: Edenton, Halifax, Hillsborough, Wilmington, Newbern, and Salisbury, Districts.

That a Battalion, consisting of ten Companies of fifty men rank and file each, be raised in each District; and a Colonel, Lieutenant-Colonel, Major, ten Captains, ten Lieutenants, ten Ensigns, twenty Sergeants, ten Drummers, and ten Fifers, be allowed for every Battalion.

That the Field-Officers for each and every Battalion be recommended by the several Districts, and appointed by the Congress; and that the number of Men to be enlisted in the several Counties in the different Districts, be also recommended by the several Districts, as nearly as may be to the number of effective Men in each County.

That the Field-Officers in each District appoint a suitable person or persons in each County to enlist Minute-Men; which said Minute-Men, when their Companies are completed, shall choose their Captains, Lieutenants and Ensigns: and the said Captains, Lieutenants and Ensigns of each Company shall appoint their respective Non-commissioned Officers.

That the Field-Officers and Captains of each District appoint an Adjutant.

That the persons appointed to enlist Minute-Men in each County may take volunteers, coming of their own accord from other Counties, but shall not go into any other County to enlist, without permission of the Committee of such County in writing.

That when any Company is completed, and the Officers chosen, the Captain shall give notice to the Chairman of the County Committee, who shall thereupon call the Committee together to review the said Company at such place as the Chairman shall think proper; and the Committee, or a majority of them, finding the Company complete with able and proper men, shall grant a certificate thereof to the Captain, specifying the County and day, by which certificates the priority or rank of the Captains in the different Battalions shall be determined: and that the precedence or rank of the different Battalions be determined also as they are soonest embodied; which shall be ascertained and certified by the Members of the Provincial Council for the respective Districts where such Battalion belong. Should two Captains' certificates bear date the same day, the Members of the Provincial Council for the District shall decide between them. Should two Battalions or Colonels' certificates bear the same date, the Provincial Council shall determine the rank.

That the Provincial Council enter the returns or certificates of the County Committees and the Committees of Safety in a book for the purpose, and issue commissions accordingly.

That the Captains, or persons appointed to enlist, in enlisting men, give a preference to those who have guns of their own; but if it be found necessary to take such as have none, that then the Captain certify the same to the Committees of the Counties to which they belong, who shall thereupon borrow such guns as are fit for service, giving receipts describing such guns, and the value thereof, to the owners, that they may hereafter get them again, or the value of them. And the said Committees shall take receipts in like manner of the Captains for guns thus supplied; which receipts shall be transmitted to the Provincial Council: and the Captains shall produce such guns when demanded, pay the value of them, or shew that they have been lost by unavoidable accident to the publick.

That an allowance be made after the rate of ten Shillings per annum for a good smooth bore or Musket, and twenty Shillings for a Rifle, to the owners for the use of their guns, in the case above mentioned.

That the Minute-Men as soon as they are enlisted, and approved by Companies as above, be embodied in Battalions at or near the Towns aforesaid, in the different Districts, there to continue in training for fourteen days successively, Sundays inclusive; and that each and every Minute-Man be allowed one day's pay for every twenty miles in travelling to and from the place of training by Battalions: After this, that the different Companies in their respective Counties muster at least once a fortnight, on such days and such places as their Captains shall direct.

That the Special Committee herein before mentioned appoint a Commissary of Musters for every District, and shall be allowed eight pence per day for victualling each and every man. That a bounty of twenty-five shillings be allowed for every private man and Non-commissioned Officer, to buy a Hunting-Shirt, Leggings or Spatterdashes, and black Garters, which shall be the Uniform; and that the manual exercise for the said Minute-Men be that recommended by His Majesty in 1764. And if any Officer or Minute-Man shall refuse or neglect to attend battalion duty he shall forfeit two days' pay for every day he is absent, giving to the delinquent the privilege of making excuse any time during battalion exercise or training, which excuse shall be allowed or disallowed by a Court-Martial consisting of the Field-Officers and Captains to each Battalion belonging; the same to be levied on the estate of the delinquent, by any person or persons by the said Court appointed, and applied according to act of Assembly for regulating the Militia.

That each and every Company make such regulations as to them shall seem best, for non-attendance, disobedience and misbehaviour at musters by Companies; provided, that the Commanding Officer or Captain may, if found necessary, give leave of absence to any inferior officer or private man; the first in battalion duty, the last in Company musters.

That the Minute-Men be enlisted for six months, and whenever called into actual service, be subject and bound by the Rules and Regulations for the Continental Army provided by the Continental Congress; and if any Officer or Minute-Man, during his attendance on training duty by Battalions, shall refuse to obey the commands of his superior Officer, or behave refractory or indecently, such offender shall and may be confined for any time not exceeding twenty-four hours, and fined in any sum not exceeding fourteen days' pay, as shall be determined by the judgment of a Court-Martial, to be held as aforesaid; the fines to be levied and applied as herein before directed.

That in case of insurrections, invasions, or other emergency, such Captain or Captains as may be nearest to the scene of action, or first informed of the danger, shall have power to order all or part of his or their men, as may be necessary, into immediate service, and shall give notice to the Colonel or Commanding Officer of the Battalion to which he or they belong; and the Colonel or Commanding Officer shall, upon such information from a Captain, or in the first instance, have power to order all or every part of the Battalion, as he shall think proper, into service, and march them to any part of his District: but he shall give notice to the Committee of Safety of his District, and shall be subject to their orders when convened; but as soon as the Provincial Council shall meet, the power of the Committees of Safety shall cease with respect to such Battalion, and the Colonel, or Commanding Officer thereof, shall be subject to the control of the said Council.

That the Regular Officers shall take rank of the Minute-Officers of the same rank, and the Minute-Officers shall take rank of the Militia Officers of the same rank; but the Minute-Men shall not be under the command of the Militia Officers, nor the Militia under the command of the Minute-Officers, unless when drawn in actual service. That a Colonel of the Minute-Men shall take rank of a Lieutenant-Colonel of the Regulars; and a Colonel of the Militia take rank of a Lieutenant-Colonel of the Minute-Men.

And that every Officer, or Minute-Man, who shall refuse or unreasonably delay conforming to the above directions, with respect to insurrections, &c., shall, for such refusal or delay, suffer such punishment, (death excepted,) or pay such fine as shall be adjudged by a Court-Martial consisting of the Field-Officers and Captains to his Battalion belonging; provided, that if any Officer shall think himself aggrieved by the decision of such Court-Martial, he may appeal to the Provincial Council, whose determination shall be final: the said fines and forfeitures to be levied and applied as herein before directed.

And with respect to the Militia, your Committee have further resolved that the Field-Officers be appointed by Congress; the Captains, Lieutenants and Ensigns by the Committees of their respective Counties; and the Committees shall certify the names of the Officers so elected, to the Provincial Council, that commissions may issue accordingly. That the Colonel or Commanding Officer in such County have power to order two General Musters in every year; and that the Captains shall muster their Companies once a month, the Officers and Soldiers being subject to the same fines and punishments for non-attendance, &c., at these musters, as are directed by law for regulating the Militia.

That an Adjutant be appointed by the Field-Officers of each County, who shall attend on general and private muster of his said County, and shall be paid eight Shillings per day for every day he attends, to be certified by the Commanding Officer of their respective Regiments or Companies.

That the Committees of Safety in their respective Districts, upon any emergency, have power to order the Militia into service; their power to cease, however, in this respect, as soon as the Provincial Council shall meet and issue orders, and that in other respects the Militia be regulated by the law for that purpose; provided, except where in it is, or may be, contradictory to the Resolutions of the Congress.

And provided also, that every publick Ferry-keeper shall set over ferry free every person who shall attend musters as Militia or Minute-Men, at all such times as they shall be called upon by their respective Officers.

The Order of the Day, that was referred to a Committee of the Whole House, was laid over till to-morrow.

Resolved, That Mr. John Ashe be allowed four Pounds, for so much advanced by him to Stephen Jackson, a Messenger appointed by this Congress to take, and bring in custody, James Cotton and others, before this Congress.

The Congress adjourned till to-morrow morning, nine o'clock.

Friday, September 8, 1775.

The Congress met according to adjournment.

Resolved, That Mr. Willie Jones, Mr. Burke, Mr. Thomas Person, and Mr. Long, be a Committee to state and settle Mr. James Davis's Account, for services done as Printer to this Province.

Mr. Hooper laid before the House an Address to the Inhabitants of the British Empire; and the same being read was unanimously received, and is as follows, viz:

FRIENDS AND FELLOW-CITIZENS: The fate of the contest which at present subsists between these American Colonies, and the British Ministers who now sit at the helm of publick affairs, will be one of the most important epochs which can mark the annals of the British history. Foreign Nations with anxious expectation wait the result, and see with amazement the blind infatuated policy which the present Administration pursues to subjugate these Colonies, and reduce them, from being loyal and useful subjects, to an absolute dependance and abject slavery; as if the descendants of those ancestors who have shed rivers of blood, and expended millions of treasure, in fixing upon a lasting foundation the liberties of the British Constitution, saw with envy the once happy state of this western region, and strove to exterminate the patterns of those virtues which shone with a lustre that bid fair to rival and eclipse their own.

To enjoy the fruits of our own honest industry; to call that our own which we earn with the labour of our hands, and the sweat of our brows; to regulate that internal policy by which we, and not they, are to be affected; these are the mighty boons we ask. And traitors, rebels, and every harsh appellation that malice can dictate, or the virulence of language express, are the returns which we receive to the most humble petitions and earnest supplications. We have been told that independence is our object; that we seek to shake off all connection with the Parent State. Cruel suggestion! Do not all our professions, all our actions, uniformly contradict this?

We again declare, and we invoke that Almighty Being who searches the recesses of the human heart, and knows our most secret intentions, that it is our most earnest wish and prayer to be restored, with the other United Colonies, to the state in which we and they were placed before the year 1763; disposed to glance over any regulations which Britain had made previous to this, and which seem to be injurious and oppressive to these Colonies, hoping that at some future day she will benignly interpose, and remove from us every cause of complaint.

Whenever we have departed from the forms of the Constitution, our own safety and self-preservation have dictated the expedient; and if in any instances we have assumed powers which the laws invest in the Sovereign, or his representatives, it has been only in defence of our persons, properties and those rights which God and the Constitution have made inalienably ours. As soon as the cause of our fears and apprehensions are removed, with joy will we return these powers to their regular channels; and such institutions, formed from mere necessity, shall end with that necessity that created them.

These expressions flow from an affection bordering upon devotion to the succession of the House of Hanover as by law established, from subjects who view it as a monument that does honour to human nature—a monument capable of teaching Kings how glorious it is to reign over a free people. These are the heartfelt effusions of men ever ready to spend their blood and treasure, when constitutionally called upon, in support of succession of His Majesty King George the Third, his crown and dignity; and who fervently wish to transmit his reign to future ages as the era of common happiness to his People.

Could these our sentiments reach the throne, surely our Sovereign would forbid the horrors of war and desolation to intrude into this once peaceful and happy land, and would stop that deluge of human blood which now threatens to overflow this Colony—blood too precious to be shed but in a common cause against the common enemy of Great Britain and her sons.

This declaration we hold forth as a testimony of loyalty to our Sovereign, and affection to our Parent State, and as a sincere earnest of our present and future intentions.

We hope hereby to remove those impressions, which have been made by the representations of weak and wicked men, to the prejudice of this Colony, who thereby intended that the rectitude of our designs might be brought into distrust, and sedition, anarchy and confusion spread through this loyal Province.

We have discharged a duty which we owe to the world, to ourselves, and to posterity; and may the Almighty God give success to the means we make use of, so far as they are aimed to produce just, lawful and good purposes, and the salvation and happiness of the whole British Empire.

Resolved, That the Treasurers, or either of them, draw on the Continental Treasury, out of the sum directed to be drawn out of the Continental Funds for the use of the Army, five hundred Pounds for each of the three Delegates appointed to attend the Continental Congress in behalf of this Province, instead of the like sum ordered to be paid them out of the Provincial Treasury.

Resolved, That the Continental Troops to be raised in this Province be kept in pay three months, unless the Provincial Council should judge it necessary to continue them longer; and the said Council are empowered to disband them at any time before, or after the term of three months, when they shall judge that their service is unnecessary.

Mr. John Walker is appointed Captain of a Company in the Hillsborough District, in the room of Mr. John Williams, who resigned.

Resolved, That the Recruiting Officers of the Continental Army to be raised in this Province, advance to each Non-commissioned Officer and Soldier who shall be enlisted, forty Shillings, in part of his first month's pay; that ten Shillings be allowed to each Captain, Lieutenant, or Ensign, for every man which they shall respectively enlist and enrol as a Soldier in the said service, as a full compensation for their expenses in recruiting their men.

Resolved, That Samuel Johnston, Esquire, be, and is hereby appointed Treasurer for the Northern District, and Richard Caswell, Esquire, be, and he is hereby appointed Treasurer for the Southern District; which said Treasurers respectively are invested with the same powers and authorities, and entitled to the same emoluments, and liable to the like fines, penalties and forfeitures, as Treasurers were by an act of Assembly of this Province, passed in the year 1773, entitled "An Act for appointing publick Treasurers, and directing their duty in office;" and that each of them, before they enter on the execution of the said office, shall give bond and sufficient security in the sum of fifty thousand Pounds, Proclamation Money, to the Provincial Council.

Mr. Farquard Campbell and Mr. King have leave to absent themselves from the service of this Congress.

Mr. Caswell informed the Congress, that as they had done him the honour of appointing him Treasurer of the Southern District of this Province, and one of the signers of the publick Bills of Credit, his attending those duties would render it entirely out of his power to attend the Continental Congress, as one of the Delegates of this Province: he therefore requested this Congress would be pleased to appoint some other gentleman in his stead.

Whereupon, it is Resolved, That John Penn, Esquire, be, and he is hereby appointed a Delegate in behalf of this Province, in conjunction with William Hooper and Joseph Hewes, Esquires, and that he be invested with the same powers, and entitled to the same allowance, that the said Richard Caswell would have been vested with and entitled to, under a former resolution of this Congress.

Resolved, That the Secretary, as soon as this Congress rises, deliver the Journals to Mr. James Green, who is directed to transcribe a fair copy immediately, and deliver it to Mr. James Davis, who is desired to print the same, and send a copy to each of the Members of this Congress as soon as possible.

Mr. Wade laid before the Congress a Letter from John Coulson, with a Recantation and Association entered into, and signed by a number of the people called Protesters, with which this House is satisfied.

The Congress adjourned till to-morrow morning, six o'clock.

Saturday, September 9, 1775.

Resolved, That it be recommended to the Congress to appoint in each District of this Colony a Committee of Safety, to consist of a President and twelve other Members, who shall sit every three months, at the principal Town within their respective Districts, viz: Wilmington, Newbern, Edenton, Halifax, Hillsborough, and Salisbury, and as often at other times within their respective Districts as they may judge expedient and necessary; and shall, under the control of the Provincial Council hereinafter mentioned, direct the operations of the Militia and such other Forces as are and may be employed for the safety, protection and defence of this Colony, within their respective jurisdictions; and receive informations, and censure and punish delinquents, either in the first instance, or as a superintending power over the Town and County Committees: such Committees of Safety to be elected in Congress by ballot, by the Members of the respective Districts.

That it be recommended as aforesaid to elect by ballot thirteen persons, two to be named by the Members of each District, and one by the Congress, who shall be styled the Provincial Council, and they, or a majority of them, shall certify the appointment of Officers in the Army during the recess of Congress, and fill up vacancies, and grant Certificates, which shall be in the following form, viz:

That the Provincial Council, or a majority of them, as aforesaid, shall be vested with full power to suspend any Officer in the Army or Militia, when they shall deem it necessary for the publick service, and shall, within thirty days after such suspension, order a Regimental Court-Martial to set for the trial of such Officer; the sentence of such Court-Martial to be final, unless otherwise determined by the Congress.

That the Provincial Council, and the Committees of Safety in subordination thereto, shall have the direction, regulation, maintenance, and ordering of the Army, and of all military establishments and arrangements, subject however to the control of the Congress.

That the Provincial Council shall have full power to call forth the Militia, as in case of alarm, and to carry the Acts of Assembly, now or lately in force, with respect to the Militia, into execution; and shall have authority to reject such officers chosen by the people as they shall disapprove; to remove officers upon complaint; to fill up vacancies, and to make out appointments for such as shall have their approbation.

which hath usually been represented by a Member in the General Assembly, or such other persons as are by law entitled to vote for Members of Assembly, shall also in like manner in presence of three Inspectors to be appointed by the Town Committee, elect a Member to represent them in Congress, under the same rules and regulations, as near as may be, as have been usually observed in electing Members to sit and vote in General Assembly.

And the person or persons who shall appear to have the greatest number of votes shall by the Secretary of the Committee be returned duly elected to serve in Congress. Provided, That nothing in the above Resolve shall be deemed to alter the mode of voting observed in this and the last Congress, by Counties and Towns. And provided likewise, that no Returning Officer shall be admitted to sit and vote in Congress.

Resolved, That all householders in the said Counties, who have improved lands in possession, except such as hold land by lease for years, or at will, from or under any freeholder, shall vote in all elections for the said Counties, in like manner as freeholders in other Counties in this Province, any thing in the foregoing Resolution to the contrary notwithstanding.

That the Secretary or Clerk of each respective Committee shall give notice of each annual election, at the most publick places within their respective County and Town, at least twenty days before the time of such election.

That the Congress of this Colony shall be annually held, on the tenth day of November at such place as the preceding Congress shall agree, unless for special reasons otherwise directed by the Provincial Council; and the said Council shall ascertain the time of holding the next Congress.

That the Delegates so elected and qualified, when met in Congress, shall, before they enter upon any publick business, in the presence of at least three Members of the Provincial Council, repeat and subscribe the following Test, to wit: "We, the subscribers, professing our allegiance to the King, and acknowledging the constitutional executive power of Government, do solemnly profess, testify and declare, that we do absolutely believe that neither the Parliament of Great Britain, nor any member or constituent branch thereof, hath a right to impose Taxes upon these Colonies to regulate the internal police thereof; and that all attempts by fraud or force to establish and exercise such claims and powers, are violations of the peace and security of the people, and ought to be resisted to the utmost; and that the people of this Province, singly and collectively, are bound by the Acts and Resolutions of the Continental and Provincial Congresses, because in both they are freely represented by persons chosen by themselves. And we do solemnly and sincerely promise and engage, under the sanction of virtue, honour and the sacred love of liberty and our country, to maintain and support all and every the Acts, Resolutions and Regulations of the said Continental and Provincial Congresses, to the utmost of our power and abilities. In testimony whereof we have hereunto set our hands this . . . day of . . . 177 . . ."

That there be in each County a Committee, of not less than twenty-one persons, who shall be freeholders, a majority of whom shall be a quorum.

That there be in each of the Towns of Edenton, Newbern and Wilmington, a Committee to consist of fifteen persons; and in every other Town in this Colony having a right of representation, a Committee consisting of seven Members, qualified as before mentioned; the majority of the said Town Committees respectively to be a quorum.

That every person having a right to vote for Delegates to sit in Congress, shall have a right to vote for Committee-men.

That the Electors before they shall be suffered to vote, and the Elected before they shall sit and act, shall swear, if required, to their qualification.

That each Town and County Committee may make such further Rules and Regulations, within their respective Districts as to them shall appear necessary, so that they do not presume to inflict corporal punishment on any offender whatsoever, imprisonment only excepted.

That no person in this Province shall presume to commence any action whatsoever, in any Court of Law or before any Magistrate in this Province, from and after the tenth day of September instant, without application to and leave from the Committee of the County in which his debtor resides; nor shall any suit then depending be proceeded on without the approbation of such Committee: but execution shall not hereafter issue in any case whatsoever, till the Provincial Congress shall make further order therein.

That all sales by virtue of mortgages and letters of attorney are comprehended within the intent and meaning of the foregoing Resolves.

That the respective Town and County Committees shall immediately after their nomination and qualification, elect by ballot out of their own Members, seven persons to act as a Committee of Secrecy, Intelligence and Observation, who shall correspond with the Provincial Council, the Committees of Safety, and the other Committees in this and the neighbouring Colonies, and shall have power to take up and examine all suspected persons, and, if necessary, send them to the Provincial Council or the Committees of Safety for their respective Districts.

Then, on motion, Resolved, The foregoing Report be concurred with.

The Committee appointed to settle Mr. James Davis's Account, reported as follows, viz:

Your Committee are of opinion that the charge of seven hundred and fifty Pounds salary for three years, if due, is a charge against a particular fund, which the Treasurers appointed by act of Assembly are accountable for; that the other charges are for services done for the publick, which that salary was originally intended to compensate, and for which your Committee think is sufficient satisfaction, because the same individuals constitute the publick, whether represented in Assembly or Congress.

In Congress concurred with.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER TO A GENTLEMAN IN SCOTLAND,
DATED QUEBECK, AUGUST 20, 1775.

We have been alarmed for this month past by a party of Provincial Rebels, under the command of Col. Schuyler, of Albany, said to amount to five thousand men, and that they were building batteaus to cross Lake Champlain, in order to invade this Province. There is no persuading the country people here of their danger. Emissaries from the Rebels have made them believe that they are only come into the country to protect them from heavy taxes, which the Parliament designs to lay upon them. This, and the remembrance of what they suffered last war, make them very desirous of observing a strict neutrality; but, if the Rebels should come into the country, that cannot last long, as they will want every thing from the Canadians for their paper money, a currency that the people of this country suffered too much by during the French government to have any faith in now, and the Rebels will be obliged to have recourse to force to give it a circulation, or in other words to take what they want, which will make the Canadians fly to arms in defence of their property; and in that case, as the country is numerous and warlike, it is very probable you will soon hear that they have put Schuyler and all his people to the sword.

General Carleton's present force does not consist of above seven hundred regular troops, three hundred new raised men under Mr. McLean and others, and twelve or thirteen hundred Indian warriors, and many different nations, who go and come as they incline, but are very formidable in an American war.

The English merchants and other English inhabitants here, except very few, are hearty and zealous in the cause of Government, and will do their utmost to defend the Town against the Rebels. They have freighted a ship, which they are loading with milch cows, sheep and poultry, as a present for the wounded soldiers at Boston. They have raised the money for that purpose by subscription.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Saratoga, August 20, 1775.

SIR: I did myself the honour to write you yesterday, but forgot to answer your request relative to the Green Mountain boys. Since my last to you on that subject I have heard nothing immediately from them. Reports prevail that the controversy between Allen and Warner is carried to such a length that few men will be raised, and of those that may enlist very few will have arms.

I have just now received an express from General Montgomery, enclosing the examination of a Canadian, which confirms our former accounts of the friendly sentiments of the Canadians; that the vessels building at St.

John's were, ten days ago, not begun planking, and that a number of Canadians were ready to join us on our arrival at St. John's. Pray send up the cartridge paper and artillery stores with the utmost speed, as I should be sorry to remain a moment longer at Ticonderoga than what is absolutely necessary.

I am, Sir, most respectfully, your obedient humble servant,

PH. SCHUYLER.

To Peter V. B. Livingston, Esq., &c., &c., &c.

NEW-MARLBOROUGH COMMITTEE TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-Marlborough, August 20, 1775.

HONOURABLE GENTLEMEN: Agreeable to your order the South District of the Precinct of New-Marlborough met on the 20th of this instant, and chose, by plurality of voices, the following officers for their Militia, viz: Mr. Lewis Dubois, Captain; Mr. Caleb Merrit, First Lieutenant; Dr. Abijah Perkins, Second Lieutenant; Mr. Matthew Wygant, Ensign.

We are, Gentlemen, your very humble servants,

JOHN SMITH,

For the Committee of New-Marlborough.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM GENERAL GAGE TO THE EARL OF DARTMOUTH, DATED BOSTON, AUGUST 20, 1775.

Mr. Washington, who commands the Rebel Army, has written to me on the subject of the treatment of the Rebel prisoners in our custody, a copy of whose letter* I transmit to your Lordship, together with a copy of my answer.† Major Skene, made prisoner at Philadelphia, is sent into Connecticut, where he is to be confined with some others; and I understand they make war like savages, making captives of women and children.

The Rebels are very numerous, and continue to throw up works in some points nearer to the Town than before. Their advanced parties have been drove back, both at Boston and Charlestown, and their posts destroyed. They landed a large body a second time at the Light-House, where they made prisoners of a few marines posted there by the Admiral, and ten or twelve carpenters who were repairing the house.

A fleet of transports that had been out in search of live stock is just returned, with about eighteen hundred sheep, and above an hundred head of oxen, which will be some relief to the troops in general, and of great benefit to the hospitals.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, August 20, 1775.

DEAR SIR: Since my last of the 15th instant, I have been favoured with yours of the 6th. I am much concerned to find the supplies ordered have been so much delayed. By this time I hope Colonel McDougall, whose zeal is unquestionable, has joined you with every thing necessary for prosecuting your plan. Several of the Delegates from Philadelphia, who have visited our camp, assure me that powder is forwarded to you, and the daily arrivals of that article give us reason to hope we shall soon have a very ample supply. Animated with the goodness of our cause, and the best wishes of your countrymen, I am sure you will not let any difficulties not insuperable damp your ardour. Perseverance and spirit have done wonders in all ages.

In my last, a copy of which is enclosed, I sent you an account of the arrival of several St. François Indians in our camp, and their friendly dispositions. You have also a copy of the resolution of Congress, by which you will find it is their intention only to seek a neutrality of the Indian nations, unless the ministerial agents should engage them in hostilities, or enter into an offensive alliance with them. I have been, therefore, embarrassed in giving them an answer when they have tendered their services and assistance. As your situation enables you best to know the motions of the Governour and the Agents, I proposed to them to go home by way of Ticonderoga, referring them to you for an answer, which you would give according to the intelligence you have had, and the judgment you have formed of the transactions among the Indians; but as they do not seem in any hurry to leave our camp, your answer by the return of this express may possibly reach me before they return, and alter their route. Four of their company still remain in our camp, and propose to stay some time with us.

* Dated Cambridge, August 11, 1775.

† Dated Boston, August 13, 1775.

The design of this express is to communicate to you a plan of an expedition which has engaged my thoughts for several days. It is to penetrate into Canada by way of Kennebeck River, and so to Quebeck by a route ninety miles below Montreal. I can very well spare a detachment for this purpose, of one thousand or twelve hundred men; and the land carriage by the route proposed is too inconsiderable to make an objection. If you are resolved to proceed, which I gather from your last letter is your intention, it would make a diversion which would distract Carleton, and facilitate your views. He must either break up and follow this party to Quebeck, by which he will leave you free passage, or he must suffer that important place to fall into our hands, an event which would have a decisive effect and influence on the publick interests. There may be some danger that such a sudden incursion might alarm the Canadians, and detach them from that neutrality which they have hitherto observed, but I should hope that with suitable precautions, and a strict discipline preserved, any apprehensions and jealousies might be removed. The few whom I have consulted upon it approve it much, but the final determination is deferred until I hear from you. You will therefore, by the return of this messenger, inform me of your ultimate resolution. If you mean to proceed, acquaint me as particularly as you can with the time and force; what late accounts you have had from Canada, and your opinion as to the sentiments of the inhabitants as well as those of the Indians, upon a penetration into their country; what number of troops are at Quebeck, and whether any men-of-war, with all other circumstances which may be material in the consideration of a step of such importance. Not a moment's time is to be lost in the preparation for this enterprise, if the advices received from you favour it. With the utmost expedition the season will be considerably advanced, so that you will dismiss the express as soon as possible.

While the three New-Hampshire Companies remain in their present station, they will not be considered as composing a part of the Continental Army, but as a militia under the direction and pay of the Colony whose inhabitants they are, or for whose defence they are stationed; so that it will not be proper for me to give any orders respecting them.

We still continue in the same situation as to the enemy as when I wrote you last, but we have had six and a half tons of powder from the southward, which is a very seasonable supply. We are not able to learn any thing farther of the intentions of the enemy, and they are too strongly posted for us to attempt any thing upon them at present.

My best wishes attend you, and believe me, with much truth and regard, my dear Sir, your very obedient humble servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

General Schuyler, per express.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM WILLIAM HENRY DRAYTON TO THE COUNCIL OF SAFETY FOR SOUTH-CAROLINA, DATED LAWSON'S FORK, AUGUST 21, 1775.

Unless our friends in the country find that the non-subscribers are debarred all communication with Charlestown, and all trade with the country stores, they will be much chagrined, and bad consequences may ensue; in particular, I most earnestly recommend that no more goods be allowed to be sent up to McLaurin's store. His partner in town is one McCurry or Curry, some such name. This man has signed the Association, and under this sanction he means to supply McLaurin's, by which means the Dutch will be encouraged to persevere in their obstinacy. And I beg leave to caution you even against McLaurin's signing the Association, if he should think proper to do so to procure goods, for the Dutch agree if there should be a necessity, that he should be allowed to subscribe, and then they would be supplied as usual, without their acceding to the Association.

The commissions for the volunteer companies are not come to hand; but I suppose they are with Colonel Thompson, who in all probability will continue in his new camp until my arrival there. I reached Colonel Fletchall's last Thursday morning, before breakfast, and Mr. Tennent and myself after breakfast engaged him in a private conversation during near three hours. We endeavoured to explain every thing to him. We pressed them upon him, and endeavoured to show him that we had a confidence in him—we humoured him—we laughed with him; then we recurred to argument, remonstrances, and entreaties, to join his Country, and all America. All that we could get from him was this: "He would never take up arms against his King or his countrymen, and that the proceedings of the Congress at Philadelphia were impolitick, disrespectful, and irritating to the King." We charged him with having written to the Governor, and with having received an answer: he confessed both. We named the day (the Sunday preceding) he received the answer: he allowed it. We named the method by which he received it, (concealed in a cane,) he appeared confounded, but, after a pause, he attempted to laugh off this last particular. Robinson brought up this letter, and Fletchall would not show it to us. Robinson declares he has brought up a commission to raise men for the King; and he even had the imprudence to say before me, that he should raise men for the defence of his person, since many people had threatened him. I answered, surely the civil power would not allow him to go about with armed men, to the terror of the King's subjects; he replied, why did not the civil power prevent the Congress from having armed men, and surely he would have armed men so long as they had any. This man's looks are utterly against him. Much venom appears in Cunningham's countenance and conversation. Neither of these men say much; but *Brown** is the spokesman, and his bitterness and violence are intolerable. He has in various ways insulted us during our twenty-four hours stay at Fletchall's, as if he wanted to provoke me to violence. At length he went so far as to tell me he believed we did not mean well to the King, and that our professions were nothing but a cloak. At this provocation, after many others, I almost lost my caution; but thank God, I did not even appear to do so: in a very firm tone I severely checked him. The Colonel bid him go to bed. Before this happened we had engaged the Colonel in the private conversation, to call out his Regiment as on the 23d instant; upon our return to the house, where this Brown, Cunningham and Robinson were, he mentioned what he had promised. All three of them were open-mouthed against the measure, and Mr. Tennent and myself had much to do to keep the Colonel to his promise. This meeting of the Regiment will be at the time and place of election, at Ford's; and I am not without some apprehensions that some violence will then be used against us. I enclose a letter from Mr. Tennent to me, the day we parted at the Colonel's. And besides this, it is my firm belief that Brown, Cunningham and Robinson will do every thing in their power to bring things to extremities, for they are clearly of opinion they can beat the whole Colony. These men manage Fletchall as they please when they have him to themselves; indeed, he is so fixed, and has made so many declarations, that I firmly think his pride and false sense of honour will never allow him to appear to think as we do, even if these men were not about him. Mr. Kershaw told me he knew the man, and that no confidence was to be placed in him.

Things wearing so unfavourable an appearance Colonel Richardson, Mr. Kershaw, Mr. Tennent, and myself, unanimously thought it absolutely expedient to direct Captain Purvis to raise an additional troop of Rangers immediately, to lie on the back of these people, and Mr. Tennent and myself have given directions accordingly, not doubting but that the necessity of the case will induce you to approve the measure. Captain Purvis came to us, appeared much concerned for his past conduct, attributing it to a mistake touching the station of the Rangers, which he had thought had been by the Congress fixed to the back country and frontiers. He has been since active in our favour, and is a person of influence in his part of the country, on the back of Fletchall. His brother is a man of great influence in Mecklenburgh, and ready to march to our assistance when called upon; and already Fletchall looked upon Captain Purvis as an acquisition to his party. Hence, to bind Captain Purvis's brother, and all the friends of both to us, to quash Fletchall's expectation from the Captain, and to have a troop of Rangers on the back of Fletchall's people to watch their motion, we all thought it absolutely necessary to direct the raising of this additional troop, as we apprehended you would consider Captain Purvis's letter and conduct as a resignation of his commission, and that you had already disposed of it.

In consequence of the affidavit taken by Captain Purvis,* I have despatched an express to the commanding officer at Fort Charlotte, and directions to Major Williamson to throw into the fort a re-enforcement of thirty militia, to be continued there by proper relieves during one month, in which time I doubt not the whole Colony will be in a state of perfect security against internal commotion. The garrison there will now consist of seventy odd men. I have also given Major Williamson directions to hold the militia in readiness to march in case of any commotion.

I had this day a meeting with the people in this frontier. Many present were of the other party, but I have the pleasure to acquaint you that these became voluntary converts; every person received satisfaction, and departed with pleasure. I finished the day with a barbecued beef. I have so ordered matters here that this whole frontier will be formed into volunteer companies; but as they are at present under Fletchall's command, they insist upon being formed into a Regiment independent of him; and I flatter myself you will think this method of weakening Fletchall to be consistent with sound policy. These people are active and spirited; they are staunch in our favour; are capable of forming a good barrier against the Indians, and of being a severe check upon Fletchall's people, on whom they border, if they should think of quitting their habitations under the banners of Fletchall, or his companions; for these reasons, and to enable them to act with vigour, I shall take the liberty to supply them with a small quantity of ammunition, (for now they have not one ounce,) when they shall be formed into regular Companies. Several Companies will be formed by this day week.

I enclose to you an affidavit, by which you will see there is no dependance on Cameron. I have sent up a short talk to the Cherokees, inviting them to come down to me within twelve days to Amelia. Mr. Pearis has undertaken to conduct six of their head men to me, and I should be glad within the time mentioned to receive from you seventy or eighty pounds worth of shirts, watch-coats, blankets, linen, strouds and paints, and your instructions, if you choose I should say any thing in particular to them. On Wednesday I shall, with Mr. Tennent, Mr. Hart and Mr. Reise, attend the election and review of Fletchall's Regiment at Ford's, at the mouth of Cedar Creek, upon Enoree. You will see the place in the small map. What the event will be I am at a loss to say; I do not expect any success—I apprehend some insults. I may be mistaken in both opinions. Within twelve days I purpose to be at Colonel Thompson's camp, where I think it will be advisable that I should remain till I shall see every spark of insurrection extinguished; but in regard to this I shall * Appeared personally before me, Zachariah Bell, and swore that, walking near the house of Colonel Fletchall, he heard one of six or seven men, in a group, say, that a person (whose name he did not hear) was to go, within ten days, to seize upon powder; the deponent could not hear the name of the place. At which another answered that he (the first speaker) had better not go, for if he did, with double the number of men, they might expect to be killed, and not succeed. Sworn before me, this 18th day of August, 1775, on the road near Fair-Forrest.

E. PURVIS, JUN.,

This affidavit was enclosed to Mr. Drayton, in a letter from Mr. Tennent, of the following purport:

DEAR SIR: Coming to the knowledge of the above, and no longer doubting of the infernal design to take Fort Charlotte, by the Governor's order, and to open a dismal campaign in this quarter, by this means I send this express, that you may advertise the fort, and throw as many men into it as possible and disappoint them. I have put things together, and am no longer at a loss as to the design to embody men, as an asylum for all the Tories, and that shortly. And am yours,
WM. TENNENT.

P. S. From a question asked me by the Colonel, I suspect some harsh design: be upon your guard.

To the Hon. Wm. Henry Drayton, at Mr. Muckelwaines.

regulate myself by your orders on the subject, which I hope to receive by the time I arrive at the camp. If Kirkland shall be seized, without doubt a commotion will follow; and if he goes off with impunity and without question, it will be fatal to the discipline of the army, especially the Rangers. But this is not all, vigorous measures are absolutely necessary. If a dozen persons are allowed to be at large, our progress has been in vain, and we shall be involved in a civil war in spite of our teeth. In giving you this information I tell a melancholy truth, but I do my duty. If certain persons should be secured, some commotion in all probability will follow; but I am so well acquainted with the situation of the disaffected parts of the country, and with such parts as may be brought against them, that I am under no apprehensions for the consequences, provided prompt and vigorous measures attend every appearance of insurrection.

I would beg leave to observe that as this business is of the highest importance, so your orders on the subject should be clear and general, to vest proper authority to take such measure as may tend to suppress this threatening insurrection, that will assuredly break out by delay, and come upon us unexpectedly.

Perhaps my being arrived at the camp, in my return home, may be construed an expiration of the powers vested in Mr. Tennent and myself; and his return to Charlestown may work an annihilation of powers, to be exercised by us together; for, as our continuance in the country will be of but little benefit in the Dutch settlements and the disaffected quarters, while under the influence of Fletchall's people, so I make no doubt but that Mr. Tennent will choose to return to Town, sensible that his presence in the country will not be of any advantage in the way of expounding our political texts to the people.

I have the honour to lay things fully before you, that you may regulate yourselves thereupon, and send orders to me at Amelia, by which I shall either remain with the camp or return to Charlestown. But I pray you to be expeditious, for a delay on your parts will allow the enemy to recover many of our converts, and I know they are active, malicious, and bent upon mischief.

Mr. Tennent and Colonel Richardson were successful in their journey beyond Broad River. Mr. Tennent is now in Neel's quarters,* where they are very hearty in our cause; Mr. Kershaw and Colonel Richardson took their leave of us when we quitted Fletchall, being sensible they could not in those parts be of any assistance to us. They have been very diligent.

SOUTH-CAROLINA, Ninety-Six District:

This day personally appeared before me Jonathan Clark, resident upon the banks of Saluda River, in the Cherokee country, who being duly sworn sayeth, that on or about the thirteenth instant, being in the Cherokee country aforesaid, he saw and conversed with John Garwick, an intimate friend and countryman of Alexander Cameron, Deputy Superintendent among the Cherokee Indians, touching the danger of the Cherokees commencing hostilities; that if there was any danger, he, the said Jonathan, might remove in time to a place of security; and that he spoke on this subject to the said John, because of his close connection with the said Alexander, and thereby of his, the said John's, ability to give information touching that subject; that on this subject the said John answered that he, Jonathan, need not be under any apprehensions of danger, until such time as there should be some disturbances below in the country, between the King's Army and the Colonists, and that then it would be high time for him, the said Jonathan, to take care of himself, and remove from the frontiers. Also, the said John continued his discourse, and said that about three weeks then last past, the said Alexander had held a meeting with the Cherokee Indians, at which about four hundred of them were assembled, when he, the said John, heard the said Alexander tell the said Indians, that the people of America had used the King very ill, and had killed a considerable number of his Army, and that the King was to send out more soldiers to suppress them; that the Indians ought not to turn against their father, (meaning the King) but that they should join his Army against the people of America; that to this the Indians replied, they could not fight, for they had not any gunpowder; and the said Alexander returned, that should be no obstacle, for he would take care to supply them. The said John also further said, that the said Alexander did all he could to influence the said Indians to join the King's forces against the people of Carolina; and who could blame him for doing so, since he, the said Alexander, was in the King's service. Also, that in conclusion, about forty of the said Indians turning their backs to the said Alexander, discharged their guns; and then the whole assembly sat up the war-whoop, which he, the said John, said was as a signal that they, the said Indians, approved the discourse of the said Alexander, and agreed to what he had said. And further this deponent saith not.

SOUTH-CAROLINA, Ninety-Six District:

This day personally appeared before me James Wood, John Wood, Moses Wood, and John Prince, of the District aforesaid, who being severally sworn according to law, say that they know the above-mentioned Jonathan Clark, believe him to be an honest man and worthy of credit, and that they do not know any thing to the prejudice of his reputation. And further the said deponents say not.

ESSEX COUNTY (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Committee for the County of Essex, at John Whitlock's, in Tappahannock, on Monday, the 21st day of August, 1775:

George Stewart having been accused with saying, at different times and places, that he had bread and flour on board his vessel designed for the man-of-war; and that Peyton Randolph and Thomas Nelson, Junior, Esquires, would supply the man-of-war now, for that a peace was made; and that a young man whom he saw in a hunting shirt had better go home, for that the English would be an overmatch for the Americans, or words to that effect; and the said George Stewart having appeared, and the witnesses against him having been examined, who proved the charges, he endeavoured to excuse himself by saying he was in liquor at the several times of the aforementioned conversations. And the matter aforesaid having been considered by the Committee, they are of the opinion that the cargo of the Schooner Enterprise, of which the said George Stewart is master, consisting of twenty-six barrels of bread, be landed and stored with Mr. James Lang, at the expense of the owners, under the direction of John Upshaw, Chairman, and any three of the Committee, until the owners of the said bread shall satisfy the Chairman, or any three of the Committee, that it is not intended for any purpose injurious to the cause of American liberty.

Ordered, That the above be published in the Virginia Gazette.
JACK POWER, Clerk.

ST. GEORGE'S HUNDRED (NEW-CASTLE COUNTY, DELAWARE) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Committee of St. George's Hundred, in New-Castle County, at the Trap, the 21st August, 1775, Mr. Peter Hyett being in the chair, when Mr. Hugh Cahoon attended, and signed the following Recantation, which was voted satisfactory, viz:

Whereas I have some time since frequently made use of rash and imprudent expressions with respect to the conduct of my worthy countrymen now struggling in the most noble cause of liberty: I do therefore take this opportunity publicly to declare, that my expressions have proceeded from a very contracted knowledge of the British Constitution and the just rights of human nature, and am now sensible of my acting entirely wrong, for which I am extremely sorry, and humbly ask forgiveness of the publick, upon assurance of my solemn promise to conduct myself for the future in such manner as shall be approved of by my countrymen, in promoting to the utmost of my power, and heartily approving the different resolves and modes prescribed by our honourable Continental Congress, for the preservation of American freedom, which I now plainly see is attempted to be rooted out of this Country by a corrupted Ministry. I hope this publick acknowledgment of my error, and a full conviction of the justice and legality of the cause, will wipe off the just resentments that my former bad conduct have raised against me, and induce the publick to believe me determined, as I am for the future, to stand forth for freedom and the good of this Country.

HUGH CAHOON.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

In Committee of Safety, Philadelphia, August 21, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: We are much obliged by your communication of the intelligence from General Washington, and shall forward it to the Committees down the river. As possibly the enemy may think of calling upon us, it renders it more necessary for us to keep the little powder we have, but when any fresh supply shall arrive here, we shall readily spare you a part of it. We are, Gentlemen, your most obedient humble servants,

By order:

B. FRANKLIN, President.

To P. V. B. Livingston, Esq., and the Members of the Provincial Congress, New-York.

ON STANDING ARMIES.

Philadelphia, August 21, 1775.

New systems of Government advance gradually towards perfection. Men may be free and happy without knowing in what freedom and happiness consist. It is a misfortune to think too highly of a nation as well as of individuals, in as much as we are often led thereby to copy their imperfections along with excellencies. This has been too much the case in our attachment to Great Britain. In our veneration for her constitution and laws, we have lost sight of those evils which now press down her liberties, and spread desolation and slavery through every part of the Empire. We thrived upon her wholesome milk during our infancy. She then enjoyed a sound constitution. I will not say that it is high time we should be taken from her breasts, but I will say that she has played the harlot in her old age, and that if we continue to press them too closely we shall extract nothing from them but disease and death.

I shall only mention one political evil to which there is too great a propensity in the American Colonies, and that is, a willingness to trust the defence of our country to mercenary troops. I would not be understood here to insinuate the least reflection upon our brave countrymen who are now encamped around Boston: a mercenary army was absolutely necessary in that place, as the militia of that country were unequal to the toil and expense of besieging and watching the motions of our enemies. Mercenaries are, moreover, necessary when the machinations of an enemy render offensive war justifiable. The expedition to Ticonderoga, which was dictated by the first law of nature, could be conducted only by mercenary troops.

What I aim only to condemn is the practice of several of our Provincial Conventions in taking a number of Minute-Men into pay. These men must always be composed of people of the smallest property, and perhaps of the least virtue among us. They must associate together in barracks or camps, and in proportion as this become the case, they will lose the gentleness and sobriety of citizens. The military spirit by being transferred from the bulk of a country to a few mercenaries, is gradually monopolized by them, so that in a few years, from being our servants, we furnish them with the means of becoming our masters. Moreover, it is impossible for the proportion of men which each Colony can raise to be equal to all the exigencies of surprises and descents upon our coasts. A city may be burnt, or an island may be plundered while an army of minute-men are pursuing a handful of our enemies, sent into another part of the country on purpose to decoy them. I say nothing of the expense of supporting these minute-men, for if they were necessary, millions should be like the dust of the balance, when weighed against the appointment of them.

A standing army in a part of a country which is not the immediate seat of war, is attended with all the inconveniences and dangers of a standing army in the most profound peace. History is dyed in blood when it speaks of the ravages which standing armies have committed upon the liberties of mankind: officers and soldiers of the best principles and characters have been converted into instruments of tyranny, by the arts of wicked Ministers and Kings. Cromwell overturned the commonwealth of England with the remains of his army of saints. Nor is the small size of a standing army any security against the dangers to be apprehended from them. King James the Second, at the head of only two thousand mercenaries, defeated the popular Duke of Monmouth at the head of eight thousand men, and was led from his success in this battle to trample under his feet the most sacred rights of his country. It is true the same mercenaries afterwards threw down their arms, and refused to oppose the landing of King William, but it was only because their royal master offended them, by lavishing military promotions upon his Roman Catholic subjects. In a word, had I the wings and tongue of an angel, I would fly from one end of the Continent to the other at the present juncture, and proclaim constantly in the ears of my countrymen, Beware of standing armies.

The Congress have recommended a perfect plan for a military law to the Colonies. They have ordered every man between sixteen and fifty to be completely armed and disciplined, and a fourth part of these, in rotation, to be ready to march into any part of their own, or a neighbouring Colony only, at a minute's warning. This proportion of men is to be provided with tents and provisions. The rest of the inhabitants of each Colony are to be fully provided with arms, powder and ball, as mentioned in the order of the Congress.

It is needless to declaim long upon the advantages of a well regulated militia. A knowledge of the use of arms is the only condition of freedom. This knowledge often precludes the use of arms; for wars we find are generally made upon defenceless countries. It is impossible to subdue a country of any extent where every citizen is a soldier, and every soldier a citizen. The Republick of Switzerland has preserved its peace, as well as its freedom, longer than any country in Europe. The reason is plain: in Switzerland the soldier and the citizen are united in the same person.

The Athenian and Spartan militia were constantly victorious over the innumerable mercenaries of Persia. The Romans conquered the world in the Republican times with armies of unpaid militia: the wealth and power of Carthage, which were supported by a mercenary army, fell before them. Some people I know have ascribed the victories of the ancient Republicks less to the discipline of their militia, than to those God-like virtues which were inspired by the form of their Governments. They tell us that in countries where every man has property, and an equal right to a share in the legislation, to offer a soldier pay for his services is to offer a man a draught upon himself. I acknowledge I am not prepared to answer these encomiums upon popular Governments. I shall therefore beg leave to resume my subject.

A militia man is under many obligations to acquit himself well in the day of trial, which never can operate upon a mercenary soldier. He fights in the society of the companions of his youth, whom perhaps, he has often roused to a zeal for their country. He fights within sight of the roof under which he drew his first breath, of the cradle in which he was rocked, and of the soil from which he has derived all his nourishment and property; perhaps his head at the same time is moistened with the tears of a venerable father or mother, shed in prayers for the success of his arms. Stop! thou mercenary caitiff; lay down thy arms; let go thy plunder; and oblige not our hero to stain his patrimony with thy guilty blood! It is impiety to believe that a freeman thus animated can ever be conquered.

It has been said that the Military Association is not general, and that some men (not conscientiously scrupulous against bearing arms) have not subscribed it. I leave it to the wisdom of the Congress to decree some punishment for such delinquents. I cannot however help thinking it a little extraordinary, that the importer of a few English goods should be advertised as an enemy to his country, and all intercourse be forbidden with him, and that an American should be suffered to fold his arms in his breast, while every part of his country is open to the attack of an enemy. Such a man is an importer of slavery, and in spite of all his boasted zeal or artful subterfuges, I maintain that he is, in the worst sense of the words, an enemy to his Country.

CARACTACUS.

ZEBULON BUTLER TO ELLIS HUGHES.

Westmoreland, August 21, 1775.

FRIEND HUGHES: Received yours of the 25th June, 1775. Observed the contents; can't say but I am surprised at it. Can't say but some of your people have met with some rough treatment by some of our people; but I'm not to answer for that. You mention you have heard that a number of our people are coming to settle in or near your neighbourhood, and that you have got the minds of the people, and think it not proper, for union ought to be kept among us. Do you think we are blind, or what do you think of us? I own that at this day we, and all the Continent, ought to be united; but do you expect that we will lie still in this difficult day and let you take the advantage of the times, and press on settlers to fill up the land, and we lie still because of the times? You may depend on it, we have a mind to settle some of our land where it lies vacant, and you may depend on it, that we have no design to disturb or dispossess any person settled either under Pennsylvania or under Connecticut. You mention the thing of shedding blood. I am as much concerned about uniting as you, notwithstanding you talk of your shedding our blood.

Your friend,

ZEBULON BUTLER.

Ellis Hughes, Esq.

Office of Ordnance, New-York, August 21, 1775.

SIR: I have received your letters of the 9th and 17th July, the former accompanying your first and second Bills of Exchange in my favour on the honourable Board of Ordnance, for one hundred Pounds sterling, which I shall endeavour to negotiate; but with what success is by no means at present in my power to determine, as you must, no doubt, be sensible of the Congress having long ago forbid all persons purchasing such from those who are any wise connected with the Army. However, you may depend I shall do my utmost to surmount this difficulty, and when disposed of, apply the amount thereof to the purpose intended.

Mrs. Gay has received her two Shillings sterling per diem from Mr. McEvers, as has Mrs. Gillihen her five Pounds currency per month, and Mr. Elphinston has likewise received from that gentleman his subsistence for the months of July and August, with Walker, the cooper, and Sergeant Brown, with one Parbudge, late a matross, have also been paid their pensions. In respect to the mode of settling your account with the late Mr. Forman, it is by no means in my power to advise you, as nothing has yet been done in his affairs otherwise than securing his papers, which are extremely numerous, and will require a person of ability, and take up some considerable time, properly to adjust them, &c. As to Samuel Roberts, the armourer, he has been employed for some years past as an extra artificer at this place, and has hitherto received four Shillings currency per diem; but on his leaving New-York I agreed in that case to pay him three Shillings sterling per diem, equal to what he will be allowed should he be appointed in the room of the late Charles Hadley, deceased, and which Mr. Richard Forman, in a letter to him about three months since, intimated was really the case; but as I have not as yet received any letter from the Board on the subject, of course cannot at present look upon him as such, or otherwise than an extra armourer. He has been paid by me to the 30th June last, and his three Shillings sterling per diem should commence the first July, reserving eighteen Shillings currency per week, which he desired might be paid to his wife, and which she accordingly receives from me, during his absence; but I should think, as he is at present situated in Boston, and immediately under your direction, you had better get him included in your extra list, deducting from his pay the above eighteen Shillings, on account of his family, which sum I can, in like manner with the rest, debit your account. I notice what you observed in respect to my purchasing a supply of fine paper, and wish with all my heart it was in my power to comply with your request; but were I in possession of that or any other article which you may be ever so much necessitated for, it would not be possible for me at present to get them any wise conveyed from hence to Boston, as a guard is constantly kept in order to prevent any thing of the kind being effected. On a slight view of your account, as it at present stands in late Mr. Forman's books, there appears a balance against you of £1048 4s. 3½d. sterling; but I don't find any credit given you for such vouchers as you may have transmitted him during the time you have been at Boston, and which no doubt must be the case on a further elucidation. Mr. Charles McEvers, Captain Adye, and myself proposed, soon after Mr. Forman's decease, to administer to his effects; but for reasons since agitated, it was thought most advisable to protract it, observing to prevent any other person taking out letters to that purpose. I shall certainly write to Colonel Cleveland by this conveyance; but be that as it may, desire that you will acquaint him that nothing shall be wanting, that is in my power, towards complying with his request, in respect to the management of the business he recommended, that of paying such draughts as may have been drawn on the late Mr. Commissary Forman. And every thing which may any wise tend to promote the good of His Majesty's service, shall be properly attended to by, Sir, your most obedient servant,

FRANCIS STEPHENS.

P. S. The letters which you enclosed in your last for Mrs. Wray were forwarded the day they were received, viz: on ninth instant; and the one I now send you from her, has been a considerable time by me waiting for an opportunity. Pray be so good as to cause the enclosed to be delivered as directed.

Mr. George Wray, Acting Commissary, &c., Royal Artillery at Boston.

PHILIP RHINELANDER AND OTHERS TO THE NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-York, August 21, 1775.

To the Honourable the Provincial Congress:

We, the subscribers, hereby beg leave to certify that Philip Schurman, carpenter, one of the unhappy persons that were taken by the American Army at Boston, was, about twelve months ago, seduced to that employ by Jonathan Hampton, which was the more easily done as he is but a very young man, and had but just ended his apprenticeship at the time of his going to Boston. His friends here had wrote long ago pressing him to come home, and are well informed that he would have done so, provided any opportunity could have been got. His friends here, many of whom are and always have been steadfast in the support of the liberties of this Country, are suffering much distress on his account, and propose to send his brother, John Schurman, to the camp to-morrow, in order to solicit for his liberty. And they humbly request that this Congress will take the case of this poor young man into consideration, and favour them with a letter to General Washington in his behalf.

Dutchess County, Southeast Precinct Committee, }
August 21, 1775. }

Pursuant to a Resolution of Provincial Congress, Ordered, That Thomas Baldwin, Esquire, and Mr. Nathaniel Foster, two of the Members of this Committee, notify the Militia of this Precinct, consisting of one Beat, (lately commanded by John Field, as Captain,) to appear on the 25th instant at the usual place of parade, that the said Militia, under the direction and inspection of the said Baldwin and Foster, may arrange themselves into a military Company, agreeable to said Resolution of Congress. That said Militia do then and there make choice of military officers by a majority of votes, to take the command of said Company; and that the said Baldwin and Foster make return of their doing to the Chairman of this Committee.

Having duly executed the above Order of Committee, we hereby certify that the Company of Militia of said Southeast Precinct, agreeable to said order, did assemble; and that they have, by a fair majority of votes, made choice of commissioned Officers to take the command of said Company, agreeable to the aforesaid Resolution of Congress, as follows, viz: William Mott, Captain; Benjamin Higgins, First Lieutenant; Ebenezer Gage, Second Lieutenant; Nathaniel Green, Jun., Ensign.

ALBANY COMMITTEE TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Albany Committee Chamber, August 21, 1775.

SIR: Since our last respecting Alexander White, Sheriff of Tryon County, which he was to accompany to your Congress, process of law was unexpectedly served on him for a just debt, after the despatches were ready and orders given for his being taken on shipboard, which causes his detention here. We did not care to force him out of the Sheriff's custody, or to make any infraction on, or stop the course of the civil law in this particular, or any other case; but when the safety of the publick is much concerned or absolutely requires it, then, and not till then, we think the necessity of the thing may justify the measure. We wrote to Major-General Schuyler of the embarrassment we were in, and he coincides with us in sentiment to leave him confined here until we are favoured with your determination on this point. We, therefore, only send down Conner, who was to have gone with White, in expectation of your speedy answer.

We are, Gentlemen, your humble servants,

By order of the Committee:

ABRAHAM YATES, Jun., Chairman.

SIR JOHN JOHNSON TO ALEXANDER WHITE, TRYON COUNTY, NEW-YORK.

Johnson Hall, Sunday night, 11 o'clock.

DEAR SIR: After you went off yesterday Mr. Stuart Frey and Dr. Adams went down to Fonda's and Veeder's's, and acquainted the people with your departure out of the county. As soon as they were assured of it, they dispersed all their men, to the amount of about five hundred, and sent expresses up and down the country to stop all that were coming to their assistance, as well as the cannon they had sent for to Schenectady; and in the afternoon some from the different Committees came up to Tice's, and informed they would wait my pleasure there till eight in the night. I went accordingly, and was received in a very friendly manner: when I assured them you were gone they were perfectly satisfied, but at the same time declared they would never suffer you to return, and wanted me to promise that you never should. I told them I could not promise any such thing. They all desired to be restored to the same good understanding we used to be on, and declared they never would countenance any evil designs against me, or any thing belonging to me, nor never did; upon which we parted, seemingly good friends. I would not have you, on any account whatsoever, to return now, as I assured them you would not. We have got Aaron and another Indian to go with you, and you may depend upon their being with you on Tuesday afternoon. Major Fonda is desirous of being reconciled to me, and I expect to see him to-morrow or next day in Town. The bearer is threatened so much, that he determines to go with you. I have several things for you, which I will send you by the Indians. God bless you, and send you safe to your journey's end, is the sincere wish of your friend,

JOHN JOHNSON.

P. S. As your being at Harris's is known to too many, I would advise you to keep in the woods all day to-morrow, for fear of the worst.

PROVIDENCE (RHODE-ISLAND) COMMITTEE TO NEW-YORK COMMITTEE.

Providence, August 21, 1775.

SIR: The Committee of Inspection for this Town have been applied to by Messrs. Clark and Nightingale, merchants here, to give them letters of recommendation to the Committee of New-York, requesting liberty to import a quantity of flour and other provisions for the use of the Town, and for the American Army. As we doubt not but these gentlemen will take every prudent step for this purpose, we recommend it to your body to grant them, or their order, permission to ship any quantity they may want at this time; and if any other article may be wanted, you will, we make no doubt, give them every assistance they may require in procuring and shipping the same for this place. Your compliance with this request will greatly oblige, Sir, your most humble servants,

NICHOLAS COOKE,
Chairman of the Committee.

JOHN SMITH, } Committee of DAN. TILLINGHAST, } Safety.

To the Chairman of the Committee of Inspection for New-York.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Lebanon, August 21, 1775.

SIR: I received your favour of the 28th ult. long since, and with pleasure noted the contents, and the noble, forward disposition of your respectable Congress to promote a service of so great a necessity and importance as supplying the Northern Army, among other necessities, with tents, which I should not have asked of you for the troops of this Colony, but from a sense that the cause is common, and that we are extremely exhausted of materials for tents, and that it was proposed to me by General Schuyler that you could probably do it with ease; and from your favourable assurances I hoped they were received at the camp before this, but I am unhappy to find, by letters of the 14th ult., received this morning from General Schuyler and Colonel Hinman, that they have not received or heard of any coming to them, and expressing fears that the proposed progress of the Army may be impeded, disappointed, or Colonel Hinman's regiment very greatly suffer for want of them.

I must beg the favour of you, since you were pleased to undertake it, (and in confidence thereof we have neglected any attempt to supply them, and as it is of so great importance to the whole Continent, and very peculiarly so to your City and Province, that they should be supplied and succeed in their designs,) that you will be pleased to forward those tents in the most speedy manner possible, the season being far advanced.

You are pleased to mention our remitting the money for them. You may rely that, if the expense is not seasonably defrayed by the Continental Congress, this Colony will not fail of doing it, although they have already, without grudging, advanced near £150,000, this currency.

On motion of Mr. Livingston, I lately gave Mr. Rensselaer a permit to purchase in and carry out of this Colony, for the use of the Northern Army, four hundred and fifty barrels of pork, although there is a scarcity of it among us; and in pursuance of an advisory caution from his Excellency General Washington, have since wrote and required of Mr. Rensselaer not to suffer any of it to be water-borne to New-York, lest it might fall into the hands of our enemy, but to transport it directly to the North River, almost as near as the sound to any place where it can be purchased. I doubt not you will approve of this precaution, and cause the same pork to be forwarded with all possible expedition to General Schuyler.

I am, with esteem and regard, Sir, your obedient humble servant,

JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

To the Honourable P. V. B. Livingston, Esq., President of the Honourable Provincial Congress, New-York.

JEDEDIAH STRONG TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Litchfield, August 21, 1775.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOUR: Your Honour's letter of the 7th instant arrived on the 11th, since which have made inquiries through the County, and find I cannot purchase any quantity of tow cloth. Flax was sold here the last season at seven pence and eight pence per pound, and scarcely to be had at any rate; so that there is little or no cloth to be sold at this time of the year, as those few who had greater plenty, or through necessity would spare a little, have probably before now supplied the traders for particular customers in small parcels, &c.; and imagining your Honour had likewise made the requisition of the other Commissaries, have not extended the search into other Counties, otherwise than by writing into York Government, to which have received no particular answer.

Mr. Livingston, the Continental Deputy Commissary-General at Albany, and Captain Phelps, have settled the plan of operation, so far as concerns their department, to mutual satisfaction. Captain Phelps is to continue receiving, accounting, and forwarding whatever is purchased and sent him by the Commissary, &c., and Deputies to be employed as before. In consequence, Mr. Livingston has honoured me with orders for cattle on his account.

I am, may it please your Honour, your Honour's most obedient and humble servant,

JEDEDIAH STRONG.

Governour Trumbull.

MAJOR ROBERT MAGAW TO GENERAL GATES.

Cape-Ann, August 21, 1775.

SIR: I wrote to you on the 17th instant, that no alarms or appearances of immediate danger had been in this place for some time past. Since the 8th instant, when Captain Lindsay, commander of a sloop-of-war, threw a number of shot into the Town, the inhabitants have remained unmolested.

On Saturday evening last a man-of-war and a tender appeared off this harbour; we expected an attack yesterday; they bore away for the eastward, and disappeared. The inhabitants have nearly completed a small fort, to mount six nine-pounders; their spirit seems equal to their abilities.

We have neither blankets nor shirts with us. Some of our men are sick, owing, I believe, to want of covering in the night.

I have the honour to be, with great respect, your most obedient humble servant,

ROBERT MAGAW,
Major Rifle Bat. Con. Service.

General Gates.

METCALF BOWLER, JOHN COLE,
THOMAS GREENE, HENRY WARD.
JOSEPH CLARKE,

To which Report they subjoined an account by them charged against the Colony, for the said service: All which being duly considered, It is Voted and Resolved, That the foregoing Report be and the same is hereby accepted; that the said account be and it is allowed; and that the amount thereof, being one hundred Pounds, be paid unto the said Metcalf Bowler, Thomas Greene, Joseph Clarke, John Cole, and Henry Ward, out of the General Treasury.

Whereas the Post-Rider hath been stopped by the Ships-of-War in the harbour of Newport, and the mail hath been actually taken from him by violence, which renders it necessary that the route be altered: It is therefore Voted and Resolved, That Mr. John Lasell be employed as a Post-Rider, to go the old post road, from Providence to New-London: That he set out from Providence for New-London on every Tuesday, immediately upon the arrival of the post from Cambridge, and return as soon as possible: That he be allowed from this Colony at the rate of one hundred and eighty-five Dollars a year, and in that proportion for any lesser time, he finding good horses, and paying his own expenses: That Mr. Benjamin Mumford be employed as a Post-Rider from Newport to Cambridge: That he set out from Newport on Monday afternoon at three o'clock, to carry the Newport mail for the westward to Providence, and proceed immediately to Cambridge with the mails for that Post-Office, and set off from thence on Thursday in the afternoon for Providence, and there

Whereas notwithstanding the humble and dutiful Petition of the last Congress to the King, and other wise and pacifick measures taken for obtaining a happy reconciliation between Great Britain and the Colonies, the Ministry, lost to every sentiment of justice, liberty and humanity, continue to send Troops and Ships-of-War into America, which destroy our Trade, plunder and burn our Towns, and murder the good people of these Colonies:

It is therefore Voted and Resolved, That this Colony most ardently wish to see the former friendship, harmony and intercourse between Britain and these Colonies restored, and a happy and lasting connection established between both Countries, upon terms of just and equal liberty; and will concur with the other Colonies in all proper measures for obtaining those desirable blessings: And as every principle, divine and human, require us to obey that great and fundamental law of nature, self-preservation, until peace shall be restored upon constitutional principles, this Colony will most heartily exert the whole power of Government, in conjunction with the other Colonies, for carrying on this just and necessary war, and bringing the same to a happy issue. And amongst other measures for obtaining this most desirable purpose, this Assembly is persuaded that the building and equipping an American Fleet, as soon as possible, would greatly and essentially conduce to the preservation of the lives, liberty and property of the good people of these Colonies; and therefore instruct their Delegates to use their whole influence, at the ensuing Congress, for building, at the Continental expense, a Fleet of sufficient force for the protection of these Colonies, and for employing them in such manner and places as will most effectually annoy our enemies, and contribute to the common defence of these Colonies: And they are also instructed to use all their influence for carrying on the war in the most vigorous manner, until peace, liberty and safety be restored and secured to these Colonies upon an equitable and permanent basis.

It is Voted and Resolved, That the Delegates for this Colony to the Congress, to be holden by adjournment at Philadelphia on the fifth day of September next, be and they are hereby fully authorized and empowered to receive of the Continental Treasurer the money due from the United Colonies to this Colony, for the several sums of money advanced for raising of forces, purchasing arms, tents, provisions, clothing and warlike stores, for the defence of the said United Colonies; and transmit the same to the General Treasurer of this Colony, by such faithful person or persons as they can trust, and under such guard as they shall judge expedient and necessary.

Whereas the Honourable Samuel Ward, Esq., one of the Delegates from this Colony to the Congress, held at Philadelphia on the tenth day of May last, hath made a report unto this Assembly of many of the Proceedings and Resolves of the said Congress, consisting of measures by them taken for defending the United Colonies against the attacks of our cruel and unnatural enemies, measures for the security of the frontiers, the preservation of peace and friendship with the people of Canada and the Indian Nations, the emission of a Continental Currency for defraying the expenses of the war, a Petition to the King, an Address to the People of England, an Address to the People of Ireland, a Letter to the Lord Mayor of London, a Letter to the Assembly of Jamaica, the establishment of a General Post-Office, and some occasional Resolutions:

It is thereupon Voted and Resolved, That the said Report be and the same is hereby accepted and approved, and that the thanks of this Assembly be given to the Delegates of the Continental Congress in general, and to the Delegates of this Colony in particular, for their wise, spirited and faithful discharge of the important trust reposed in them.

It is Voted and Resolved, That the Delegates from this Colony to the Congress, to be holden at Philadelphia by adjournment on the fifth day of September next, be and they are empowered to apply to their own respective uses two hundred Dollars each, of the money which they may receive of the Continental Treasurer in behalf of this Colony, on account of their expenses and services at the Congress, and that they be severally accountable to the Colony therefor.

It is Voted and Resolved, That the Continental Currency emitted by the Congress, at their last session in Philadelphia, on the tenth day of May last, be and it is hereby made a lawful tender, at the rate of six Shillings lawful money a Dollar, and in the same proportion as to Gold and Silver, in all payments whatsoever, whether of a publick or private nature, and whether due in lawful money, Dollars, Gold or Silver coin, Sterling money, Bills of Exchange, or any other currency whatsoever. And it is further Voted and Resolved, That whosoever shall counterfeit the said Continental Currency or Bills, or pass the same in this Colony, knowing the same to be counterfeit, such person or persons, upon legal conviction thereof, shall be liable to and suffer the same pains, penalties and punishments, as by law persons counterfeiting the lawful money bills of this Colony are liable to.

It is Voted and Resolved, That eight Fieldpieces be provided and prepared for the use of the Colony; and that Mr. Nicholas Power be and he is hereby appointed to provide and prepare six of said Fieldpieces, and Mr. Jacob Greene the other two; and that the said Nicholas Power put in order the Carriages of the Colony Guns placed in the Providence Battery.

It is Voted and Resolved, That a bounty of three Shillings a pound be allowed, and paid out of the General Treasury, on every pound of Saltpetre that may be made in this Colony by the twenty-sixth day of August, A. D. 1776, suitable to be manufactured into Gunpowder, and three Shillings a pound for every pound of such Saltpetre, exclusive of said bounty; and that Mr. Joseph Brown, Jabez Bowen, Esq., and the Secretary of this Colony, be and they are hereby appointed inspectors and provers of the quality thereof; and that no person be entitled to said bounty and value until he shall have first made oath before the Secretary that the Saltpetre offered for inspection was actually made in this Colony; and that in order to its being so proved, that the manufacturers thereof convey the same to the Town of Providence, and that the same be delivered to and deposited with the General Treasurer.

It is Voted and Resolved, That his Honour the Deputy Governour be requested to write a Letter to his Excellency General Washington, informing him of the steps this Colony have taken to secure the Stock upon the Islands lying within this jurisdiction; and to request his Excellency to use his authority that such of said Stock as may be fit for market be received by the Commissary General, for the use of the Army.

It is Voted and Resolved, That the monthly wages of Abraham Whipple, Captain of the Colony Sloop, be raised from seven Pounds ten Shillings to nine Pounds, from the time he entered on board said Sloop.

It is Voted and Resolved, That Messrs. James Rhodes, Gideon Hoxie, George Sheffield, Joshua Babcock, Abel Tanner, Joseph Hoxie, and William Potter, be and they or any three of them are hereby appointed a Committee to take possession of the Stock that may be brought off from New-Shoreham, by order of this Assembly; and such of said Stock as may be fit for a market, immediately to send to the Army; that such of said Stock as may not be fit for a market they immediately sell and dispose of to the best advantage, either at publick or private sale, unless the owners of said Stock shall choose to take their own Stock into possession at their own risk; and that they make report thereof to the next General Assembly.

CAPTAIN LAMB TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-York, August 22, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: As a considerable uneasiness has arisen in the Company which you have honoured me with the command of, in regard to their pay not yet being ascertained, and as it is customary in every country for the Artillery to have higher wages than the Companies of Foot, on account of their duty being more severe, I shall be extremely happy if your honourable Board will condescend to take the matter into your immediate consideration, and make such provision for paying them as will enable me to proceed with the men I have enlisted, to join General Schuyler, at Ticonderoga, without delay. Should your Honours think it expedient to adopt the arrangement of Rhode-Island, I must beg leave to point out a mistake or two, which, I conceive, has arisen from inadvertence. The first is in regard to the pay of the Second Lieutenant and Lieutenant fireworker, which, by the above mentioned arrangement, is not equal to the Lieutenants in the Foot Companies. The second is, they have rated the Bombardiers higher than the Sergeants, which is an impropriety; but this appears to me to have been owing to a mistake in copying. I have nothing to add, and am, with the greatest respect,

Gentlemen, your most humble servant,

JOHN LAMB.

To the Honourable Provincial Congress for the Colony of New-York.

SUFFOLK COUNTY (NEW-YORK) COMMITTEE TO PROVINCIAL CONGRESS.

Suffolk County, August 22, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: The Committee of this County are now met, to give proper directions for taking the stock from Gardiner's and Plumb Islands, according to your direction of the 18th instant. It is with the greatest concern that we find the troops at the east end of the island are ordered away, whereby we shall be left defenceless. General Wooster was prevailed on before the receipt of your letter to tarry with his troops a few days. He is now present with us, and lets us know that he proposes to depart to-morrow. There are now three cutters at the east end of the island cruising, and we must beg leave to inform you that the stock on Montauk, Shelter Island and Oyster-pond Point, will be in the utmost danger of falling into the hands of the enemy; besides the constant alarms and expense the inhabitants of this part of the county will be exposed to, unless your honourable House will take our situation under your consideration, and allow us at least such a number of men as may be sufficient to secure those parts from the depredations of the enemy. The Companies raised here, we presume, will not disobey your orders; but we pray you to consider how destitute we shall be left, when our men are gone; our arms put into their hands and carried from us. With the advice of General Wooster, we have continued to desire the Captains not to march until we can send an express to you to let us know whether we can have any hopes of relief; and further, we think we cannot at present get off the stock without a sufficient guard upon the island. General Wooster informs us that he had advice from Governour Trumbull to return to New-York, before he received your letter; and we cannot think it could be the design of the Continental Congress, that this County should be left in this situation. Colonel Gardiner, of Plumb Island, says that Colonel Abijah Willard, in the Ministerial fleet, informed him that they should come again and would bring a sufficient force to take the stock from Long-Island.

We are, Gentlemen, your most obedient and humble servants. By order: WM. SMITH, Chairman.To Peter V. B. Livingston, President of the Provincial Congress, New-York.

NEWBURGH COMMITTEE TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Newburgh, August 22, 1775.

HONOURABLE GENTLEMEN: Agreeable to your directions of the 9th inst., the Militia Company of the South-east District of Newburgh, assembled on the 17th inst., at the house of Colonel Jonathan Hasbrouck, and chose by plurality of voices of the soldiers of said District, the following gentlemen for their Militia Officers: Samuel Clark, Captain; Benjamin Smith, First Lieutenant; James Denton, Sen., Second Lieutenant; Martin Wygant, Ensign.

We are, Gentlemen, your very humble servants,

SAMUEL SANDS, }
MOSES HIGBY, } Two of the Committee.

NEW-MARLBOROUGH COMMITTEE TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-Marlborough, August 22, 1775.

HONOURABLE GENTLEMEN: Agreeable to your order of the last, the Militia Company of the Precinct of New-Marlborough, being the Northeast District of said Precinct, assembled at the house of Zephaniah Woolsey in said District, on the 19th of this instant, and made choice of the following Officers, living in said District, for the Officers of the Militia, by plurality of the voices of the soldiers of the said Company, to wit: Mr. Jacob Wood, Captain; Mr. Jeremiah Mackey, First Lieutenant; Mr. Nathaniel Godspeed, Second Lieutenant; and Mr. John Knoulton, Ensign.

We are, with the utmost esteem, your very humble servants,

JOSEPH MORY, }
SOLOMON WARING, } *Two of the Committee.*To Peter V. B. Livingston, Esq., President of the Provincial Congress, now sitting in New-York.

GENERAL HOWE TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Charlestown Camp, August 22, 1775.

SIR: The men under your command having repeatedly fired upon the Officers of His Majesty's Troops, before they were returned to the outworks of this Camp, from parleys, that have been brought on by your desire:

I am to request that all further intercourse between the two Camps be at an end, your own letters excepted, which will be received, if you are pleased to send them by a drummer.

I am, Sir, your most obedient servant,

W. HOWE.

George Washington, Esq., Cambridge.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL HOWE.

Camp at Cambridge, August 23, 1775.

SIR: I flatter myself you have been misinformed as to the conduct of the men under my command, complained of in yours of yesterday. It is what I should highly disapprove and condemn.

I have not the least objection to put a stop between the two Camps, either totally or partially. It obtained through the pressing solicitations of persons cruelly separated from their friends and connexions, and I understand was mutually convenient.

I am, Sir, your most obedient servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

A PROCLAMATION, BY THE KING, FOR SUPPRESSING REBELLION AND SEDITION.

GEORGE R.

Whereas many of our subjects in divers parts of our Colonies and Plantations in North America, misled by dangerous and ill designing men, and forgetting the allegiance which they owe to the power that has protected and supported them; after various disorderly acts committed in disturbance of the publick peace, to the obstruction of lawful commerce, and to the oppression of our loyal subjects carrying on the same; have at length proceeded to open and avowed rebellion, by arraying themselves in a hostile manner, to withstand the execution of the law, and traitorously preparing, ordering and levying war against us: And whereas, there is reason to apprehend that such rebellion hath been much promoted and encouraged by the traitorous correspondence, counsels and comfort of divers wicked and desperate persons within this Realm: To the end therefore, that none of our subjects may neglect or violate their duty through ignorance thereof, or through any doubt of the protection which the law will afford to their loyalty and zeal, we have thought fit, by and with the advice of our Privy Council, to issue our Royal Proclamation, hereby declaring, that not only all our Officers, civil and military, are obliged to exert their utmost endeavours to suppress such rebellion, and to bring the traitors to justice, but that all our subjects of this Realm, and the dominions thereunto belonging, are bound by law to be aiding and assisting in the suppression of such rebellion, and to disclose and make known all traitorous conspiracies and attempts against us, our crown and dignity; and we do accordingly strictly charge and command all our Officers, as well civil as military, and all others our obedient and loyal subjects, to use their utmost endeavours to withstand and suppress such rebellion, and to disclose and make known all treasons and traitorous conspiracies which they shall know to be against us, our crown and dignity; and for that purpose, that they transmit to one of our principal Secretaries of State, or other proper officer, due and full information of all persons who shall be found carrying on correspondence with, or in any manner or degree aiding or abetting the persons now in open arms and rebellion against our Government, within any of our Colonies and Plantations in North America, in order to bring to condign punishment the authors, perpetrators, and abettors of such traitorous designs.

Given at our Court at St. James's the twenty-third day of August, one thousand seven hundred and seventy-five, in the fifteenth year of our reign.

God save the KING.

ORDER IN COUNCIL.

At the Court of St. James's, the 23d day of August, 1775: Present, The King's Most Excellent Majesty:

Whereas His Majesty was pleased by his order in Council, of the 5th of April last, to direct that no person or persons whatsoever should at any time during the space of six months, to commence from the 19th day of the said month of April, presume to transport out of this Kingdom, or carry coastwise, any Gunpowder, or any sort of Arms or Ammunition, (except the Master-General, Lieutenant-General, or principal Officers of the Ordnance for His Majesty's service,) without leave or permission in that behalf first obtained from His Majesty, or his Privy Council. And whereas there is great reason to suspect that great fraud and collusion have been and may be practised in the shipping and exportation of Gunpowder, Arms and Ammunition, under licenses which have been already granted: His Majesty doth therefore, by and with the advice of his Privy Council, hereby revoke and make void all and every license and permission which has been hitherto granted for the exportation or carrying coastwise of Gunpowder or any sort of Arms or Ammunition; and doth hereby order, require, prohibit, and command, that during the space of three months from the date of this His Majesty's order in Council, no person or persons whatsoever, (except the Master-General, Lieutenant-General, or principal Officers of the Ordnance for His Majesty's service,) do presume, without leave or permission in that behalf first obtained from His Majesty or his Privy Council, to transport into any parts out of this Kingdom, or carry coastwise any Gunpowder, or any sort of Arms or Ammunition, or ship or lade any Gunpowder, or any sort of Arms or Ammunition on board any ship or vessel, in order to transporting the same into any parts beyond the seas, or carrying the same coastwise, upon pain of incurring and suffering the respective forfeitures and penalties inflicted by an act passed in the twenty-ninth year of his late Majesty's reign, entitled, "An Act to empower His Majesty to prohibit the exportation of Saltpetre, and to enforce the law for empowering His Majesty to prohibit the exportation of Gunpowder, or any sort of Arms and Ammunition; and also to empower His Majesty to restrain the carrying coastwise of Saltpetre, Gunpowder, or any sort of Arms or Ammunition." And the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, the Commissioners for executing the office of Lord High-Admiral of Great Britain, the Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports, the Master General of the Ordnance, and His Majesty's Secretary at War, are to give the necessary directions herein as to them may respectively appertain.

STEPHEN COTTRELL.

Annapolis, August 23, 1775.

The members of the Committee for this County are requested to attend a meeting of the Committee of Observation for this County, on Wednesday, the 30th instant, to choose, by ballot, seven of the Committee for licensing suits in this County, and to appoint proper persons to enlist four companies of Minute-Men in this County, agreeable to the resolves of the last Convention.

Signed by order of the Committee:

G. DUVAL, Clerk.

PETER VAN BRUGH LIVINGSTON TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-York, August 23, 1775.

SIR: The enclosed extraordinary letter is just come to my hands by Mr. Waldron; I thought my duty to send it to the Congress. And am, Sir, your most obedient servant,

P. V. B. LIVINGSTON.

To the Vice-President of the Provincial Congress.

Thursday, 11 o'clock, August 23, 1775.

To the President and Gentlemen in the Provincial Congress, New-York:

MR. PRESIDENT AND GENTLEMEN: Be pleased to permit the fair stranger whom the people at home are pleased to call the Dutchess of Koningsburgh, &c., &c., &c., now on the tour through these most unhappy and distressed American Colonies.

We beg leave therefore to waive our most respectful compliments in the shades of true esteem and sympathy toward you, and request the favour of an interview with the President and some of his worthy brothers this afternoon, at Mr. Adolph Waldron's, and the favour will be highly esteemed.

We also presume to make known that the commission of our request is of very great importance, relative to the present unhappy wound which seems to swell through Great Britain and her Colonies, &c.

We solicit you will be pleased to observe, if the above commission meets with your approbation to receive, you will gain much honour in the end; and we have great reason to believe it will raise a glorious balm to sooth each unhappy wound, &c. Adieu.

To Peter V. B. Livingston, Esq.

N. B. The favour of an answer is requested on the point of honour, by the return of Mr. A. Waldron, who is the bearer of this.

COLONEL WILLIAM BAYARD TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Greenwich, 3 o'clock, P. M., August 23, 1775.

SIR: I have my house just now surrounded with a number of armed men of the new levies. You would oblige me to let me know if they are posted there by order of the Congress or Committee, or what the meaning of it can be; and you will much oblige my family, who are greatly alarmed at it.

I am, Sir, your most humble servant,

WILLIAM BAYARD.

To Peter V. B. Livingston, Esq., Chairman of the Provincial Congress.

P. S. Just before my house was surrounded, five or six people called on Mrs. Bayard, and asked if Captain Foy was to dine here.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO BENJAMIN FRANKLIN.

Albany, August 23, 1775.

SIR: Yesterday I had the honour of receiving your favour of the 15th instant. The powder which the respectable Committee of your City has sent is already arrived here. You and they, Sir, are equally entitled to my best thanks for this mark of attention. I shall, with great pleasure, order a considerable quantity of lead to be conveyed to Philadelphia immediately.

We have struggled through that variety of difficulties which is ever attendant on a want of method and regularity; and although we had not craft to move two hundred men when I arrived at Ticonderoga on the 18th July, and had then to repair mills, and send for carpenters to this place, it is with pleasure I can inform you we are now able to move about thirteen hundred, with twenty days' provisions, and that we shall very soon make an attempt on St. John's, weak as we are in artillery, which I suppose will not exceed six nine-pounders. I have two flat-bottomed vessels among those we have built; they are sixty feet long, and capable of carrying five twelve-pounders each, but I can unfortunately mount only one, as I have no carriages.

I am, Sir, with the most respectful sentiments, your obliged, obedient, and very humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To the Honourable B. Franklin, Esq.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Albany, August 23, 1775.

SIR: I have the honour to acknowledge your favour of the 17th instant, enclosing the resolutions of Congress of the 15th, and a copy of General Washington's letter of the 10th.

This morning Mr. Warner was with me for the clothing and blankets of the Green Mountain boys. I read your resolution to him, and delivered him six sets of warrants, filled up agreeable to the choice made by them: the seventh remains blank, as one of the Captains declined the service. And as these people could not take the field without some money to procure blankets and arms, I have advanced him five hundred pounds on their pay. I did not mention to him your resolution authorizing me to appoint the field-officers, as I cannot possibly comply with that requisition. The peculiar situation of these people, and the controversy they have had with this Colony; or with gentlemen in it, renders that matter too delicate for me to determine; and it was in this view that I begged that the warrants for the field-officers might be sent me complete, which I shall still hope to receive as soon as possible.

I am at a loss to reconcile the spirit of Mr. Lewis's letter (to which I referred in one of mine to you) with what you say relative to an hospital in your last. By the former I was directed to address myself to you in the recess of Congress; by the latter it would appear that you have received no directions from the Continental Congress respecting this department. This alarms me much, lest you should not be able to decide on the several matters contained in the letters, copies of which I had the honour to transmit you from Ticonderoga.

Our arms are of such a variety of bores, and as the balls we have were designed only for muskets, we cannot do any thing without the bullet moulds. I beg they may be forwarded without delay.

Immediately on my first arrival at Ticonderoga, I acquainted Governour Trumbull that Colonel Hinman's regiment wanted tents. I have since been informed that on the Governour's application you were to furnish them; if so, I hope they are on the way up. Half of the troops are without tents, and should they not arrive in time, I tremble for the consequences, as they must necessarily be exposed to the rains and dews, which I fear will make dreadful havoc amongst them.

About seven hundred Indians are now here, and we open the conference with them to-morrow.

I am, Sir, most respectfully, your very obedient humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

Peter V. B. Livingston, Esq., President, &c., &c.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO CONTINENTAL CONGRESS.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, August 23, 1775.

SIR: The enclosed letter came under such a direction and circumstances as led me to suppose it contained some interesting advices, either respecting a supply of powder, or the clothing lately taken at Philadelphia; I therefore took the liberty of breaking the seal, for which I hope the service and my motives will apologize.

As the filling up the place of vacant Brigadier-General will probably be of the first business of the honourable Congress, I flatter myself it will not be deemed assuming to mention the names of two gentlemen whose former services, rank and age may be thought worthy of attention on this occasion. Of the one, I can speak from my own knowledge; of the other, only from character. The former is Colonel John Armstrong, of Pennsylvania: he served during the last war in most of the campaigns to the southward, was honoured with the command of the Pennsylvania forces, and his general military conduct and spirit much approved by all who served with him; besides which, his character was distinguished by an enterprise against the Indians, which he planned with great judgment, and executed with equal courage and success. It was not till lately that I had reason to believe he would enter again on publick service, and it is now wholly unsolicited and unknown on his part. The other gentleman is Colonel Frye, of Massachusetts-Bay: he entered into the service as early as 1745, and rose through the different military ranks in the succeeding wars to that of Colonel, until last June, when he was appointed a Major-General by the Congress of this Province. From these circumstances, together with the favourable report made to me of him, I presume he sustained the character of a good officer, though I do not find it distinguished by any peculiar service. Either of these gentlemen, or any other whom the honourable Congress shall please to favour with this appointment, will be received by me with the utmost deference and respect.

The late adjournment having made it impracticable to know the pleasure of the Congress as to the appointment of Brigade-Majors beyond the number of three, which they were pleased to leave to me, and the service not admitting of farther delay, I have continued the other three, which I hope their Honours will not disapprove. These latter were recommended by the respective corps to which they belong as the properest persons for these offices, until further direction, and have discharged the duty ever since. They are the Majors Box, Scammel, and Samuel Brown.

Last Saturday night we took possession of a hill considerably advanced beyond our former lines, which brought on a very heavy cannonade from Bunker's Hill, and afterwards a bombardment, which has been since kept up with little spirit on their part, or damage on ours. The work having been continued ever since is now so advanced, and the men so well covered, as leave us under no apprehensions of much farther loss. In this affair we had killed one Adjutant, one volunteer, and two privates. The scarcity of ammunition does not admit of our availing ourselves of the situation as we otherwise might do; but this evil, I hope, will soon be remedied, as I have been informed of the arrival of a large quantity at New-York, some at New-London, and more hourly expected at different places. I need not add to what I have already said on this subject, our late supply was very seasonable, but far short of our necessities.

The late adjournment of the honourable Congress having been made before my letter of the fourth instant was received, I must now beg leave to recall their attention to those parts of it which respect the provision for the winter, the reduction of the troops, the double commissions under different establishments, and Colonel Gridley's appointment of Major-General. In all which I hope to be honoured with their commands as soon as possible.

The Advocate-General has sent me a memorial respecting his service, which I have the honour to enclose, (No. 1.) and from the variety and multiplicity of duty in a new Army, as well as his regular service and attendance, I am induced to recommend him to the further notice of the honourable Congress.

The treatment of our officers, prisoners at Boston, induced me to write to General Gage on that subject; his answer and my reply I have the honour to lay before the Congress, in the enclosures Nos. 2, 3, 4. Since which I have heard nothing from him.

I remain, with the greatest respect and regard, Sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

[No. 1.]

WILLIAM TUDOR TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

August 23, 1775.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY: At the time I had the honour of your Excellency's appointing me to the office of Judge Advocate to the Army, my unacquaintedness with the nature of the department rendered me an incompetent judge of its duties. The experience I have since had convinces me that I am engaged in a service extensive, laborious and important. I must therefore beg, Sir, your indulgence while I mention some particulars which, I presume, will satisfy your Excellency that the conclusion I may deduce from them is not unreasonable.

I have your Excellency's orders, through the medium of the Adjutant-General, to attend every General Court-Martial, both those of the line and each Brigade, throughout the Army, and to see that there is a fair copy of the entire proceedings in each case made out, to be reported to the Commander-in-Chief. The number of offences made cognizable by a General Court-Martial only, the large Army here, and the extent of the camp, (ten miles at least,) in each quarter of which my duty demands my attendance, unitedly render my station arduous and difficult. The number of trials which have been reported to your Excellency within six weeks past will, I believe, justify this assertion.

It is not only expected that I give the proper orders for procuring the evidence, and putting all matters in such a train that the Court may have nothing else to do than to hear the witnesses and form a judgment, but that I also analyze the evidence and state the questions that are involved in it for the opinion of the Court. But I mean not to detain your Excellency by a tedious detail. It is sufficient to acquaint you that I am obliged to act as Advocate, Register and Clerk, for a stipend of twenty dollars a month, without the least assistance or a single perquisite of office.

In the British Army General Courts-Martial sit only in capital cases, or for the trial of commissioned officers. The Judge Advocate there is allowed ten shillings sterling per day, besides drawing pay as an officer. This duty is easy, because the strict discipline maintained among regular troops make General Courts-Martial but rare.

Almost every day since my appointment, a General Court-Martial has set in one or other part of the camp. A Court at Roxbury adjourned for six days successively, because my duty would not permit me to leave Cambridge. This must frequently be the case while I am without an assistant. I will no longer trespass on your Excellency's time, than to beg that a representation of this office may be made from the Commander-in-Chief to the honourable Continental Congress, who, I am informed, were entirely unacquainted with the business of this department, especially in an American Army. The information they may receive from your Excellency on this subject, will doubtless prevail with them to affix a salary something more adequate to the service. Should they not, I shall be under a necessity of begging your Excellency's permission to resign an employment, the duties of which leave me without an hour to call my own, and the pay of which will not afford a maintenance.

I am, with profound respect, your Excellency's most obedient humble servant,

WILLIAM TUDOR.

His Excellency George Washington, Esq.

[No. 2.]

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL GAGE.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, August 11, 1775.

SIR: I understand that the officers engaged in the cause of liberty and their Country, who, by the fortune of war, have fallen into your hands, have been thrown indiscriminately into a common jail appropriated for felons; that no consideration has been had for those of the most respectable rank, when languishing with wounds and sickness; and that some of them have been even amputated in this unworthy situation. Let your opinion, Sir, of the principle which actuates them be what it may, they suppose they act from the noblest of all principles—a love of freedom and their Country. But political opinions, I conceive, are foreign to this point. The obligations arising from the rights of humanity and claims of rank, are universally binding and extensive, except in case of retaliation. These, I should have hoped, would have dictated a more tender treatment of those individuals whom chance or war had put in your power; nor can I forbear suggesting its fatal tendency to widen that unhappy breach, which you and those Ministers under whom you act have repeatedly declared you wished to see forever closed.

My duty now makes it necessary to apprise you that, for the future, I shall regulate my conduct towards those gentlemen who are or may be in our possession, exactly by the rule you shall observe towards those of ours now in your custody. If severity and hardship mark the line of your conduct, painful as it may be to me, your prisoners will feel its effects. But if kindness and humanity are shown to ours, I shall with pleasure consider those in our hands only as unfortunate, and they shall receive from me that treatment to which the unfortunate are ever entitled.

I beg to be favoured with an answer as soon as possible, and am, Sir, your very humble servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

His Excellency General Gage.

[No. 3.]

GENERAL GAGE TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Boston, August 13, 1775.

SIR: To the glory of civilized Nations, humanity and war have been compatible, and compassion to the subdued is become almost a general system. Britons, ever pre-eminent in mercy, have outgone common examples, and overlooked the criminal in the captive. Upon these principles, your prisoners, whose lives by the laws of the land are destined to the cord, have hitherto been treated with care and kindness, and more comfortably lodged than the King's Troops, in the hospitals, indiscriminately it is true, for I acknowledge no rank that is not derived from the King.

My intelligence from your Army would justify severe recrimination. I understand there are some of the King's faithful subjects, taken some time since by the Rebels, labouring like negro slaves to gain their daily subsistence, or reduced to the wretched alternative to perish by famine, or take arms against their King and Country. Those who have made the treatment of the prisoners in my hands, or of your other friends in Boston, a pretence for such measures, found barbarity upon falsehood.

I would willingly hope, Sir, that the sentiments of liberality, which I have always believed you to possess, will be exerted to correct these misdoings. Be temperate in political disquisition, give free operation to truth, and punish those who deceive and misrepresent, and not only the effects, but the causes of this unhappy conflict will be removed. Should those under whose usurped authority you act, control such a disposition, and dare to call severity retaliation, to God, who knows all hearts, be the appeal for the dreadful consequences. I trust that British soldiers, asserting the rights of the state, the laws of the land, the being of the Constitution, will meet all events with becoming fortitude. They will court victory with the spirit their cause inspires, and from the same motive will find the patience of martyrs under misfortune.

Till I read your insinuations in regard to Ministers, I conceived that I had acted under the King, whose wishes, it is true, as well as those of his Ministers, and of every honest man, have been to see this unhappy breach forever closed; but, unfortunately for both Countries, those who long since projected the present crisis, and influence the councils of America, have views very distant from accommodation.

I am, Sir, your most obedient humble servant,

George Washington, Esq.

THOMAS GAGE

[No. 4.]

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL GAGE.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, August 19, 1775.

SIR: I addressed you on the 11th instant in terms which gave the fairest scope for the exercise of that humanity and politeness which were supposed to form a part of your character. I remonstrated with you on the unworthy treatment shown to the officers and citizens of America whom the fortune of war, chance, or a mistaken confidence, had thrown into your hands. Whether British or American mercy, fortitude and patience are most prominent; whether our virtuous citizens, whom the hand of tyranny has forced into arms to defend their wives, their children, and their property, or the mercenary instruments of lawless domination, avarice and revenge, best deserve the appellation of Rebels, and the punishment of that cord which your affected clemency has forborne to inflict; whether the authority under which I act is usurped, or founded upon the genuine principles of liberty, were altogether foreign to the subject. I purposely avoided all political disquisition; nor shall I now avail myself of those advantages which the sacred cause of my Country, of liberty and human nature, give me over you, much less shall I stoop to retort and invective. But the intelligence you say you have received from our Army requires a reply. I have taken time, Sir, to make a strict inquiry, and find it has not the least foundation in truth. Not only your officers and soldiers have been treated with a tenderness due to fellow-citizens and brethren, but even those execrable parricides, whose counsels and aid have deluged their Country with blood, have been protected from the fury of a justly enraged people. Far from compelling or permitting their assistance, I am embarrassed with the numbers who crowd to our camp, animated with the purest principles of virtue and love of their Country. You advise me to give free operation to truth, to punish misrepresentation and falsehood. If experience stamps value upon counsel, yours must have a weight which few can claim. You best can tell how far the convulsion which has brought such ruin on both Countries, and shaken the mighty Empire of Britain to its foundation, may be traced to these malignant causes.

You affect, Sir, to despise all rank not derived from the same source with your own. I cannot conceive one more honourable, than that which flows from the uncorrupted choice of a brave and free people—the purest source and original fountain of all power. Far from making it a plea for cruelty, a mind of true magnanimity and enlarged ideas would comprehend and respect it.

What may have been the Ministerial views which have precipitated the present crisis, Lexington, Concord and Charlestown can best declare. May that God to whom you then appealed, judge between America and you. Under his providence, those who influence the councils of America, and all the other inhabitants of the United Colonies, at the hazard of their lives are determined to hand down to posterity those just and invaluable privileges which they received from their ancestors.

I shall now, Sir, close my correspondence with you, perhaps forever. If your officers, our prisoners, receive a treatment from me different from what I wished to show them, they and you will remember the occasion of it.

I am, Sir, your very humble servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

General Gage.

GENERAL ORDERS.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, August 5, 1775.

(Parole, Westminster.)

(Countersign, Richmond.)

For the establishment of order and to prevent disputes between Officers, as well as for fixing a regular and proper distribution of the Commissions of the Continental Army, part of which are already arrived from the Congress, and the rest hourly expected, it is ordered that a meeting of the Field-Officers of each Brigade be held to-morrow morning, at eight o'clock, as near as may be to the centre of the encampment of each Brigade, who are to choose by ballot one out of their body to represent them in forming a Court, for the adjustment and final settlement of—

First. The rank of the Regiments of the Continental Army, and numbering of each Regiment accordingly. As all differences and distinctions are now to be laid aside, the Regiments of the several Provinces that form the Continental Army are to be considered no longer in a separate and distinct point of view, but as parts of the whole Army of the United Provinces.

Secondly. The rank of all the Field-Officers of all the Regiments forming the Continental Army.

Thirdly. The rank of all the Captains, Subalterns and Staff-Officers. And as doubts may arise which cannot be determined by the six Field-Officers so chosen by ballot, they are hereby directed to choose by ballot one Brigadier-General, who will preside as Moderator of the Court, for finally settling the rank of all the corps and all the commissioned officers that compose the Army of the United Colonies. This Court being duly constituted and appointed, are to sit on Monday morning next, at Deacon Jones's, in Cambridge.

The Church to be cleared to-morrow, and the Rev. Mr. Doyles will perform divine service therein at ten o'clock.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, August 7, 1775.

(Parole, Newcastle.)

(Countersign, Malden.)

Captain Kilton, of Col. Patterson's Regiment, tried by a General Court-Martial for "neglect of duty," is found guilty of a breach of the forty-ninth article of the Rules and Regulations for the Massachusetts Army. They therefore sentence him to receive a severe reprimand from the commanding officer, at the head of the Regiment.

Application having been made for Sutlers to supply the different Regiments with necessaries, the Commander-in-Chief has no objection to each Colonel appointing one for his particular Regiment, provided the publick is not to be taxed with any expense by the appointment; and provided also, that each Colonel doth become answerable for the conduct of the Sutler so appointed; and taking care that he conform strictly to all orders given for the regulation of the Army, and that he does not in any instance attempt to impose upon the soldiers in the price of their goods. No officer, directly or indirectly, is to become a Sutler.

It is in an especial manner recommended to the commanding officer of each Regiment to see that a store of shoes and shirts are laid in for the men, as those are at all times necessary. The General also recommends it to the Colonels to provide Indian boots or leggings for their men, instead of stockings, as they are not only warmer, and wear longer, but, by getting them of a colour, contribute to uniformity in dress, especially as the General has hopes of prevailing with the Continental Congress to give each man a hunting-shirt.

For the future no Return is to be delivered to the Adjutant-General that is not signed by the commanding officer of the Regiment or Corps, specified by the Return; and it is expected that the commanding officers of Regiments do not receive any Return from their Adjutants, unless he at the same time presents the said commanding officer with a particular Return, signed by the respective Captains of Companies in the Regiment he commands.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, August 8, 1775.

(Parole, Portsmouth.)

(Countersign, Northumberland.)

As the number of absent sick, by the last returns, is astonishingly great, it is ordered that the name of each man, absent under that pretence, be given in by the commanding officer of each Regiment, and signed by him, setting forth the town which each particular soldier is gone to, that the Committee thereof may be applied to, to inspect into the nature of their complaints, and make report of those who are fit for duty.

It has been intimated to the General that some officers, under pretence of giving furloughs to men recovering from sickness, send them to work upon their farms, for their own private emolument, at the same time that the publick is taxed with their pay, if not with their provisions. These insinuations being but obliquely made, the General is unwilling to believe that any officer can be so lost to all sense of honour, as to defraud the publick in so scandalous a manner, and therefore does not at present pay any further regard to the insinuation than to declare, that he will show no favour to any officer who shall be found guilty of such iniquitous practices, but will do his utmost endeavours to bring them to exemplary punishment, and the disgrace due to such misconduct.

The following is the ration of provisions allowed by the Continental Congress unto each soldier, viz:

One pound of fresh beef, or three-quarters of a pound of pork, or one pound of salt fish, per diem.

One pound of bread or flour, per diem.

Three pints of peas or beans, per week, or vegetables equivalent, at five shillings per bushel for peas or beans.

One pint of milk per man, per diem, when to be had.

One half pint of rice, or one pint of Indian meal, per man, per week.

One quart of spruce beer, per man, per diem, or nine gallons of molasses, per Company of 100 men.

Three pounds of candles to 100 men, per week, for guards, &c. Twenty-four pounds of soft, or eight pounds of hard soap for 100 men per week.

One ration of salt, one ditto fresh, and two ditto bread, to be delivered Monday morning. Wednesday morning the same.

Friday morning the same, and one ditto salt fish. All weekly allowances delivered Wednesday morning. Where the number of Regiments is too many to serve the whole the same day, then the number to be divided equally, and one part served Monday morning, the other part Tuesday morning, and so through the week.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, August 9, 1775.

(Parole, Rochester.)

(Countersign, Plymouth.)

The commanding officer of each Regiment or Corps is to send a return at orderly time, to-morrow, to the Adjutant-General, of the number of tents or boards which are wanted to cover the men, that they may be provided as soon as possible. They are also to give in the names of such of their men who neither have received blankets, or who lost them in the engagement on Bunker's Hill.

As there are several vacancies in the different Regiments, if there are any particular gentlemen who signalized themselves in the action on Bunker's Hill, by their spirited behaviour and good conduct, and of which sufficient proof is adduced to the General, he will, in filling up the commissions, use his endeavours to have them appointed (if not already commissioned) to some office, or promoted if they are; as it will give him infinite pleasure at all times to reward merit, wherever it is to be found.

Colonel Learned's Regiment to join Gen. Thomas's Brigade, and Col. Huntington's to join General Spencer's Brigade.

Captain Ballard, of Colonel Frye's Regiment, tried by the late General Court-Martial, for "profane swearing, and for beating and abusing his men." The Court find the prisoner guilty in two instances of profane swearing, and of beating his men; and therefore sentence him to pay a fine of four shillings for each offence.

Captain Jesse Saunders, of Col. Sergeant's Regiment, tried by the late General Court-Martial, for "frequently drawing more provisions than he had men in his Company to consume; for forcing the sentry, and taking away a gun, the property of William Turner, and threatening the life of Sergeant Connor, cocking and presenting his gun at him when in the execution of his duty." The Court are unanimously of opinion that the prisoner is guilty of the whole of the charge exhibited against him, and unanimously adjudge that he be forthwith cashiered. The General approves the above sentences, and orders them to be put in immediate execution.

To-morrow, the Rules and Articles, formed by the Honourable the Continental Congress for the government of the Troops of the twelve United Colonies, will be delivered out, to be distributed through the several corps of the Army. They are to be signed by the several officers of each Regiment, beginning with the Colonels, and then by the soldiers, in the blank leaves left for that purpose; and after they are so subscribed, they are to be deposited with the Captain of each Company. If there are any officers or soldiers who refuse to sign them, their names, and the Companies and Regiments to which they respectively belong, are to be reported to the Commander-in-Chief, without delay.

Mr. John Goddard is appointed by the Commander-in-Chief, Wagon-Master General to the Army of the twelve United Colonies, and is to be obeyed as such.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, August 10, 1775.

(Parole, Schuylkill.)

(Countersign, Richmond.)

It is a matter of exceeding great concern to the General to find, that at a time when the united efforts of America are exerting in defence of the common rights and liberties of mankind, that there should be in an Army constituted for so noble a purpose, such repeated instances of officers who, lost to every sense of honour and virtue, are seeking by dirty and base means the promotion of their own dishonest gain, to the eternal disgrace of themselves and dishonour of their Country. Practices of this sort will never be overlooked, whenever an accusation is lodged, but the authors brought to the most exemplary punishment. It is therefore much to be wished that the example of Jesse Saunders, late Captain, in Col. Sergeant's Regiment, will prove the last shameful instance of such a grovelling disposition; and that for the future every officer for his own honour and the sake of an injured publick, will make a point of detecting every iniquitous practice of this kind; using their utmost endeavours in their several capacities to lessen the expense of the war as much as possible, that the great cause in which we are struggling may receive no injury from the enormity of the expense.

The several Paymasters are immediately to ascertain what pay was due to the different Regiments and Corps on the first day of this instant, that each man may receive his respective due as soon as the money arrives to pay them. It is earnestly recommended that great exactness be used in these settlements: First, that no man goes without his pay; and next, that not one farthing more be drawn than what is justly due. After this the pay may be drawn once a month or otherwise, as shall be found most convenient; in the mean while, the soldiers need be under no apprehension of getting every farthing that is justly their due. It is therefore expected that they do their duty with that cheerfulness and alacrity becoming men who are contending for their liberty, property, and every thing that is valuable to freemen and their posterity.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, August 11, 1775.

(Parole, Tunbridge.)

(Countersign, Squantum.)

Complaints having been made by the inhabitants to the east of Watertown, that their gardens are robbed, their fields laid waste, and fences destroyed, any person who shall for the future be detected in such flagitious, wicked practices, will be punished without mercy.

The Commander-in-Chief has been pleased to appoint Stephen Moylan, Esq., to be Muster-Master General to the Army of the United Colonies. He is in all things touching his duty as Muster-Master General, to be considered and obeyed as such.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, August 13, 1775.

(Parole, Williamsburgh.)

(Countersign, Torrington.)

A General Court-Martial to set to-morrow morning to try Col. John Mansfield, of the Massachusetts Forces, accused by three of his officers of high crimes and misdemeanors. One Brigadier-General and twelve Field-Officers to compose the Court.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, August 14, 1775.

(Parole, York.)

(Countersign, Yarmouth.)

Major Thomas Mifflin is appointed Quartermaster-General to the Army of the United Colonies. He is to be obeyed as such.

As the Troops are all to be mustered as soon as possible, the Muster-Master General, Stephen Moylan, Esq., will deliver the commanding officer of each Regiment thirty blank muster rolls, upon Friday next, and directions for each Captain how he is to fill up the blanks.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, August 15, 1775.

(Parole, Arlington.)

(Countersign, Bedford.)

David Henly, Esq., is appointed Brigade Major to Gen. Heath's Brigade.

John Trumbull, Esq., is appointed Brigade Major to General Spencer's Brigade.

Richard Carey, Esq., is appointed Brigade Major to the Brigade commanded by the eldest Colonel.

Thomas Chase, Daniel Box, and Alexander Scammell, Esqrs., are appointed to continue to do the duty of Brigade Majors to the Brigades they respectively belong.

Edmund Randolph and George Baylor, Esqs., are appointed Aids-de-Camp to the Commander-in-Chief. All and every of the above named gentlemen to be obeyed in their respective capacities.

The Quartermaster General is, without delay, to examine the encampments and coverings of the different Regiments and Corps; to see that those which are not designed to remain in houses, are provided as soon as possible with tents or boards sufficient for their accommodation; at the same time he is to take care to prevent any unnecessary waste of the latter, and to put a stop to the officers building such large houses as some of them are doing, unless they are intended for the accommodation of a number sufficient to fill them, or are to be built at their own expense. But no large house to be placed near any of the redoubts or lines.

In addition to the order of the 4th instant, the Colonel or commanding officer of each Regiment and Corps is to cause an exact account to be taken (by his Captains) of the number of cartridges which each man is possessed of, and at evening, at roll calling, have them examined, as directed in the said order; when, if any are wanting, and cannot be accounted for, the delinquent, over and above the punishment due to his offence, is to be charged with the deficiency, and so much of his pay stopped accordingly.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, August 16, 1775.
(Parole, Cumberland.) (Countersign, Dunstable.)

Captain Eleazer Lindsey, of Col. Gerrish's Regiment, tried by a General Court-Martial for "absenting himself from his post, which was attacked, and abandoned to the enemy." The Court on consideration are of opinion that Captain Lindsey be discharged the service, as a person improper to sustain a commission.

John Parke, Esq., is appointed an Assistant to the Quartermaster General. He is to be obeyed as such.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, August 17, 1775.
(Parole, Exeter.) (Countersign, Falkland.)

Thomas Chase, Esq., is to continue to do duty as Major of Brigade to Brigadier General Thomas's Brigade.

Mr. Ezekiel Cheever is appointed Commissary of Artillery stores. The Quartermaster General, Commissary General, and Commissary of Artillery, are to make exact returns of all the stores, provisions and necessaries of every kind, within their several departments. And they are to lose no time in collecting the several articles which may be in the hands of Committees, or other persons, into their immediate care; and they are to be answerable for the disposal of them.

The Commanding Officer of Artillery is to see that all the ordnance stores are faithfully collected, and put under the care of the Commissary of Artillery; and the Commissary of Artillery is to see that all the powder, lead and flints, are placed in the magazine appointed to receive them.

The Muster-Master General, Stephen Moylan, Esq., to proceed as expeditiously as possible in mustering the troops, and when he has delivered his blank rolls to the several Regiments and Corps, he is to fix the days for mustering each Brigade, with the Adjutant-General, who will give directions accordingly.

The Army being regularly brigaded, and a Major of Brigade appointed and fixed to each Brigade, they are to keep an exact roster of duty for the officers, non-commissioned officers and soldiers of their respective Brigades. The Adjutant-General will assist them with the best form of a roster, and earnestly recommends the use thereof. All duties of honour begin with the eldest officer of each rank, and duties of fatigue with the youngest. Each Major of Brigade will forthwith fix upon a proper spot, as near as can be to the centre of the Brigade, for a general parade of the Brigade, where all parties, with or without arms, are to be regularly paraded and marched off in presence of the Major of Brigade; and the General expects that the Majors of Brigades are not only alert, but exact in the performance of this duty.

The Court-Martial ordered for the trial of Col. Mansfield to sit to-morrow morning at eight o'clock, at the College Chapel; and for the trial of Col. Gerrish. All evidences and persons concerned to attend the Court.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, August 18, 1775.

(Parole, Gloucester.)

(Countersign, Hartford.)

John Conner, of Captain Oliver's Company, Colonel Doolittle's Regiment, tried by a General Court-Martial for "stealing a cheese," the property of Richard Cornell, is found guilty of the charge, and adjudged to receive thirty-nine lashes upon his bare back. The General approves the sentence, and orders it to be executed at the relieving the main guard, at the head of the two guards.

Joseph Matthews, of Captain Perkins's Company of Artillery, tried by the same General Court-Martial, for "selling his gun, which the Selectmen of his town had given him, and drawing pay for a blanket furnished by said Selectmen." The Court sentence the prisoner to receive ten lashes upon his bare back, and order twelve shillings to be stopped from his pay, to repay Captain Perkins for the blanket. The General approves the sentence, and orders it to be executed at the head of the guards, where the Company the prisoner belongs to is posted.

(Parole, Jersey.)

(Countersign, Kendal.)

Col. Samuel Gerrish, of the Massachusetts Forces, tried by a General Court-Martial, of which Brigadier General Green was President, is unanimously found guilty of the charge exhibited against him, that "he behaved unworthy an officer; and that he is guilty of a breach of the forty-ninth article of the Rules and Regulations of the Massachusetts Army. The Court therefore sentence and adjudge the said Col. Gerrish to be cashiered, and rendered incapable of any employment in the American Army. The General approves the sentence of the Court-Martial, and orders it to take place immediately.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, August 20, 1775.

(Parole, Lebanon.)

(Countersign, Mansfield.)

In obedience to the orders of the 5th instant, the Brigadier General, and Field-Officers chosen by ballot, have made report to his Excellency the Commander-in-Chief of the final settlement of the rank of all the Regiments and Officers in the Army of the United Colonies. The General entirely approves of the proceedings of the Brigadier and the Field-Officers, and thanks them in this public manner for the great pains and care they have taken in establishing a point of so much importance to the Army. His Excellency strictly commands all officers and soldiers to pay all due obedience to the regulations so established. The Adjutant-General will deliver to each Major of Brigade, this day at orderly time, a copy of the rank of the Regiments, of the Field-Officers, and of the Officers in every Regiment, in their respective Brigades.

A Court of Inquiry to sit this day, at three in the afternoon, to examine into the reasons for a complaint exhibited against Col. Ebenezer Bridge. President, Brig. General Heath. Col. Prescott, Col. Sergeant, Col. Woodbridge, Lt. Col. Johonnot, Members.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, August 21, 1775.

(Parole, Norfolk.)

(Countersign, Oporto.)

The Court of Inquiry ordered to sit yesterday, upon Colonel Ebenezer Bridge, to sit this day at three o'clock, P. M.

Michael Berry, tried by a late General Court-Martial, for "stealing a hat from Captain Waterman," is found guilty; and sentenced to receive thirty lashes; but, in consideration of his long confinement, the General pardons the prisoner.

General Sullivan's Brigade to be mustered to-morrow. The Muster-Master General to begin with the Regiment posted on the left of the lines, exactly at six o'clock; with the next Regiment on the left at seven, and so on until the whole are mustered. The field and staff officers of each Regiment are to be mustered in the eldest Captain's Company; and such as were draughted to the Regiment of Artillery are to be mustered only to the day they were draughted: the Regiment of Artillery to muster them from that time.

A Sergeant, Corporal and nine men to mount guard to-morrow morning, at Mr. Fainweather's house, lately converted into an hospital. The Sergeant to receive his orders from Dr. Church, director of the hospital.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, August 22, 1775.
(Parole, Portsmouth.) (Countersign, Quincy.)

As the muster rolls cannot be properly prepared before Saturday next, the General defers the mustering of the Brigades upon the left of the lines until next Monday, when the mustering the whole will take place without interruption.

Captain Pearl, of Col. Woodbridge's Regiment, tried by a General Court-Martial for "defrauding his men of their pay." The Court are unanimously of opinion that the complaint is in no part supported; and being vexatious and groundless, acquit Captain Pearl, and order the chief complainant, Daniel Davids, to be confined.

The General does not mean to discourage the practice of bathing, whilst the weather is warm enough to continue it, but he expressly forbids any persons doing it at or near the bridge in Cambridge, where it has been observed and complained of, that many men, lost to all sense of decency and common modesty, are running about naked on the bridge, whilst passengers, and even ladies of the first fashion in the neighbourhood, are passing over it, as if they meant to glory in their shame. The guards and sentries at the bridge are to put a stop to this practice for the future.

The Director-General of the Hospital having complained that the sick under his care are not only incommoded by a promiscuous resort of soldiers to the rooms, but greatly injured by having improper things carried to them to eat, at the same time that many disorders under which the sick are suffering may be by them contracted and spread in the camp by means of this intercourse, it is therefore ordered that this improper visitation be put a stop to for the future. No non-commissioned officer or soldier to be admitted into the hospital hereafter without the leave of the Surgeon then in attendance, or by a written license from the Colonel, or commanding officer of the Regiment they belong to; in either of which cases the friends of the sick, and all those who have any real business with them, will never be denied the privilege and satisfaction of visiting.

Representations being made to the Commander-in-Chief that officers are frequently seen in Cambridge and Watertown, and in the towns and villages round the camp, without any leave of absence previously obtained, and contrary to all good discipline and order; and as such irregularity at this time may be productive of the worst of consequences, the General directs the commanding officers of Corps to be particularly attentive to the behaviour of all their officers, and without favour or affection, confine any officer who is absent from the camp or lines, where he is posted or encamped, without leave in writing first had and obtained from the General commanding the Brigade; and the commanding officers are strictly enjoined to put in arrest any officer who shall for the future disobey this order. When officers set good examples it may be expected that the men will with zeal and alacrity follow them, but it would be a mere phenomenon in nature to find a well disciplined soldiery where officers are relaxed and tardy in their duty; nor can they with any kind of propriety or good conscience set in judgment upon a soldier for disobeying an order, which they themselves are every day breaking. The General is exceeding sorry to find occasion to give such repeated orders on this head, but as the safety of the Army and salvation of the country may essentially depend upon a strictness of discipline and close attention to duty, he will give no countenance, nor show any favour, to delinquents.

HORATIO GATES, Adjutant-General.

RICHARD PENN AND ARTHUR LEE TO LORD DARTMOUTH.

Mr. Lee and Mr. Penn present their respects to Lord Dartmouth, and enclose a copy of an humble and earnest Petition, from the Continental Congress in America, to the King. They mean, with Lord Dartmouth's permission, to wait on his Lordship on Wednesday next, at noon, with the original, for his Lordship to present to His Majesty.

Garden Court, Middle Temple, August 21st, 1775.

To the Right Honourable the Earl of Dartmouth, Secretary of State for America.

LORD DARTMOUTH TO RICHARD PENN AND ARTHUR LEE.

Lord Dartmouth presents his compliments to Mr. Richard Penn and Mr. Lee; he has just received by the post their note of the 21st inst., which would have been sent to him by express, if it had been known at his office that they had any commands for him; Lord Dartmouth having left orders there that he should be sent for whenever his presence should be required in Town. He will return to London in a day or two, and will not fail to inform Mr. Penn and Mr. Lee of his arrival.

Sandwell, 24th August, 1775.

EDMUND BURKE TO ARTHUR LEE.

Beaconsfield, August 22, 1775.

SIR: I am honoured with your letter of the 21st inst., informing me of the time on which you purpose to wait on Lord Dartmouth, with the Petition of the American Congress.

I should be happy to attend you on that occasion, as you desire, if I were in the slightest degree authorized to do so by the Colony which I represent. I have been chosen Agent by the General Assembly of New-York. That Assembly has actually refused to send Deputies to the Congress; so that, if I were to present a petition in the character of their agent, I should act not only without, but contrary to the authority of my constituents. Whilst I act for them, it is not possible for me, in my transactions with the Boards or Ministers, to divest myself occasionally of that character.

This, and this only, is my reason for not obeying your commands. I do approve exceedingly of all dutiful applications of the Congress to His Majesty. I am convinced that nothing is further from the desires of the gentlemen who compose it, than to separate themselves from their allegiance to their Sovereign, or their subordinate connection with their Mother Country. I believe they sincerely wish for an end of these unhappy troubles, in which, while all are distressed, they must be the first and greatest sufferers. It were greatly to be desired that Ministers could meet their pacifick dispositions with a temper corresponding to them. On these principles I heartily wish you success in your laudable endeavours for the restoration of peace, and the reconciliation of our fellow-subjects to their Sovereign.

I have the honour to be your most obedient and humble servant,
EDMUND BURKE.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER RECEIVED IN PHILADELPHIA, DATED LONDON, AUGUST 24, 1775.

There are some more Regiments to be sent from Ireland directly to America, and transports are taking up to go to Holland, to take Hanoverians from thence to Minorca, and to take the garrison of that place to Ireland. Immense quantities of artillery, bombs and stores of all kinds, are shipping here. Two days ago I dined with Mr. B . . . n, in company with a gentleman that does the business for the contractors, and find by him the Ministry think of removing the seat of war to the Southern Provinces, and to take possession of Long-Island, to establish themselves there, thinking by that means to be more secure in the winter, and better supplied with fresh provisions; and doubt not but that they will take possession of all the islands on the coast of New-England for the same purpose, and fortify them all. There are now building a number of flat-bottomed boats, to carry out with the transports, which will land forty men, or thereabouts, at a time, mounting a number of swivels.

If the American Army should defeat the Ministerial, I think that it will then be the time to make proposals for the restoring of peace and harmony; but if they should defeat the Americans, and the Canadians join them, which God forbid, I doubt there will be no such thing as to obtain peace on constitutional principles. Give not up; be steady and determined, and you will obtain what you want.

Some days ago sundry vessels arrived here from Newfoundland, without being able to continue their fishing voyage for want of provisions. Bread has not been sold for less than forty shillings to fifty shillings this year, and four pounds per hundred has been offered, and could not get it even for that, the whole island being at an allowance; this has already made much noise, and gentlemen on Change curse the Poolemen, for they say it was owing to them that the restraining act took place. The West-Indies will next cry out; Ireland will soon be in the greatest distress: barrel staves are now twelve pounds per thousand, and I heard Mr. B . . . n, say to one of the contractors, that barrel staves would be this year two shillings higher than ever. What they will do for flax-seed I know not, but it is little matter whether they have it or not, when they cannot sell their linens at London now at any rate. England begins to feel sensibly, and the tools of Administration have been down to sundry manufacturing towns to quiet the people, telling them it will be all settled in less than six months, on a better and more solid foundation than ever, and that there will be no more obstructions to trade; distributing large sums of money to their tools: but this will not hold always, the poor will not be quieted by such speeches, when they will be ready to perish for want of bread. By next spring it is thought things will have another face. The King is obstinate, and has said sundry times that he would not wear the British Crown if the Americans did not acknowledge the supremacy of the British Parliament. May the reign of all your enemies be short, and their memory be covered with shame and contempt.

I heard the gentleman that does the business for the contractors say, that the Ministry have thoughts of declaring all your negroes free, and to arm them; but I told them negroes could not read proclamations, and that the Americans would march them back, and perhaps arm them all that they could trust: pray lay this matter before the Congress respecting the negroes; you know the great numbers in the Southern Provinces; if got in arms against you, it would much embarrass you. I told the gentleman if the Ministry act in that way they would be worse than barbarians.

The Ministerial writers are continually publishing in favour of their Army; two days ago it was in the papers that Burgoyne had marched round by Roxbury undiscovered, and attacked the American Army in their trenches, and routed them, killing fifteen hundred: but this is now found false. They complain of killing too great a proportion of their officers; but I told him it was fair fighting to take an enemy up and down, as they could. He said that if the Americans did not fight openly, but from behind trees and ditches, that the Army would give no quarters; I told him that would produce the same treatment from the Americans.

The following account I had from one in office: five thousand men are at this time to be sent to New-York, and in the course of the winter to be augmented to twelve thousand from Gage's Army; five sail of men-of-war are already sailed, and sundry men are gone in them who know the country, and are to go in disguise through it, in order to burn and destroy the furnaces that cast cannon and military stores. The livery of the soldiers is to be green, faced with red; it is said that fourteen thousand suits are already sent to Canada, with blankets and presents for the Indians, in order to get them to join the Ministry; Albany, Crown Point and Ticonderoga are to be taken and garrisoned, that a free communication may be kept up with Canada, and that the communication between the Northern and Southern Colonies may be cut off. I hope they never will effect this; the greatest care must be taken to prevent the Indians joining them. One Browne, who was an officer in the last war, has gone over to engage them.

What will you do for intelligence from hence, if your ports are all shut? I think sundry vessels ought to be permitted to go to each of the West-India Islands, on purpose that a communication may be kept up between the Colonies and England, otherwise you will be totally ignorant of what is designed against you here.

LETTER FROM A GENTLEMAN IN LONDON TO HIS FRIEND IN THE AMERICAN CAMP.

London, August 24, 1775.

I am greatly pleased, and also greatly affected by your letter: the times are full of danger and distress, and such times as we could never have expected. This horrid civil war astonishes all Europe, and will be both the wonder and execration of future ages. The Americans, however, will be fully acquitted by all impartial historians, for it must always be confessed that their moderation has been beyond all example for men that were previously determined not to be enslaved. But what will be said of our King, our Ministry, and our Parliament? Can there be found ink black enough to record their crimes? for surely no crimes can be of a deeper dye than premeditated murder; and such it most certainly is, in all the abettors of the Ministerial mandates; wherefore, as St. Paul says, "may the Lord reward them according to their works."

I congratulate you most sincerely on the success that has hitherto attended the Provincials, a success the more elating to me, as it was in some degree unexpected; for though I doubted not the justice of your cause, nor had the least suspicion of your courage as individuals, yet something more goes to the gaining of a battle in the open field; and I must confess I did fear that the first onset of the Regulars would have made such an impression that your Troops must have given way; I am sincerely glad it has proved otherwise, and I prophesy that the brave Provincials will give additional proofs both of courage and discipline in every future engagement.

But after all I am rather hurt by this delay, and was in hopes before now to have heard that they were in possession of Boston. What is the occasion of their procrastination? Do the Americans think it unfair to attack the few Troops that are there, and wish for a more equal combat? or do they wait the event of the Petition from the Congress? Believe me when I assure you, that if some capital stroke is not struck during the present campaign, your cause will suffer greatly, as you may rest assured that no accommodation is intended from hence, however you may be amused with pretensions of that sort, but, on the contrary, when matters are a little riper for it, all the powers of hell are to be let loose upon you; and if you find it difficult to dislodge six thousand men from their holds, how will you repulse twenty thousand? For so many will certainly come, and some of them very shortly.

On our part we can do nothing but rail at the Government, without taking one step towards righting ourselves, or assisting you. Oppressed as we are by the Tory Ministry, who are supported by a venal Parliament, and nearly equally divided without doors, what remains for us, but to curse our own luxury and effeminacy, and to look back with astonishment at the *Pym*s and Hampdens of former times—characters which we have not virtue to imitate.

It is with pleasure I hear that you are so forward in your works of saltpetre and gunpowder. You offer noble premiums of encouragement, and they must be continued, as no price should be spared for so essential an article.

I am informed that a blustering Proclamation is coming out, declaring the Americans to be in a state of rebellion. Names cannot alter the nature of things, and I apprehend that wise men will pay very little regard to the peremptory orders of a despotick Ministry, when unsupported by the Constitution.

I write to many of my friends by this conveyance; some of them may possibly have sealed your glorious cause with their blood before this reaches you. Peace and glory to their respected shades! As for myself, though I am no soldier, be assured in all confidence that I shall not cease to wish well to American liberty, nor fail to give more signal proofs of my attachment to the support of it, than mere wishes, when a suitable occasion presents itself.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM WM. H. DRAYTON AND WM. TENNENT TO COUNCIL OF SAFETY FOR SOUTH-CAROLINA, DATED AT FORD'S, ON THE ENOREE, AUGUST 24, 1775.

The most perfect good order prevailed with the people, who heard us with much attention. But Kirkland treated the Congress, the Committee, the Council, and ourselves, with the highest insolence. Nay, he was on the point of assaulting Mr. Drayton; and in all probability would have done it, which would have brought on bloodshed,* but that the pressure of the people about Mr. Drayton gave him to understand that an attack made by him would be premature. Imagine every indecency of language, every misrepresentation, every ungenerous and unjust charge against the American politicks that could alarm the people, and give them an evil impression of our designs against their liberties and the rights of Great Britain; imagine all you can on these points, and you will not exceed what we heard, as well from Kirkland as from Brown. Our indignation was painful, for we were obliged to conceal it; and our situation was as disagreeable as you can well conceive. Brown loudly declared, that when the King's Troops arrived, he would join them against us; and he hoped every other person in these parts would do the same.

We have the pleasure, however, to inform you, that the address from the people of England to the people of America appears to have lost its credit. Brown read it; but he had but few hearers: we did not think it worth our while to attend to it, or say one word in answer to it.

We waited so long for the assembling of the people, and the discourses and pamphlet took up so much time, that no election could be held. This day fortnight is appointed for the holding of it.

Kirkland and the Cunninghams appeared here with arms, sword and pistol. Their intention did not appear good, and the very small audience clearly manifests that the sentiments of the party continue inimical. However, we have acquired several of Fletchall's Captains.

There was a subscription of the Association—about seventy names—but most of these persons had already signed, and now again signed in order to give a good example. We shall be at Ninety-Six Court-House on Sunday; and from thence we shall shape our course to Amelia.

* On this progress, Mr. Drayton always had about his person a dirk and a pair of pocket pistols, for the defence of his life, and for protecting himself from insult.

ZEBULON BUTLER TO ELLIS HUGHES.

Westmoreland, August 24, 1775.

FRIEND HUGHES: It is reported that you and the people near Fishing Creek refuse to allow any of our people to settle on the vacant lands in your neighbourhood under the Connecticut claim. You must know that we are fully determined peaceably to settle the vacant lands in the Susquehannah Purchase, under this Colony. Any interruption on your part will be properly resented. It is far from our wish or desire to molest any of your settlers during the continuation of their respective leases, provided they are peaceable and quiet subjects; and we expect that our settlers will be so treated by you and your people. The laws and ordinances of this Colony must be duly observed by our settlers; neither may you molest or disturb them therein; neither may you touch their persons or their properties, as you will answer your conduct to the laws of this Colony and the executive courts therein. We wish peace and a good understanding between us and you; but you must not expect we will give up our right or relinquish our claim, or by any means stop our settlements to make room for you and your people to fill up the vacant lands upon our purchase.

Therefore, relying upon your honourable observance of the premises, beg leave to subscribe myself, your old friend,

ZEBULON BUTLER.

Ellis Hughes, Esq.

To be communicated to your settlers.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM NEW-YORK TO A GENTLEMAN IN PHILADELPHIA, DATED AUGUST 24, 1775.

Yesterday our Congress directed that the cannon on the Battery should be removed, and last night it was put in execution. The man-of-war's folks had got intelligence of it, and sent her barge to watch. Our people had removed nine or eleven (it is uncertain which) of the cannon without molestation; then a man in the stern of the barge made a false fire. This happened about half-past twelve last night. The barge's people then fired ball; upon which ours, who had got together, were ordered to fire; which they did, and continued it till the barge got out of their reach. From the cries and shrieks of the people on board the barge, it is thought some of them are much wounded. While the small-arms were firing, the man-of-war began; she fired first a single ball, then a ball and grape shot; afterwards several guns, (I don't know what they were loaded with,) and then a broadside. We had more guns and another broadside before all was over; however, our people effected their purpose, and got away all the cannon that we mounted, I believe about twenty in number. As we had nothing but small-arms we could do no damage to the man-of-war, and she did very little to us. A house next to Roger Morris's and Samuel Francis's, at the corner of the Exchange, each had an eighteen-pound ball shot into their roofs; some other houses suffered a little, but the principal damage was sustained by some small buildings adjoining the Battery. No lives were lost, and but very few of our people wounded, that I can learn of, and those but slightly. It was very distressing to see women and children moving half naked at midnight.

EXTRACT OF ANOTHER LETTER FROM NEW-YORK, DATED AUGUST 24, 1775.

We were suddenly alarmed this morning about half-past twelve o'clock, by the Asia, man-of-war, cannonading our Town, both with grape-shot and ball; which continued until three o'clock, with short intervals, without doing much damage, except firing into some houses near the fort, and wounding three or four of our men. I learn it happened in the following manner: A party of our Light-Infantry and citizens, about sixty, were busy in removing the cannon from the Battery, when they were discovered by the people on board, who sent their boat on shore armed. When they came within twenty or thirty yards of the shore they made a signal to the man-of-war, who immediately fired upon our people, which was answered by a volley from the barge, without doing execution, as our men were all under cover of the Battery. They returned the fire immediately upon the barge, and it is supposed must have killed a good many of them, as they heard a great crying among them, and they directly put off to the ship. Our militia behaved with a good deal of spirit, and turned out extraordinarily well. What will be the consequence of this unhappy affair God only knows.

My dear friend, the scene is now opened here; we know what we have to depend upon. Every friend to his Country ought not to hesitate a moment what step to take. I just learn Captain Vandeput was not on board this last night, and that they have sent a party of the Light-Horse to take him and our Governour into custody, who are at Long-Island. I am very much fatigued, having been on guard these two last nights.

New-York, August 28, 1775.

The Provincial Congress having resolved that the cannon should be removed from the Battery, a number of citizens collected for that purpose last Wednesday evening; and part of the Provincial Artillery, under the command of Captain John Lamb, were posted on the Battery, to prevent the landing of any party from the Asia, man-of-war, to annoy them while at work. When they marched down, which was about eleven o'clock, they observed one of the above ship's barges lying at some distance from the shore, where she continued upwards of an hour; then she got under sail, and fired a musket at the men that were posted on the Battery. This was immediately returned by a smart fire of musketry from the Artillery, and a few of the Independent Light-Infantry, belonging to Colonel Lasher's Battalion, that were likewise posted there for the above purpose. Soon after this the Asia fired three cannon, when our drums beat to arms, which alarmed the inhabitants; when they had assembled she began a heavy and smart fire of nine, eighteen and twenty-four-pounders, and some grape-shot, succeeded by a discharge of musketry from the Marines, but without doing any other mischief than damaging the upper part of several houses near the fort and White Hall, and wounding three men. Notwithstanding the fire from the Asia, the citizens effected their purpose, and carried off twenty-one pieces of cannon, being all that were mounted on carriages. Since this disturbance the women and children have been continually moving out of town, with their most valuable effects.

In consequence of the above procedure, his Worship the Mayor received the four following Letters from Captain Vandeput, which were answered:

"Asia, August 24, 1775.

"After the event of last night, I think it necessary to inform you, that having information that it was intended by some people in New-York to take away the guns from the Battery, which, as stores belonging to the King, it was my duty to protect, I sent a boat to lie near the shore to watch their motions. Soon after twelve they began to move the guns from the Battery, which being observed by the officer in the boat, he left his station to come on board to inform me thereof; but being perceived from the shore, he was fired upon by a great many musketry, by which one of the men in the boat was shot dead. My duty called upon me to repel an attack of this sort, as well as to defend the guns, which occasioned me to fire upon the Battery. I acquaint you with this that the people of the Town may not imagine it is my intention to do them any hurt, which I wish as much as possible to avoid; but if they will persist in behaving in such a manner as to make their safety and my duty incompatible, the mischiefs that may arise must lie at their doors, and not mine. An answer is desired. I am, &c.,

G. VANDEPUT.

"To the Mayor and Magistrates of New-York."

"Asia, August 24, 1775.

"GENTLEMEN: Whereas a boat belonging to His Majesty's Ship Asia, under my command, was, between twelve and one o'clock this morning, fired upon by a number of people from the walls of the City, by which firing one man in the said boat was shot dead; and whereas His Majesty's cannon, mounted upon the walls, were about that time and afterwards, taken off from thence, the perpetrators of which are guilty of the crimes expressed in the statutes for such offences; this is to require, at the hands of the Magistrates, due satisfaction for these high misde-meanours, as I must otherwise look upon these acts, not as acts of rioters, but as done by the whole community. I wrote a letter to you this morning, to which I have not received an answer. I must, therefore, inform you, that if you do not think proper to send some answer to this, as soon as may be reasonably expected, I shall look upon your silence as a negative to my requisition, and shall take such measures as may seem necessary to me accordingly.

"I am, &c.,

G. VANDEPUT.

"To the Mayor and principal Magistrates."

"Asia, North-River, August 25, 1775.

"SIR: I received a letter from you last night, in which you said that you would this morning send me an explicit answer to my former letters. As you certainly have had sufficient time to make every necessary inquiry, I am to desire you will send me your answer upon the receipt of this.

"I am, Sir, your very humble servant,

G. VANDEPUT.

"To W. Hicks, Esq."

"Asia, North-River, August 25, 1775.

"SIR: I have just now received yours; in return to which I am to acquaint you that the musket fired from our boat was fired as a signal towards the ship, and not at the Battery, as the people in the boat will likewise make their affidavits of. You say you are at a loss to account how my duty could oblige me to fire upon the city, in defence of those guns, in the seat of civil government; and you add, that you can neither account for my inducement, half an hour after the return of the boats and the removal of the cannon, for firing a broadside at the Town at large. You surely cannot doubt its being my duty to defend every part of the King's stores, wherever they may be: for this purpose I fired upon the Battery, as the only means to prevent the intentions of the people employed in removing the guns. For a considerable time I thought they had desisted from their purpose, till their huzzaing and their firing from the walls upon the ship convinced me to the contrary; this occasioned the broadside to be fired, not at the city at large, but as the most effectual method to prevent their persisting in their pursuit, which it were impossible I could tell they had effected. I have no more to add, but that I shall persist in doing what I know to be my duty; in the doing which I shall, if possible, avoid doing hurt to any one.

"I am, Sir, your humble servant,

G. VANDEPUT.

"To W. Hicks, Esq."

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM NEW-YORK TO A GENTLEMAN
IN PHILADELPHIA, DATED AUGUST 28, 1775.

Thursday night we expected a repetition of Wednesday night's scene: women, children and goods were removed; all quiet at night. Friday, more expectations, and more removals; the Governour returned from the country, and went in person and took in writing a particular account of the damage done; our Congress offered him a guard, but he said he had such confidence in the affections of his fellow-citizens, that he thought any further security unnecessary, and declined the offer. He called the Council that afternoon. Saturday, people continued to move; the Governour desired a conference with our Congress, Committee and military officers; it was granted. He made a speech to them, told them it made his heart bleed to meet so many people on the road moving from the city with their effects; that they had all the power of the city in their hands, begged they would use it prudently; that violent measures would only widen the breach, and cause the destruction of the city; we had got the cannon in our own power, and desired we would move them no further; that if troops should come from Boston, we would hear of it time enough to move them, but declared upon his honour he knew of none coming, &c. &c.

Notwithstanding the cannonading, we got off twenty-one good eighteen pounders, with carriages, empty cartridges, rammers, sponges, &c. &c. The Captain of the man-of-war behaved like a rascal in attacking the Town in the dead of the night, when it was unprepared for defence; however, the people collected on the Battery, and behaved well; we killed, according to Vandeput's own account, one of his men in the barge; he killed none of ours—only wounded three, one lost the calf of his leg, the other two were slightly wounded, notwithstanding grape-shot, swivel-shot, eighteen and twenty-four pounders were fired. I am told people are moving their goods this morning.

I am, with respect, Sir, your most obedient servant,

EDMUND FANNING.

To the different Committees in the County of DUTCHESS:

GENTLEMEN: Please to deliver to Dr. Samuel Cook, or Lieutenant John Langdon, or any of them, what arms you may collect for the use of Captain Dubois and Captain Billings's Companies in my Regiment, agreeable to a resolve of the Provincial Congress of New-York, dated August 8th, 1775, and take their receipts for the same, and you will oblige, Gentlemen, your humble servant,

GENERAL WOOSTER TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Oyster-Ponds, August 24, 1775.

SIR: I have sent Mr. Shaw two hundred pounds of powder according to order. The Committee of Suffolk County have desired me to remain here for a few days, till they can hear from their Provincial Congress, to whom they have sent an express, with their desire that the three Companies raised upon this part of the island, who have received orders to march to Ticonderoga, may remain upon this station. As we know not what use we may have for powder, and as I before informed your Honour, I lent two hundred pounds of my own stock to the Provincial Congress, I think it unsafe under our present situation to return the whole. I expect by next Monday to sail for New-York. Your Honour well knows the suspicious light in which the New-York Congress are viewed by the rest of the Continent; I must therefore beg of your Honour to alter that part of your orders to me, in which you subject me to the direction of that body of men. I have no faith in their honesty in the cause. I must, therefore, think it not only a disgrace to me, but a dishonour to my employers, that I am subjected to them. You know not, Sir, half their tricks. Your Honour will be good enough to direct to me at New-Haven, where I expect to stop a day or two, and if I am not there to be forwarded to Harlem.

I am, with great truth, your Honour's most obedient, humble servant,

DAVID WOOSTER.

To the Hon. Jonathan Trumbull, Esq.

COLONEL JOSEPH REED TO PENNSYLVANIA COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Camp at Cambridge, August 24, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Several letters from Philadelphia having mentioned the capture of Major French and some other gentlemen, and that you proposed to send them forward to this camp, General Washington has directed me to request that you would order them to Hartford, or some other inland Town, as their coming hither would be attended with many inconveniences.

If there have been any late arrivals of powder, it is of the utmost importance to forward, as soon as possible, all that can be spared from the necessary defence of the Province. It is not within the limits or propriety of a letter to enumerate our difficulties in the article of ammunition. The late supply was very seasonable, but far short of our necessities.

It is also the General's opinion that the clothing lately intercepted should be secured, or forwarded hither as soon as possible. The Army is in a very destitute situation in this respect, and such a supply would greatly relieve it.

I have the honour to be, Gentlemen, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOS. REED.

To the Honourable Committee of Safety, Philadelphia.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY TO GENERAL SULLIVAN.

In Committee of Safety, August 24, 1775.

SIR: We have sent down a man to endeavour to gain a little further acquaintance with the best method of constructing carriages for cannon. We should be glad, Sir, if you would be kind enough to introduce him to those persons and things that will forward him in his business, and to whatever you may judge may help an ingenious man to be useful to us. We hope he may have a full opportunity of viewing whatever will conduce to this purpose.

By some late intelligence we have great reasons to fear that Portsmouth is in danger. We beg to know whether some powder cannot be spared; if possible, let us know whether we cannot have fifty or one hundred barrels. If we can have powder, Sir, we mean immediately to erect some fortifications to defend the harbour.

The powder sent to the Army on our frontiers is distributed among the people, and, perhaps, by some ill management, has reduced our stores to about eight or ten barrels at most, so that any quantity that can be spared us will be acceptable, though much less than the above quantity; though we could wish that, as we intend immediately to erect a considerable fortification to guard our harbour.

CONNECTICUT COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Wednesday, August 2, 1775.

At a meeting of the Governour and Committee or Council of Safety, this day, present the same Members as at the last.

Sundry Letters, received by his Honour since the last meeting, were communicated.

The Committee appointed at the last meeting about the Armed Vessels, &c., having performed the journey, &c., business to which they were directed and instructed, made a full verbal report of their journey, viewing, conversation, and doings concerning Armed Vessels, &c. &c., what they have viewed, the terms on which they may be had, the opinion of gentlemen in various Towns who are concerned in navigation, about the measure of fitting out any, &c.; from which it appears sundry Vessels may be had on reasonable terms, but none can be found perfectly accommodated for War Vessels, &c. That the people are differently minded about the measure, many thinking that it is impossible for us to compare by sea with the British ships, &c.; it will but provoke insult and expose our sea-coasts and vessels inward bound to greater danger, &c. Others that it will be of advantage, and a protection, &c.

The subject being largely discoursed, and it being a measure resolved by the General Assembly, &c., doubt whether they have a right to suspend it, even though they should think it best, &c.

And on the question, do agree and conclude to take up and improve for the purpose a certain Brig belonging to Captain William Griswold of Wethersfield, of about one hundred and eight tons, and that she be fixed as, and for an Armed Vessel, according to the resolve of the Assembly.

And also to charter and improve some one Vessel of small burden and a fast sailer, about twenty, twenty-five or thirty tons, and to fix her with such warlike furniture as may be proper, to be improved, chiefly as a Spy Vessel, to run and cruise from place to place, to discover the enemy, and carry intelligence, &c. And do appoint Captain Samuel Niles, of Norwich, to be Captain of said small Vessel.

And this Council do appoint Benjamin Huntington, Esq., and Captain John Deshon a Committee to find and to fit out and furnish such small Vessel with all necessities for that purpose.

Adjourned till to-morrow morning, nine o'clock.

Thursday, August 3, 1775.

The Governour and Committee met according to adjournment.

His Honour laid before the Council a Letter he had prepared to General Schuyler, at Ticonderoga, moving him to allow and direct Mr. Ichabod Fitch, or some other person, to collect and send down a number of Gun-barrels and disordered Guns, &c., which, on representation of said Fitch, are lying useless there, and at Crown Point, in order to their being repaired and made fit for use, and that the value of them shall be accounted for. Which Letter is approved, and was sent by said Fitch.

After further consultation about the Armed Vessels, &c., the following Bill and Resolve was prepared and passed, viz:

Whereas the General Assembly of this Colony, at their session in July last, resolved that two Armed Vessels, of suitable burden, be immediately fitted out and armed with a proper number of cannon, swivel-guns and small-arms, and furnished with necessary warlike stores, and well officered and manned for the defence of the sea-coasts in this Colony, under the care and direction of his Honour the Governour and Committee of Council appointed to assist him in the recess of the General Assembly, who are hereby authorized and directed to procure, furnish and employ the same accordingly:

In pursuance of said resolve and direction, the Governour and Committee aforesaid, having taken all proper steps and care to find how and in what manner the said resolve may be most properly carried into execution, are of opinion, that a certain Brig, called the Minerva, belonging to Captain William Griswold, and now lying in Connecticut River, at Rocky Hill, is one proper vessel to be employed for the service aforesaid; and do therefore agree and resolve to take up and employ said Brig in the service of this Colony as aforesaid, during such term as said Assembly or this Committee shall find needful to employ her in said service. And do hereby appoint Titus Hosmer and Ezekiel Williams, Esqs., and Captain Giles Hall a Committee to take up and retain said Brig in the service aforesaid; to finish the contract for the hire or charter of said Brig, and execute proper writings; to cause the same to be justly appraised, with all her furniture and tackle proper to be retained and used as an armed vessel, and make a proper inventory thereof. And the said Committee are further directed and empowered to furnish, procure and provide all necessary additional sails, rigging and furniture, and also all proper and necessary ship stores and provisions; and furnish from the Colony stores, as far as may be necessary, cannon, swivels, small-arms, pistols, shot, powder, &c., taking further needful directions from time to time from his Honour the Governour and said Committee. And the Committee of the Pay-Table are hereby directed to draw on the Treasurer of this Colony in favour of said Committee for such sums of money as they shall find necessary to enable them to accomplish the service aforesaid, and they to render their accounts of their disposition and disbursements thereof to the General Assembly, or to the Governour and said Committee, at the same time, &c.

The Governour and Council having concluded to take up and employ the Brig Minerva, belonging to Captain Griswold, for an Armed Vessel, &c., according to Act of Assembly, &c., do appoint Captain Giles Hall to be Captain and commander of said Brig, and he to be allowed £7 per month; Thomas Horsey, of Derby, to be First Lieutenant, his wages £5 per month; James Hopkins, Second Lieutenant, £4; Master, £4; Mate, £3; Gunner, £3; Gunner's Mate, £2 8s.; Boatswain, £3; Boatswain's Mate, £2 8s., each; Timothy Larabee to be Steward, wages £3; Sylvanus Backus to be Cook, wages £3. To be one Carpenter at 60s. per month, and one Pilot. And that the said Vessel be manned with forty seamen and forty soldiers or marines, exclusive of officers; to have and be allowed, viz: the Seamen £2 5s. per month, and the Marines not exceeding £2 per month. And Captain Hall is hereby instructed and directed forthwith to raise said forty seamen, and forty marines or soldiers, by voluntary enlistments, and to encourage and engage forty-five Shillings per month to the seamen, and not exceeding forty Shillings per month to the soldiers or marines, during their continuance in said service, and to have one month's pay advanced before they enter into and proceed on any cruise in said service. And said Captain Giles Hall is hereby appointed Paymaster of said seamen and marines, or vessel's crew, and is authorized to draw money out of the Colony Treasury for that purpose, in manner as the Land Officers are enabled to do, giving sufficient bond with surety as by law provided for the Paymasters of the Troops in the land service. And his Honour the Governour is hereby desired to give proper commissions and warrants to the necessary officers on board said vessel.

At the same time passed the following Instructions to Titus Hosmer, Esq., Ezekiel Williams, Esq. and Captain Giles Hall, a Committee, &c.:

GENTLEMEN: The Governour and Committee of Safety, by a Sub-Committee, have agreed with Captain Griswold, owner of the Brig Minerva, to charter said Brig for the use of the Colony, as an armed vessel, at the rate of four shillings per month L. M. per ton, with condition, that if we should charter any other vessel at the same rate, for which we must furnish more sails or rigging than will be necessary for his, the interest of the expense of furnishing the other with sails, &c., more than will be requisite for said Brig, is to be allowed to said Griswold, in addition to said four Shillings. That said Brig be appraised by indifferent good judges, with all the requisite tackle and furniture, at our receiving her, and an inventory thereof be taken; and that whatever betterments shall be made to or on said Brig by the Colony shall be received by the owner on her return, if we choose it, and an allowance be made by him for the full value of such betterments, so far as the vessel is rendered more valuable or useful to him; and if any special damage is done to said Brig, beyond the necessary decay and wear by time, the same to be allowed the owner in addition to the charter party. The Colony to risk the vessel.

Said Committee to observe the above agreement.

And said Committee are further instructed to employ said Captain Griswold to do any service in and about the necessary additional rigging and furnishing said Brig, which can be properly done by him, at a reasonable price beyond what may be best done by Captain Hall and his men.

Said Committee are further instructed and desired to inquire and look out and recommend to us proper persons for the following officers, viz: Master and Mate, Gunner and Gunner's Mate, Boatswain and Boatswain's Mate, and Carpenter.

Copy of the three foregoing given, &c.

The Committee of New-London, &c., having requested that some Soldiers may be stationed there, on the Men-of-War appearing off there, &c.,

It is Voted and Ordered, That two Companies, viz: Major Lattimer's and Captain Shipman's, be stationed there for the present, for their defence, &c.; and the Governour desired to give orders accordingly.

Also, Voted and Ordered, That four of the six-pound Cannon with the Carriages now at New-London, be delivered to Colonel Jabez Huntington, or order, of Norwich, for their defence, &c.

Order given accordingly.

Adjourned to Monday next at 9 o'clock in the morning.

Monday, August 7, 1775.

At a meeting of the Governour and Council of Safety: Present:

His Honour the Governour, Jabez Huntington, Samuel Huntington, William Williams, Nathaniel Wales, Jedediah Elderkin, Joshua West, and Benjamin Huntington, Esquires.

A number of Letters received by the Governour, and answers, read, &c.

Mr. Huntington, one of the Committee appointed at the last meeting, reported, that they had not yet found a very proper and suitable small Vessel to be fitted out as a Runner and Cutter, &c. After much discourse about the matter of arming the same, &c., he, with the other Committee, directed to make further inquiry, &c., and report.

Captain Niles, appointed at the last meeting to be Captain of said small Vessel, was present, and accepted to take the command of her, &c.

The news of three or four Men-of-War and eight or ten other Ships appearing off New-London, yesterday morning, being brought by express the same day, we are now further informed by Col. Huntington, &c., that they are bearing to Fisher's Island, supposed with a design to take the stock, &c.

This Committee having reason to apprehend hostile attacks on our sea-coasts, from said Ships, and others which will probably be sent to distress us, &c., it is by the Governour and this Council judged of much importance for all, especially those at and near the sea-coasts, to be in the best posture of defence; and this Council do therefore advise and desire his Honour the Governour to direct and order the Colonels or chief officers of the 3d, 8th, 20th, 7th, and 2d Regiments of Militia, forthwith to draw off and enrol one-fourth part of their respective Regiments, and see that the same be completely equipped with fire-arms, powder and ball, formed into cartridges, suitable for their pieces, and every necessary implement. The powder and ball, if need be, to be supplied out of the several Town stocks; each man's cartridges to be numbered and marked, and deposited with the Captain or other commissioned officers of the respective Companies, ready to be delivered on any emergency. And said fourth part to hold themselves in readiness as Minute-Men, to march at the shortest notice, to any place attacked or in danger of being attacked, by sea or land, and the same to succour and defend, &c. And the Field-Officers, with the advice of the Captains within said Regiments, be further directed and empowered to nominate and appoint suitable Officers to lead, conduct and order them in their march and operations.

Having at the last meeting ordered Major Lattimer's and Captain Shipman's Companies, of Col. Webb's Regiment, to New-London, &c., &c., do now order one other Captain with his Company, of said Col. Webb's Regiment, at his discretion, to march and be stationed at New-Haven, for its defence for the present. And do further order, that two suitable Cannon at New-Haven be properly fixed and mounted for Field-Pieces, if not already done by them. That Ship-carriages be prepared for four other Cannon of those marked by Messrs. Williams and Wales, lately there. And do appoint Messrs. Jonathan Fitch, Wm. Greenough and David Austin a Committee to procure and cause the same to be done with all convenient speed, and that they be instructed to improve Mr. James Rice in any thing he is willing to undertake about them.

Mr. John Skinner, express from Hartford, brought the Governour a Letter from General Washington, requesting all the Tow-Cloth which can be had to make Shirts or Short Coats, for an uniform dress for the Army, &c., and sent a sample made up, with a Cape, Ruffles, &c.

Letters were wrote and despatched to all the Commissaries in the Colony, to purchase all the Tow-Cloth they can procure.

Letter to Col. Webb, directing him to order one of his Captains and Company to New-Haven.

Also Letters to the Colonels of the five Regiments out of which the fourth part for Minute-Men is to be drawn, &c., informing and directing them about it.

Also Letter to Messrs. Fitch, Greenough, and Austin, informing them what is ordered about Minute-Men, and the Company ordered there; and appointing them a Committee to prepare the Carriages for the Field-Pieces, and other carriages as aforesaid.

Also a Letter to Colonel Hamlin, requesting him to inform what progress he has made in collecting and sending Saltpetre and Sulphur to New-York, to be wrought into Gunpowder.

Also wrote a Letter to Colonel Williams, &c., Committee of Wethersfield, in answer to one received, waiting orders to march to New-London, &c.

Most of the above despatched by said Skinner. And being night, the Council is dismissed.

Monday, August 14, 1775.

At a meeting of the Governour and Council of Safety, this day: Present:

His Honour the Governour, Eliphalet Dyer, Jabez Huntington, Wm. Williams, Nathaniel Wales, Jedediah Elderkin, Joshua West, and Benjamin Huntington, Esqrs.

Many Letters from sundry persons exhibited, &c.

Application was made by Captain Francis Shaw, of Goldsborough, by order of his Town, for leave to purchase in this Colony (the embargo notwithstanding) about fifteen hundred bushels of Corn and Rye and about fifty barrels Pork, for the necessary use of the people; and is, on consideration, granted, and the Governour desired to give a permit. Which he did accordingly.

Application also made by Mr. Rensselaer, by order of Walter Livingston, a Commissary for the York Department, for liberty to purchase in the Western parts of this Colony four hundred and fifty barrels Pork, for the use of the Troops at Ticonderoga, as it cannot be had at New-York, &c. On consideration thereof, and of the great importance of those Troops being well and seasonably supplied, the motion is agreed to, and the Governour desired to give permission to purchase the same in the Counties of Fairfield and Litchfield, so as not to violate the doings of the first said County, in withdrawing connections from some, &c.

A permit accordingly was given.

On a Letter from Colonel Saltonstall, informing that the Committees of Inspection in New-London County, &c., are to meet this 14th instant, to consider what is proper to be done respecting Stock on the Islands not taken off, &c., and praying advice, &c., a Letter in answer, by order, was wrote, declining any particular directions, and especially with regard to any out of the Colony limits, &c., and referring it as most properly belonging to the Committee of Inspection; and signifying our private opinion that great care should be taken to prevent Provisions falling into the hands of our enemies, and also of the danger of other effects near the water, &c.

Mr. Huntington, of the Committee appointed for that purpose, respecting a small Armed Vessel, &c., reported: That having taken pains, they are not able to find any suitable for the purpose, except one belonging to one Hancox, &c., of Stonington, but not to be chartered, but may be bought at two hundred Pounds, as the lowest sum,

&c. Her sails and rigging not fit for service. And the question, whether she shall be purchased, was largely considered. And as the General Assembly have ordered Vessels to be fitted out, &c., the Council supposed themselves obliged to obey the order, &c.; and there seems no other way. And they judged the Vessel so cheap that, when needless, she may probably be sold without loss, and the hire saved, &c. Are of opinion that said Vessel or Schooner, called the Britannia, be purchased for the Colony; and Benjamin Huntington, Esq., Captain John Deshon, and Captain Robert Niles, are appointed a Committee to make said purchase, at not exceeding two hundred Pounds, &c., and also to take care of and cause her to be rigged and fitted out with every necessary for said purpose, as soon as may be.

And this Council do appoint Robert Niles, of Norwich, to be Captain and Commander of her. And said Committee are desired to look out and recommend proper persons for the other officers on board her, and report make to the next meeting.

Voted, That Captain Deshon be directed forthwith to put the Cannon, Small-Arms, Pistols, and every warlike implement now at New-London, suitable and proper for armed vessels, into proper order and condition for immediate use; and on receiving advice from Captain Hall, of the larger armed vessel fitting at Middletown, shall be at or near Saybrook, ready to receive them, to send them to him there, and deliver them on board his brig. But if it shall appear there is not a sufficient quantity for both vessels, that they be properly proportioned between them.

Then the Council was dismissed, and adjourned till Thursday next, nine o'clock, A. M.

Thursday, August 17, 1775.

At a meeting of the Governour, &c., this day, present the same Members as at the last.

Many Letters, &c., laid in and considered; and directed and prepared a Letter to Captain Jeremiah Wadsworth, Commissary, &c., in answer to one from him for advice, &c., directing him to risk the Pork he buys at the westward by water, if necessary, and it cannot be done by the sellers; and that the Colony will indemnify him in prudent conduct about it; and that he may release about two hundred barrels he had bought of — McLane, of Danbury, in favor of Mr. Rensselaer, who had a permit at the last meeting to buy four hundred and fifty barrels in this Colony, for the use of General Schuyler's Army at the northward.

A Permit having been granted to P. Rensselaer at the last meeting to purchase Pork, &c., and he having proposed to convey it by water to New-York, &c., and it being thought and considered as in great danger of falling into the hands of our enemies, if water-borne, &c., it was proposed and voted, that the Governour be desired to give and send positive orders to said Rensselaer not to ship any Pork purchased in this Colony to New-York, but transport the same by land to the North River, to be thence shipped to Albany, &c. That is an explanatory permission to purchase said Pork on that condition; and the same done, and both instantly despatched, &c., by Mr. Skinner.

General Washington having wrote the Governour, by Letter received yesterday, that he has ordered General Schuyler to send down a quantity of Lead Ball found at Ticonderoga, Crown Point, &c., and directed it to be under the conduct of said Governour Trumbull, &c., it is, on consideration, advised, that the Governour write General Schuyler to send the same to the care of Commissary Phelps, at Albany; and that said Phelps be advised of it, and directed to forward the same by the best and most expeditious way to General Washington.

Voted and Resolved, That orders be sent to Major Lattimer, commander of the Troops now at New-London, to see that regular Watchers and Guards are kept about his Camp; that his Soldiers are properly exercised, instructed and disciplined; and kept clean, out of idleness and bad practices. And orders drawn and sent accordingly.

Voted and Resolved, That orders be sent to Captain Lyon, who, with his Company, are now at Norwich, to remain there till further orders, near the Landing, and to assist the people there by one-third of his Company, at a time alternately, at his discretion, in building a Redoubt at Waterman's Point, and such other works as shall be judged proper by a Committee, &c.; to direct the same, and allow them Spirits when in said service, as ordered by the Assembly for men on fatigue, and requiring the men to yield obedience, &c.; and that the Captain see that proper Watchers and Guards be kept, and proper exercises be kept up; and that he use his efforts to keep up good order, virtue, morality, &c.

On consideration of the scarcity of Pork and other Provisions, and the vast consumption of it by the Army, it is thought necessary, and for the safety of the Colony, that the Embargo laid and continued by the Assembly to the 20th instant, should be revived and further continued; and the Governour is advised and desired to issue his Proclamation to-day, and continue the same to the 20th October next. Which was done accordingly, and sent to the Printer; he directed to send to each Town Clerk and Naval Officer in the Colony.

Voted and Granted, An Order to pay for eighteen Blankets, sent per Lebanon, and request, &c., to supply part of the loss at Bunker's Hill; and nine Guns for the same place, for the same purpose, both to amount to £28 6s., being duly appraised, &c.; and ditto to pay Samuel Hunt for carrying the same, £3 8s. 9d. And ditto to pay David Trumbull going express three times to the Army, and sundries allowed, £8 19s. And ditto to pay John Alden, for going express to Killingsby, to recall Troops on their march to Cambridge, by advice from General Washington, £1 8s. Also to pay Simeon Gray, for a Horse bought for Indian Cognahue to ride, with Belt and Speech, &c., to the Oneida Indians, &c., £5.

And then, on motion heretofore, by and in behalf of New-Haven, that they may be allowed to provide Carriages for four six-pound Cannon, instead of four-pounders, as those allowed at a meeting, seventh instant, marked by Messrs. Williams and Wales, were of that size; and that they may also prepare Carriages for five Field-Cannon, instead of two, as then allowed, &c. On consideration of said motions, and the reasons thereof, this Council are of opinion, that the first motion is reasonable, and do allow and approve thereof; and as to the other, respecting five instead of two Field-Pieces, are of opinion, that two may be sufficient for the present, and that they may not properly allow more, without the approbation of the Assembly.

Copy also drawn for the Governour to forward, &c.

Voted, That an Order be drawn on the Pay-Table Committee for two hundred Pounds, in favour of Benjamin Huntington, Esquire, to Captain John Deshon, to pay the purchase of the Schooner Britannia, for the use of the Colony, as an armed and intelligence vessel, which this Council had judged most for the benefit of the Colony to purchase at that price, and appointed said Committee to purchase of Edward Hancox, Jonathan Denison, 5th, &c., of Stonington, and which they have done accordingly. And Orders drawn accordingly by me, as Clerk, the next day.

And the Council and Meeting was adjourned without day.

Monday, August 21, 1775.

At a meeting of the Governour and Council this day: Present:

His Honour the Governour, Eliphalet Dyer, Jabez Huntington, William Williams, Nathaniel Wales, Jedediah Elderkin, Joshua West and Benjamin Huntington, Esqs.

Sundry Letters just received from General Schuyler, Colonel Hinman, &c., were laid before us, by which it appears there is great danger of delays from New-York, &c., relating to the Northern Expedition, &c. A Letter from Major Brown, who has been in Canada, giving a favourable account of the disposition of the Country, &c., and many others considered, &c. And a Letter advised and prepared to General Washington, on sundry matters, and copies of the above-mentioned Letters enclosed and approved, and sent by Colonel Dyer and Colonel Elderkin, who were going down, &c.

The Governour also showed us a secret Letter, written by one Brook Watson to President Livingston, &c., (a very ill one,) which had been intercepted, &c., and recovered.

On application of Mr. Hazard, of Edgartown, and proper Credentials, &c., a Permit is granted to him to buy and carry from this Colony about one hundred Pounds value of Rye and Indian Corn, for the necessary use of the Town.

A Letter was prepared and approved to President Livingston, of New-York Congress, expressing our concern at their not having provided and sent the Tents they had engaged for Colonel Hinman's Regiment, and urging the danger of delays, &c., and informing of a Permit before granted Mr. Rensselaer to purchase four hundred and fifty barrels Pork in this Colony, for General Schuyler's Army, and the orders to send it by land to the North River, &c.

Letters also prepared and despatched to Hartford, to go by Bennet, who is at Hartford, and sent forward the above Letter to General Schuyler, Colonel Hinman, and Major Brown.

Letter also prepared and sent to Commissary Phelps, directing him to take care of and forward by the best ways such Lead as shall be sent him from General Schuyler, for the use of the Army near Boston, according to desire of General Washington.

And then the Council adjourned to meet again Thursday, 24th instant.

Thursday, August 24, 1775.

At a meeting of the Governour and Council of Safety, present the same Members as at the last meeting, except Colonels Dyer and Elderkin, (at Cambridge.)

Mr. James Church, of Hartford, moves for a Permit to send to Providence, by water, about three hundred bushels of Wheat, to be ground for the use of the United Army near Boston, for the reason that, by means of great drought, it is not possible to get it ground near home; to be his own risk, &c. On consideration, a Permit is granted, but not without much doubt of the expediency of it, lest it should fall into the hands of our enemies.

Benjamin Huntington, Esquire, and Captain Ephraim Bill, are appointed a Committee to oversee and direct the building or erecting a Battery and Intrenchments, at a former meeting ordered to be made at Waterman's Point, in New-London River, and Captain Lyon's Company, now there, to labour about it, according to orders. And gave Instructions to said Committee.

On a Letter received from Messrs. Hosmer, Williams and Hall, about the armed Brig fitting at Middletown, &c., containing a nomination of sundry persons for officers, &c., and proposing that the bearer, — Warner, (going to Providence,) may enlist a Gunner there, as they cannot obtain one, and also Sailors, &c. It is agreed, that he may do so, if not disagreeable to Governour Cooke, to whom the Governour is desired to write by said Warner, proposing it to him, &c.; which was done.

Sundry Accounts for Guns and Blankets which had been impressed and obtained by the Governour's order, to supply the loss of our Soldiers at Bunker's Hill, &c., were laid in, considered and allowed, and

Voted, That Orders be drawn for the payment thereof, viz:—

One for N. Frink , Esq., for 6 Guns and 10 Blankets, procured at Pomfret , £19 10s., and fees 24s.,	£20 14 0
One for Messrs. Wales and Bissell , for 10 Guns and 25 Blankets, procured at Windham , including 24s. fees,	40 01 0
One for Mr. Chandler , of Woodstock , for 6 Guns and 10 Blankets, procured there, and 12s. fees,	19 13 0
One for Capt. Bacon , of Canterbury , for Guns and Blankets, no fees,	20 01 6
One for Mr. Leffingwell , of Norwich , 20 Guns and 40 Blankets, procured there, no fees,	67 09 6

Which Orders I have since drawn, &c.

And the meeting is dismissed.

*To the Honourable the Council and House of Representatives of the Colony of the MASSACHUSETTS-BAY, assembled in WATERTOWN, this 19th day of JULY, 1775:

The prayer and petition of Levi Sheppard and Ebenezer Hunt, of Northampton, in the Province aforesaid, sheweth: That on the 11th of this instant July, Colonel James Easton, commander of a Battalion stationed at Ticonderoga, in the service of this Colony, made application to your Petitioners for a certain quantity of Medicines, agreeable to the account; which Medicines have been delivered, which is certified by said Easton, aforesaid, by his order given to your Petitioners, annexed to the account aforesaid. And your Petitioners further show, that Colonel James Easton, aforesaid, was empowered to provide such Drugs and Medicines as should be thought necessary for said Battalion, by a Committee sent by the last Congress, sometime in June last, to Ticonderoga, in order to examine into the state of the Troops, and provide for the same, who were stationed at the place aforesaid. Your Petitioners therefore humbly pray your Honours to allow said account, and grant us, your Petitioners, an order whereby they may avail themselves of the sum aforesaid. As in duty bound your Petitioners shall ever pray.

*To the Honourable Council and House of Representatives of the MASSACHUSETTS-BAY:

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOURS:

The Petition of James Easton, of Pittsfield, in the County of Berkshire, and Colony aforesaid, humbly sheweth: That some time the beginning of May last your Petitioner raised fifty men, in concert with Colonel Ethan Allen and others, and stormed and took the Fortress of Ticonderoga. Soon after taking that very important place your Petitioner, seeing great contentions arising about the command of that station, by reason that the little army then there was not properly regulated, your Petitioner then, at his charge, made a journey from thence to the honourable Provincial Congress, then sitting at Watertown, to give intelligence of the reduction of the above fortress to the United Colonies; and also, if possible, to get a proper regulation at the said fortress. The honourable Provincial Congress thought proper not to intermeddle in this affair, as they understood the taking of the fort had its origin in the Connecticut General Assembly, and ordered their President to write to the said Assembly, and sent me express there, desiring them to regulate and garrison the same; which they did not at that time incline to do, but furnished me with five hundred pounds of powder and some cash, and ordered me as fast as possible to proceed forward with it to Ticonderoga, and on my way to raise as many men at the United Colonies' expense, as I could: which I did. On arriving there, I found matters in a much worse situation than when I left the place. I was then by an express sent for home, by some Companies I had raised, and were ready to march. Soon after my return, hearing that agents were sent from the Provincial Congress to settle matters at Ticonderoga, I again set off for that place, and at my arrival had the honour to be appointed to the command of a Regiment, and received of the aforesaid agents two hundred and eighty Pounds, and have paid it out to the several officers of the Regiment, to be by them paid to the soldiers, as advance pay for one month's wages. And your Petitioner begs leave to inform your Honours, that he humbly conceives that forty Shillings advance pay is wholly inadequate to the soldiers for their present necessity, many of them having been there ever since the fort was taken, and having only a day's warning to prepare for the campaign; and most of them extremely poor. The new-raised Companies are much in the

The Report of a Committee of the late Provincial Congress, on Colonel Easton's representation of the state of his Regiment at Ticonderoga and Crown Point, was read, and committed to the same Committee.

Ordered, That Mr. Hopkins, Major Ely, and Mr. Davis, be a Committee to prepare an answer to a Letter received from the Committee of Correspondence for the Town of Saybrook.

Resolved, That Major Stephen Cross be appointed to muster and pay the Advance Pay to the Non-Commissioned Officers and Soldiers of Colonel Phinney's Regiment.

That Mr. Freeman, Major Bliss, and Captain Morton, be a Committee to estimate a proper sum to be put into the hands of Mr. Cross for that purpose. Who reported the sum of one thousand and forty Pounds. Whereupon, Ordered, That the Receiver-General pay to Major Stephen Cross the sum of one thousand and forty Pounds, for the purpose of paying forty Shillings as advance pay to each of the Non-Commissioned Officers and Soldiers in Colonel Phinney's Regiment, and to take a receipt from the said Cross therefor.

Ordered, That Mr. Gerry insert a clause in the above order, directing the Receiver-General to pay the sum therein mentioned to Mr. Cross, without the concurrence of the honourable Board, and to assign the reasons for such an order.

The Report of the Committee on the Petition of Mr. William Greenleaf and others, relative to the Poor and other Inhabitants of the Town of Boston, was again read and accepted.

Ordered, That the Committee of Safety be served with a copy of it. It is as follows, viz:

Resolved, That this House are ready to exert their best endeavours to liberate their unhappy brethren of the Town of Boston, if they may be suffered to remove with their effects, agreeable to the solemn treaty of General Gage, entered into with the Committee of that Town.

That an indiscriminate indulgence ought to be given to all the inhabitants, without exception, who have not been inimical to America, to leave the Town, without let or molestation, in the manner, and to the place hereafter mentioned.

That considering the hazard of propagating the small-pox, the inhabitants of the Town of Boston are to be removed by water to the port of Salem, where this House will provide an hospital, and such other deserted houses as shall be proper for the reception and accommodation of said inhabitants, until they shall have been so cleansed as to remove all apprehensions of their communicating that infectious distemper. And that on their arrival at the port same circumstances as to poverty; and the Regiment entertain an idea that they shall fare as the Connecticut Troops do at that place, they having forty Shillings bounty, and forty Shillings advance pay. And your Petitioner would humbly pray that your Honours would make them near about equal, (that there may be no murmuring,) by putting money into the commanding officer's hands, to the amount of sixteen hundred Pounds, including the four hundred Pounds already expended, to pay out to them as their necessities may require for blankets and other clothing.

And your Petitioner begs leave further to inform your Honours, that he has already expended out of his own pocket, for raising and paying off men in the service of the United Colonies, nine hundred and twenty-one Pounds, besides all his own expenses for himself and horse in travelling back and forth in said services, which is no inconsiderable sum. And your Petitioner prays the indulgence of your Honours whilst he observes, that when he is at Crown Point he is about three hundred miles from this place, and that he expects soon to be ordered to St. John's, so that he will soon be four hundred miles from this honourable Assembly, which will render it impracticable to have any further supply of cash from the Assembly till the campaign is ended.

Your Petitioner, although, from the beginning of our troubles, from a corrupt and abandoned Ministry, he has been most heartily engaged in the cause of our much-injured Country, and has spared neither money nor time, nor bodily strength, nor fatigue, for the general cause; but at all times, when judged expedient, has heartily devoted all to the publick good, yet he is so sensible the Regiment he has the honour to command cannot properly be provided for at such a distance without the commanding officer has money to silence the murmuring of the soldiers, that he expects a draught on the Receiver-General for twelve hundred Pounds or one thousand Pounds, to pay the advance pay, and provide blankets and other necessities for the Regiment. And unless the honourable Council and honourable House of Representatives should see fit in their great wisdom to grant such a supply to him for the purpose aforesaid, he humbly begs leave to resign his orders, and prays that some other person may be appointed in his room. As in duty bound, shall ever pray.

WATERTOWN, July 24, 1775.

of Salem they shall be under the direction of the Selectmen and Committee of Safety of that Town, with respect to the places and manner of landing and repairing to the hospital or houses provided for them.

That beds, bedding, and necessary stores and medicines be sent out with the poor by the Selectmen and Overseers, and the donation stores be sent out by the Committee of Donations for their support; and that as soon as such of the Selectmen and Overseers of the Poor as are now in the Town of Boston shall be made acquainted with the foregoing Resolve, they are hereby directed immediately to improve the first fair and suitable weather in removing the Poor of the said Town, in the manner, and to the place above prescribed.

Whereas the honourable Council of this Colony, lately elected agreeable to recommendation of the honourable Continental Congress, have not yet met to act in their respective department; and it is necessary that the Non-Commissioned Officers and Privates of Colonel Edmund Phinney's Regiment be forthwith paid the advance money to which they are entitled by Resolve of the late Provincial Congress:

Ordered, That Mr. Phillips bring in a Resolve directing Colonel Whitcomb to muster and pay those Non-Commissioned Officers and Soldiers who have not yet received the advance pay, and receive money of the Treasurer for that purpose.

The House then adjourned till to-morrow morning, eight o'clock.

Tuesday, July 25, 1775.

The Committee appointed to consider the terms on which the Hospital at Salem may be used for the reception of the Poor of Boston, reported. Read and accepted.

Whereas, the Committee of Safety of the Town of Salem, at a conference with a Committee of this House, did consent that the Hospital in that Town should be improved for the reception of the Poor from Boston, and did represent that Bread, Fire-wood, and a Well will be wanted; it is, therefore,

Resolved, That the Committee of Safety of the Town of Salem be appointed by this Court as Overseers of said Poor, whose business it shall be to receive into their own hands all such necessary Stores, Medicines, and Donations, as shall be sent out with said Poor by the Selectmen of Boston, and improve the same for the support of said Poor; and also to make all such further provision, at the charge of this Colony, as shall be necessary for their support and comfort, so long as they shall be continued in said Hospital, and lay their accounts before this Court for allowance.

The Committee appointed to take into consideration the Petition of Messrs. Sheppard and Hunt, with the Account committed, having examined the same, beg leave to report facts as they find them relative thereto, viz: That in June last the late Congress for this Colony appointed a Committee to inquire into the state of and organize a Battalion of men then at Ticonderoga, who were to be supplied with every necessary from New-York, as ordered by the Continental Congress. That the said Provincial Committee gave no orders to Colonel Easton, or the Surgeon they had appointed, to provide Medicine for said Battalion, but that the committed Account have, by said Colonel Easton's order, been forwarded to the use of said Battalion. Your Committee also find that the said Committee appointed by the late Congress, appointed a Committee of Supplies near Ticonderoga, lest the service might suffer through any deficiency from New-York, which Committee of Supplies your Committee do not find were applied to for said Medicine. *To the Honourable the Council and House of Representatives for the Colony of MASSACHUSETTS-BAY:

The Petition of Charles Miller, Deputy Commissary-General for the Forces of the Colony aforesaid, humbly sheweth: That several quantities of Provisions, both of Bread and Meat, having been ruined by extraordinary hot weather, of which your Petitioner hitherto acquainted the honourable Committee of Supplies, from whom he received such directions as to justify his conduct in the disposal of them. As this honourable House is assembled, the honourable Committee of Supplies recommends your Petitioner to apply for directions in what manner to proceed with such Provisions as may be spoiled, by heat or otherwise, in the Colony Stores in future. Your Petitioner would beg leave to acquaint your Honours, that about three thousand weight of Loaf Bread, soured and unfit for food, is now in the Colony Store, and prays your Honours' immediate directions, what may be done with the same. And your Petitioner, as in duty bound, shall ever pray.

The Committee on the Petition of Messrs. Sheppard and Hunt again reported, as follows:

Upon recommitment, July 26, 1775, your Committee further find, that the Medicine charged to the committed account has as yet, and doubtless will prevent all further supplies of the like kind to be made by the Committee of Supplies for Ticonderoga, appointed by this Colony; and that, although the quantity of Medicine charged in said account be twice so much as be necessary for the use of the Battalion till the first of October next, yet as they are not, upon the whole, extravagantly charged, and considering the difficulty there may be in procuring Medicine for the future, your Committee humbly give it as their opinion, that this Colony pay the account committed, deducting ten Shillings, being miscast, and that the whole be considered the property of this Colony.

Per order:

THOMAS RICE.

*To the Honourable Speaker of the House of Representatives:

SIR: At a meeting of the Committee of Correspondence, of Inspection, and Selectmen of this Town, the conduct of one Ebenezer Keith was questioned, for his unfriendly and inimical attempts to injure the cause of Liberty, and subjugate his Country to slavery and ruin. The crimes he is guilty of are: signing an Association similar to Ruggles's, and encouraging others, by carrying it about; treating the Committees with insult, when they repeatedly requested him to give them satisfaction therefor; abusing his own son for enlisting in the Army, for taking an oath to be true to his Country, and taking the Colony securities; calling him a Rebel, threatening to turn him out of his house, and disinherit him, if he remained in the Army; refused to give the Committees any assurance of his readiness to join his countrymen, in defence of the rights and liberties of America; said he knew no Congress; neither did choose to give any answers, notwithstanding the Resolve of Congress was read to him, which empowered the Committees to inquire into the principles and conduct of suspected persons. He has been disarmed for some time past, since which his barbarous treatment of his son has obliged the Committee to proceed thus further with him, and to bring him before them by force. He utterly refuses to give the least satisfaction, and the Committee have confined him until your Honour shall signify the directions that the honourable House of Representatives may give concerning said Keith, and which we hereby humbly request of them on this urgent occasion, as we find it difficult otherwise to put it out of his power to obstruct the measures that are taken for the common defence.

We are, with great esteem, your most obedient and very humble servants. Per order:

RICHARD PERKINS, Chairman.

BRIDGEWATER, July 24, 1775.

P. S. Please to communicate the above to the honourable House of Representatives, and return an answer.

* The Committee of the Township of Bristol, in the County of Lincoln, in the Province of the Massachusetts-Bay, beg leave to represent to the honourable the Provincial Assembly, now assembled at Watertown, the very distressed situation that all degrees of the people are in, for want of Provisions of every kind, and in short of every necessary in life. Their situation is still made more bitter and alarming from the reflection that the same want is general from the River of Kennebeck to the most easternmost part of this Province, and we are made acquainted that there is a standing resolve of the honourable the Continental Congress, that no Provisions should be sent from the Southern Colonies to this Province, for fear of such supplies falling into the hands of the King's Troops, or Men-of-War.

It is our study and desire that every resolve of the Continental Congress should be held sacred by us. We are sensible that it may happen sometimes that individuals or particular places may be injured by resolves which may notwithstanding be of great utility to the whole Continent, in producing a repeal of the many obnoxious acts, and forwarding a reconciliation between the Colonies and Mother Country. Yet we must petition and beg that you will take our particularly distressed situation under your wise consideration, and grant yourselves, and also procure a liberty from the honourable the Continental Congress, to permit the bearer of this, Mr. William Savage, to ship us one or more loads of Provisions, from such places to the Southward and Westward as may best suit him. And as the above-named Mr. William Savage has been amongst us, and made himself fully acquainted with our distressed situation, we beg leave to refer you to him for such further information as you may require from him, having no doubt that you will comply with this our most earnest desire.

We are, Gentlemen, your most obedient servants,

THOMAS BRACKETT, CORNELIUS TURNER,
THOMAS THOMPSON, BRIGGS TURNER,
SAMUEL OTTES,

THOMAS BOYD, Clerk of the Committee.

* CAMBRIDGE, July 29, 1775.

SIR: I have this instant received a letter from Chelsea, of which the enclosed is an extract. As the inhabitants are coming out in a different manner than proposed by your Assembly to the Selectmen of the Town of Boston, I have not delayed a moment's time in giving you the earliest information of it; and request that you may take the matter into consideration, and determine what is proper to be done on the occasion. to the inhabitants of that Town, we therefore empower you, or the major part of you, and you are hereby empowered and directed, to cause a strict inquiry of all persons that shall land in your Town from Boston, and if you suspect they or their effects are infected with the small-pox, that you see that they be cleansed; and all such indigent persons as shall arrive from thence, and be recommended by the Committee of Donations to be objects of the charity of the people, that you cause them and their effects to be removed to such Towns as have not their proportion of such persons, agreeable to the vote of the late Congress; and all such persons as are so infirm that they cannot be removed, that you provide for them at the publick expence, until they can be removed, or until otherwise directed by the General Court; and if you find it needful, that you impress carriages, teams, attendants, and all other necessaries for the effectuating the purpose aforesaid in the most prudent manner; and that you lay an account of your expences, and time in carrying this order into execution, before the General Court, that whatsoever is just may be done to you, and all such as shall act under you and by your order.

JEDEDIAH FOSTER, JONATHAN SMITH, JOS. PALMER, AZOR ORNE, MESES GILL, NATHAN CUSHING,
July 31, 1775. SAMUEL FREEMAN,

*To the Selectmen and Committee of Correspondence of the Town of CHELSEA:

It having been represented to the Great and General Court, now held at Watertown, that the inhabitants of the Town of Boston are allowed to come out of that Town to Chelsea, by way of Winnisimit Ferry, the said Court, from an apprehension that many of said inhabitants are poor, and unable to remove themselves and the effects they may have with them to such places as they may be disposed to repair to, and that others may be in weak and infirm circumstances, and stand in need of immediate relief; and also that some may, through carelessness or otherwise, be the means of spreading the small-pox in the country: appointed us a Committee to repair to your Town and inspect the state and characters of the inhabitants of Boston who should move out in manner aforesaid, and provide against any difficulties arising therefrom. We, the said Committee, have attended accordingly, and find, upon full inquiry, that there is not so much danger of the small-pox as was first apprehended; and finding that the movement of those people is so slow, that we, the said Committee, cannot, consistent with our other duty, expected from us by the General Court, attend in person to the landing of the said inhabitants, not knowing what length of time General Gage may take in any degree to perform his engagements

Afternoon.

The Committee appointed to bring in a Report, for the purpose of confirming and making valid the Proceedings of the General Court yesterday, relative to the Inhabitants of Boston coming over to Chelsea, the adjournment from Saturday to Monday notwithstanding, reported by way of Resolve:

Whereas the General Court was adjourned on Saturday, the 29th of this instant, to Monday, the 31st; but upon intelligence received from General Washington, of the removal of a number of the inhabitants of Boston to Chelsea, and fearing that the small-pox might be dispersed through the country by their means, it was judged advisable that the Court should be assembled sooner than the time to which it stood adjourned: which was accordingly done. But as some doubts might arise touching the legality of the proceedings of the Assembly, convened before the time to which they stood adjourned, therefore Resolved, That the transactions of the aforesaid meeting, in consequence of the afore-mentioned intelligence, be considered to all intents and purposes as good and valid.

In Council, July 31, 1775: Read and concurred.

"In Council, August 2, 1775.

"That Mr. Brown is of opinion that General Gage would be willing that all the inhabitants should leave the Town, without exception, who are disposed to go, if Jones and Hicks were suffered to go in; that the inhabitants are greatly distressed, being in constant fear of the prevailing sickness and want of sustenance; that Hicks, the printer, told him (said Brown) that he had procured thirteen of the principal people to be stopped on account of Jones and his brothers being detained, and that he promised said Hicks that he would do all in his power with the General Assembly that said Jones and Hicks should be released upon condition that said thirteen might be suffered to leave the Town; the names of some of the gentlemen mentioned are, John Gill, Thomas Boylston, Samuel Whitwell, Samuel Partridge, and all the Selectmen in Town; the others he cannot remember: that he (Mr. Brown) has the best information that General Gage has consented that the Alms-House Poor should be removed to Marblehead, but, contrary to his past engagement, refuseth to permit any clothing, medicines or provision (saving only for six days) to be sent with them; that the inhabitants and soldiers die very fast, and Doctor Elliot says he apprehends that there are as many deaths among the inhabitants now as he had known at any time when the Town was fullest of inhabitants. All which is humbly submitted.

Ordered, That Colonel Orne and Mr. Hale be on the Committee appointed to consider what is proper to be done with regard to appointing Apothecaries for the Medical Afternoon.

The Committee on the state of the Eastern Country, reported.

The Report was considered and recommitted.

Major Hawley, by leave of the House (the Galleries being first cleared,) brought in the following Resolve for procuring Powder, which was accepted, (the Committee being first appointed for the purpose therein mentioned,) viz:

Whereas General Washington has represented to the Speaker of this House, that the British Troops have this week made some new and advanced works, both on Boston-Neck and at Charlestown, and that their intention in the said works seems to be thereby gradually to advance so near to the lines of the Continental Army, as that they may advantageously annoy the said lines, both with bombs and cannon shot; and that he, the said General, is of opinion, that the Army under his command ought to be so amply supplied with Powder, as that they may be able by the improvement of their Artillery, not only to obstruct, but effectually to demolish the said works of the enemy: And as the said General is very desirous of such full supplies of Powder that at all events the said Army should not feel any scarcity of Gunpowder, he therefore desires that

* To the Honourable the Council and House of Representatives of the Colony of the MASSACHUSETTS-BAY, in General Court assembled:

Your petitioner, a Captain in Colonel James Frye's Regiment, begs leave to relate, that the Company which he has the honour to command, consisting of fifty-seven non-commissioned officers and soldiers, came into camp at Cambridge on the 19th April last. That since that time said Company has regularly done duty; but though they have been in the service of this Colony above three months, not one man has received any part of the forty Shillings which a late Congress promised should be advanced to them; that these soldiers, with many of their families, have suffered difficulties which are not small by reason of this delay; their necessities have been growing daily more urgent, till at length I am able to withstand their importunity no longer. I am, therefore, constrained most earnestly to entreat of this honourable Court that relief to which he humbly presumes he has some claim in justice. And your petitioner, as in duty bound, shall ever pray.

CAMP IN CAMBRIDGE, August 2, 1775.

such draughts may be made from such Town stocks of Gunpowder, in this Province, and delivered to the use of the said Army, as that all reasonable apprehensions of the want of Gunpowder may be fully removed from the minds of the most timid: Therefore,

Resolved, That Mr. Crane, Mr. Howard, Captain Goodman, Colonel Cushing, Mr. Swift, Captain Stearns, Colonel Cutts, Mr. Wheeler, and Mr. Jewet, be a Committee forthwith to consider what Towns in this Colony it is expedient for this Court to send to, for part of their Town stocks of Powder, in order to procure such full supplies of Powder for the said Army, as the said General conceives proper.

The Order of the Day moved for.

The Petition against Mr. Dix was read, and the Petitioners, with a number of evidences, were admitted on the floor, who were examined, and the consideration of the matter referred to to-morrow morning, eight o'clock.

Benjamin Chadbourn, Esquire, brought down from the honourable Board the following order of Council, viz:

"In Council, August 2, 1775: Ordered, That Mr. Winthrop, Mr. Foster, and Mr. White, with such as the honourable House shall join, be a Committee to confer with Lewis, a Chief of the Caughnawaga Tribe of Indians (who is now in Town, being conducted here by Colonel Bayley of Cohoss,) in order to gain from him all the intelligence they can, respecting the temper and designs of the Canadians and Indians towards these Colonies, or any other matters that it may be of importance to us to know."

Mr. Chauncy brought down the Report of the Committee of both Houses, who were appointed to confer with Lewis, a Chief of the Caughnawaga Tribe of Indians, viz:

In Council, August 3, 1775.

The Committee appointed to confer with Lewis, a Chief of the Caughnawaga Tribe of Indians, who is now in Town, (being conducted here by Colonel Bayley of Cohoss,) concerning the temper and designs of the Canadians and Indians towards these Colonies, have attended to that service, and beg leave to lay before this honourable Court the several questions proposed by the Committee to the said Lewis, and the answers made by him; which were as follows, viz:

Question. How many are there in the Caughnawaga Tribe?

Answer. Five hundred Men able to bear Arms.

Q. How many in St. François?

A. I do not know; they are a different Nation.

Q. How many in Aronok?

A. I do not know.

Q. Is there any other Nation of Indians near your Tribe?

A. Yes; Cannasataug. The number of them I cannot tell.

Q. Has the Governour of Canada prevailed on the St. François Indians to take up Arms against these Colonies?

A. The Governour sent out Messrs. St. Lue and Bahpassion, to invite the several Tribes of Indians to take up Arms against you. At his desire they held a Grand Council, and the French Officers gave each man half a pound of powder and a drink of brandy, and an ox among them for a feast. They answered, no body had taken Arms against them, and they would not take Arms against any body to trouble them; and they chose to rest in peace. Upon this answer, the Officers told them, if you do not take up Arms the Yankees will come and destroy you all. The Indians answered again, when those men come here to destroy us, then we will take up Arms and defend ourselves; but we will not go to seek people to quarrel with them. The Officers then told them, if you will not take up Arms, the Regulars will come and destroy you and take your Lands. They answered, you may come as soon as you have a mind to; and whoever comes to attack us, we will take Arms and defend ourselves. The Officers tried to engage their young men to take Arms, by putting two Johannes a-piece into their hands; but when the Chiefs knew it, they took the money from them and returned it to the Officers, and told the young men if they offered to engage they would put them to death.

Q. Did you hear of any other Nations of Indians that consented to take Arms?

A. There is another Nation called Ottawas, at a greater distance, which the Governour endeavoured to engage, telling them that the other Nations had agreed to do it. Upon which the Ottawas sent twenty of their Tribe to the General Council before-mentioned, to inform them of the Governour's Message, and inquire whether they had agreed to take Arms? They answered, they had not; and if they had had any thought of it they would have given them notice. The French Officers had further told them, that New-York and all the other Governments to the Southward were going to take Arms against the Yankees.

Q. What do you know of the disposition of the French Canadians towards us?

A. Their disposition is the same as that of the Indians. The Governour tried last winter to raise two thousand Troops, but he could not engage any. They were disposed to remain upon their own land in peace.

Q. What number of Regulars is there in Canada?

A. About five hundred in all.

Q. Where are they stationed?

A. A Sergeant and five privates at Quebeck; twenty at Montreal, and the rest are gone to St. John's.

Q. What account did the French Officers give of us?

A. When I went for my pass, the Governour told me that you were not capable of defending yourselves, and read me a Letter, purporting that the King's Troops had killed two thousand of your People, without reckoning the wounded, and burnt one of your Towns.

All which is humbly submitted.

By order of the Committee, J. WINTHROP.

We, the Committee appointed by the inhabitants of this Town, do now despatch, on their behalf, the bearer, to inform you of the arrival of a Fleet at Long-Island, in this Bay, on the purpose of exchanging Provisions for Cord Wood, who have advised us of their peaceable intentions by letter, and have conveyed to us a copy of a certificate from the Gentlemen Selectmen of the Town of Boston, recommending to the inhabitants of these parts to afford them all proper assistance. We, your humble petitioners, do therefore most earnestly pray for your advice in so important a matter to us, (we being but a new settlement, depending on our Cord Wood till our farms are somewhat brought to,) whether you will be pleased to afford us any assistance, with respect to Provisions, or allow us to exchange the said Wood for Provisions, to answer our present necessities.

* HEAD-QUARTERS AT CAMBRIDGE, August 7, 1775.

Sir: By the General Return made me for last week, I find there are great numbers of soldiers and non-commissioned officers who absent themselves from duty, the greatest part of whom, I have reason to believe, are at their respective homes in different parts of the country, some employed by their officers on their farms, and others drawing pay from the publick while they are working on their own plantations, or for hire. My utmost exertions have not been able to prevent this base and pernicious conduct. I must, therefore, beg the assistance of the General Court to co-operate with me in such measures as may remedy this mischief. I am of opinion, that it might be done, either wholly or in part, by the Committees in the several Towns making strict and impartial inquiry of such as are found absent from the Army; upon what account they have left it; by whose leave, and for what time; to require such as have no impediment of sickness, or other good reason, to return to their duty immediately, or, in case of failing, to send me an account of their names, and the Company and Regiment to which they belong, as soon as possible, that I may be able to make examples of such delinquents. I need not enlarge upon the ruinous consequences of suffering such infamous deserters and defrauders of the publick to go unnoticed or unpunished, nor use any arguments to induce the General Court to give it immediate attention. The necessity of the case does not permit me to doubt the continued exertions of that zeal which has distinguished the General Court upon less important occasions.

I have the honour to be, Sir, with much respect and regard, your most obedient humble servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

"In Council, August 10, 1775.

"The Committee of both Houses of Assembly appointed to take into consideration a Letter from his Excellency General Washington, with one enclosed from General Greene, representing that one Captain Thomas Cowden, of Fitchburgh, hath been soliciting an office in the Army of the United Colonies raised for the defence of American liberty, and that he hath invariably opposed every measure pursued for the restoration of our violated privileges, especially when the veins of our heroick countrymen were inhumanly opened at Lexington and Concord, he exerted himself in preventing that succour and relief which justice immediately called for, having taken said Letters and the evidences against him into consideration, and given the said Cowden fair hearing in defence, do find it clearly proved that the said Cowden hath heretofore been a constant opposer of the publick measures taken for the security of our violated rights, so far as he conveniently could, whereby he hath forfeited the attention and confidence of his Town, and they have justly considered him as inimical to his Country; and notwithstanding he professes a full conviction of his past errors and misconduct, the most sincere contrition for the same, a hearty friendship for his Country, willingness to risk life and fortune in its defence, humbly imploring forgiveness of the General Assembly and his Country, and in the most solemn manner promises amendment and reformation, the sincerity of which hath, in some measure, of late been evidenced by an apparent friendly exertion with his countrymen, and a kind entertainment of the soldiery, and especially by discovering a great abhorrence of, and indignation against that grand deceiver and betrayer of his Country, whose name and letters are equally execrated by all good men, yet the absolute necessity of taking the most effectual care that the Army be supplied with no officer but of known integrity and well approved friendship for the liberties of this Country, as well as of martial abilities and good courage, induce us to forbear recommending him as a person at present fit to be intrusted with a commission in the service; nevertheless, we humbly apprehend, the voluntary confession by himself made, and herewith exhibited,* his solemn engagements to behave well for the future, and his late kindness to the soldiery, being some evidence of a reformation, render it safe and proper that he should be released from his present confinement, and allowed to return to his family and estate in peace, and that he ought, and hereby is recommended to the forgiveness and protection of his countrymen; and that a copy of this Report be given to said Cowden, for his own security against the further resentment of the publick for his past offences, and that he have leave to publish the same, with his confession, if he sees fit; and that a copy hereof be sent to his Excellency General Washington, in answer to his Letter, "WALTER SPOONER, per order."

* Whereas I, Thomas Cowden, of Fitchburgh, in the County of Worcester, have been, by many good people of this Province, accused of being inimical to my Country; for the removal of which accusation, I do now acknowledge that in some things I have acted very imprudently, viz: 1st. By allowing hands under me to work on the Publick Fast recommended by the Association of Boston Ministers. 2d. By speaking diminutively of the County Congress at Worcester, in which they recommended to people not to take Hicks's and Mills's Paper. 3d. By endeavouring to hinder two persons, who were at work at a frame for me, to go down when the publick alarm was at Lexington. 4th. By not sufficiently encouraging people to sign the Covenant. 5th. By being too backward in Town affairs, with regard to the liberties of the Country. For all which I am truly sorry; beg the forgiveness of the honourable Board and House of Representatives, and of all the good people of this Country who have been aggrieved or offended thereby, and, in justice to myself, must say, that in these things I erred through judgment, not will; and am now ready to convince the world of this solemn declaration, not only by word and interest, but even exposing my life itself, if my Country calls me thereto.

THOMAS COWDEN.

Moses Gill, Esq., brought down from the Board the Resolve of the Committee of both Houses, in consequence of General Washington's Letter respecting desertion from the Army.

"In Council, August 13, 1775.

"Whereas it is made evident to this Court, that many Non-Commissioned Officers and Soldiers, belonging to the Continental Army, do absent themselves from their duty, and that there is great reason to believe divers of them are employed in their own private business while they are drawing pay from the publick, and all the measures hitherto used have been ineffectual to prevent such base and pernicious practices: Therefore, in order to reform this mischief and abuse,

"It is Resolved, That the Committees of Correspondence for the several Towns in this Colony, and the Selectmen, where such Committees are not chosen, be and hereby are directed and enjoined to make careful and diligent inquiry, from time to time, whether there be any Non-Commissioned Officers or Soldiers, within their respective Towns, belonging to the said Army; and if any such shall be found, that they bring them to a strict and impartial examination, upon what account they left the Army, by whose leave, and for what time; and to require all such as have no furloughs, or whose furloughs are out, and have no real impediment of sickness, to return to their duty immediately; and in case they neglect it, that such Committees or Selectmen do, without fail or delay, send an account of their names, the Company and Regiment to which they belong, and the places where they are lurking, to his Excellency General Washington, that such infamous deserters and defrauders of the publick may not go unpunished. And it is strongly recommended to all the inhabitants of this Colony to be aiding and assisting to their said Committees and Selectmen in the execution of this Resolve, and that they by no means countenance, harbour, or conceal, but, on the other hand, give information of all such delinquents to the said Committees or Selectmen; and also to the said Committees and Selectmen, that they be vigilant and faithful in the discharge of this trust.

"To the Committee of Correspondence in the Town of . .

"And his Excellency General Washington is hereby requested to give orders that the foregoing Resolve be posted up in such publick places in the Camps as to him shall seem proper, that the soldiery of the Army may be excited to take into their consideration the baseness, fraud, and villany of the abovementioned practice; that they may thereby be made sensible that every one who shall be guilty thereof will greatly disparage himself, become justly contemptible, and deserving of severe punishment, and wholly forfeit the respectable character of an American Volunteer.

"Ordered, That the foregoing Resolve be printed in Handbills, and directed to the Committees of Correspondence or Selectmen in the several Towns in this Colony, and that fifty copies thereof be sent to General Washington. Also, that a Committee be appointed to procure the printing the said Handbills, to direct the printer as to number, and to superscribe them to the several Towns, &c. That the following Letter to General Washington accompany the said copies, viz:

"Watertown, August 13, 1775.

"SIR: The enclosed Handbills will sufficiently serve to satisfy your Excellency that the General Court fully concur with you in your opinion of the importance and necessity of the utmost exertions for the reformation of the infamous practices mentioned in your Letter of the 7th instant, directed to the President of the honourable Board, and also of the readiness of the General Court to co-operate with you in every measure tending to remedy the mischief therein complained of."

Read and concurred.

Ordered, That Colonel Freeman, Major Hallet, and Colonel Thompson, be a Committee to see to the printing this Resolve in Handbills, and sending it to the several Towns in the Colony, and that fifty copies thereof be sent to General Washington.

The House then adjourned till to-morrow morning, eight o'clock.

Ordered, That the Resolve for collecting Powder from several Towns be dispensed with as to Newburyport.

Ordered, That Mr. Sullivan, Mr. Story, and Captain Goodman, with such as the honourable Board shall join, be a Committee to consult what measures can be taken to cut off the communication of intelligence which is said to go to the enemy by means of the Man-of-War at Portsmouth.

Ordered, That a Message go to the Board, acquainting them that the House considered the Memorial of the Town of Gloucester, and the Letter from General Washington,* brought down by Captain White, to belong to the department of the Board to consider of.

Mr. Sullivan accordingly went with a Message from the House, to inform the Board that it was the opinion of the *CAMBRIDGE, HEAD-QUARTERS, August 14, 1775.

SIR: His Excellency being obliged to attend some business in the lines, has directed me to acquaint you and the honourable Court, that he has received a letter from General Gage, which has determined him to order the Officers now at Watertown, together with those at Cape Ann, to be confined in Northampton jail. General Gage is resolved to know no distinction of rank among our prisoners in his hands, which obliges General Washington, very contrary to his disposition, to observe the same rule of treatment to those gentlemen, to whom it will be proper to explain the reasons of a conduct which otherwise may appear harsh and cruel. The common men the General Court will order to such places as they think proper.

I have, by the General's direction, also enclosed you the letter from Cape Ann. He would gladly give them the desired assistance, but you are no strangers to the state of our ammunition. We have reason to expect some speedy supplies, and when any can be spared from the necessary use of the Army with propriety, it will doubtless be done; in the mean time his Excellency refers them to the General Court for the direction and advice they request.

I have the honour to be, with great respect, Sir, your most obedient humble servant,

JOSEPH REED, Secretary.

House, that the right of disposing of all Prisoners of War belonged to the major part of the Council, as Governour.

The Resolve relative to the killing of Sheep, read, and accepted, and is as follows:

Whereas considerable doubts have arisen amongst the good people in some parts of this Colony, by means of the various constructions of the recommendations of the Continental and Provincial Congresses, respecting the preserving and increasing the stocks of Sheep: For the more effectual obviating of such doubts, this House do now Resolve, That, in their opinion, the owners of Sheep are by those recommendations by no means absolutely restrained from killing such Sheep and Lambs as by the scarcity of hay are rendered necessary to be killed, nor others from purchasing them, but that if such owners of Sheep shall suffer their stock to increase to as great a number as they are able to support, and if they should have a surplusage, that they manifest a readiness to sell the same at a reasonable rate to others who may be disposed to buy, with a view to keep them in this Colony, they fully comply with the spirit and intentions of those recommendations, especially as the severe drought in most parts of the Colony renders it impracticable for the farmers to keep their whole stock.

In Council, August 14, 1775: Read and concurred.

Ordered that he have leave to withdraw it.

The Memorial from the Officers of the Eastern Regiment in the County of Lincoln* read, and committed to Mr. Rice, Colonel Orne, and Colonel Davis, with such as the honourable Board shall join.

August 14, 1775: Read and concurred, and Joseph Palmer and Jabez Fisher are joined.

*To the Honourable the Great and General Court, assembled at WATER-TOWN:

The Memorial of the Officers of the Eastern Regiment of Militia, in the County of Lincoln, in Council met at Booth-Bay, August 2, 1775, humbly sheweth: That in the night, between the 20th and 21st of July ultimo, the Colonel of said Regiment received information by express that a Frigate, with four Transport Ships and three Sloops, were arrived at Long-Island, in Penobscot-Bay, and taking on board fuel and provisions for General Gage's Army. That the Colonel immediately despatched orders to the proper officers to meet him at St. George's, with a third part of each Company under his command; in consequence of which the several Companies of each Regiment marched the next day. That on their arrival off said place of rendezvous, it was found that certain persons, not under their command, had gone to Camden, the place of continent nearest to said island. That fearing the effects of this incident, the body marched after them with all possible expedition; but as soon as they reached Camden they had certain intelligence that, by means of said persons, the enemy had already received notice of the approach and designs of the Militia, and in consequence thereof had moved from the land out of the reach of their arms. That a council was immediately called, in which it was judged impracticable to execute the plan hitherto adopted against the foe thus alarmed; nor was any other way of defeating their intentions now in the power of the Militia, but that of cutting off their communications with the main, preventing any ill-disposed persons from finding them supplies, and themselves from making any secure lodgment on shore—that as Fort Pownall stood contiguous to good navigation for Ships of any burden, it was untenable by any force we could throw into it—as it was just at hand to the present station of the enemy; unapproachable by us if once they shall get possession; so situated as to command the settlements on the River and Bay; and, with the assistance of a few men and one or two small armed vessels, capable of distressing the inhabitants of the greatest part of the eastern country, so as to oblige them to abandon their abodes or act the tory to the uttermost; it was therefore judged to be the most alluring bait, and, at the same time the easiest prey the foe could find in these parts—and as a letter from Mr. Winslow, who conducts their said fleet, to the Committee of St. George's, together with a pretended certificate from some Selectmen in Boston, intimates a design of returning for more cargoes, it seemed highly probable that their factors would tarry at said fort, under protection of the marines now on board said frigate, to prepare matters for this or any other fleet, on like errand, against their return. It was therefore unanimously judged necessary for the publick safety that said Fort Pownall be immediately destroyed. That the Militia marched for said place without delay, and on their way were overtaken by two officers of Colonel McCobb's Regiment, informing that part of said Regiment, under command of Lieutenant Colonel Harnden, was on the march to join them; but as there was no prospect of an opportunity of coming to action with the enemy, this Regiment being so far ahead of them, and being now about two hundred and seventy strong, was thought suffi-

Afternoon.

A Letter from Lieutenant Lane. Read and committed to Col. Grout, Deacon Batchelder, and Capt. Morton.

Ordered, That Dr. Whiting, Mr. Cushing, and Mr. Singletary, with such as the honourable Board shall join, be a Committee to inquire into the grounds of the complaints made by the Soldiers of their allowance, and report thereon.

Ordered, That Colonel Davis be on the Committee for the Petition from Gouldsbrough, in the room of Major Brooks.

The Petition from the Selectmen and Overseers of the Poor. Read and committed to Mr. Perry, Mr. Jewet, and Deacon Rawson.

Then the House adjourned to eight o'clock, to-morrow morning.

Tuesday, August 15, 1775.

The Report of the Committee relative to the supplying Captain Curtis with Stores, recommitted for some amendment.

Mr. Jonathan Low returned a Member for the Town of Lunenburg.

Ordered, That Captain Thatcher, Mr. Putnam, and Deacon Rawson, be a Committee to examine the Resolves of Congress respecting the estates of the Refugees, and report thereon.

The Report of the Committee for furnishing Captain Curtis with Provision, &c. Read and accepted.

Resolved, That the Treasurer be and hereby is directed to pay out of the publick Treasury to Captain Bryant Morton the sum of one hundred and ninety-six Pounds, to purchase two months' provision for Captain James Curtis's Company. Two hundred bushels of Corn and six Whalecient to accomplish every purpose now attainable; and inasmuch as they came without boats, and your petitioners had not boats enough for the body now with them, their continuing their march was judged needless and inconvenient, and thereupon they returned. That your petitioners, proceeding on their march to Fort Pownall, took two sloops which they found in the employ of carrying necessaries to Boston, with a protection from Admiral Graves. Intelligence was received of several others in the same circumstances at Majabigwaduce, whereupon a party was despatched thither, which took a sloop loading for Nantucket, together with another sloop and schooner just come from Boston, and bound thither again, with protection from the Admiral. The rest of said Regiment meanwhile went forward, and after assisting Colonel Goldthwait in removing his effects out of said Fort to the Chapel, and saving what shot, lead and old iron they could, burnt the building to the ground, and then brought off a barge belonging to the Colony, which had been employed in the service of the Fort. That your petitioners then reconnoitred the bay, and found the enemy's fleet to remove from place to place sundry times, and to take such posts as made it evident their design was rather to avoid than intercept them. That finding their provisions all spent, and themselves in a country where the necessities of the inhabitants forbid the hope of any supply from them, your petitioners were obliged to return home: accordingly the vessels abovementioned were brought to sail, and arrived safe in Townsend Harbour, in this Town, on Tuesday, the first of this instant. That on their return, your petitioners find that they would have been supplied with provisions from the Town of Bristol, had not one of the aforesaid persons, by whose means the enemy was alarmed from Camden, prevented their sending them, after part was put on board of the vessels to convey them to your petitioners. That soon after their arrival, your petitioners met in council to deliberate on what might be proper to be done with the vessels now in custody, and the persons who commanded them; and a regard for the publick safety induced your petitioners to order them to be hauled up, stripped, and kept under a constant guard till the pleasure of the honourable Court is known—except the schooner, which, for particular reasons, your petitioners have delivered to Major Andrew Reed, of this Town, to be employed in defence of this coast, and in suppressing trade with the enemy, until the orders of the Legislature concerning her shall have been received. The masters of said vessels appeared to your petitioners to have offended rather out of ignorance than ill intent, and therefore were dismissed—Nathan Phillips, Peleg Cruger, and Jonathan Carleton, then sick on shore and incapable of being removed, excepted, who were by plenary evidence found guilty of having made it their business for some time past to supply the King's Troops with wood, live stock, and whatever other provisions they could procure: and therefore your petitioners judged it not for the safety of the Colony, and especially the eastern country, to suffer said persons to go at large. Your petitioners have for that reason referred them to the sentence of the honourable Court, and for that purpose do now send the two former to your Honours by the escort of Major Edward Emerson, an officer of said Regiment, who has been with your petitioners through the whole of the expedition here narrated, and to whom your petitioners can safely refer the honourable Court for a particular account of every circumstance attending it. Your petitioners pray that the honourable Court would take order respecting the premises, and on the first signification of your Honours' pleasure, the said sloops, schooner, boat, &c., shall forthwith be disposed of agreeably thereunto. And your petitioners, as in duty bound, shall ever pray.

Signed in behalf and per order of the Officers of the Eastern Regiment, in the County of Lincoln.

JAMES CARGILL, Colonel.

*To the Honourable the Council and House of Representatives for the Province of the MASSACHUSETTS-BAY, now sitting at WATERTOWN:

The Committees of Inspection and Correspondence for the Town of Falmouth humbly sheweth: That on information that the Brig Sally, from the West-Indies, laden with Sugar and Molasses, commanded by Captain Edward Grisby, and owned by Mr. Joseph Sherburne, suspected to be for the British Army, now in Boston, we thought fit to send for the Captain, and find by him he has orders to proceed with said Brig and cargo to Swansey, to Colonel Bowers's wharf, for which reasons, we thought fit to stop said Brig and cargo, supposing it impossible for them to proceed to Swansey with safety, and have ordered her to be detained at Falmouth until your Honours shall give orders how said Brig shall be proceeded with, &c. We, your petitioners, therefore pray your Honours to take the affair under your consideration and order, as you in your wisdom shall see fit. And your petitioners, as in duty bound, shall ever pray.

The Bill for vacating the Civil and Military Commissions in this Colony.

Read, and Resolved, That this Bill pass to be enacted.

In the fifteenth year of the Reign of GEORGE the Third, King, &c.

An Act for removing from their respective offices and places all the Officers, both Civil and Military, belonging to this Colony of the MASSACHUSETTS-BAY, in NEW-ENGLAND, holding, or claiming to hold their respective offices or places by or under any nomination, appointment or commission, made or granted by any Governour or Lieutenant-Governour of the Province of the MASSACHUSETTS-BAY, in NEW-ENGLAND, either with or without the advice and consent of the Council or Assistants of said Province, in the absence of the Governour and Lieutenant-Governour, before the present meeting of this General Court.

Whereas many of the Civil and Military Officers of the said Colony of the Massachusetts-Bay, in New-England, have clearly manifested themselves unfriendly to the rights and liberties of these American Colonies, and therefore destitute of all legal and constitutional Government, beg leave to inform your Honours, that we have taken such steps as we thought proper to govern ourselves in our different departments, agreeable to the once happy Constitution of this Province, according to our judgment, the copy of which proceedings we beg leave to transmit by the bearer, Captain Alexander Campbell. However, being suspicious of our abilities in matters of that nature, we beg leave to come under the direction and protection of your honourable body, and to have such laws and rules prescribed for us, as you in your wisdom may think most suitable; and we, for ourselves and constituents, do heartily engage to conform to the same from time to time, as your Honours shall direct. It may be needless for us to represent to your Honours the very distressed situation of this Country with respect to provisions and almost every other necessary of life. We humbly pray that your Honours would take this matter into your wise consideration, and point out some method that the distressed inhabitants may be relieved, in that way your Honours may think best. We beg leave to refer you to Captain Alexander Campbell for any further particulars relative to this country, and your petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

unfit to hold or exercise the offices and employments to which they were appointed or commissioned: And whereas it is necessary for the safety and peace of this Colony, that all such Officers should be deprived of their offices, and that other men, who are able, true and real friends to American liberty, should be appointed and commissioned in their stead; and as it would not only be disagreeable, but also very inconvenient, either by act or proclamation singly and by name to deprive all such unfit persons of their respective offices, and to substitute and commissionate faithful men in their stead, leaving such as are friendly to right and liberty to exercise and discharge their respective offices by virtue of their present commissions; this Court doth judge it expedient that all the Officers, both civil and military, belonging to this Colony, now holding their offices under or by virtue of any appointment or commission, made or granted by any Governour or Lieutenant-Governour of the said Province of the Massachusetts-Bay, in New-England, either with or without the advice and consent of the Council, or by the major part of the Council in the absence of the Governour and Lieutenant-Governour, before the present meeting of this General Court, should be deprived of their respective offices, and that all such appointments and commissions should, from and after the nineteenth day of September next, wholly cease and determine:

Be it therefore enacted and declared by the Council and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, That from and after the said nineteenth day of September, all the nominations, appointments and commissions at any time, before the present meeting of this General Court, made or granted by any Governour or Lieutenant-Governour of the said Province of the Massachusetts-Bay, in New-England, or by the major part of the Council in the absence of the Governour and Lieutenant-Governour, appointing or commissionating any person or persons to any office, civil or military, shall be utterly null, void and of none effect, and that all the powers and authorities, either civil or military, of all and every person and persons belonging to the said Colony of the Massachusetts-Bay, in New-England, now holding or claiming to hold his or their office or place by or under any nomination, appointment or commission, made or granted by any Governour or Lieutenant-Governour of the said Province of the Massachusetts-Bay, in New-England, whether with or without the advice and consent of the Council or Assistants of the said Province in the absence of the Governour and Lieutenant-Governour, shall, from and after the nineteenth day of September, one thousand seven hundred and seventy-five, wholly cease and determine.

* To the Honourable Council and House of Representatives assembled at WATERTOWN, July 19, 1775:

The Petition of the subscribers, in behalf of the inhabitants of Machias, in the County of Lincoln, and Province of the Massachusetts-Bay, humbly sheweth: That your Petitioners in the present unhappy times have been at great expense in guarding the coast at Machias, by which means the inhabitants have done but very little else for two months past, which leaves us in a very distressed situation, unable to defend ourselves, or the common cause for which our Country in general are contending; however, we beg leave to hold ourselves ready and willing to exert ourselves still further by virtue of such encouragement as your Honours shall think proper. We, therefore, pray your Honours would please to allow us the privilege of raising a company of men amongst ourselves, on the expense of the Province, by which means, we humbly conceive, we should be enabled to guard our own post by continuing the young men in the place who at present are wholly out of employ, and contribute in some measure to the necessity of the poor inhabitants; and the company raised to be under such restrictions and regulations as your Honours shall think fit. We would also beg leave to represent to your Honours that we have not a sufficiency of Powder and Ball to make any considerable defence in case of an invasion. We humbly pray your Honours would supply us with two hundred weight of Powder, and Ball in proportion. Your Honours are doubtless sensible of the great cost and charge your petitioners must necessarily be at in the conveyance of a number of Prisoners from Machias to Watertown, near three hundred and fifty miles distant. The particular accounts of which we beg leave to lay before your honourable Committee. We therefore pray your Honours would please to grant such a sum of money to be paid unto your petitioners as will enable us to defray all such charges as shall be found right and just; and your petitioners, as in duty bound, shall ever pray.

Also, Resolved, That said Jeremiah Obrian be paid out of the Treasury of this Colony the sum of one hundred Pounds, towards his account, exhibited with this Petition, he giving security for the same, with one surety, (to this Colony Treasurer,) until he brings proper vouchers to support said account.

The Committee on Lieutenant Lane's Petition made a verbal Report.

Ordered, That the Petitioner have leave to withdraw his Petition.

Ordered, That Major Hawley, Colonel Bowers, Col. Freeman, Colonel Orne, and Colonel Otis, be a Committee to confer with the Hon. John Hancock, Esq., and the gentlemen delegated by this Colony to represent it at the Continental Congress, with respect to the sum necessary to be drawn out of the Treasury to defray their expenses to and at Philadelphia, and also to receive any intelligence of the Proceedings of the Congress which the said Delegates may communicate, and to consider what matters are proper to be laid before them previous to their departure to Philadelphia.

Ordered, That Major Hawley, Mr. Cushing, and Col. Orne, with such as the honourable Board shall join, be a Committee to consider what Oaths are proper and necessary to be taken by the Officers, civil and military, who may be appointed by the honourable Board.

Sent up for concurrence.

The Bill declaratory of the right of Towns and Districts to send Representatives to the General Court. Read a third time, and passed to be engrossed.

In the fifteenth year of the Reign of GEORGE the Third, King, &c.

An Act declaratory of the right of certain Towns and Districts in the Colony of the MASSACHUSETTS-BAY, in NEW-ENGLAND, to elect and depute a Representative or Representatives to serve for and represent them in any Great and General Court or Assembly at any time to be held and kept for the service of the said Colony.

Whereas there are divers Acts or Laws, heretofore made and passed by former General Courts or Assemblies of this Colony, for the incorporation of Towns and Districts, which, against common right, and in derogation of the rights granted to the inhabitants of this Colony by the Charter, contain an exception to the right and privilege of choosing and sending a Representative or Representatives to the Great and General Court or Assembly:

Be it therefore enacted and declared by the Council and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, That henceforth every such exception contained in any Act or Law heretofore made and passed by any General Court or Assembly of this Colony, for the erecting or incorporating any Town or District, shall be held and taken to be altogether null and void; and that every Town and District in this Colony, consisting of the number of thirty or more freeholders and other inhabitants, qualified by Charter to vote in the election of Representatives, shall henceforth be held and taken to have full right, power, and privilege to elect and depute one or more persons, being freeholders and residents in such Town or District, to serve for and represent them in any Great and General Court or Assembly, entitled "An Act for ascertaining the number and regulating the House of Representatives," any exception of that right and privilege, as expressed in the respective Acts or Laws for the incorporation of such Town or District, notwithstanding.

And whereas in and by an Act or Law of this Colony, entitled "An Act for erecting part of the Town of Newbury into a new Town, by the name of Newburyport," it is enacted and provided, that the said Town of Newburyport should have the right of choosing and sending, from time to time, but one person to represent them in the Great and General Court of this Colony, and that the inhabitants of the Town of Newbury, from and after the time of the making and passing the said Act, should have a right to choose and send no more than one person to represent them in the Great and General Court of this Colony:

Be it enacted and declared by the authority aforesaid, That henceforth each of the said Towns of Newbury and Newburyport shall have the full power and right of choosing and sending as many persons to represent them respectively in the Great and General Court or Assembly of this Colony as each of the said Towns would have had a right to have chosen and sent to the said General Court by virtue of the abovementioned Act or Law, entitled "An Act for ascertaining the number and regulating the House of Representatives," in case there had not been any restrictions upon the said Towns touching their rights and privilege of choosing and sending persons to represent them respectively in the Great and General Court or Assembly contained or expressed in the said Act for the constituting and making that part of the former Town of Newbury, now called Newburyport, a distinct Town.

And be it further enacted and declared by the authority aforesaid, That every corporate body in this Colony which, in the act for the incorporation thereof, is said and declared to be made a District, and has by such act granted to it or is declared to be vested with the rights, powers, privileges, or immunities of a Town, with the exception abovementioned of choosing and sending a Representative to the Great and General Court or Assembly, shall henceforth be, and shall be holden, taken, and intended to be a Town, to all intents and purposes whatsoever.

"The Committee appointed to take into consideration the Memorial of the Officers of the Eastern Regiment of Militia in the County of Lincoln, beg leave to report, that the conduct of said Regiment of Militia in destroying Fort Pownall, and taking a number of vessels mentioned in said Memorial, is highly approved; that the Sloops mentioned as taken in said Memorial, together with their rigging and sails, be secured in some place or places of safety by the Selectmen and Committees of Correspondence of each Town in the County of Lincoln where these vessels now are, until the further order of this Court; that the Schooner taken as mentioned in said Memorial, be and remain in the care of the petitioners, to be by them employed in defence of the sea-coasts of those eastern parts, and the annoyance of our enemies, in the most prudent and effectual manner, until the further order of this Court; that the Boat or Barge mentioned in said Memorial be under the care of Colonel James Cargill, to be by him used and employed in the Colony service, until the further order of this Court; that Messrs. Phillips and Cruger be discharged, evidence appearing, from several persons of credit now out of Boston, that they have acted a friendly part, in several instances, to the great cause of liberty, and nothing appearing against them but only the Admiral's pass, without which, it is supposed, they could not go out of Boston with their vessels; and that Jonathan Carleton, mentioned also in said Memorial, and any others in the hands of our friends in said County of Lincoln, be discharged, if the Selectmen and Committees of Correspondence in those parts may judge it fit and proper, and consistent with the publick safety, otherwise to be kept in custody till further orders.

On the within Petition, Resolved, That the same be sent to the honourable Board, with the desire of this House that the prayer of the Petition be forthwith granted.

Read and accepted, and sent up for concurrence.

The Committee appointed to consider the Petition from the Town of Salem* reported. Read and accepted, viz:

On a Petition from the Town of Salem, complaining of many illiberal reflections being cast by some individuals, respecting the conduct of said Town in the present dispute between Great Britain and the Colonies:

Resolved, That notwithstanding many ungenerous aspersions have been cast on said Town, there is nothing appears to this Court in the conduct thereof inimical to the liberties and privileges of America; but on the contrary, in many instances, its exertions have been such as have done its inhabitants much honour, and been of great advantage to the Colony.

In Council, August 23, 1775: Read and concurred.

*To the Honourable the General Court of MASSACHUSETTS-BAY:

The Town of Salem humbly sheweth, that many calumnies and misrepresentations having been made and industriously propagated, concerning the conduct of the Town upon and since the 19th of April last, in consequence of which its character has been greatly injured, and some of its inhabitants insulted and abused, the Town thinks it a point of duty to take effectual steps to vindicate its innocence, and procure a redress of those grievances which are too many and too heavy any longer silently to be endured, and therefore beg leave to give the following detail of facts: On the 19th of April, very soon after authentic intelligence arrived of the barbarous deeds of the King's Troops at Lexington, the inhabitants mustered in arms, and near three hundred marched off, and directed their course according to the intelligence they were continually receiving on the road of the situation of the Troops; but though they marched with as much despatch as was possible, consistent with their being fit for action after so long a march as they must necessarily make, yet they arrived in sight of the Troops not till the last of them were marching up Bunker's Hill. Why the inhabitants of Salem should be so highly censured for their conduct on this occasion, the Town cannot conceive. Thousands of men, nearer, much nearer the scene of action, either staid at home, or arrived no sooner than the Salem Militia; from Milton, and its environs in particular, the Militia got as far as Cambridge only, at the same time that the Salem Militia arrived at Charlestown; yet, by a strange and unaccountable partiality, the inhabitants of Salem only are reproached, and the multitudes near at hand, who never stirred an inch, or, though they lived but at half the distance, arrived as late as the Salem Militia, are entirely excused. In short, it is most absurdly declared by many, that if the Salem Militia had not been negligent and pusillanimous, the King's Troops must have been entirely cut off; that is, fewer than three hundred men could have done infinitely more, in one or two hours, than the whole body of Militia assembled had been able to perform that day. Very soon after the battle at Lexington, (and at a time when considerable quantities of fresh meat were carried into Boston over the Neck and Charlestown Ferry,) in consequence of a letter from Captain Bishop, of the Lively, Man-of-War, then stationed off our port, his people were allowed to purchase one-quarter of beef for the ship's use, and afterwards a few loose pieces of beef, in the whole less than one quarter; afterwards, at three or four different times, they were permitted to purchase one or two quarters of veal each time, for the use of the cabin. About two months ago, Captain Dawson, in a very obliging manner, requested the Committee of Safety to suffer to be procured, for his own use, a little fresh meat. The Committee allowed him two quarters of veal, and no more. These trifles are all the provisions suffered to be taken by the Committee from Salem, for the use of men employed in the King's service, and about which some people have made such a clamour, as though the King's Troops had from Salem a constant supply of fresh meat. There was, indeed, a quantity of old Quebeck bread stored at Salem so long ago as in July, 1774, the property of Mr. Brymer, of Boston, and which was offered for the use of our Army, but it was so bad that it was rejected; so Mr. Brymer desired leave to take it away, which was granted: this was at the time when persons had liberty, by a resolve of Congress, to retire to Boston with their effects. During the time that boats were continually passing to and from Boston, to bring out the distressed inhabitants, the Committee permitted a few things to be sent thither; but they are too trifling to be mentioned: a pot of about ten or twelve pounds of butter to Doctor Elliot; about half as much to the wife of one of the Selectmen; and, perhaps, a few pounds of meat to some others, sent by some Boston gentlemen, at the earnest importunity of their suffering friends. During the same period, the Committee were informed that one boat, under the direction of one Badger, formerly an auctioneer in Boston, had more than once carried beef and veal; and it was suggested that the Troops were thereby supplied. The Committee immediately ordered the boat should be stopped on her next arrival; and, as she sometimes arrived in the night, directed the Town Watchmen, in that case, to detain the people. This was done, and Badger and his partner were brought before the Committee and exam-

The Committee appointed to consider the Petition of Lydia Paddock,* reported. Read, and accepted.

Ordered, That the Petitioner notify the Committee of Inspection of the Town of Middleborough, by serving Caleb Thompson, one of said Committee, with an attested copy of this Petition and Order, to show cause, if any they have, on Tuesday, the 22d instant, if this Court be then sitting, if not, on the first Wednesday of the next meeting of the same, why the prayer of this Petition should not be granted.

In Council, August 18, 1775: Read and concurred.

Charles Chauncy, Esq., brought down from the honourable Board the form of an Oath necessary to be taken by the Officers, civil and military, who may be appointed by the honourable Board.

Mr. Jewet and Captain Partridge were joined to the Committee appointed to make up the Pay-Roll, in the room of Major Fuller and Mr. Dix, absent.

Then the House adjourned to eight o'clock, to-morrow morning.

Friday, August 18, 1775.

The Town of Newbury returned Mr. Samuel Moody, to serve as a Representative, in the room of the Hon. Joseph Gerrish, Esq., elected to the Board.

The Report of the Committee appointed to consider ined; they declared that they supplied only the inhabitants of Boston; and from the testimony of some Boston people, and the certificates Badger brought from thence, the Committee judged they told the truth. Nevertheless, to prevent the possibility of misapplication of such provisions, the Committee ordered that no more should be carried to Boston; and effectually to guard against the unfaithfulness of any whom inclination or the hope of gain might prompt to transgress, the Committee further ordered the pass should be taken from every boat and vessel as soon as it arrived at Salem, and not delivered, on their departure, till they had been thoroughly searched, and it was found that they had no provisions on board, except what were barely necessary for the use of the boatmen or crews in their passages backward and forward; and a Sub-Committee were appointed weekly to see that these orders were punctually complied with. Some complaint has been made because the Custom-House boat has been suffered to pass, now and then, to and from Boston; but for the particulars relative to this matter, the Town begs leave to refer the honourable Court to Mr. Derby, who is a member of the Committee of Safety; the Committee apprehended no evil could arise from it, and considering the occasion, judged it right that the boat should be permitted to pass. This, may it please the honourable Court, is a brief, though faithful narrative of facts; hence it may be judged how injuriously the Town of Salem has been treated. The Town cannot forbear to express its astonishment what could occasion the reproach so liberally thrown upon us. What motives could be imagined sufficient to tempt us to neglect the duty we owe to ourselves, our posterity, and our Country? What proofs have we given of our insensibility, that we should neither dread the curses of slavery nor feel the blessings of liberty? What could we have done more than we have done to secure the latter to ourselves and all our dearest connexions? When the balance of publick affairs being most doubtful; when neither money nor the means of payment were provided, and the sentiments of the Continent were unknown, then Salem furnished every needful supply in its power as soon as the Army's wants were known; how readily and to how great amount the Committee of Supplies and the Treasurer can inform. We have continued these supplies, and the Town is drained. What more remains for us to do? Such, may it please the honourable Court, having been our conduct, as the Town has been publicly injured and defamed, we may justly pray for a publick vindication by the honourable Court; without which our wrongs will be continued, and probably increased.

A true copy: TIMOTHY PICKERING, Jun., Town Clerk.

In a legal and full Town-meeting at Salem, the 10th August, 1775, The foregoing Petition having been repeatedly read and deliberately considered, Voted, (without one negative voice,) That the Town approve of the same, and that the Town Clerk deliver an attested copy thereof to the Representatives of the Town, to be presented to the General Court. Attested:

TIMOTHY PICKERING, Jun., Town Clerk.

*To the Honourable the Council and House of Representatives of the MASSACHUSETTS-BAY, in NEW-ENGLAND:

Most humbly sheweth Lydia Paddock, wife of Thomas Paddock, of Middleborough, in behalf of her husband aforesaid, that he, the said Thomas, fitted out a vessel for the West-Indies, laden with Lumber, and had a clearance for the same, and the consent of the Committee for the voyage; but by some evil-minded person the vessel was stopped proceeding on her voyage, and the said Thomas is confined to his farm, as your petitioner supposeth, under an apprehension of being unfriendly to his Country: but no evidence is produced by which he has justly forfeited the esteem and favour of his countrymen. His vessel and cargo are spoiling, himself and family suffering, and he totally ignorant of any thing he has done contrary to the safety of his Country, or the advice of the Continental or Provincial Congresses. Therefore your petitioner most humbly prays the interposition of this honourable Court, and that your petitioner's husband may proceed on said voyage with said vessel and cargo, having no other design but to benefit himself and his Country. And your petitioner, as in duty bound, shall ever pray.

*To the Honourable Great and General Court assembled at WATERTOWN on the 19th of JULY, A. D. 1775:
The Petition of Edward Emerson humbly sheweth: That whereas your Memorialist was appointed, by Colonel James Cargill and the officers of his Regiment, in the County of Lincoln, to convey to this honourable Court Messrs. Peleg Crooker and Nathaniel Phillips, supposed being guilty of violating the law of Congress, to which they have been heard before said honourable Court, your Petitioner humbly prays that the honourable Court would allow your Petitioner, for himself, one man, and two horses, time and expenses, from Booth-Bay to Watertown, and from Watertown to said Booth-Bay, which is about four hundred miles, out and home; and have been on the journey and here ten days. ‡To the Honourable Council and House of Representatives for the Colony of the MASSACHUSETTS-BAY, assembled at WATERTOWN:
Humbly sheweth the Representatives in some of the Towns in the County of Lincoln, in behalf of said County, that the unhappy dispute between England and the United Colonies in America, whereby the exportation of lumber has ceased, and the providence of God in a great measure cutting off our hopes from the English harvest by drought and mildew, have at present rendered bread extremely scarce amongst us, and unless supplied from abroad we must be soon wholly destitute of it; and that such is the laudable jealousy and zeal of the people in said County for the cause of liberty, that no vessel is permitted to sail with lumber for corn to any port without license first obtained from the General Court, the expense and delay of which would, in almost all cases, wholly hinder the voyage: Wherefore, your petitioners hum-of the Inhabitants at the Eastward, reported. Read and accepted.

Resolved, That the Selectmen and Committees of Correspondence of the Towns in the County of Lincoln be empowered to grant Permits to such masters of vessels as live within their respective Towns and Districts, who are known to be friendly to the liberties of America, to sail to any of the Southern Colonies on this Continent, and no where else, with Lumber, to procure Provisions, without molestation from the Inhabitants of said County, till the further order of this Court.

In Council, August 18, 1775: Read and concurred.

John Taylor, Esq., brought down a Letter from Joseph Reed, Esq., Secretary to General Washington, relative to one William Minns, late Keeper of the Light-house.

The following Accounts were committed to the Committee on Accounts, viz:

William Stickney, Esq., for going after Powder.

Col. Jonathan Grout's, for procuring Shirts, Breeches, &c.

Dr. William Whiting's, for his time and expenses on a journey to New-York and Philadelphia.

Daniel Perry's, for procuring Spears.

The Committee on Colonel Arnold's Account reported the following Resolve, viz:

That there be allowed out of the publick Treasury, to Doctor Ebenezer Marvin, one hundred and ninety-eight Pounds, eight Shillings, and six Pence, in full for Captain Ezra Buell's Muster-Roll, he giving security to the Treasurer to pay the several men their several wages, as mentioned in the Roll exhibited, deducting four days from each Officer and private Soldier's pay.

Joseph Gerrish, Esq., brought down from the honourable Board the Petition of William Nichols, requesting liberty to carry a quantity of Cord Wood to Nantucket, to enable him to carry on his Clothier's business.

Read, and committed to Colonel Sawyer, Deacon Nichols, and Colonel Cutts.

Ordered, That Captain Partridge, Colonel Cushing, and Colonel Sawyer, be a Committee to examine the Resolves of Congress and Order of this House, with respect to furnishing this Colony with Fire-Arms and other Accoutrements, and report to this House accordingly.

On the Petition of Dr. Ebenezer Marvin,*

Resolved, That there be allowed and paid out of the publick Treasury of this Colony, unto the within-named bly pray your Honours that the Committees of Correspondence in the several Towns and Plantations in said County may be authorized to grant permits to such masters of vessels as live within their respective Districts, and are known to be friendly to the cause of liberty, and are willing to risk their lives and interest, to sail to any of the Southern Colonies with lumber to procure provisions without molestation from any person amongst us; or otherwise relieve said inhabitants as your Honours in your wisdom shall think proper. And your Petitioners, as in duty bound, shall ever pray.

*To the Honourable Council and House of Representatives, now sitting in WATERTOWN, in the Colony of the MASSACHUSETTS-BAY:

Your Memorialist humbly sheweth: That on the twelfth day of May last he was employed by Colonel Benedict Arnold, at the Posts of Ticonderoga and Crown Point; on the 20th May received orders from the said Colonel Arnold to proceed to the City of Albany with the Prisoners that were taken at St. John's, and to purchase such necessities as could not be avoided, for the use of said Regiment; being at Still-water on the 24th, 25th, and 27th days of May, when the greatest part of the recruited number of Captain Buell's Company were enlisted, and receiving intelligence by Colonel Arnold's letter of the advice the said Colonel Arnold had received from St. John's, notifying that the King's Troops there were preparing to come and retake the said Posts of Crown Point and Ticonderoga, wherein the said Colonel Arnold begged the utmost exertions of the inhabitants to come to his assistance in securing and keeping said Posts of Crown Point and Ticonderoga, your Memorialist made use of his influence, as far as it would extend, to encourage the young men of his neighbourhood and acquaintance to enlist in said Buell's Company, and did advance considerable sums of money as advance pay to the said Company, to encourage them to enter the then very necessary service, without which said Company could not have been raised, and did further advance considerable sums of money to the said Company, for their necessary support in service, which by receipts from under their hands will appear, which money was to be repaid out of their wages; he therefore has taken order to receive the money on said pay-roll, and did, by a petition and an account, lay the same before this House, together with his own account, and has waited on this honourable Court these twenty days for a settlement of the same. Your Memorialist, therefore, humbly and earnestly requests of this Court that they direct the Committee thereon appointed

Marvin, the sum of four Pounds, ten Shillings, for his services as mentioned in his Petition.

Sent up for concurrence.

And if Colonel Arnold shall hereafter produce a receipt from Colonel Easton, of the delivery of said Oxen, Cows, and Horses, &c., he is to be allowed for the same.

*To the Honourable the Council and House of Representatives of the Colony of the MASSACHUSETTS-BAY, assembled at WATERTOWN, the 19th day of JULY, A. D. 1775:

The Petition of Benjamin Foster and Jeremiah Obrian, in behalf of the inhabitants of Machias, humbly sheweth: That whereas your Petitioners have been at great expense in fixing a Privateer for the defence of the place, and its situation is such that it may be easily blocked up by a small vessel and stop all communication. We entreat with submission that there may be commissions for the officers, and some men stationed on board of her, to be ready on any emergency, to take the Troops on board that are stationed there, when thought proper by our Committee: otherwise, we humbly conceive that if said Privateer should engage an Armed Vessel, and be taken, (which we are determined by divine assistance never to be,) we shall be deemed and treated as pirates. We would also inform your Honours that there is an estate belonging to Ichabod Jones, formerly of Boston, in the hands of Stephen Jones, of Machias. Your Petitioners humbly beg that your Honours would take it into consideration, and order said estate to be taken care of by the Committee of Safety at Machias, or some proper person that your Honours shall point out; and that the income of said estate may defray some of the charges that have arisen by reason of said Jones being an enemy to his Country. We would inform your Honours that in taking the first tender, one of the men that was killed has left a poor helpless widow and six small children, entirely destitute of the necessities of life; and a number of wounded men have lost their whole summer by being wounded, and will stand in great need of some relief. If your Honours, after consideration, would be pleased to give directions so that the profits of said Jones's estate may be applied for the benefit of those that have met with these misfortunes, your Petitioners, as in duty bound, shall ever pray.

fence of the Sea-Coasts, and are in continual danger of having their Harbour blocked up by the Tenders and Armed Vessels of our enemies: Therefore, Resolved, That proper Officers be commissioned to take the command of said Vessels, and that the Commanding Officer who shall be appointed be authorized to enlist a proper number of Seamen, not exceeding thirty, to navigate each of said Vessels; and that said Officers and Seamen shall be under such pay of this Colony as shall be hereafter allowed. And that the Commanding Officer of said Vessels, from time to time, be directed to apply to the Committee of Safety of said Machias, for Men to man said Vessels upon any emergency, from the Company which is to be stationed at said Machias, under the command of Captain Stephen Smith; and said Committee are empowered to order said Men accordingly, and when so ordered by the Committee of Safety, on board, they are to be under the command of the Commanding Officer of said Vessels.

And whereas Ichabod Jones, late of Machias, a known enemy to the rights and liberties of America, has fled, leaving at Machias a considerable estate, real and personal: It is therefore recommended to the Committee of Safety of that place to take effectual care of said estate, agreeable to the resolves and recommendations of the late Provincial Congress.

A Bill to confirm or establish the Resolves of the several Provincial Congresses of this Colony. Read the third time, and passed to be engrossed.

In the fifteenth year of GEORGE the Third, King, &c.

An Act to confirm and establish the Resolves of the several Provincial Congresses of this Colony.

Whereas this oppressed Colony has, for many months past, been deprived of the free exercise of its usual powers of Government, which has necessarily occasioned the publick business thereof to be conducted by Congresses; and as many matters of the greatest importance for the recovery and preservation of that liberty which God, nature and compact have given to this People, have been resolved, done and transacted by Provincial Congresses, some of which have not yet had their full effect; and whereas the legality of such Resolves, doings and transactions, may hereafter be called in question, and may occasion much litigation, unless confirmed and established in some known constitutional manner:

Be it therefore enacted by the Council and House of Representatives of this Colony in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, That all and every of the Resolves, doings and transactions of the several Provincial Congresses of this Colony, from and after the fourth day of October, one thousand seven hundred and seventy-four, to the twentieth day of July, one thousand seven hundred and seventy-five, be, and they hereby are confirmed and established as lawful and valid, to all intents, constructions and purposes whatsoever, as fully and effectually as if the same Resolves, doings and transactions had been done by any General Court or Assembly of this Colony.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That whenever any person or persons shall be sued or prosecuted before any Superior Court of Judicature, Court of Assize and General Jail Delivery, or before any Inferiour Court of Common Pleas, or any Court of General Sessions of the Peace, or before any single Magistrate, for any thing done in obedience to, or in compliance with any of the Resolves, doings, recommendations or other proceedings of said Congresses, such person or persons shall and may give this Act and the Record of the Resolves, doings and transactions of the several Provincial Congresses aforesaid in evidence under the general issue, and the same thus given in evidence shall avail, to all intents and purposes, as if the same were specially pleaded; any law, usage or custom to the contrary notwithstanding.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the Records of the Resolves, doings and transactions of the several Provincial Congresses aforesaid be immediately lodged and forever hereafter kept in the Secretary's Office of this Colony; and that the Secretary shall copy and authenticate all such Records of said Resolves, doings and transactions as shall be demanded of him, to be used in any of the Courts aforesaid; which copies so authenticated shall be received in full evidence in said Courts of all such Resolves, doings and transactions.

It is Resolved, That Dr. Whiting, Deacon Baker, of Boston, and Captain John Peck, be a Committee, whose business it shall be faithfully and diligently to apply themselves to the manufacturing of Saltpetre, for the space of three months from the first day of September, 1775, jointly or severally, in such places in this Colony as they shall judge most suitable for that purpose; and they are hereby directed to use all diligence to discover the most eligible and successful method of manufacturing that important commodity, and to communicate all the useful knowledge they shall acquire in said business to all such as request it of them, and that they from time to time publish, in the newspapers or otherwise, all the useful discoveries they may make in the progress of said business; and each of the said Committee shall be allowed and paid out of the publick Treasury of this Colony, for the said term of three months, four Shillings per day for every day they shall be employed in said service, as a reward for the aforesaid service.

And it is further Resolved, That it be strongly recommended to the inhabitants of the several Towns in this Colony that they exert themselves in promoting this important manufacture, as the surest means of preserving their own lives, liberties and estates; of insuring the salvation of their Country and its future prosperity, by erecting one or more Saltpetre works, in each Town where it may be done with probable success; and that they not only thoroughly attend to the working of those materials from which Saltpetre may be speedily procured without any previous management, but that they also take especial care to collect together under proper sheds those materials (the knowledge of which may be easily obtained from publications) which, by fermenting and putrefying together, will in due time afford Saltpetre with ease and in great plenty.

And it is further Resolved, That the several methods of making Saltpetre recommended by the honourable Continental Congress to the United Colonies be immediately reprinted, together with the foregoing Resolves, and that there be added thereto, by way of appendix, the method of making Saltpetre practised by Doctor Graham, and that one of the pamphlets be sent to the Selectmen of each Town within this Colony; and that Dr. Whiting procure the reprinting the several methods recommended by the honourable Continental Congress for making Saltpetre, together with the foregoing Resolves, and distribute them agreeable thereto.

*To the Gentlemen of the House of Representatives at WATERTOWN:

We, your humble petitioners, being Armourers in the service of the Province of Massachusetts-Bay, do desire your Honours would grant us our request, as we have worked some considerable time without any regulation, and without receiving any pay; and not knowing the price we work for, and not having any encouragement to work only for the good of our Country; and as many of us have families, and depend upon our wages for their subsistence, we therefore pray your Honours that you would give us immediate relief, by putting in a head armourer, and paying us some money, which we stand in need of, and cannot carry on our business and live comfortably without. We therefore pray your Honours that you would provide some house or some comfortable place for us, and some person to cook for us, as one or two of us have every day to attend the cooking business; which is detrimental to the Country.

to get coats for the non-commissioned officers and soldiers belonging to said Regiment, in this part of the Country, will be attended with many difficulties, but from the inquiry which they have made they apprehend that the Regiment in general would much rather take the value of them in money, if paid soon; and further, that this would give particular satisfaction to one Company, to whom, by order of the Colonel, it was promised to be paid before they should march, and that they are made quiet at present by a promise that said money should be applied for immediately. That Colonel Easton, by written orders, has directed them to furnish each Company with carriages, over and above their billeting money, to transport their packs; and as your petitioners supposed they had no authority, either by warrant or resolve, to do this, difficulty arose here, also; therefore, they pray to be instructed in this matter as soon as possible. SAMUEL BROWN, JUN.

STOCKBRIDGE, August 16, 1775.

* The humble memorial, information, and petition of Timothy Edwards and Samuel Brown, Jun., sheweth: That they, in prosecution of the service to which they were appointed, have paid billeting money to three Companies, lately raised in the County of Berkshire, belonging to Colonel James Easton's Regiment, which, according to the establishment of one Penny per mile, amounted to one hundred and two Pounds, seven Shillings; that five Companies are yet to be paid, four of which are said to be now at Crown Point, the other now raising in said County, which, they are told, is not yet full; that one hundred Pounds only has been ordered and delivered to them for this purpose, but, according to what has been paid, one hundred and seventy Pounds will be yet wanting to complete this service. That mess-pots or kettles being wanted immediately, and pots not to be bought nearer than New-York, they have engaged seventy tin kettles and eight brass washing kettles: also, according to General Montgomery's recommendation, they have presumed to furnish forty tents, and shall proceed to furnish thirty more, unless instructed to the contrary; that the tents and kettles were bought in Albany, for which they could not pass the notes of this Colony, except upon their promise that they would redeem them, if required. That it appears to them of importance that the Committee of Safety of the Colony of New-York be consulted on this head, as this Regiment must suffer much, and with foundation will complain, if they should not be able to pass their notes for such necessities and conveniences as must come to them out of the Province of New-York; and further, if the Committee of Supplies should be obliged to redeem the notes which they have or may pass in that Province, it will give them much trouble, and doubtless be some expense to this Colony. That PRINCE GEORGE: Richard Bland and Peter Poythress, Esquires.

 PRINCESS ANNE: William Robinson, Esq.
 PRINCE WILLIAM: Henry Lee and Thomas Blackburn, Esquires.

 SOUTHAMPTON: Edwin Gray, Esq.
 SPOTTSYLVANIA: George Stubblefield and Mann Page, Jun., Esquires.
 STAFFORD: Charles Carter and Thomas Ludwell Lee, Esquires.
 SURRY: Allen Cocke and Nicholas Faulcon, Esqs.
 SUSSEX: David Mason and Henry Gce, Esquires.
 WARWICK: William Langhorne, Esq.

The Hon. Peyton Randolph, Esq., was unanimously elected President of this Convention, and Mr. John Tazewell, Clerk.

Resolved, That this Convention will observe, in their debates and proceedings, the same Rules and Orders as are established in the House of Burgesses of this Colony.

Resolved, That the Rev. Miles Selden be appointed Chaplain to this Convention, and that he be desired to read Prayers every morning at eight o'clock; and also to preach a Sermon on Thursday next, being the day recommended by the General Congress to be kept as a solemn Fast.

Tuesday, July 18, 1775.

On a motion made,

Resolved, That this Convention will immediately resolve itself into a Committee to take into consideration the state of the Colony.

The Convention accordingly resolved itself into the said Committee; and after some time spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Bland reported, that the Committee had had under their consideration the state of the Colony, but not having time to go through the same, had directed him to move for leave to sit again.

Resolved, That this Convention will to-morrow resolve itself into a Committee to take under their further consideration the state of the Colony.

A Petition of William Preston, Gentleman, Surveyor of Fincastle County, setting forth, that early in the month of April last he had received instructions from Lord Dunmore to survey Lands in the uninhabited parts of this Colony, agreeably to a Proclamation his Lordship had just then issued, and which was under the consideration of the late Convention; but as there was then no final determination respecting it, he apprehended the same was tacitly allowed, to prevent disputes among the first settlers of such Lands. That he gave directions to his assistants to survey a small district of Land each, until it could be known what report the Committee appointed by the late Convention would make. That he hath given the strongest assurances no survey should be returned, under the said instructions, without the approbation of the House of Burgesses, or this Convention; yet that many persons were displeased with his conduct, not knowing the motives on which he acted. And praying that this Convention will take the same under their most serious consideration, as nothing is further from his intentions than to carry into execution any ministerial instructions contrary to the chartered rights or real interest of his Country, let the consequence be what it will to his family or private emolument.

Also a Petition from the Committee of Fincastle County, complaining that surveys had been made in consequence of Lord Dunmore's Proclamation and Instructions, contrary to the ancient usage of taking up Lands in this Colony, which were likely to be the occasion of much confusion and litigation; and praying the advice of this Convention in the premises, were severally presented to the Convention, and read.

Ordered, That the said Petitions be referred to Mr. Nicholas, Mr. Bland, Mr. Cary, Mr. Mercer, Mr. Lewis, Mr. Jones, Mr. Carrington, Mr. Rootes, and Mr. Thomas Walker; and that they inquire into the allegations thereof, and report the same, with their opinion thereupon, to the Convention.

Adjourned till to-morrow, nine o'clock.

Wednesday, July 19, 1775.

Resolved, That the Rev. Charles Minn Thruston be desired to read prayers to this Convention, and to preach to-morrow, in the room of the Rev. Miles Selden, who is at present indisposed.

The Order of the Day being read, the Convention resolved itself into a Committee to take into their further consideration the state of the Colony; and after some time spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Bland reported, that the Committee had had the same under their consideration, and had come to a Resolution thereon; which he read in his place, and then delivered it in at the Clerk's table, where the same was again twice and agreed to, as follows:

Resolved, That it is the opinion of this Committee, that a sufficient Armed Force be immediately raised and embodied, under proper Officers, for the defence and protection of this Colony.

Ordered, That Mr. Bland, Mr. Robert Carter Nicholas, Mr. Mercer, Mr. Jones, Mr. George Mason, Mr. Rootes, Mr. Stephen, Mr. Zane, Mr. Bannister, Mr. Blackburn, Mr. Thruston, Mr. Thomas Ludwell Lee, Mr. Braxton, Mr. Nelson, Mr. Woodford, Mr. Henry Lee, and Mr. Christian, do prepare and bring in an Ordinance pursuant to the said Resolution.

Resolved, That this Convention will again resolve itself into a Committee, on Friday next, to take into their further consideration the state of the Colony.

Adjourned till Friday, nine o'clock.

Ordered, That the said Proceedings and Resolutions be referred to the Committee appointed to prepare and bring in an Ordinance for raising and embodying a sufficient Force for the defence and protection of this Colony.

A Petition of sundry persons, Freeholders of the County of Berkeley, complaining of an undue election and return of Mr. Adam Stephen to serve in this Convention for the County of Berkeley, and also the Proceedings of the Committee of the said County relating thereto, were presented to the Convention, and read.

Ordered, That the said Petition and Proceedings be referred to Mr. Digges, Mr. Robert Carter Nicholas, Mr. Bland, Mr. Cary, Mr. Jones, Mr. Braxton, Mr. Fitzhugh, Mr. Carter of Stafford, Mr. Carter of Lancaster, Mr. Carrington, Mr. Nelson, Mr. David Mason, Mr. Bassett, Mr. Dandridge, Mr. Holt, Mr. Henry Lee, Mr. Richard Lee, Mr. Mercer, Mr. Fleming, Mr. Page, and Mr. McDowell; and they are to examine the matter thereof, and report the same, together with their opinion thereupon, to the Convention.

Resolved, That eleven of the said Committee be a sufficient number to proceed on business.

Resolved, That it be an instruction to the Committee appointed to prepare and bring in an Ordinance for raising and embodying a sufficient Force for the defence and protection of this Colony, that they receive a clause, or clauses, for the pay and support of the Forces so to be raised.

Ordered, That Mr. Marshall, Mr. Dandridge, and Mr. Rutherford, be added to the said Committee.

Adjourned till to-morrow nine o'clock.

Saturday, July 22, 1775.

Richard Bland, Esq., a Member of this Convention, and one of the Deputies appointed to represent this Colony in General Congress, informed the Convention, that certain false and scandalous reports, highly reflecting on him in his publick character, had been propagated: to wit, that he had made application to the Earl of Dartmouth, or some of the Ministry, for an appointment to collect the Taxes imposed on America by Parliament; and that, as an inducement to them to grant the same, had promised to promote the designs of the Ministry against this Country; and, also, that his conduct in General Congress had been such that he was obliged suddenly to decamp from the City of Philadelphia. That he had served as a Member of the General Assembly for upwards of thirty years, and hoped the part he had always publicly taken would have secured him, in his age, from an imputation so injurious to his character. That he earnestly requested a full and publick inquiry should be made into the truth of the said reports; and that the Rev. Samuel Shield, the Rev. John Hurt, and Samuel Overton, and Joseph Smith, who, he understood, had propagated the said reports, should be summoned to attend the said inquiry; and that every other person who had heard any thing of the said reports would also attend, that the fullest examination might be made into the truth thereof.

Resolved, That this Convention will, on Friday next, examine into the truth of the reports mentioned in the said information.

Ordered, That Mr. Thomas Claiborne be appointed Messenger to this Convention; and that he summon the Rev. Samuel Shield, the Rev. John Hurt, and Samuel Overton, and Joseph Smith, to attend this Convention on Friday next.

Ordered, That Mr. Travis be added to the Committee appointed to prepare and bring in an Ordinance for raising and embodying a sufficient Force for the defence of this Colony.

Adjourned till Monday, nine o'clock.

Monday, July 24, 1775.

The President laid before the Convention a Letter just received from the Deputies appointed to represent this Colony in General Congress, enclosing several Resolutions and Proceedings of the General Congress; which were read, and ordered to lie on the table.

On a motion made, Resolved, That no Flour, Wheat, or other Grain, or Provisions of any kind, be exported from this Colony to any part of the world, from and after the fifth day of August next, until the Convention or Assembly, or the honourable the Continental Congress, shall order otherwise; that no quantities of the said articles, more than are necessary for the use of the inhabitants, be brought to, collected, or stored in the Towns, or other places, upon or near the navigable waters; that the respective County Committees be directed to take care that this Resolve be effectually carried into execution, and that all contracts made for the sale and delivery of any such articles for exportation, between this time and the tenth day of September next, be considered as null and void.

Ordered, That Mr. Thomas Walker be added to the Committee appointed to prepare and bring in an Ordinance for raising and embodying a sufficient Force for the defence and protection of this Colony.

Adjourned till to-morrow, nine o'clock.

Tuesday, July 25, 1775.

Ordered, That Mr. Cary, Mr. William Cabell, Mr. Bassett, Mr. Harvey, Mr. Clarke, Mr. Lewis, Mr. Peyton, Mr. John Nicholas, and Mr. Carrington, be added to the Committee appointed to prepare and bring in an Ordinance for raising and embodying a sufficient Force for the defence and protection of this Colony.

A Memorial of the Committee for the County of Ches-terfield was presented to the Convention, and read; setting forth, that doubts had arisen whether the Volunteers raised for the defence of this Colony were under the command of the Officers of the Militia, which were likely to be productive of many inconveniences; and praying that the same may be taken into consideration, and that such regulations may be made therein as will best answer the design of the Convention in raising the said Volunteers.

Ordered, That the said Memorial be referred to the consideration of the Committee appointed to prepare and bring in an Ordinance for raising and embodying a sufficient Force for the defence and protection of this Colony.

The Committee to whom the late Treaty with the different Tribes of Indians at Pittsburgh, together with several Resolutions of the Committee on the Western Waters of Augusta County, were referred, reported, that they had had the same under their consideration, and come to the following Resolutions:

Resolved, That it is the opinion of this Committee, that the Committee of the County of Augusta have acted with the greatest propriety and prudence; and that the expenses of the Treaty, and the money advanced in presents to the Indians, ought to be reimbursed by the publick.

Resolved, That it is the opinion of this Committee, that two Companies, of one hundred men each, besides Officers, ought, with all convenient speed, to be stationed at Pittsburgh; one other Company, of one hundred men, at Point Pleasant; twenty-five men at Fort Fincastle, at the mouth of Wheeling; and that one hundred men be stationed at proper posts in the County of Fincastle; for the protection of the inhabitants on the southwestern frontiers, exclusive of the Troops to be raised for the defence of the lower parts of the country.

The said Resolutions being severally read a second time, were agreed to by the Convention.

Resolved, That the thanks of this Convention be presented to the Committee on the Western Waters of Augusta, for their great prudence in conducting the Treaty with the Indians, and securing the important Fort at Pittsburgh.

Ordered, That Patrick Kirk be paid as a Publick Express for bringing down the Treaty with the Indians, and other proceedings relating thereto, to this Convention.

Resolved, That eleven of the Committee appointed to prepare and bring in an Ordinance for raising and embodying a sufficient Force for the defence and protection of this Colony, be a sufficient number to proceed on business.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in an Ordinance for regulating the election of Delegates and Committees for the several Counties and Corporations in this Colony; and that Mr. Cary, Mr. Digges, Mr. Watkins, Mr. Lawson, Mr. Ruffin, and Mr. Banister, do prepare and bring in the same.

Ordered, That Mr. William Dandridge, Jun., be appointed Clerk to the Committee appointed to prepare and bring in an Ordinance for raising and embodying a sufficient Force for the defence and protection of this Colony.

Adjourned till Thursday, nine o'clock.

Thursday, July 27, 1775.

Resolved, That this Convention will, to-morrow, resolve itself into a Committee to take under consideration the state of the Colony.

Ordered, That the Letter from the Deputies appointed to represent this Colony in General Congress, together with the papers enclosed therein, be referred to the said Committee.

The Committee to whom the Petition of sundry Inhabitants of the County of Berkley was referred, reported that they had had the same under their consideration, agreed upon a Report, and come to a Resolution thereupon; which was read, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same was again twice read, and agreed to by the Convention as follows:

It appears to your Committee that Colonel Adam Stephen, with the approbation of some of the Committee of the County of Berkley, caused notice to be given, appointed a day for the election of Delegates to represent the said County in General Convention, and that such notice was published about ten days before the day of election, but was not generally known by the inhabitants of the said County; it appearing to your Committee that the inhabitants of two Precincts of the said County were almost wholly unacquainted therewith, and therefore did not attend on the day of election. It also appears to your Committee that Colonel Adam Stephen, who was Commander-in-Chief of the said County, had, previous to his appointing the day of election of Delegates, ordered a general muster of the Militia on the same day, at which a considerable number of people attended, and were exercised and kept under arms for several hours, and were then marched directly to the Court-House, and proceeded immediately to vote for Delegates to represent the said County in General Convention.

Resolved, That it is the opinion of this Committee, that the election of Delegates for the County of Berkley was irregular, and that the freeholders of the said County, after due and regular notice being publicly given, ought to proceed to a new election of Delegates to represent them in General Convention.

A Letter from Ouconostota, the great Indian Warrior, was laid before the Convention, and read.

Ordered, That the said Letter, together with the other papers relative to Indian affairs, be referred to the Committee appointed to take into consideration the state of the Colony.

Adjourned till to-morrow, nine o'clock.

Friday, July 28, 1775.

Ordered, That Mr. David Mason and Mr. Read be added to the Committee appointed to prepare and bring in an Ordinance for raising and embodying a sufficient Force for the defence and protection of this Colony.

The Convention, according to the Order of the Day, went into an examination of the reports said to have been propagated to the prejudice of Richard Bland, Esquire, a Member of this Convention, and one of the Deputies appointed to represent this Colony in General Congress; and, after examination of the Rev. Samuel Shield, and the Rev. John Hurt, and many other witnesses, and a full inquiry into the same, do find the said reports to be utterly false and groundless, and tending not only to injure the said Richard Bland in his publick character, but to prejudice the glorious cause in which America is now embarked.

Resolved unanimously, That this Convention do consider it as their duty to bear to the world their testimony that the said Richard Bland hath manifested himself the friend of his Country, and uniformly stood forth an able assertor of her rights and liberties.

Ordered, That the President be desired to transmit a copy of the Proceedings of this Convention, relative to the said inquiry, to the General Congress.

On the motion of Mr. Bland,

Ordered, That it be an instruction to the Committee of Correspondence that they also transmit a copy of the said Proceedings to Arthur Lee, Esq., in London, and request him to make strict inquiry for the authors and propagators of the said reports in England.

The President laid before the Convention a Letter from the Officers of the Volunteer Companies in Williamsburgh, informing the Convention that they had resolved, immediately, to secure all the Publick Moneys in the hands of the Receiver-General, Naval-Officers, and other Collectors for His Majesty; that they had sent out detachments for that purpose; and desiring the opinion of the Convention relative thereto, as they should cheerfully submit to their determination on the subject.

Resolved, That this Convention will immediately resolve itself into a Committee to take the said Letter into consideration.

The Convention accordingly resolved itself into a Committee; and after some time spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Bland reported that the Committee had had the Letter from the Officers of the Volunteer Companies in Williamsburgh under their consideration, and had come to a Resolution thereupon, which he read in his place, and delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same was again twice read, and agreed to, as follows:

Resolved, That it is the opinion of this Committee, that the Proceedings of the Officers of the Volunteer Companies in Williamsburgh, mentioned in their Letter to the Convention, though they arose from the best motives, cannot be approved, and that they be required to desist from carrying their Resolutions into execution.

The Order of the Day, for the Convention to resolve itself into a Committee on the state of the Colony, being read,

Resolved, That this Convention will, to-morrow, resolve itself into the said Committee.

Adjourned till to-morrow, nine o'clock.

Saturday, July 29, 1775.

The Order of the Day, for the Convention to resolve itself into a Committee on the state of the Colony, being read,

Resolved, That this Convention will, on Monday next, resolve itself into the said Committee.

On a motion made,

Resolved, That the several Inspectors of this Colony be directed to preserve the trash Tobacco at their respective inspections, for the purpose of making Saltpetre; and that they deliver the same, when required, to such person or persons as may be appointed for that purpose by the Committee of the County.

Resolved, That the several Inspectors of the Publick Warehouses in this Colony do, some time before the last of August next, and after advertising the same in the publick papers, at the Warehouses, and at the Court-Houses of their respective Counties, sell, for ready money, all transfer and other Tobacco, which may have lain one year in their respective Warehouses, and pay the money, arising from such sale, as the law directs.

Resolved, That the Chairman of the Committees of the several Counties do, without delay, procure all the Saltpetre and Sulphur which may be had, and that the same be paid for by the publick; and it is earnestly recommended to all persons in this Colony to be assisting in procuring those necessary articles, and cheerfully to deliver to the said Chairman what they may have in their families, except so much as may be necessary for medicinal purposes.

Adjourned till Monday, nine o'clock.

Monday, July 31, 1775.

The Order of the Day, for the Convention to resolve itself into a Committee on the state of the Colony, being read,

Resolved, That this Convention will, to-morrow, resolve itself into the said Committee.

Adjourned till to-morrow, nine o'clock.

Tuesday, August 1, 1775.

A Petition and Remonstrance from the Merchants of the Borough of Norfolk, and also Instructions from the Committee of the said Borough to their Delegates in Convention, setting forth the great hardships and inconveniences to which they should be reduced by the Resolution entered into by this Convention for stopping the exportation of Grain and Provisions after the fifth day of this month; and praying that the same might be rescinded, was presented to the Convention and read.

Ordered, That the said Petition and Remonstrance, together with the said Instructions, do lie on the table.

The Convention then, according to the Order of the Day, resolved itself into a Committee to take into consideration the state of the Colony; and after some time spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Bland reported that the Committee had had the state of the Colony under their consideration, but not having time to go through the same, had directed him to move for leave to sit again.

Resolved, That this Convention will, on Thursday next, resolve itself into a Committee to take into their further consideration the state of the Colony.

Adjourned till Thursday, nine o'clock.

Thursday, August 3, 1775.

A Petition from the Committee of the County of Northampton, complaining of the great hardships and inconveniences to which the Inhabitants of their County would be particularly exposed by the Resolution entered into by this Convention, for stopping the exportation of Grain and Provisions after the fifth day of this month, and praying that they might have liberty to export their Grain till the tenth of September, agreeable to the Resolutions of the Continental Congress, was presented to the Convention, and read.

Ordered, That the said Petition do lie on the table.

A Letter from the Committee of the Borough of Norfolk, informing the Convention of the arrival of Troops from St. Augustine, about sixty in number, under the command of one Captain and two Lieutenants; that they had learned, from good authority, another vessel, with more Forces, might be hourly expected; that at present they were under no apprehensions from the Troops, but found exceeding bad effects among the Slaves, from the neighbourhood of the Men-of-War, which they had great reason to believe would be very much increased by the arrival of these Troops.

Also, a Letter from the Officers of the Volunteer Companies in Williamsburgh, requesting that some certain line for their conduct might be laid down, lest, in their zeal to serve their Country, they might precipitate their countrymen into unnecessary calamities; informing the Convention that the Governour's Cutter had carried off a number of Slaves belonging to private gentlemen, and that they thought it high time to establish the doctrine of reprisal; that one Philips commanded an ignorant disorderly mob, in direct opposition to the measures of this Country, and they wished to crush such attempts in embryo, and to take every advantage a kind Providence might make them masters of; acknowledging the execution of the measures they had formerly laid before the Convention, though ever so proper, ought first to have received the sanction of this Convention; that they stood reproved for their too precipitate conduct on that occasion, and held themselves in readiness to execute any instructions the Convention should be pleased to give, at the expense of life and fortune: were laid before the Convention and read.

Resolved, That the said Letters be referred to the Committee appointed to take into consideration the state of the Colony.

The Convention then, according to the Order of the Day, resolved itself into the said Committee; and after some time spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Bland reported that the Committee had, according to order, had under their consideration the state of the Colony, but not having time to go through the same, had directed him to move for leave to sit again.

Resolved, That this Convention will, to-morrow, resolve itself into a Committee to take into their further consideration the state of the Colony.

Adjourned till to-morrow, nine o'clock.

Friday, August 4, 1775.

Ordered, That the Petition and Remonstrance from the Borough of Norfolk, the Instructions from the Committee of the said Borough, and the Petition from the Committee of the County of Northampton, be referred to the Committee appointed to take into consideration the state of the Colony.

The Convention then, according to the Order of the Day, resolved itself into a Committee on the state of the Colony; and after some time spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Bland reported that the Committee had, according to order, had under their consideration the state of the Colony, and had come to several Resolutions thereupon, which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same were again twice read, and agreed to, as follows:

Resolved, That the Instructions from the Committee of the Borough of Norfolk, and the Petition from the Committee of the County of Northampton, are decent and respectful, and that they merit due consideration.

Resolved, That the Petition and Remonstrance of the Merchants and Traders of the Borough of Norfolk is indecent, highly reflecting on the honour of the General Convention, and directly tending to destroy that necessary confidence reposed by the good people of this Colony in their Representatives, regularly deputed to guard and preserve their just rights and privileges.

Resolved, That the former Resolution of the Convention, for restraining the exportation of Provisions, was not adopted with great haste, as unjustly insinuated in the said Petition and Remonstrance, but that it was done on the maturest deliberation, a Member of the Convention having given previous notice that, at a future day, he intended to move for such a Resolution, the substance of which was fairly and candidly laid open for the consideration of the different Members, and the motion not made till several days after such notice.

Resolved, That the Merchants and Traders of the Borough of Norfolk, being as properly and fully represented in the Convention as other parts of this Colony, it is unreasonable in them to expect, especially at this alarming crisis, that any important business, in which not only this Colony, but the whole Continent, is essentially and deeply interested, should be suspended till their particular opinions can be asked on the subject.

Resolved, That although it is with concern this Convention at any time adopts resolutions by which individuals may be materially affected, yet it becomes their duty, as good citizens, to acquiesce in such measures as are calculated for the general publick weal.

Resolved, That the Resolution complained of was adopted on the fullest conviction of its utility, founded on certain facts, some of which the Continental Congress, in all probability, could not be well acquainted with; and that the Convention consider it as their indispensable duty to pursue such measures as are necessary, not only for their own security, but that of the whole Continent.

Resolved, As the opinion of this Committee, that the primary and true design of the Resolution of the Continental Congress, in allowing a free export till the tenth of September next, could only be intended to respect the Crops of the last year; that the Members of the Convention, as well for themselves as most of their constituents, offered the greatest sacrifice to the publick good in adopting the Resolution complained of, as many of them have large crops of Wheat now on hand, equally liable to perish with such Grain as may be in the hands of the petitioners and remonstrants. Willing, however, as far as is consistent with the interest of the Country, to remove every colourable complaint, this Committee doth resolve, that any of the inhabitants of this Colony who may have purchased, and have now on hand, any quantities of Indian Corn of the last crop, for the exportation of which they had actually provided or chartered vessels previous to the former Resolution of this Convention, upon their making these facts appear by proper proofs, that they be allowed to export the same, at any time between this day and the tenth day of September next, provided they give a proper and satisfactory assurance to the Committee of each County, from which such commodity is to be exported, that they will not, directly or indirectly, suffer the same to be carried to either of the Northern Colonies.

Resolved, That the Committee of each County in this Colony, except the Counties of Accomack and Northampton, do immediately appoint one Captain, one Lieutenant, and Ensign, within their County; and that the Officers proceed immediately to enlist a Company of fifty Regulars in each County, to be marched, as soon as enlisted, to such place of rendezvous as shall be hereafter appointed by this Convention.

Resolved, That five hundred effective Men, part of the Regulars to be raised for the defence of the Colony, be sent for the protection of the Towns of Norfolk and Portsmouth, and the neighbourhood thereof.

Resolved, That this Convention will, to-morrow, resolve itself into a Committee to take into their further consideration the state of the Colony.

Adjourned till to-morrow, nine o'clock.

Saturday, August 5, 1775.

On a motion made,

Resolved, That any person who shall hereafter accept any office of profit or pecuniary appointment under the Crown, shall be disqualified from sitting in this Convention, the General Congress, Council of Safety, or County Committee.

Resolved, That no person who shall accept of a Commission, as an Officer, to command any of the Regular Forces now to be raised, or which may hereafter be raised, for the defence of this Colony, be capable of sitting or voting as a Member of the Convention, General Congress, or Committee of Safety, during his continuance in the said office.

Ordered, That it be an instruction to the Committee appointed to prepare and bring in an Ordinance for regulating the election of Delegates and Committees, that they receive a clause or clauses, pursuant to the foregoing Resolutions.

On a motion made,

Ordered, That there be a call of the Convention on Wednesday next.

Resolved, That this Convention will immediately proceed, by ballot, to the appointment of Officers to command the Regular Forces to be raised for the defence and protection of this Colony.

Ordered, That the Members of this Convention do immediately prepare tickets to be put into the ballot-box, with the name of the person to command the First Regiment; which being accordingly done, Mr. Robert Carter Nicholas, Mr. Charles Carter, of Lancaster, Mr. Lawson, and Mr. Dandridge, were appointed a Committee to examine the ballot-box, and report to the Convention upon whom the majority falls. The Committee then withdrew, and, after some time, reported that they had, according to order, examined the ballot-box, and that the numbers appeared as follows:

For Hugh Mercer , Esq.,	- - -	41
Patrick Henry , Esq.,	- - -	40
Thomas Nelson , Esq.,	- - -	8
William Woodford , Esq.,	- - -	1

The question being then put, whether the said Hugh Mercer or Patrick Henry, Esquires, upon whom the greatest numbers fell on the ballot, should be appointed to command the said Regiment, the majority appeared in favour of Patrick Henry, Esquire.

Resolved, therefore, That the said Patrick Henry, Esq., be appointed Colonel of the said First Regiment.

The Convention then proceeded, in the same manner, to the appointment of a Colonel to command the Second Regiment; and it appearing, from the report of the Committee appointed to examine the ballot-box, that there was a majority in the Convention in favour of Thomas Nelson, Esquire,

Resolved, That the said Thomas Nelson, Esq., be appointed Colonel to the said Second Regiment.

The Convention then proceeded, in the same manner, to the appointment of a Colonel to command the Third Regiment; and it appearing, from the report of the Committee appointed to examine the ballot-box, that the numbers stood as follows:

For William Woodford , Esq.,	- - -	44
William Christian , Esq.,	- - -	36
Hugh Mercer , Esq.,	- - -	8

The question was then put, whether the said William Woodford or William Christian, on whom the greatest numbers fell on the ballot, should be appointed to command the said Regiment, the majority appeared in favour of William Woodford, Esquire.

Resolved, therefore, That the said William Woodford, Esquire, be appointed Colonel of the said Third Regiment.

A Memorial of Charles Duncan, of the Town of Blandford, Merchant, was presented to the Convention, and read; setting forth, that he had, for some years past, had a Store in the County of Brunswick, on account of himself and others, his partners, which had for some time past been under the care and management of Thomas Crawford, who had always been in the esteem of his customers and acquaintances, and has, ever since the unhappy dispute with Great Britain, endeavoured to conduct himself in such a manner as to avoid giving cause of offence to any of the inhabitants of this Colony, and has also endeavoured, as far as in him lay, to conform to the regulations of the General Congress and Convention of this Colony; that, under these circumstances, he hoped he should have been allowed to transact business, and conduct his own affairs in quiet and security, without being called upon or compelled to enlist as soldiers, or take part in any military regulations, other than such as were prescribed by the laws of the Colony or the recommendation of the Convention; but that such was the unhappy situation of himself, his partners, and servants, in the County of Brunswick, that they have been called upon, by the gentlemen who command the Volunteer Company in the said County, to enlist as soldiers therein, under pain of incurring the displeasure of the said Company, and of being treated as enemies to the Country, with no other alternative left them than either to desert the property and interest which they have in the said County, or remain therein to protect the same at the hazard of all that is dear and valuable to freemen and good citizens; and praying that this Convention would take the same into consideration, and do therein as should appear just and reasonable.

Ordered, That the President be desired to write to the Commanding Officers of the said Company, requiring them to desist from a further prosecution of the measures mentioned in the said Memorial.

Resolved, That the President be desired to write to the Officers of the said Volunteer Companies, informing them that the Convention is well pleased with the zeal they have shown on this occasion to carry into execution their Resolutions; that it is true, as the Captain had informed them, that the Convention had rescinded their former Resolution, in consequence of a Letter from Maryland, by which they were informed that that Province could not come into a similar one.

On a motion made, Ordered, That the Commissioners appointed by the House of Burgesses to examine, state, and settle the Accounts of the Militia lately drawn out into actual service, do also state and report the case of such wounded Soldiers and poor Widows and Orphans as may have suffered by the late expedition against the Indians.

Resolved unanimously, That the Thanks of this Convention are justly due to his Excellency George Washington, Esq., Patrick Henry, and Edmund Pendleton, Esquires, three of the worthy Deputies who represented this Colony in the late Continental Congress, for their faithful discharge of that important trust; and this body are only induced to dispense with their future services, of the like nature, by the appointment of the two former to other offices in the publick service, incompatible with their attendance on this, and the infirm state of health of the latter.

Mr. President accordingly delivered the Thanks of this Convention to Mr. Henry and Mr. Pendleton in their places, who expressed the great pleasure they received from this distinguished testimony of their Country's approbation of their services.

Richard Bland, Esq., returned the Convention his most grateful acknowledgments for the great honour they had been pleased a third time to confer on him, by appointing him one of the Deputies to represent this Colony in General Congress, and said this fresh instance of their approbation was sufficient for an old man, almost deprived of sight, whose greatest ambition had ever been to receive the plaudit of his Country, whenever he should retire from the publick stage of life; that the honourable testimony he lately received of this approbation, joined with his present appointment, should ever animate him, as far as he was able, to support the glorious cause in which America was now engaged; but that his advanced age rendered him incapable of taking an active part in these weighty and important concerns, which must necessarily be agitated in the great Council of the United Colonies, and therefore begging leave to decline the honour they had been pleased to confer on him, and desiring that some person more fit and able might supply his place.

Resolved, unanimously, That the Thanks of this Con-

Mr. Robert Carter Nicholas, from the Committee to whom the Petitions of the Surveyor and Committee of the County of Fincastle, and a Proclamation of Lord Dunmore, dated the 8th of May, 1775, were referred, reported, that they had had the same under their consideration, and had come to the following Resolution thereupon; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same was again twice read, and unanimously agreed to, as follows:

An Address from the Baptists in this Colony was presented to the Convention, and read; setting forth, that however distinguished from the body of their countrymen, by appellatives and sentiments of a religious nature, they nevertheless consider themselves as members of the same community in respect to matters of a civil nature, and embarked in the same common cause; that, alarmed at the oppression which hangs over America, they had considered what part it would be proper to take in the unhappy contest, and had determined that in some cases it was lawful to go to war, and that they ought to make a military resistance against Great Britain in her unjust invasion, tyrannical oppressions and repeated hostilities; that their brethren were left at discretion to enlist, without incurring the censure of their religious community; and, under these circumstances, many of them had enlisted as soldiers, and many more were ready to do so, who had an earnest desire their Ministers should preach to them during the campaign; that they had therefore appointed four of their brethren to make application to this Convention for the liberty of preaching to the Troops at convenient times, without molestation or abuse, and praying the same may be granted them.

Resolved, That it be an instruction to the Commanding Officers of the Regiments or Troops to be raised, that they permit dissenting Clergymen to celebrate divine worship, and to preach to the Soldiers, or exhort, from time to time, as the various operations of the military service may permit, for the ease of such scrupulous consciences as may not choose to attend divine service as celebrated by the Chaplain.

The Convention then, according to the Order of the Day, resolved itself into a Committee on the state of the Colony; and after some time spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Robert Carter Nicholas reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had under their consideration the state of the Colony, and had come to several Resolutions thereupon, which he read in his place, and then delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same were again twice read, and agreed to, as follows:

Resolved, That for the more effectual carrying into execution the several Rules and Regulations established by this Convention, for the defence and protection of this Colony, a Committee of Safety be appointed, to consist of eleven Members, to be chosen by ballot, by the Members of this Convention, who are to continue to the next sitting of the Convention, or for one year, in case the Convention shall not meet within that time.

Resolved, That no Member of the Committee of Safety shall hold any military office whatsoever after the end of this session of the Convention.

Resolved, That the same be postponed till to-morrow.

It being observed, with great concern, that the President was much indisposed, and that the time of his departure for the General Continental Congress was nearly approaching, it was unanimously recommended to him to retire for the present from the fatigues of the business of this Convention; in which he was pleased, though with reluctance, to acquiesce.

It was then unanimously Resolved, That the Thanks of this Convention be presented to his Honour the President, for his unremitting attention to the important interests of this Country, and his unwearied application to, and able, faithful, and impartial discharge of the duties of his office; assuring him that he hath the warmest wishes of this Convention for a speedy return of health, and an uninterrupted enjoyment of every felicity.

Thursday, August 17, 1775.

The Delegates being assembled, Edmund Pendleton, Esq., a Member for the County of Caroline, reminded them that the Honourable Peyton Randolph, Esq., having, in consequence of what was yesterday recommended to him by the Convention, retired, it became necessary that they should proceed to the choice of another President, to act in that office during his indisposition or absence; and he recommended Robert Carter Nicholas, Esq., as a gentleman in every respect qualified to fill that important office. Mr. Nicholas was then, by general consent, called to the chair; and after being seated, arose and returned his thanks to the Convention for the honour they had been pleased to confer on him. Professions of unworthiness, he said, he considered as more trite than sincere, and therefore declined every thing of that kind; but candour obliged him to acknowledge he felt the greatest diffidence in succeeding to an office lately filled by a worthy gentleman, of confessed abilities, so much to his own honour, and so greatly to the advantage of this Convention.

The President then reminded the Convention how much a due observance of order and decorum redounded to the honour and dignity of every society, and hoped a continuance of the same attention to those objects, which he had been hitherto happy to observe; that, on his part, no endeavours should be wanting to justify their choice; and that, on all occasions, he should conduct himself with the utmost impartiality.

Ordered, That Mr. Thornton and Mr. Harvie have leave of absence from the service of this Convention for the remainder of the session.

The Convention then proceeded, by ballot, to the appointment of the Committee of Safety; and the Members having prepared tickets with the names of eleven persons to be of the said Committee, and put the same into the ballot-box, Mr. Richard Henry Lee, Mr. Henry, Mr. Harrison, and Mr. Jefferson, were appointed a Committee to examine the same, and report on whom the majority fell: who retired, and after some time returned into Convention, and reported, that the numbers stood as follows:

For Edmund Pendleton , Esq.,	- - - -	77
George Mason , Esq.,	- - - -	72
John Page , Esq.,	- - - -	70
Richard Bland , Esq.,	- - - -	66
Thomas Ludwell Lee , Esq.,	- - - -	63
Paul Carrington , Esq.,	- - - -	54
Dudley Digges , Esq.,	- - - -	42
William Cabell , Esq.,	- - - -	39
Carter Braxton , Esq.,	- - - -	38
James Mercer , Esq.,	- - - -	38
John Tabb , Esq.,	- - - -	36

Resolved, therefore, That the said Edmund Pendleton, George Mason, John Page, Richard Bland, Thomas Ludwell Lee, Paul Carrington, Dudley Digges, William Cabell, Carter Braxton, James Mercer, and John Tabb, Esquires, be appointed Members of the said Committee of Safety.

Resolved, That William Woodford, Esq., be appointed Colonel to the second Regiment of Regular Forces to be raised for the defence and protection of this Colony, in the room of Thomas Nelson, Esq., who hath declined the said appointment.

A Petition of sundry Merchants and others, natives of Great Britain, and resident in this Colony, was presented to the Convention, and read; setting forth, that being chiefly agents, factors, and persons who from their youth have been bred up to and employed in commerce, they have at no time interfered with the civil institutions of the Country, but have always acted in conformity to the laws, under which they have enjoyed the best security for their persons and property; that with this experience of the protection derived from salutary laws, as well as from the happy intercourse they have enjoyed with the inhabitants, many of them had formed connections of the most endearing nature, and had invested considerable portions of their property in real estates, with a view of continuing their residence among a people with whom they had hitherto lived in much harmony; that their fears were much awakened, from the ill-grounded prejudices which they are informed actuate the minds of some of the people of this Colony against them, as a body who are not natives of the land—a circumstance which, being accidental, cannot be imputed to them as a fault, and therefore hoping to stand in the same light with other subjects who conform to the laws; that they are very sensible the unhappy differences subsisting between the Parent State and her Colonies have given rise to distinctions to their prejudice amongst the natives of the Country, and excited jealousies of them which otherwise had never existed; that, discriminated from the rest of the society, and placed in a suspicious point of view, they presume to lay before this Convention the hardships of their situation, and, in the sincerity of their hearts, declare that they hold the people of this Colony in the highest estimation as friends and fellow-subjects; and that, in war or peace, they will cheerfully contribute, with them, to the exigencies of their common state; that in all internal commotions or insurrections, they pledge their faith, at the risk of their lives and fortunes, jointly with their fellow-subjects of this Colony, to defend the Country; and that in case of an attack from the Troops of Great Britain, they will not aid in any manner, or communicate intelligence to them by letter or otherwise; that they beg leave to assure this Convention they wish not an exemption from the hardships and burdens to which the people of this Country are exposed, from the civil contest subsisting with the Parent State, but are willing and ready to participate in all instances, except taking up arms against the people among whom they were born, and with whom, perhaps, they are connected by the nearest ties of consanguinity; that they entreat the impartial and favourable attention of the Convention to this circumstance, and beg that a line of conduct might be marked out, by which, in this dangerous crisis, they may move as useful members of the community, without being held to the necessity of shedding the blood of their countrymen—an act at which nature recoils, and which every feeling of humanity forbids; that, allowed this, they repeat their readiness to stand up, with the foremost, in defence of the Country against internal insurrections, and in its support by the most liberal and cheerful contributions; and that the Supreme Director of the Universe might inspire this Convention with wisdom, to put a period to this unnatural contest, and restore this once happy land to peace, safety, and union with its Parent State, was their most ardent wish.

Resolved, unanimously, That the said Petition is reasonable, and it is recommended to the Committees of the several Counties and Corporations, and others the good people of this Colony, to treat all natives of Great Britain, resident here, as do not show themselves enemies to the common cause of America, with lenity and friendship; to protect all persons whatsoever in the just enjoyment of their civil rights and liberty; to discountenance all national reflections; to preserve, to the utmost of their power, internal peace and good order; and to promote union, harmony, and mutual good-will, among all ranks of people.

Resolved, also, That the said Petition, together with this Resolve, be forthwith published in the Virginia Gazettes.

The Convention then, according to the Order of the Day, resolved itself into a Committee on the Ordinance to encourage the making Saltpetre, Gunpowder, Lead, the refining Sulphur, and providing Arms for the use of this Colony; and, after some time spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Harrison reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had under their consideration the said Ordinance, but, not having time to go through the same, had directed him to move for leave to sit again.

Resolved, That this Convention will, to-morrow, resolve itself into a Committee on the said Ordinance.

Resolved, That it be an instruction to the Committee of Safety, that they forthwith cause to be erected a Magazine, at some fit and convenient place, for the reception of Arms and Ammunition, and that they appoint a guard, to be drawn out of the Minute-Men or Militia, for the safe keeping and preservation of the same, from time to time, as the exigence of affairs may require.

Resolved, That it be recommended to the Committees of the several Counties and Corporations, to appoint proper persons of their body, within such Districts as to them shall seem convenient, to take a List of the number of persons therein, of all ages and sexes, distinguishing whether they be male or female, white or black; and, of the males, whether they be above or under sixteen years of age; from which Lists the Committee shall cause a general County or Corporation List to be made and returned to the President of the Convention, without delay, who is desired, from them, to cause a general Colony List to be formed, and certify the same to the Continental Congress.

Adjourned till to-morrow, nine o'clock.

Saturday, August 26, 1775.

For the Town of Richmond , - - -	25
For the City of Williamsburgh , - - -	22
For the Town of Fredericksburgh , - - -	8

And the question being then put, whether the Town of Richmond, or the City of Williamsburgh, should be the place for holding the next Convention, a majority appeared in favour of the Town of Richmond.

Resolved, therefore, That the next meeting of this Convention be at the said Town of Richmond.

And you are to observe and follow all such orders and directions as you shall from time to time receive from the Convention, the Committee of Safety for the time being, or any superiour Officer, according to the Rules and Regulations established by the Convention.

"Given under our hands at . . . . ., this . . . day of . . . . ., Anno Domini 177 ."

The Convention, according to the Order of the Day, resolved itself into a Committee on the Ordinance to encourage the making Saltpetre, Gunpowder, Lead, the refining Sulphur, and providing Arms for the use of this Colony; and after some time spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Harrison reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had under their consideration the said Ordinance, and had gone through the same, and made several amendments thereto, which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same were again twice read, and on the question severally put thereon, agreed to by the Convention.

Ordered, That the said Ordinance, together with the several Amendments, be fairly transcribed, and read a third time.

Ordered, That the Publick Printer do send twenty-two copies of the Ordinances of this Convention to the Committees of the several Counties and Corporations within this Colony.

Resolved, That it be recommended to the Committees of the several Counties and Corporations, where it is not already done, to complete the collection of the Money by them judged requisite for the purchase of Gunpowder, Lead, Flints, and Cartridge Paper, according to the Resolution of the Convention in March last, in order to place the whole Colony on an equal footing in that particular, and return a state of such collection to the next Convention.

Resolved, That in case the British Ministry shall attempt to enforce the Act of Parliament for preventing the erection of Plating and Slitting Mills in America, this Convention will recompense, to the proprietors of the two first of such Mills as shall be finished and set to work in this Colony, all losses they may respectively sustain in consequence of such endeavours of Administration.

An Ordinance to encourage the making Saltpetre, Gunpowder, Lead, the refining Sulphur, and providing Arms for the use of this Colony, having been fairly transcribed, was read a third time, and the blanks therein filled up.

Resolved, That the said Ordinance do pass.

Ordered, That the title of the said Ordinance be, "An Ordinance for providing Arms and Ammunition for the use of this Colony."

Resolved, That the several sums following be paid to the several Officers of this Convention, for their services during the present session: To the Rev. Miles Selden, Chaplain to the Convention, £40; to Mr. John Tazewell, Clerk of the Convention, £150; to Mr. William Dandridge, Jun., £25; to Mr. Thomas Claiborne, Messenger to the Convention, £50; to Robert Hyland, John Creagh, William Drinkard, William Hix, and Richard Williams, Doorkeepers to the Convention, £20 each.

It appearing to the Convention that Otway Byrd, Esq., had, on account of his attachment to American liberty, resigned his provision and prospects in the British Navy, and may be destitute of employment:

Resolved, That the said Otway Byrd, Esq., be strongly recommended to his Excellency General Washington, and the Conventions of our sister Colonies to the eastward, for promotion in the Army in that neighbourhood; and that until such promotion shall have taken place, or it be otherwise ordered by this Convention, he be allowed ten Shillings per day to support him as a Cadet in the Continental Army, to commence the day he joins the said Army; and that he be also allowed the sum of fifty Pounds, to be paid him immediately.

The following Declaration was presented to the Convention, maturely considered, and unanimously agreed to.

"A Declaration of the Delegates deputed by the several Counties and Corporations in the Colony and Dominion of VIRGINIA to represent them in General Convention, setting forth the cause of their meeting, and the necessity of immediately putting the Country into a posture of defence, for the better protection of their lives, liberties, and properties."

"The advantages resulting from the wisest institutions, and the price of all sublunary enjoyments, are best to be estimated from their loss or diminution. By this accurate scale we are taught to weigh the many blessings derived to this once happy Country from our excellent Constitution. So long as this was maintained on its original principles, and remained inviolate, all was well with us; every thing flowed in a proper, peaceful channel, all were quiet and at ease. But, how great the change! how dreadful the reverse!

"The times were, and these not very distant, when the representatives of the people, with much pleasure, met their Governours in General Assembly. In these assemblies the greatest harmony prevailed, till a fatal change of ministerial systems took place. A causeless, hasty dissolution drove the representative body to the unhappy dilemma of either sacrificing the most essential interests of their constituents, or of meeting in General Convention to assert and preserve them. The unlucky incidents here alluded to are of public notoriety, and need not a particular enumeration.

"Repeated prorogations of our Assembly, when the Country was in the greatest distress, rendered a Convention, in the month of March last, absolutely necessary. The Delegates of the people then met in full Convention, the most numerous assembly that had ever been known in this Colony, taking a view of our unhappy situation; considering the Country exposed to the most imminent dangers, as well from invasions as insurrections, knowing its then defenceless state, and seeing no prospect that opportunity would be given them in General Assembly to provide and guard against such extensive evils, judged it their indispensable duty to put the Country into a posture of defence. They recommended a due attention to the militia law; but, considering this inadequate to the purpose, they further advised the raising one or more volunteer companies in each County. In all their transactions, however, a proper regard and respect was paid to Government.

"In a short time afterwards a most extraordinary manœuvre was exerted by the Governour, to render this Country still more defenceless, by removing our small stock of gunpowder from the publick magazine, and stripping of their locks a great number of publick arms. It is very remarkable that this was done at a time when he acknowledged to have received information that an insurrection was apprehended in a neighbouring County. This, together with his Lordship's threats of emancipating our slaves, and reducing to ashes the principal city in this Colony, added to the many alarming accounts received from the Northern Colonies; could not but excite jealousies, and awaken the fears of the people.

"The Country, by these means, being thrown into a ferment, and there being little ground of hope that the Assembly would be called, it was thought advisable that a General Convention should be speedily held, to take under their consideration the state of the Colony. The Governour, however, on receipt of despatches from England, was pleased to issue his Proclamation for convening the General Assembly. The design of calling a Convention was then laid aside, in hopes that matters might, in another place, be settled and adjusted in the usual mode. The proceedings of the House of Burgesses, the Governour's conduct towards them, his withdrawing from the seat of his Government and taking up his residence on board one of His Majesty's ships of war; the many obstructions given by his Lordship to the business of the Assembly, and his determined resolution to render abortive those very measures he had recommended, are faithfully and impartially submitted to the publick in a pamphlet, published by order of the House of Burgesses.

"The two other branches of our Legislature, His Majesty's Council and the Burgesses, finding that his Lordship had resisted their joint and most earnest entreaties, and that he was resolved not to return to the duties of his station, adjourned themselves to the month of October next.

"The Governour still continuing on board the man-of-war, if his former conduct, his repeated and horrible threats, his at least connivance at the detention of some of our slaves on board the same ship, and a too well grounded report of his having solicited Troops to be sent among us, some of which are now arrived, could have left a doubt of his hostile intentions towards this Country; the hurrying his most amiable lady and his children across the Atlantick, under a frivolous and groundless pretence of their being in danger amongst a people by whom they are universally esteemed and respected, holds out to us an irrefragable proof of his fixed determination to do this unhappy Country every injury in his power.

"Under these embarrassments, seeing an unusual resort of ships of war and other armed vessels in our harbours, knowing the threats of one of their commanders; in short, when exposed to such accumulated dangers, what could be expected of this Country? That we should sit supinely down, and suffer the views and machinations of an arbitrary relentless Ministry to be carried into execution without opposition or control? The justice due to this community, every motive to publick virtue, conspire in forbidding it. We, therefore, deputed for this important purpose, have met in General Convention, and taken into our most serious consideration the state of the Colony. Since our assembling, we have received authentick intelligence of the remorseless fury with which General Gage and his coadjutors are endeavouring to spread fire, famine, and the most horrid desolation, throughout a sister Colony; of their insidious and cruel attempts to stir up the barbarous savages against the inhabitants on the frontiers of the different Colonies. We have seen a declaration of the Continental Congress, which proves the necessity of an immediate preparation for our security, by putting this whole Country into a full state of defence, both against invasions and insurrections. In the present untoward and distressful situation of our affairs, and the better to preserve the peace and good order of the community, we are further driven to the very disagreeable necessity of supplying the present want of Government, by appointing proper guardians of the rights and liberties of our Country. But, lest our views and designs should be misrepresented or misunderstood, we again, and for all, publicly and solemnly declare, before God and the world, that we do bear faith and true allegiance to His Majesty George the Third, our only lawful and rightful King; that we will, so long as it may be in our power, defend him and his Government, as founded on the laws and well known principles of the Constitution; that we will, to the utmost of our power, preserve peace and good order throughout the Country, and endeavour, by every honourable means, to promote a restoration of that friendship and amity, which so long and happily subsisted between our fellow-subjects in Great Britain and the inhabitants of America; that as on the one hand we are determined to defend our lives and properties, and maintain our just rights and privileges at every, even the extremest hazard, so, on the other, it is our fixed and unalterable resolution to disband such forces as may be raised in this Colony, whenever our dangers are removed, and America is restored to that former state of tranquillity and happiness, the interruption of which is so much deplored by us and every friend to either Country.

"It remains a bounden duty on us to commit our cause to the justice of that Supreme Being, who ruleth and ordereth all human events with unerring wisdom, most humbly beseeching him to take this Colony, and the whole Continent, under his fatherly and divine protection, and that he will be graciously pleased to soften the hearts of all those who meditate evil against our land, and inspire them with the purest sentiments of justice, moderation, and brotherly affection.

"RO. C. NICHOLAS, President pro tempore.

"JOHN TAZEVELL, Clerk of the Convention."

ORDINANCES PASSED BY THE CONVENTION.

I. An Ordinance for raising and embodying a sufficient Force for the defence and protection of this Colony.

Whereas it is found necessary, in the present time of danger, that a number of Forces should be immediately raised, and that the Militia should be settled under proper arrangements, and be thoroughly disciplined, for the better protection and defence of the Country against invasions and insurrections:

Be it therefore ordained, by the Delegates and Representatives of the several Counties and Corporations within the Colony and Dominion of Virginia, now assembled in General Convention, and it is hereby ordained by authority of the same, That there shall be forthwith raised, and taken into the pay of this Colony, from the time of their enlistment, two Regiments complete, to consist of one thousand and twenty Privates, rank and file: five hundred and forty-four of whom to be the First Regiment, under the command of a Colonel, Lieutenant-Colonel, and a Major; eight Captains, sixteen Lieutenants, eight Ensigns, twenty-four Sergeants, eight Drummers, and eight Fifers; and the Second Regiment to consist of four hundred and seventy-six, under the command of a Colonel, Lieutenant-Colonel, Major, seven Captains, fourteen Lieutenants, seven Ensigns, twenty-one Sergeants, seven Drummers, and seven Fifers; to each of which Regiments there shall be allowed a Chaplain, a Paymaster, (who is also to act as Muster-Master,) an Adjutant, Quartermaster, one Surgeon, two Surgeon's Mates, and a Sergeant-Major.

And for the better and more orderly appointment of the Officers, Be it further ordained, That the several Field-Officers shall, from time to time, be appointed or approved by the General Convention of Delegates; that the Deputies of each District hereinafter described, excepting the Counties of Accomack and Northampton, shall appoint one Captain, two Lieutenants, and one Ensign, to command the Company of men to be raised in such District; that the Chaplain to each Regiment be appointed by the Field-Officers and Captains of such Regiment; that the Adjutant, Quartermaster, and Sergeant-Major, be appointed by the Commanding Officer of the Regiment, the Surgeon by the Field-Officers and Captains, and the Surgeon's Mates by the Surgeon himself, with the approbation of the Commanding Officer of the Regiment.

And be it further ordained, That the Commanding Officer of the First Regiment shall be allowed a Secretary, to be appointed by him, who shall be allowed four Shillings a day for his services.

And that the levy of the Soldiers may be made general throughout the Colony, and the better to avoid irregularity and confusion, Be it further ordained, That the Deputies of each District, except the Counties of Accomack and Northampton, having appointed one Captain, two Lieutenants, and one Ensign, as aforesaid, the said Officers shall proceed, with the utmost expedition, to enlist within their respective Districts their several Companies, which are to consist of sixty-eight men each; but the said Officers shall not go into any other District to complete their Company, until the Officers in such other District have made up their Company, nor in that case without the permission, in writing, of the Committee of the County, first had and obtained.

And as well to prevent the enlistment of such Men as are unfit for service, as to fix the rank of such Officers, Be it further ordained, That the Deputies of each District shall appoint one certain place of rendezvous within their District, whither the Captain of each Company, as soon as it is complete, shall resort with his men, and shall give immediate notice thereof to the Chairman of the Committee of Deputies, who is required forthwith to summon all the Members of the said Committee, who, or a majority of, them, being present, shall either proceed themselves to review the said Company, or appoint any number of their Members, not under three, for that purpose: and if it shall appear to such Committee of Deputies that the Company is complete, of able and proper men, and that they have been regularly enlisted, according to the terms and regulations prescribed by this Ordinance, the said Deputies shall order and direct the Captain immediately to march with his Company to the place of general rendezvous, hereafter to be appointed, and, moreover, shall grant to the said Captain a certificate of the day when the said Company first appeared complete, at the particular place of rendezvous in the District; which certificate being produced to the General Committee of Safety, the said Committee shall cause the same to be entered in a book to be kept for that purpose, and shall cause the like certificates, from all the other District Committees, to be entered in the same manner. And when all such certificates shall be returned, the same Committee of Safety, or the majority of those present, shall, and they are hereby required, to grant Commissions, under their hands, to the Officers of the several Companies, according to their several appointments, fixing their ranks of seniority and precedence according to the priority of the completion of their several Companies, certified as aforesaid; and if it shall appear, upon the examination of such certificates, that two or more of the Companies appeared at the District rendezvous on the same day, the said Committee of Safety shall, in such case, determine the right of seniority and precedence amongst the several Officers, by a fair and impartial ballot.

And be it further ordained, That in case any vacancies shall happen, by deaths or otherwise, amongst the Commissioned Officers, the same shall be supplied, from time to time, by regular succession, in course of seniority, in the respective Regiments and Companies; and in case of a defect of Officers to supply such succession, the Commanding Officer of the Regiment shall appoint the most proper person, in his opinion, to supply such vacancy, to be approved by the Committee of Safety.

And that the Companies may be kept complete from time to time, Be it further ordained, That if vacancies should happen among the private men, the Commanding Officer of the Regiment shall supply the same by new recruits, in the best and most expeditious manner he may be able.

And be it further ordained, That the Soldiers to be raised shall be enlisted on the terms following, to wit: That they shall continue in the service of the publick so long as may be judged necessary by the General Convention, but not be compelled to continue more than one year, provided any Soldier or Soldiers do give the Commanding Officer three months' previous notice, in writing, of his or their desire to be discharged at the end of such period; and if it shall be judged necessary to disband the Army before the expiration of twelve months, that each Soldier discharged within that time shall be entitled to, and shall receive, six weeks' pay in advance. That the pay of each Captain, Lieutenant, and Ensign, shall commence the days of their appointment by the District Committees; of the Chaplain, and all the Subaltern Officers, on the days of their respective appointments; of the common Soldiers, on the days of their enlisting; and that the pay of the several Field and Staff Officers shall commence on the day of their being called into duty by the General Committee of Safety; and that the several Recruiting Officers may advance to each Soldier, upon his enlisting, any sum he may think necessary, not exceeding one month's pay.

Provided always, That no Recruiting Officer shall be allowed to enlist into the service any Servant whatsoever, unless he be an Apprentice, bound under the Laws of this Colony, nor any such Apprentice, unless the consent of his Master be first had in writing.

And be it further ordained, That the Soldiers to be enlisted shall, at the expense of the publick, be furnished each with one good Musket and Bayonet, Cartouch-Box, or Pouch, and Canteen; and until such Musket can be provided, that they bring with each of them the best Gun, of any other sort, that can be procured; and that such as are to act as Riflemen bring with them each one good Rifle, to be approved by their Captain, for the use of which he shall be allowed at the rate of twenty Shillings a year; that each common Soldier, not already sufficiently provided, in the opinion of his Commanding Officer, shall be furnished with sufficient clothing, at the expense of the publick, to be deducted out of his pay.

And be it further ordained, That the Companies to be raised in the Districts of Pittsylvania, Fincastle, Bedford, and Botetourt, and of Berkley, Frederick, Dunmore, and Hampshire, Augusta, Albemarle, Buckingham, and Amherst, Culpepper, Fauquier, and Orange, shall consist of expert Riflemen, and shall be, by the Committee of Safety, allotted two to each Regiment, to be employed as Light-Infantry.

And be it further ordained, That proper Medicine Chests, and necessary Surgeon's Instruments, be provided at the expense of the publick.

And for the better protection and defence of the Inhabitants on the Frontiers of this Colony, Be it further ordained, by the authority aforesaid, That there shall be appointed and raised, exclusive of the Regiments before-mentioned, two Companies, consisting each of one Captain, three Lieutenants, one Ensign, four Sergeants, two Drummers, and two Fifers, and one hundred Men, rank and file, to be stationed at Pittsburgh; of which the Company ordered by this Convention to garrison Fort Pitt, under the command of Captain John Neavill, shall be one; also one other Company, consisting of a Lieutenant and twenty-five Privates, to be stationed at Fort Fincastle, at the mouth of Wheeling; the other Company, of one hundred Men, and the twenty-five Men to be raised in West Augusta; also one other Company, consisting of one Captain, three Lieutenants, one Ensign, four Sergeants, two Drummers, and two Fifers, and one hundred Privates, to be raised in the County of Botetourt, and stationed at Point Pleasant, at the mouth of the Great Kanawha; and one other Company, consisting of the same number of Officers and Men as the last, to be raised in the County of Fincastle, and stationed at such Posts as may, from time to time, be ordered and directed by the Committee of that County.

And be it further ordained, That the Committees of the District of West Augusta, and of the Counties of Botetourt and Fincastle, shall appoint the Officers to the Men in each to be raised; and the several Companies last mentioned shall be enlisted in the same manner, and under the same regulations, as are before prescribed for the Regiments, except that such Companies are not to march to the general rendezvous which may be appointed for the said Regiments.

And be it further ordained, That the Commanding Officers to be stationed at Point Pleasant and Fort Fincastle shall be under the direction of, and subject to such orders as they may from time to time receive from the Commanding Officer at Fort Pitt.

And for settling the pay of the Officers and Soldiers to be appointed and levied as before directed, the same is declared to be as followeth, to wit: To a Colonel, twenty-five Shillings per day; Lieutenant-Colonels, twelve Shillings and six Pence; to a Major, ten Shillings; a Captain, six Shillings; a Lieutenant, four Shillings; an Ensign, three Shillings; Chaplain, ten Shillings; an Adjutant, holding no other office, six Shillings; if in other office, three Shillings; to a Quartermaster, holding or not holding any other office, the same as to an Adjutant; to a Sergeant-Major, to be appointed from amongst the most expert Sergeants by the Commanding Officer of the Regiment, two Shillings and six Pence; to a Sergeant, two Shillings; a Corporal, Drummer, and Fifer, each one Shilling and eight Pence; to each Private Soldier, one Shilling and four Pence; to a Surgeon, ten Shillings; and to a Surgeon's Mate, five Shillings per day.

And be it further ordained, That every Commissioned and Staff Officer shall be allowed a Tent, and every two Sergeants shall have the same allowance, and every two Corporals the same; and that for every six private Men there shall be provided a proper and sufficient Tent; and that one Bell Tent, for each Company, shall also be provided at the publick expense.

And for the greater encouragement and further promotion of the service, Be it ordained, That if any person, enlisted by virtue of this Ordinance, shall be so maimed or disabled as to be rendered incapable of maintaining himself, he shall, upon his discharge, be supported at the expense of the publick.

And to the end that the Forces to be raised may be well and speedily supplied with Wagons, Tents, Bedding, Arms, Accoutrements, Clothes, Provisions, and all other necessities, Be it further ordained, That the Committee of Safety shall, and they are hereby required to appoint some fit person or persons to provide Arms and Accoutrements, Clothes, Wagons, Tents, and Bedding, upon the best and cheapest terms, and also to appoint one or more Commissaries or Contractors, who are hereby required to use all possible despatch in purchasing such Provisions as shall be necessary for the Army, and in laying of the same in such convenient place or places as may best suit their different stations and marches.

And for the more regular pay of the Army, the said Committee of Safety shall appoint one or more Paymasters; and it shall and may be lawful for the said Committee, from time to time, to issue their Warrants to the Treasurer, appointed by or pursuant to an Ordinance of this Convention, for the paying the several Recruiting Officers, Commissioners, Commissaries or Contractors, and Paymasters, by them appointed; and to all Expresses, and other persons by them employed in lesser services, so much money as the said Committee shall judge necessary for their several purposes, taking proper security for the due disbursement and application thereof, and making a proper and reasonable allowance to the several persons so to be appointed, for their trouble and expenses in conducting either branch of business to him or them assigned. And the said Committee shall have full power and authority to displace and remove from his office any person so by them appointed, either for misconduct or neglect of duty. And the said Treasurer is hereby required to pay all such sums as he may be directed by such Warrant, out of the publick money in his hands.

And be it further ordained, That the said Committee of Safety shall have full power and authority, at such times and places as they may think convenient and necessary, to call all persons, who may receive any publick money for carrying into execution the purposes of this Ordinance, to a strict account; and, upon examining their accounts, and finding them justly stated, to certify the same, and, if necessary, to give proper acquittals and discharges.

And whereas it may be necessary, for the publick security, that the Forces to be raised by virtue of this Ordinance should, as occasion may require, be marched to different parts of the Colony, and that the Officers should be subject to a proper control, Be it ordained by the authority aforesaid, That the Officers and Soldiers under such command shall, in all things not otherwise particularly provided for by this Ordinance and the Articles established for their regulation, be under the control and subject to the order of the General Committee of Safety.

And whereas it is judged necessary, for the better protection of the Country in times of imminent danger, that certain portions of the Militia, throughout the whole Colony, should be regularly enlisted, under the denomination of Minute-Men, and more strictly trained to proper discipline than hath been hitherto customary, and, to this end, that the whole Colony should be divided into proper and convenient Districts:

Be it therefore ordained, by the authority aforesaid, That this Colony be immediately formed and divided into sixteen Districts, in the following manner, to wit: one District to include the Counties of Accomack and Northampton; one other, the Counties of Princess Anne, Norfolk, the Borough of Norfolk, and the Counties of Nansemond and Isle of Wight; one other, the Counties of Southampton, Sussex, Surry, Brunswick, Prince George, and Dinwiddie; one other, the Counties of Mecklenburgh, Lunenburg, Charlotte, Halifax, and Prince Edward; one other, the Counties of Amelia, Chesterfield, and Cumberland; one other, the Counties of Henrico, Hanover, Goochland, and Louisa; one other, the Counties of Pittsylvania, Fincastle, Bedford, and Botetourt; one other, the Counties of Buckingham, Amherst, Albemarle, and Augusta; one other, the Counties of Elizabeth City, Warwick, Counties of Gloucester, Middlesex, Essex, King and Queen, and King William; one other, the Counties of Lancaster, Northumberland, Westmoreland, and Richmond; one other, the Counties of Culpepper, York, James City, the City of Williamsburgh, and the Counties of Charles City and New-Kent; one other, the Counties of Orange and Fauquier; one other, the Counties of Caroline, Spottsylvania, King George, and

Stafford; one other, the Counties of Prince William, Fairfax, and Loudoun; and one other District to include the Counties of Berkley, Frederick, Dunmore, and Hampshire; and the Inhabitants of West-Augusta are to compose one entire District.

And be it further ordained, That within the District containing the Counties of Accomack and Northampton, there shall be forthwith raised one Regiment, consisting of six hundred and eighty men, from the ages of sixteen to fifty, to be divided into ten Companies, sixty-eight each, rank and file, to be under the command of a Colonel, Lieutenant-Colonel, and Major; ten Captains, twenty Lieutenants, ten Ensigns, thirty Sergeants; and each Company shall be allowed a Drummer and Fifer, and the said Regiment shall be allowed a Chaplain, Adjutant, Quartermaster, Surgeon, two Surgeon's Mates, and a Sergeant-Major, as hereafter directed.

And be it further ordained, That within each of the other Districts there shall be immediately enlisted one Battalion, consisting of five hundred men, rank and file, from the age of sixteen to fifty, to be divided into ten Companies of fifty men each, who are to be under the command of a Colonel, Lieutenant-Colonel and Major; ten Captains, ten Lieutenants, ten Ensigns, and twenty Sergeants; each Company to be allowed a Drummer and Fifer, and the Battalion to be allowed a Chaplain, Adjutant, Quartermaster, Surgeon, two Surgeon's Mates, and a Sergeant-Major, as hereafter directed.

And be it further ordained, That the Colonels, Lieutenant-Colonels, Majors, Captains, Lieutenants, Ensigns, and Commissaries of Musters, for the said Regiment, and the several Battalions, shall be appointed in the following manner, to wit: The Committees of the Counties of Accomack and Northampton shall each appoint six of their Members as Deputies, to meet in one General Committee, at such time and place as shall be appointed by the Chairman of the Committee of the said County of Accomack; which place shall be most central and convenient for the meeting of such Deputies, and notice thereof shall be given by such Chairman, to the Chairman of the Committee of the said County of Northampton, at least ten days before the time of meeting; which Deputies having met, according to such appointment, shall settle the number of Minute-Men to be enlisted in each County, and shall proceed to the choice of the several Officers aforesaid. And to prevent inconveniences, which may arise from the Deputies so to be appointed not being able to attend, the Committee of each County shall appoint six others of their Members to supply the places of such as are first named, and whose attendance at the General Committee may be prevented by sickness or any other accidents.

And be it further ordained, That the Committees of the several Counties of Elizabeth City, Warwick, York, James City, Charles City, and New-Kent, shall in like manner appoint four of their Members, and the Committee of the City of Williamsburgh two of their Members, as Deputies to meet in the General Committee for their District; that the Committees of the several Counties of Princess Anne, Norfolk, Nansemond, and the Isle of Wight, shall in like manner appoint four of their Members, and the Committee of the Borough of Norfolk two of their Members, to meet in one General Committee for that District; and that the Committees of the several other Counties shall, in like manner, appoint three of their Members as Deputies to meet in one General Committee for their respective Districts; which respective Committee of Deputies shall meet at such time and place as shall be appointed by the Chairman of the Committee of the County first named in such District; the place to be most central and convenient, and ten days' notice at least of the time and place to be given by such Chairman to the Chairman of the several Committees of the Counties and Corporations within the District. And the Committee of Deputies, having so met, shall settle the number of Minute-Men to be enlisted in each particular County, City, or Borough, and shall appoint the same Officers as are directed for the District of Accomack and Northampton, having regard to the difference of numbers, as before directed.

And to prevent the inconveniences which may arise from the inability of any of the Deputies to attend the General Committee, Be it further ordained, That the Committees of each particular County, City, or Borough, at the time of nominating such Deputies, shall appoint three others of their Members to supply the places of such of their Deputies as may be prevented from attending the General Committee of Delegates, by sickness, or any other accident.

And be it further ordained, That the Chaplain, Adjutant, Quartermaster, Surgeon, and Sergeant-Major, shall be appointed by the Field-Officers and Captains of each District, and the Surgeon's Mates by the Surgeon himself, with the approbation of the Commanding Officer of the District. The Surgeon to each Battalion is to be previously engaged, but not paid except when he is attending the Battalion, which shall be as often as they shall be called together upon training duty or actual service; and the Surgeon's Mates to be in pay only when the Battalion is called into actual service; and the Chaplains and Quartermasters are to attend their respective Battalions wherever they may be stationed.

And be it further ordained, That the several Officers appointed for that purpose shall immediately proceed to enlist the Minute-Men within their respective Counties, City, or Borough; and the said Officers shall not go into any other County, City, or Borough, to complete their quotas, until the Officers in such other County, City, or Borough, have completed their quotas, nor, in that case, without the permission of the Committee of such other County, City, or Borough, in writing, first had and obtained.

And as well to prevent the enlistment of such men as are unfit for service, as to fix the ranks of the Officers of the several Companies, Be it further ordained, That the Committee of each County, City, and Borough, shall appoint one certain place of rendezvous within their County, City, or Borough, whither the Captain and other Officers of each Company, as soon as the same is complete, shall resort with their men, and give immediate notice thereof to the Chairman of the Committee, who is required to summon all the Members of the said Committee, who, or a majority of them, being present, shall either proceed themselves to review the said Company, or appoint any number of their Members, not under three, for that purpose. And if it shall appear to such Committee that the Company is complete, of able and proper men, and that they have been regularly enlisted, according to the terms and regulations prescribed by this Convention, the said Committee shall grant to the Captain a certificate of the day when the said Company first appeared complete, at the particular place of rendezvous in the County, City, or Borough; which certificate being produced to the General Committee of Safety, the said Committee shall cause the same to be entered in a book to be kept for that purpose, and shall cause the like certificate from the other Counties, City, or Borough Committees, to be entered in the same manner. And when all such certificates shall be returned, the said Committee of Safety, or a majority of those present, shall, and they are hereby required, to grant commissions under their hands to the Officers of the several Companies, according to their several appointments, fixing their rank of seniority and precedence according to the priority of the completion of their Companies, certified as aforesaid; and if it shall appear, upon examination of such certificate, that two or more of such Companies appeared complete at the rendezvous of the County, City, or Borough, on the same day, the said Committee of Safety shall, in such case, determine the right of seniority and precedence by a fair and impartial ballot.

And for settling the rank of the Field-Officers, the Committee of Delegates in each District shall certify the day when the Battalion in each District appeared completely embodied; and the Committee of Safety, upon receipt of such certificate, shall grant Commissions to and fix the ranks of such Officers, in the same manner as is directed in respect to other Officers.

And be it further ordained, That each Minute-Man so to be enlisted shall be furnished with proper Arms at publick expense, and until such can be provided shall bring into service the best Gun that he can procure; and for every good Rifle, to be approved by the respective Captains, there shall be allowed to the owner making use of the same at the rate of twenty Shillings a year; and moreover, there shall be provided at the expense of the publick, for every Minute-Man not already furnished, one Hunting-Shirt and pair of Leggings.

And it is hereby ordained, That a Tent for every Commissioned and Staff-Officer, one for every two Sergeants, one for a Drummer and Fifer, one Bell Tent for every Company, and one for every six Men, shall be provided at the expense of the publick.

And be it further ordained, That the Minute-Men in each respective District, so soon as they are enlisted and approved, as before directed, shall be embodied and formed into separate Battalions, and shall be kept in training under their Adjutant for twenty successive days, at such convenient place as shall be appointed by the Committee of Deputies in each District; and, after performing such battalion duty, the several Companies of each Battalion shall in their respective Counties be mustered, and continue to exercise four successive days in each month, except December, January, and February, at such times and places as shall be appointed by their respective Captains, care being taken that such appointments do not interfere with battalion duty.

And be it further ordained, That in order to render them the more skilful and expert in military exercise and discipline, the several Companies of Minute-Men shall twice in every year, after the exercise of the twenty days, be again embodied, and formed again into distinct Battalions within their Districts, and shall at each meeting continue in regular service and training for twelve successive days, at such convenient places within each District as shall be appointed by each Committee of Deputies, and at the stated times following, to wit: The District of Princess Anne, &c., to begin the first day of May, and the fifteenth of October; that of Elizabeth City, &c., on the fourth day of May, and the twentieth of October; that of Southampton, &c., on the fourth day of May, and twentieth of October; that of Mecklenburgh, &c., on the sixth day of May, and twenty-second of October; that of Anneleia, &c., on the tenth day of May, and twenty-fourth of October; that of Henrico, &c., on the twelfth day of May, and twenty-sixth of October; that of Buckingham, &c., on the fifteenth day of May, and twenty-sixth of October; that of Pittsylvania, &c., on the twentieth day of May, and thirtieth of October; which are to be considered as forming the General Southern District.

And be it further ordained, That the several Districts containing the Counties of Acomack, Gloucester, Lancaster, Caroline, Culpepper, Prince William, Berkley, and West-Augusta, shall meet in Battalion on the same days beforementioned, beginning with Acomack, and proceeding in regular order, as herein arranged; which last mentioned Districts are to be considered as forming the General Northern District.

Provided, always, That if either of the days beforementioned should happen to be on a Sunday, the time of beginning the exercise shall be on the day succeeding.

And be it further ordained, That the Officers and Minute-Men shall be allowed one day's pay for every twenty miles travelling to the place appointed for the general rendezvous of the several Battalions, and the same for returning home; and moreover, six Pence per day in lieu of provisions. And the several Battalions, whilst they continue on duty, shall be furnished with proper and necessary provisions, to be provided by a Commissary or Contractor, to be appointed in each District by the Committee of Deputies, whose duty it shall be to provide necessaries for the Battalion of his District, or any detachment therefrom in their march, in case they should be called to service in any other part of the Country; and the Officers and Minute-Men in the several Companies of each Battalion shall be also allowed six Pence per day each, besides their pay, for the four days they shall exercise in their respective Counties, in lieu of provisions.

And be it further ordained, That every Officer of Minute-Men who shall absent himself either from battalion duty or the private musters in their Counties, without sufficient excuse, to be judged of and allowed by a Court-Martial, shall be subject to the following fines, to wit: The Colonel, for every day's absence from battalion duty, thirty Shillings; the Lieutenant-Colonel, twenty-five Shillings; the Major, twenty Shillings; a Captain, twelve Shillings; a Lieutenant, eight Shillings; an Ensign six Shillings; a Sergeant, five Shillings; a Corporal, Drummer, and Fifer, four Shillings; and each private Minute-Man, three Shillings; an Adjutant, twenty Shillings; a Quartermaster, twelve Shillings; and a Sergeant-Major, six Shillings. And for non-attendance at private musters, without a sufficient excuse, to be allowed as aforesaid, the Officers and Minute-Men shall, for every day's absence, be subject to the following fines, to wit: A Captain, twelve Shillings; a Lieutenant, eight Shillings; an Ensign, six Shillings; a Sergeant, five Shillings; a Corporal, Drummer, and Fifer, four Shillings; and each private Minute-Man, three Shillings. The several fines above-mentioned to be imposed by a Court-Martial, to consist of the Field-Officers and Captains of the District, or any seven of them, whereof a Field-Officer shall be one, and deducted out of the pay of the delinquent, if so much shall be due to him; if not, to be levied on his estate, in manner as directed for fines imposed on the Militia. And if any Officer or Soldier, during the time of his attendance on training duty, in Battalion or Companies, as herein directed, shall refuse to obey the commands of his superior Officer, or behave himself mutinously or refractorily, or shall in any other manner transgress the rules of good order and decency, every such offender shall or may be confined for any time not exceeding twenty-four hours, or fined in any sum not exceeding one month's pay, as shall be determined by the judgment of a Court-Martial, to be held as aforesaid; the fines to be deducted or levied, as before directed.

Provided, always, That the Commanding Officer or Captain of any Company may, when occasion shall require, give leave of absence to any inferior Officer or Minute-Man; but they shall not be entitled to pay during such absence.

And as well for the ease of the Minute-Men, as that they may be returned in regular rotation to the bodies of their respective Militias, Be it further ordained, That after serving twelve months, sixteen Minute-Men shall be discharged from each Company by the Commanding Officer or Captain of the Company, and the like number at the end of every year, beginning with those who stand first on the roll, and who were first enlisted; and if those who stand first should choose to continue in the service, taking the next in succession desirous of being discharged, and so from time to time proceeding in regular progression.

Provided, That the Officer shall not have it in his option to discharge a less number than sixteen in every year, whose places shall be supplied by new enlistments, to be taken in the manner first directed.

And for the more regular pay of the Battalions, Be it further ordained, That one Paymaster shall be appointed by the Committee of Safety for each of the sixteen Districts; and the pay of the Officers and Soldiers, when on duty in their Counties, or in Battalion, or when drawn out into actual service, shall be as followeth, to wit: To a Colonel, fifteen Shillings per day; a Lieutenant-Colonel, twelve Shillings and six Pence; a Major, ten Shillings; a Captain, six Shillings; a Lieutenant, four Shillings; an Ensign, three Shillings; a Sergeant, two Shillings; Corporal, Drummer, and Fifer, each one Shilling and eight Pence; and a private man, one Shilling and four Pence per day; a Chaplain, ten Shillings per day; a Surgeon, when the Battalion is in training duty, or actual service, ten Shillings per day; a Surgeon's Mate, five Shillings; an Adjutant, holding no other office, six Shillings; if in other office, three Shillings; a Quartermaster to be appointed, and allowed the same as an Adjutant; a Commissary of Musters to each Battalion, appointed by the Committee of Deputies, ten Shillings per day for each day of his attending the Battalion, or separate Companies; and to a Sergeant-Major, to be chosen by the Commanding Officer out of the most expert Sergeants, two Shillings and six Pence per day.

And be it further ordained, That the pay of the several Officers and Minute-Men in each District shall commence from the completion of their respective Battalions, and their meeting at the general rendezvous to be appointed as aforesaid.

And be it further ordained, That the exercise to be performed throughout the several Battalions and Companies shall be that recommended by His Majesty in the year 1764.

And be it further ordained, That there shall be appointed by the General Convention one Adjutant-General to the Regular Forces, who shall rank as youngest Lieutenant-Colonel; whose business it moreover shall be, once in twelve months, to visit the several particular Districts arranged as aforesaid in the two general Southern and Northern Districts, to superintend the conduct of the different Adjutants, and see that they do their duty in their several departments, and also to take particular care that there is a due conformity in their exercise and evolutions, so that when the different Battalions join in Brigades there may be no mistake nor confusion. Of all which, the Adjutant-General shall, once in every year, make a full report to this Convention, and for his trouble and expenses in travelling he shall be allowed twelve Shillings and six Pence per day.

And be it further ordained, That the several Volunteer Companies raised in pursuance of the Resolutions of a former Convention, shall be disbanded as soon as the Battalions in the several Districts where the said Volunteer Companies respectively reside are fully and completely embodied.

Provided, That any Officer or Volunteer of the said Companies may be, if approved, appointed to any office in the Companies or Battalion of Minute-Men, or enlist as private Minute-Men in such Companies.

And be it further ordained, That the Commanding Officer of the Regulars, or any Battalion, where occasion requires, shall grant one or more Warrants for impressing any Carts, Wagons, Horses, Boats, or other necessities which may be requisite, from time to time, for publick service; and the person receiving such Warrant shall cause every article so impressed to be fairly appraised by two different Freeholders, who are most convenient to the place of impressment, to be chosen by him and the owner of such article, his Steward, or Overseer; and in case the two appraisers so chosen should disagree, they shall choose an umpire; which appraisers and umpire shall first take an oath, to be administered by the Officer ordering such impress, or any Justice of the Peace in the County, that they will make a true and just appraisement; and the valuation or hire of such article or articles so impressed shall be paid by the publick, as justice may require. And, moreover, the Commanding Officer of the Regulars, or Battalions, shall have power to issue his Warrant for impressing any Artificers that may be judged necessary for the publick service; and if their wages cannot be agreed on, the same shall be settled in the manner last mentioned.

And whereas the Counties of Accomack and Northampton, from their particular situation, are exposed to many dangers, Be it further ordained, That the Committee of Deputies, if they judge it necessary, may keep two of the Companies to be raised in their District in constant training, at the expense of the publick, in the same manner as directed for the Regulars.

And be it further ordained, That the Field-Officers and Captains of the Regular Forces, in case of any invasion or insurrection in any quarter where they may be stationed, shall immediately give notice to the Captains or their superiour Officers of the Minute-Men residing in the next adjacent County, who shall, with all expedition, march the men under their command to the place of danger; and such Officers, not being the first in command in the District, shall immediately give notice to the Commander-in-Chief of the Districts, that they may judge what is further necessary to be done. And, moreover, the Field-Officers and Captains of the Regiments, at the time of their summoning in the Minute-Men, shall immediately give notice thereof to the President of the Committee of Safety, who is hereby required, without loss of time, to summon the said Committee, that they may give such further necessary orders and instructions as the exigency of affairs may require.

And be it further ordained, That every Officer of the Minute-Men receiving notice from any other Officer of the Minute-Men, in any other County than that wherein the Regular Forces are stationed, of any invasion or insurrection, shall forthwith raise the men under his command, and send intelligence to the Commanding Officer of the Minute-Men of that County, and also the Commanding Officer of the Militia, or, being himself Commanding Officer of the Minute-Men of that County, shall immediately raise the men under his command, and proceed to oppose the enemy, taking care to despatch intelligence to the Commanding Officer of the District, and also to the Officer of the Minute-Men in the next adjacent County, who is to proceed in the same manner as the Officer first receiving such intelligence is directed to do. But the several Officers of the Minute-Men thus to be raised shall be subject to such further directions and instructions as shall be given them either by the Committee of Safety, or a Council of Field-Officers and Captains, to be held for that purpose. And the Commanding Officer of the Militia receiving such intelligence shall immediately summon a Council of his Field-Officers and Captains, to consider and determine whether it is necessary to march his Militia, or what part thereof, to the place of danger, and act according to their decision; giving immediate notice, if the importance of the case, in the opinion of the said Council of War, shall require it, to the General Committee of Safety, whose orders and directions the said Commanding Officer and his Militia are hereby directed to obey.

And for settling the proper rank amongst the Officers, as well of the Regulars as of the Minute-Men and Militia, whenever they are joined in actual service, Be it further ordained, That in such case the several Officers of the Regulars shall take rank of the Minute-Men of the same rank, and the Officers of the Minute-Men shall take rank of the Officers of the Militia of the same rank; but the Minute-Men shall not be under the command of the Militia Officers, nor the Militia under the command of the Minute-Officers, unless drawn out upon duty together.

Provided, That when the County Lieutenant is called out with his Militia, in junction with the Regulars or Minute-Men, he shall rank as a Colonel; and the Colonels, if their County Lieutenants be present, shall rank as Lieutenant-Colonels only; and the Lieutenant-Colonels as Majors, in case of the presence of their County Lieutenant and Colonel.

And be it further ordained, That every Officer or Militia-Man, and every Officer and Minute-Man, who shall refuse or unreasonably delay conforming to the above directions, in every particular, shall, for every refusal or delay, forfeit and pay the several sums following, to wit: Every Lieutenant of a County the sum of two hundred Pounds, every Colonel two hundred Pounds, every Lieutenant-Colonel (either of the Minute-Men or Militia) the sum of two hundred Pounds, every Major of the Minute-Men or Militia the sum of one hundred Pounds, every Captain the sum of seventy-five Pounds, every Lieutenant the sum of fifty Pounds, every Ensign the sum of ten Pounds, every Sergeant and Corporal the sum of five Pounds; and every Soldier or Minute-Man failing to appear, and not bringing with him his Arms, shall forfeit and pay the sum of five Pounds. Every delinquency of Officers in the above respects to be judged of, and the said fines to be imposed, by a General Court-Martial; and if any Officer shall refuse or neglect to pay said fine within one month, he shall be cashiered, and moreover be liable to a stoppage of his pay towards discharging the said fine.

Provided, That if any Officer shall think himself aggrieved by the sentence of such Court-Martial, he may appeal to the Committee of Safety, whose judgment shall be final; and every private Soldier or Minute-Man refusing or neglecting to pay the same, or to give security to pay the same in one month after conviction, shall be subject to such corporal punishment as may be inflicted by a Court-Martial, not extending to life or member.

And be it further ordained, That the Commander-in-Chief shall have power, as occasion may require, to appoint one Brigade-Major, to be approved by the Committee of Safety; and such Brigade-Major shall be allowed six Shillings for every day he is employed on duty.

And be it further ordained, That the Committee of Safety shall, and they are hereby empowered to provide proper winter quarters for the Regular Soldiers and Minute-Men, when called into actual service, as they may see occasion, and issue their warrants from time to time for the payment of the same.

And whereas, by the expiration of several of our Militia Laws and the Act of our General Assembly making provision against invasions and insurrections, which there is little prospect of having revived in any reasonable time, it is judged necessary, in the present time of danger, that the remainder of the Militia not included in the Minute-Men should be armed, accoutred, trained, and disciplined, in the best manner the circumstances of the Country will admit of, Be it therefore ordained, That in each County within this Colony there shall be a County Lieutenant, Colonel, Lieutenant-Colonel, and Major, to be commissioned by the Committee of Safety upon the nomination of the Committees of the respective Counties; that all free male persons, hired servants, and apprentices, above the age of sixteen and under fifty years, except such as are hereafter excepted, shall be enlisted into the Militia by the Commander-in-Chief of the County, and formed into Companies of not less than thirty-two nor more than sixty-eight, rank and file, to be placed under one Captain, one Lieutenant, and one Ensign, all of whom shall be commissioned by the Committee of Safety, upon the nomination of the Committees of the Counties as aforesaid. And the Commander-in-Chief of each County shall, within three months after passing this Ordinance, deliver to each Captain a list of the names of the men appointed for his Company; and every Captain receiving such list shall summon his Company to meet within a fortnight, in such convenient time and place as he may appoint, in order to lay a proper foundation for training and disciplining them in the most effectual manner.

Provided, That the Members of his Majesty's Council, and the Committee of Safety, the President of the Convention, Treasurer, Attorney-General, Auditor, Clerk of the Council, Clerk of the Secretary's Office, Clerk of the General Convention, and Clerk of the Committee of Safety, (each of which exempts furnishing a stand of Arms for a Soldier,) all Clergymen and dissenting Ministers, the President, Professors, Students, and Scholars of William and Mary College, the Keeper of the publick Jail, all Overseers of four tithables residing on a Plantation, and all Millers, and persons concerned in Iron Works, shall be exempted from such enlistment.

And be it further ordained, That if any Commander-in-Chief of any County shall fail to do his duty as above directed, he shall forfeit and pay the sum of two hundred Pounds.

And be it further ordained, That every Militia-Man so to be enlisted shall furnish himself with a good Rifle, if to be had, or otherwise with a Tomahawk, common Firelock, Bayonet, Pouch, or Cartouch-Box, three charges of Powder and Ball, and appear with the same at the place appointed for mustering, and shall constantly keep by him one pound of Powder and four pounds of Ball, to be produced whenever called for by his Commanding Officer.

Provided, always, That no person shall be subject to the penalties hereby inflicted, for the not providing or producing the quantity of Powder required, who shall make it appear to the Court-Martial that he has used his best endeavours to procure such Powder, and hath not been able so to do; also, that if it be certified by a Court-Martial that any Soldier enlisted is so poor as not to be able to purchase the Arms as aforesaid, then such Arms shall, by order of the Committee of the County, be procured so soon as may be, at the expense of the publick. And if any person shall presume to sell or buy any Arms thus provided, he shall forfeit and pay the sum of six Pounds; and all Arms so purchased and delivered to any such poor Soldier shall, on his death or removal out of the County, be delivered to the chief Officer of the Militia in the County, or to the Captain of the Company to which such poor Soldier did belong, to be by such Officer delivered to any other poor Soldier whom the Commanding Officer shall adjudge unable to provide himself with Arms as aforesaid.

And be it further ordained, That there shall be a Private Muster of the several Companies in each County once a fortnight, except in the months of December, January, and February, and the Officers and Soldiers shall be on the place appointed by ten o'clock in the forenoon; and moreover, there shall be a General Muster in every County in the months of April and October in each year, and the Officers and Soldiers shall appear on the parade by eleven o'clock in the forenoon.

And be it further ordained, That if any Officer, when on duty, shall misbehave, he shall be subject to the censure of a Court-Martial, who shall, if they see cause, certify such misbehaviour to the Committee of the County, City, or Borough, by whom such Officer was nominated, who shall have full power to displace or remove such Officer from his post, if they shall judge it expedient for the good of the publick; and if any Soldier shall, at any General or Private Muster, refuse to obey the command of his Officer, or shall behave himself refractorily and mutinously, or misbehave himself at a Court-Martial, it shall and may be lawful for the Commanding Officer then present to cause such offender to be tied neck and heels, for any time not exceeding five minutes.

And be it further ordained, That every Captain, or in his absence the next Commissioned Officer, shall make return of all delinquencies in his Company, either at General or Private Musters, to the next Court-Martial; and the better to enable him so to do, the senior Sergeant, being first sworn by a Magistrate, shall act as Clerk, and call over the Roll at each Muster. And the Lieutenant, or other chief Officer of the Militia, shall and may order the other Officers and Soldiers under him to go armed to their Parish Churches on Sundays, and to any licensed Meeting-Houses, whenever he judges it necessary.

And be it further ordained, That it shall and may be lawful for the Field-Officers and Captains of every County, or the major part of them, whereof a Field-Officer shall be one, and they are hereby required to meet at the Court-Houses of their respective Counties the day next following the General Muster in the months of April and October, in every year, if fair, if not, the next fair day, then and there to hold a Court-Martial; which Court shall have power to adjourn from day to day, and to inquire of the age and abilities of all persons enlisted, and exempt such as they shall adjudge incapable of service, and of all delinquents returned by the Captains for absence from Musters, or appearing without Arms, Powder, or Ball. And the said Court, the better to conduct the business before them, shall and may appoint a Clerk, to whom the President of the Court shall administer an oath, well and faithfully to perform the duties of his office; and the said Court shall allow such Clerk, so appointed, such salary as they may judge his services entitle him to. And every County Lieutenant, or the next officer in command, if the Lieutenant should be absent on necessary business, failing to appoint a General Muster, as before directed, shall forfeit and pay one hundred Pounds; and every Colonel, Lieutenant-Colonel, or Major, failing to appear with their proper Arms at any General Muster, shall forfeit and pay ten Pounds; and every Captain failing to muster and exercise his Company once in every fortnight, except as before excepted, shall forfeit and pay forty Shillings for every neglect; and failing to appear at any General Muster, shall forfeit and pay fifty Shillings; every Lieutenant failing to appear at any Muster, twenty Shillings; and every Ensign, for the like failure, the sum of twenty Shillings; and every Soldier not appearing, or appearing without proper Arms, five Shillings; or for not bringing with him three charges of Powder and Ball, three Shillings; or failing to bring into the field, when required by his Commanding Officer, one pound of Powder and four pounds of Ball, five Shillings. And every Captain, or in his absence from muster the next commanding officer, failing to return the list of the persons who shall not appear at Muster to the Courts-Martial, or who shall appear without proper Arms, Powder, and Ball, shall forfeit and pay ten Pounds; provided, if the person so failing shall, at the next Court-Martial, or, in case of his inability to attend, at the succeeding Court-Martial, offer a reasonable excuse for any such delinquencies, such excuse shall and may be admitted, and the party complained of discharged of all and every the penalties aforesaid.

And be it further ordained, That the Captain of each Company shall and may appoint one Drummer and one Fifer, who shall be paid for their attendance the same as is allowed in the Minute service; and the said Captains shall provide Drums, Fifes, Colours, and Halberds, at the publick expense, to be reimbursed out of the fines; and every Clerk of a Court-Martial shall deliver a list of the fines imposed by the Court-Martial to the Collector, within twenty days, under the penalty of one hundred Pounds, to be imposed by the next succeeding Court-Martial.

And be it further ordained, That every Officer of the Militia within this Colony shall, at all times that he acts on duty, at any Private or General Muster, appear armed in the following manner, that is to say: every County Lieutenant, Colonel, Lieutenant-Colonel, and Major, with a Sword; and every Captain and Lieutenant with a Firelock and Bayonet, and a Sword, and three charges of Powder and Ball; every Ensign with a Sword; every Sergeant and Corporal with a Sword and Halberd, under the penalty of twenty Shillings; and the said fines to be levied by a Court-Martial, and appropriated to the purchasing Arms and Ammunition for the use of such as are not able to procure the same.

And be it further ordained, That the Soldiers shall be allowed six months after enlisting to provide themselves with Arms, and in the mean time shall bring with them such Arms as they have, under the penalty of five Shillings, to be inflicted by a Court-Martial; and that all Arms of the Militia shall be exempted from executions or distresses, and all Officers and Soldiers shall be exempted from arrests in civil cases, during their continuance at, going to and returning from Musters.

And be it further ordained, That if any exempted Miller or Overseer shall presume to appear at any Muster of the Militia or Minute-Men, or in any muster field, on the day on which such Muster shall be appointed, the party so offending shall forfeit and pay twenty Shillings, to be assessed upon him by the next Court-Martial, upon a certificate of the offence to them made, by the Captain or chief officer present at such Muster, or the information, on oath, of any person whatsoever, and levied, accounted for, and appropriated in the same manner as the other fines ordered by the Court-Martial. And that all fines and penalties incurred by infants or servants, for breach or neglect of duty in any particular service by this Ordinance required of them, shall be paid by the parent, guardian, or master, of such infant or servant; and if the breach or neglect of such servants is not occasioned by their master's influence or direction, then the fines incurred by them, and so paid by their masters, shall be repaid to their masters, by the further service of such servants after the times they are bound to serve are expired.

And be it further ordained, That if any Collector, appointed by a Court-Martial, shall refuse to collect the fines imposed by such Court-Martial, after having undertaken the same, he shall forfeit and pay one hundred Pounds; and if any Collector refuses, or unreasonably delays to pay all fines by him collected to the Receiver who shall be appointed by a Court-Martial, he shall forfeit and pay double the amount thereof.

And be it further ordained, That the several Militia Officers to be appointed, before they enter on the execution of their office, shall take the following Oath, to be administered before the Committee of the City, Borough, or County, to wit: "I, A B, do solemnly swear that I will be faithful and true to the Colony and Dominion of Virginia; that I will well and truly execute the office of County Lieutenant of the County of . . . . ., (or the office of . . . . ., as the case may be,) according to the best of my skill and judgment. So help me God."

And be it further ordained, That every County Lieutenant, Colonel, Lieutenant-Colonel, Major, and Captain, at the time of holding every Court-Martial, and before holding the same, shall take the following Oath, which shall be first administered by the next in command to the presiding officer then present, and then be by him administered to the rest of the Officers, to wit: "I, A B, do swear that I will do equal right and justice to all men, according to the Ordinance of the General Convention by which I am appointed to this office. So help me God."

And every person accepting a commission in the Militia who shall neglect or refuse to qualify himself to act under the same, by taking the oath beforementioned, at the next meeting of the Committee of his County, City, or Borough, after receiving his commission, every such person shall forfeit and pay the sum of five Pounds.

And be it further ordained, That the fines imposed by this Ordinance on the Chief Officer for not appointing General Musters, shall be to the use of the County, for providing Arms, and shall and may be recovered before a Court-Martial.

And be it further ordained, That all Officers failing to attend a Court-Martial shall be subject to the same penalties as the Chief Officer for not appointing General Musters; provided, if no Court-Martial is held immediately after the next General Muster, then by the next succeeding Court-Martial.

Provided, always, That nothing in this Ordinance contained shall extend, or be construed to extend, to the inhabitants of the City of Williamsburgh, or Borough of Norfolk, so as to oblige them to muster or serve in the Militia out of the said City or Borough; but that such inhabitants shall be enlisted and trained within the limits of the said City and Borough, in the same manner as is directed by this Ordinance, but under a Colonel, a Major, and the necessary number of Captains and other Officers, all of whom shall be nominated by the Committees of the said City and Borough, respectively, and commissioned by the Committee of Safety. And the said Militia Officers, as well as Soldiers, shall be liable to all the penalties before directed to be inflicted on the Officers and Soldiers in the Counties, either for neglect of duty or misbehaviour, in any respect whatsoever, to be adjudged by the Courts of Hustings both in the said City and Borough, without whose orders and directions neither of the said Militias shall at any time be obliged to march out of the said City or Borough.

And be it further ordained, That the Commanding Officer of the Militia of every County, of the City of Williamsburgh and Borough of Norfolk, shall appoint so many Patrollers as he may think fit, under proper Captains, who shall receive a reasonable allowance for their trouble, at the laying of every County levy.

And be it further ordained, That all Quakers, and the people called Menonists, shall be exempted from serving in the Militia, agreeably to the several Acts of the General Assembly of this Colony made for their relief and indulgence in this respect.

And be it further ordained, That if the Officers and Militia should at any time be called out into actual service, they shall be under the same rules and regulations, be subject to the same penalties, and shall receive the same pay, as are appointed, prescribed, and allowed to and for the Regulars, and their Officers.

And be it further ordained, That the Court-Martial of every County, City, and Borough in this Colony, shall appoint some person, not being a member of such Court, to receive all the Militia fines inflicted by this Ordinance; who, before he enters into the execution of his office, shall give bond, with sufficient security, payable to the members of the said Court, sitting at the time the same shall be entered into and taken, and their successors, with condition for the due payment of all moneys that shall come to his hands by virtue of his said office, which bond shall not become void on the first recovery, but may be prosecuted and put in suit from time to time, by and at the cost and charges in the law of any party or parties injured, until the whole penalty therein mentioned shall be recovered. And if any Receiver hereafter to be appointed shall fail or delay to account with the Court-Martial, or to apply the money by him received as he shall be directed, after deducting at the rate of five per cent., which he shall be allowed for his trouble by the Court-Martial, then, upon motion or complaint made to the County Court, or Court of Hustings of the City of Williamsburgh or Borough of Norfolk, respectively, by any Officer or Soldier of the Militia against such Receiver, such Court shall give judgment and award execution against him and his securities, their executors, or administrators, for the same, and cause the money to be appropriated to the uses directed by this Ordinance, in such manner as the Court-Martial shall appoint; provided, that such Receiver and his securities, their executors, or administrators, have ten days' previous notice of such motion.

And be it further ordained, That this Ordinance shall, by command of each Colonel, be publicly read at the head of his Regiment, as soon as the same is embodied and formed, and once in six months thereafter, under the penalty of one hundred Pounds, to be paid by such Colonel, for every neglect; and the same shall also be publicly read at every meeting of a Battalion of the Minute-Men in each District, and at every General Muster, by the order of the Colonel, County Lieutenant, or chief Officer then present, under the penalty of one hundred Pounds, to be paid by any such Officer, for every neglect.

And whereas it is declared by this Ordinance, that four hundred and twenty-five Men, under proper Officers, shall be stationed at the several Forts upon the frontiers of this Colony, It is hereby ordained, That as soon as the treaty of peace shall be concluded with the several Tribes of Indians bordering on the western parts of this Colony, it shall be in the power of the Committee of Safety, if the Convention is not sitting, to disband the whole, or such part thereof as to them shall seem most expedient and consistent with the good of this Colony.

II. An Ordinance for the better government of the Forces to be raised and employed in the service of the Colony and Dominion of VIRGINIA.

Be it ordained by the Representatives of the People in Convention assembled, and by the authority of the same, That the following Rules and Articles be established, that is to say:

ARTICLE I. That every Officer and Soldier who shall serve in the Provincial Army, either of Regulars or Minute-Men, shall, at the time of accepting his Commission and Enlistment, subscribe the following Rules and Regulations, and thereafter be bound by the same; and moreover, every Officer and Soldier (except Quakers, who are to make a solemn affirmation to the same effect) shall take the following Oaths, to be administered by the Committee of Safety to the Field-Officers, by the respective County Committees to the Officers to be by them nominated, and by a Justice of Peace to any Soldier, not under two days from the time of his enlistment, or a Member of the Committee of any County, City, or Borough, where he may be enlisted.

OATH OF A COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF.

"I, A B, do swear that I will be faithful and true to the Colony and Dominion of Virginia; that I will serve the same to the utmost of my power, in defence of the just rights of America, against all enemies whatsoever; that I will, from time to time, obey such orders as I may receive from the General Convention, or other authority by them appointed; and that I will disband all the Forces under my command and lay down my arms, when required by the General Convention, or the General Assembly of Virginia. So help me God."

OATH OF THE OFFICERS AND SOLDIERS.

Whereas in the present time of danger, and the alarming and distressed situation of the Country, it is judged necessary that a Committee of Safety should be established, for the better and more effectual carrying into execution the several Ordinances and Resolutions of this Convention:

Be it therefore ordained, by the Delegates deputed to represent the several Counties and Corporations within this Colony, in the present General Convention, and it is hereby ordained by the authority of the same, That Edmund Pendleton, George Mason, John Page, Richard Bland, Thomas Ludwell Lee, Paul Carrington, Dudley Digges, William Cabell, Carter Braxton, James Mercer, and John Tabb, Esquires, be, and they are hereby appointed and declared a Committee of Safety throughout this Colony, for the purposes aforesaid.

Provided, that in case of the death, sickness, or necessary absence of the President and Vice-President, the said Committee may choose other of their Members to either office pro tempore.

And be it further ordained, That the said Committee of Safety, or a majority of them as aforesaid, shall have full power, from time to time, to superintend, direct and appoint stations, marches, and encampments, for the Regular Forces to be raised, so that they may be, on all emergencies, em- ployed for the more effectual assistance and defence of any part of the country most exposed to danger; and they shall, moreover, have full power and authority to call forth into actual service any Detachments or Companies of Minute-Men, or any parts of the Militia from any District or County within this Colony, having regard to the convenience and vicinity of such District or County to the place of immediate danger, and also to the internal security of such District or County. Provided, always, That the Militia at large of any County shall not be called into actual service, except in cases of the most urgent and imminent danger, nor continued, on any pretence whatever, longer on duty than their places can be supplied by Minute-Men, to be drawn from the most convenient Districts. And all chief and commanding officers, as well of the Regulars as of the Minute-Men and Militia, shall, and they are hereby required to pay strict obedience to such orders as they shall from time to time receive from the said Committee of Safety; and if any chief or other commanding officer shall refuse or neglect so to do, the said Committee shall make a full report of such misconduct to the next Convention.

this Colony, that several Officers shall be appointed by District Committees, composed of Deputies from different Counties; and whereas, from the usual method of conducting the business of Committees, the Chairmen are not allowed to vote on any question, except in cases where the other Members are equally divided in opinion, which in this instance may be attended with inconvenience: Be it ordained, That in all appointments of officers by a District Committee, the Chairman of such Committee shall have equal right to vote in common with the other Members, though they should not be equally divided; and in case it should happen that the whole Committee, including the Chairman, is equally divided, the matter shall be fairly represented by the District Committee to the Committee of Safety, who shall have full power to determine the election in favour of such of the candidates as they may think fit, and grant their commission accordingly.

And be it further ordained, That the said Committee of Safety shall have power, and they are hereby desired, to collect together all the Arms lately taken away from the Publick Magazine, and all other Arms purchased at the publick expense, at some place most convenient for that purpose, and that they repay the expense incurred by repairing the same; and also all such Ammunition and warlike Stores as are now the publick property in this Colony, or may hereafter be purchased on the publick account, and dispose of such Arms, Ammunition, and Stores, as they shall judge most conducive to the safety of this Colony, until the further order of this or some other Convention.

And be it further ordained, That any person who shall hereafter accept of any office of profit or pecuniary appointment under the Crown, shall be disqualified from sitting or voting in the Committee of Safety; and no Member of the Committee of Safety shall hold any military office whatever, after the end of the present session of the Convention. And that the said Committee of Safety shall continue in office, and exercise the powers hereby given them, until the sitting of the next General Convention, or for one year, in case the Convention should not meet within that time.

IV. An Ordinance for regulating the election of Delegates and ascertaining their allowances, and also for regulating the election of Committee-Men in the several Counties and Corporations within this Colony, and for other purposes therein mentioned.

Whereas, by the unhappy differences subsisting between Great Britain and this Colony, the usual meetings of the General Assembly, deliberations on the situation of the Country, and making provision for the exigencies of Government in a constitutional way, are altogether obstructed: for these reasons it is become indispensably necessary for the oppressed people of this Country, at a crisis so alarming, to adopt such other mode of consulting and providing for the general safety, as may seem most conducive to that great end:

2. Therefore, be it declared and ordained, by the Delegates of the several Counties and Corporations in the Colony of Virginia, assembled in General Convention, and it is hereby declared and ordained, That the Freeholders of every County within this Colony, who are by law properly qualified to vote for Burgesses, shall have the liberty and privilege of choosing annually two of the most fit and able men, being Freeholders of such County, respectively, to be present, and to act and vote in all General Conventions, which from time to time, and at any time thereafter, shall be held within this Dominion; and, also, that the Freeholders of the several and respective Corporations, and Town of James City, and others by law qualified to vote for a Citizen or Burgess, shall have the liberty of electing one Delegate, to be present, and to act and vote in the General Convention; and the Landholders of the District of West-Augusta shall be considered as a distinct County, and have the liberty of sending two Delegates to represent them in General Convention as aforesaid.

3. And for the more regular and proper electing the said Delegates, It is hereby declared and ordained, That the following rules and methods shall be observed, to wit: The elections of Delegates in the several Counties and Corporations, and the Town of James City, within this Colony, shall be in the month of April annually, on the several days appointed by law for the holding of the County or Corporation Courts, respectively, and at the places where such Courts are accustomed to be held, and shall be conducted by the Sheriffs of the respective Counties, and Mayors of the City of Williamsburgh and Borough of Norfolk; or in case any Sheriff shall neglect or refuse to act, or there be no Sheriff or Mayor, then the Clerk of the Committee for such County or Corporation, in the same manner as is directed by law in the election of Burgesses in this Colony. And the Sheriff or Mayor, or Clerk of the Committee, shall have the same privilege of preferring and returning any Delegate, regularly elected, as by law is given to the Sheriff in the election of Burgesses, in case any two candidates may happen to have an equal number of votes.

4. Provided, always, That the election of Delegates for the Town of James City, and the College of William and Mary, shall be on the same day and place appointed for the County of James City, and shall be conducted by the Sheriff or Clerk of the Committee for such County, in manner hereinbefore directed; and after the election shall be made, in manner as is hereinbefore directed, the Sheriff or Mayor, or Clerk of the Committee, as aforesaid, shall deliver to each of the Delegates elected a certificate, under his hand and seal, that such Delegate was duly elected for his County or Corporation, to serve in General Convention for one year then next following. And, further, the said Sheriff or Mayor, or Clerk of the Committee, shall deliver to any candidate requiring the same, as soon as may be, a fair attested copy of the poll taken by him.

5. And it is hereby further declared and ordained, That, in case of the death or incapacity of any Member of the General Convention, the President of the said Convention, for the time being, shall have full power and authority to issue his order, under his hand and seal, for the election of a Delegate to fill up such vacancy, to be directed to the Sheriff, Mayor, or Clerk of the Committee of that County or Corporation where such vacancy has happened; and thereupon such Sheriff, Mayor, or Clerk, shall appoint some day, not exceeding twenty, nor under ten days, after the receipt of such order, for the election of a Delegate accordingly, and shall publish notice, and proceed to the election of a Delegate, in the same manner as is by law directed in the case of an election of a Burgess, to be made during the sitting of any General Assembly.

6. And be it further declared and ordained, That the Delegates so elected shall meet annually in General Convention on the first Monday in May, and shall have power to adjourn from time to time; and if, during their recess, it shall appear to the President, or, in case of his death or absence, to Robert Carter Nicholas, Esq., or to the Committee of Safety, that a meeting of the Convention is necessary sooner than the time to which they stand adjourned, he or they shall have full power and authority, by advertisement published in the Virginia Gazette, or, in case of exigency, by expresses despatched to the Delegates of the respective Counties and Corporations within this Colony, to summon the said Delegates to meet and sit in Convention, at such time as he shall appoint; the place of each meeting to be appointed by the Convention, at their session next preceding. And every Delegate attending in Convention, if the same shall be appointed and held at Williamsburgh, shall be paid for his attendance in the same manner as by law the Burgesses are allowed for attending the General Assembly; and where the Convention shall be at any other place than Williamsburgh, then the said Delegates shall be allowed respectively for their attendance in the same manner, and for travelling, at the rate of four Pence per mile for coming, and the same for returning, and all ferriages by them actually advanced, which allowances to the said Delegates shall be paid as by law the payment of the Burgesses' wages is directed.

7. And whereas the critical and dangerous state of this Country made it expedient to hold two former Conventions, to wit: the one in the City of Williamsburgh, on the first day of August, one thousand seven hundred and seventy-four, and the other in the Town of Richmond, on the twentieth day of March last, and it is reasonable and just that the Members who attended the said Conventions should be allowed for the same: Be it hereby ordained, That the Delegates respectively shall have the same allowances for attending the two Conventions aforesaid, and also this present Convention, that are herein provided for and allowed to the Delegates who may attend any future Convention.

8. And it is hereby declared and ordained, That any person who now is, or hereafter may be appointed Sheriff or Mayor of any County or Corporation in this Colony, or Clerk of any County or Corporation Committee, or Collector of any taxes, duties, or levies, that may be imposed by the General Convention, or any person that is already appointed to, or shall accept of any military post of profit, except in any Regiment or Battalion of Minute-Men which may be hereafter established, shall not be capable of sitting or voting as a Member of the General Convention; and in all such cases there shall be a new election of a Member, to fill up the vacancy, in the same manner as if such person was naturally dead.

9. And it is hereby further declared and ordained, That all Clergymen of the Church of England, and all dissenting ministers or teachers, shall be incapable of being elected as a Delegate, or sitting and voting in Convention. And any person who shall hereafter accept any office of profit, or pecuniary appointment, under the Crown, or shall have procured himself to be elected by bribery, in giving money, or any publick entertainment of meat or drink, or made any promise to do so to the electors, or by any other corrupt practices, shall be disqualified from sitting or voting in the General Convention, the General Congress, Council of Safety, or County or Corporation Committees; and in all such cases the same proceedings shall be had as if the person so accepting was naturally dead.

10. And whereas the mode hitherto pursued in electing Committee-Men in the several Counties and Corporations in this Colony, under the Continental Association, has not been uniformly the same, and many inconveniences have arisen by the supernumerary Committee-Men elected in some Counties; and whereas, also, no limitation has been fixed for their continuing to discharge that duty, and they may assume to themselves a power of acting under their present appointments at all times in future, which is incompatible with the principles of representation, and the just control that the electors ought to have over them: For the removing the present inconveniences, and better regulating the elections of Committee-Men hereafter, It is hereby declared and ordained, That the Freeholders of every County and Corporation within this Colony, and others who are by law qualified to vote at an election of Burgesses, and the Landholders in the District of West-Augusta, as hereafter described, shall have the liberty and privilege of electing annually twenty-one of the most discreet, fit, and able men of their County or Corporation, being Freeholders, to act as a Committee for carrying into execution the Association, and such other measures as the Continental Congress, or General Convention of this Colony, have, or hereafter may, from time to time, direct and ordain, and forwarding all publick expresses of importance, the expense of which shall be paid by the publick. And the said Committees shall have power to appoint, out of their Members, a Committee of Correspondence, and such other Sub-Committees as may be found necessary, to superintend the different Districts of their respective Counties or Corporations, with an appeal, where any person shall think himself aggrieved, to the County or Corporation Committee at large, and accountable to them for all their proceedings.

11. And for the more regular electing such Committee, It is hereby declared and ordained, That the following rules and methods shall be observed, that is to say: The elections of Committee-Men in the several Counties and Corporations within this Colony shall be in the month of November annually, on the several days appointed by law for the holding of the County or Corporation Courts respectively, and at the places where such Courts are accustomed to be held; at which elections the Freeholders, and others qualified as aforesaid, shall appear and deliver in to the Chairman, or, in case of his absence, to the Clerk of the Committee, a list of such persons as may be judged the most discreet, fit, and able, to serve as Committee-Men as aforesaid, which several lists shall be fairly counted by the Chairman or Clerk of the Committee, in the presence of so many of the Committee as may choose to attend the same, and publication shall be made of the several persons that appear to have a majority of votes, who are hereby declared, in such case, to be duly elected a Committee to serve as aforesaid.

12. And whereas the Inhabitants of the County of Fincastle, and the District of West-Augusta, although long possessed of their lands under surveys, entries, or orders of Council, have few of them obtained patents for the same, which have been obstructed without any default in them, who, having performed what is required on their part, have an equitable interest in their lands, and ought to share in the representation, in Conventions and Committees, with other Landholders in this Colony: Be it therefore declared and ordained, That every free white man who, at the time of elections for Delegates or Committee-Men in the said County or District, respectively, shall have been for one year preceding in possession of twenty-five acres of land, with a house and plantation thereon, or one hundred acres of land without a house or plantation, in such County or District, claiming an estate for life at least in the said land, in his own right or in right of his wife, shall have a vote, or be capable of being chosen at such elections, respectively, although no legal title in the land shall have been conveyed to such possessor. And to the end that no persons shall vote at such elections who are not qualified to do so, the Committee of the County or Corporation shall previously appoint three fit persons to superintend the election, who, being first sworn, shall determine all disputes about the right of a person to vote who shall offer any list; and if he shall be adjudged not to have such right, his list shall not be received.

13. And it is hereby declared and ordained, That a Committee elected as aforesaid, or a majority of them, shall have full power to elect one of their body as Chairman, to preside at all their meetings, and may appoint any person, willing to undertake the same, to officiate as Clerk to them, who shall have such annual allowance as the Committee shall think reasonable, to be levied by the Court of the County or Corporation, and may, at any time or times during their appointment, convene themselves, and hear, consider, and determine, on all such matters as may fall properly under their cognizance, according to the nature and intention of their institution; and shall keep a true and faithful journal of their proceedings, which shall be read by the Clerk, and signed by the Chairman, at every meeting of such Committee. And, moreover, in case of the death or resignation of the Chairman, or Clerk appointed as aforesaid, the said Committee, or a majority of them, shall have full authority to fill up any vacancy occasioned thereby, by election or appointment, in manner as aforesaid. Provided, nevertheless, That the Committees elected as aforesaid shall, in all their inquiries and decisions, confine themselves within the line of duty prescribed by the Continental Congress and the General Convention, and shall not assume to themselves any other power or authority whatever.

14. And for preventing the interruption to business that may frequently happen through the necessary or unavoidable absence of the Chairman or Clerk of the Committee, It is hereby declared and ordained, That when any meeting of a Committee shall be regularly appointed, and it may so happen, through sickness or other causes, that the Chairman or Clerk shall fail to attend such meeting, the Committee shall have the liberty and full power to choose or appoint, in manner as aforesaid, some other Chairman or Clerk to act pro tempore.

15. And to the end this Ordinance may be duly carried into execution, and the duties required of certain persons therein named faithfully discharged, It is hereby further declared and ordained, That if any Sheriff, Mayor, Chairman, or Clerk of a Committee, or any other person named herein, who is required to do any particular act, or perform any certain duty, shall perversely, obstinately, or wilfully refuse or neglect to comply with the directions of this Ordinance, such person so offending, and being adjudged guilty thereof by the Committee of the County or Corporation where such delinquency may happen, shall be deemed an enemy to American liberty and the welfare of this Country, and be subject to the censures of the Continental Association, in such cases provided.

16. And it is hereby further declared and ordained, That all and every other case or cases, matters or things, within the purview of this Ordinance, and not hereby particularly provided for, shall be ordered, governed, judged, and decided, according to the law for regulating the elections of Burgesses, and not otherwise.

V. An Ordinance for appointing Commissioners to settle the Accounts of the Militia lately drawn out into actual service, and for making provision to pay the same, as well as the expense of raising and providing for the Forces and Minute-Men directed to be embodied for the defence of this Colony.

Whereas his Excellency the Governour, at the opening of the late General Assembly, did, amongst other things, recommend that provision should be made for defraying the expenses of the late expedition against the Indians, and paying the Militia drawn out into actual service; and in pursuance of that recommendation, His Majesty's Council, and the House of Burgesses, did pass a Bill, as well for making such provision, as for discharging many other publick claims in the best and only method the circumstances of the Country would admit of; but the Governour thought fit to refuse his assent to the said Bill, whereby many of the inhabitants, particularly in the frontiers of this Colony, are left in the greatest distress, from which there is no prospect of their being relieved but by the interposition of this Convention:

And whereas the House of Burgesses afterwards judged it necessary to appoint certain Commissioners for settling the Accounts of the said Militia, and did approve and confirm a report from their Committee of Publick Claims, by which the demands of many other publick creditors were liquidated and ascertained, but, by reason of the low state of the Publick Treasury, cannot be paid in any reasonable time without some further provision:

Be it ordained by the Delegates and Representatives of the several Counties and Corporations within the Colony and Dominion of Virginia, now met in General Convention, and it is hereby ordained by the authority of the same, That Archibald Cary, William Cabell, William Fleming, John Winn, and John Nicholas, Gentlemen, be, and they are hereby appointed Commissioners for the Counties of Fincastle, Botetourt, Culpepper, Pittsylvania, Halifax, and Bedford, and that part of Augusta which lies to the eastward of the Alleghany Mountains; and Richard Lee, Francis Peyton, Josias Clapham, Henry Lee, and Thomas Blackburn, Gentlemen, for the other Counties, and for that part of the County of Augusta which lies to the westward of the Alleghany Mountains, and for the Provinces of Maryland and Pennsylvania, to examine, state, and settle the accounts of such Pay, Provisions, Arms, and Ammunition, and other necessities furnished the Militia of the Counties for which they are appointed Commissioners, and all demands against this Colony on account thereof; who shall be allowed for their trouble therein twenty-five Shillings per day each. And the said Commissioners, or any three or more of them, shall, and they are hereby empowered and required, to meet for the purposes aforesaid, at such times and places as they shall respectively think fit and convenient, of which publick notice shall be advertised at the Court-House of each respective County, at least one month before such meeting, and to adjourn from time to time until they shall have settled all accounts relating to the said Militia; and shall have power to call all persons concerned in settling the said accounts before them, and examine them upon oath, or solemn affirmation, as the case may require, which oath or affirmation the said Commissioners, or any one of them, are hereby required to administer, for their better information respecting any such accounts or demands. And that the said Commissioners, or any three or more of them, shall certify all accounts so by them examined, stated, and settled, to the Committee of Safety, appointed by this Convention; and the said Committee of Safety, or any six or more of them, are hereby desired to issue their warrants to the Treasurer for that purpose, appointed by or pursuant to an Ordinance of this Convention; and the said Treasurer shall, on or before the first day of January next, pay the several accounts so certified, and also such publick money claims, and such other sums as were approved of and allowed by the resolutions of the House of Burgesses, at their last meeting, so far as the balance due on account of the Publick Treasury; in the hands of the Treasurer, appointed by or pursuant to the act of the General Assembly, may fall short of discharging the same, out of the money to be raised by virtue of this Ordinance.

And whereas several Arms and other articles, Horses, and Live-Stock, have been furnished for the use of the said Militia, some of which have been sold by command of his Excellency the Governour, and part still remains unsold:

Be it further ordained, That the said Commissioners, or any three or more of them, may, and they are hereby authorized and required, to make inquiry concerning such sales as have been made, and also to nominate and appoint, under their hands and seals, such persons as they shall judge proper for disposing of the Horses, Live-Stock, and other articles (Arms and Accoutrements excepted) which shall remain unsold within the Districts for which they are appointed Commissioners, and certify all such sales to the Treasurer for the time being, who is hereby authorized and required to call in the money arising therefrom, and apply the same in aid of the funds established by this Ordinance.

And be it further ordained, That the person or persons so appointed by the Commissioners to sell and dispose of such Horses, Live-Stock, and other articles, as aforesaid, which remain unsold, shall, on or before the first day of January next, account for and pay to the Treasurer for the time being, appointed by this Convention, all such sums of money for which the said several articles shall be sold; and in case the said person or persons, so to be appointed, shall fail to account for and pay the same, on the motion of the Treasurer aforesaid, the General Court, or County Court where such person lives, shall and may give judgment against him or them for the several sums for which the said several articles sold, provided ten days' previous notice be given to the party against whom the said motion is intended to be made.

And whereas the said Bill, which passed the Council and the House of Burgesses at the last meeting, settled the pay of the said Militia as followeth, that is to say: Of the Chief Officer commissioned by the Governour, or Commander-in-Chief for that expedition, at twenty-five Shillings; of a County Lieutenant, at twenty Shillings; of a Colonel, at fifteen Shillings; of a Lieutenant-Colonel, at thirteen Shillings and six Pence; of a Major, at twelve Shillings and six Pence; of a Captain, at ten Shillings; of a Lieutenant, at seven Shillings and six Pence; of an Ensign, at six Shillings; of a Quartermaster and Adjutant, six Shillings each; of a Sergeant, at two Shillings and six Pence; of a Corporal, at two Shillings; of a Drummer, at two Shillings; of a Private, at one Shilling and six Pence; of every Scout, at five Shillings per day: And whereas it is represented to this Convention, that the very important services of the Militia on the late expedition well deserved such pay, Be it further ordained, That the said Commissioners shall and may allow, in the settlement of all accounts for pay of the said Militia, the several rates beforementioned.

And whereas there is reason to believe that some designing persons have taken advantage of the ignorance and necessity of the Soldiers, and others who have claims against the Colony for pay and other services done on the said expedition, Be it ordained, That the Commissioners herein named be directed to inquire into the same; and, on discovery of any such practice, that they do not grant a certificate to any such assignees for any larger sum than they paid for the same, and allow the balance to the first proprietor of such claim.

And whereas, besides what may be due to the Militia, there were several considerable sums resolved by the Council and House of Burgesses, at their late meeting, to be paid to the wounded Officers and Soldiers; and there are further sums due to other publick creditors, and by an Ordinance passed this present Convention, entitled "An Ordinance for raising and embodying a sufficient Force for the defence and protection of this Colony," a number of Regular Forces are directed to be raised, and certain of the Militia, under the denomination of Minute-Men, are appointed to be trained more frequently, who, as well as the residue of the Militia, may be drawn out into actual service, for the purpose of such defence, and it is necessary to make provision for the pay and subsistence of the said Forces and Militia, as well as for the sums due upon the said resolutions, and to other publick creditors: Be it therefore further ordained and declared, That the Treasurer for the time being, appointed by or pursuant to an Ordinance of Convention, out of the publick money in, or which shall come to his hands, upon warrants from time to time from the Committee of Safety, shall pay all such sums of money as shall be necessary for carrying into execution the said recited Ordinance; and shall, moreover, without such warrants, pay to the several persons named in the said schedule the respective sums therein stated to be due to them, and other publick creditors who have stated allowances, on or before the first day of January next.

And for raising the Money which will be necessary for the several purposes aforesaid, Be it further ordained by the authority aforesaid, That an annual tax or duty of forty Shillings upon every Coach, Chariot, or four-wheel Carriage, except common Wagons, and twenty Shillings for every Chair or two-wheel Chaise, to be paid by the proprietor thereof, the first of each payments to be made on the tenth day of June next, and to continue the seven following years; also a tax or duty of three Shillings and nine Pence for every tithable person, to be paid on the said tenth day of June yearly, by such tithable person, if a free man, or by the parent or guardian, if an infant, or the master or owners of the servants or slaves, respectively; and also a duty or tax of four Shillings for every hundred acres of land, and after that rate for a greater or lesser quantity, to be paid on the said tenth day of June yearly, by the proprietor, or the parents or guardians of infants, if resident in the County where the lands lie, or by their respective tenants, stewards, or overseers, in case such proprietor, parent, or guardian shall live in another County, to be repaid them by the proprietor; the first of each of the said annual taxes to be paid in the year one thousand seven hundred and seventy-seven, and continue for six years thereafter.

Provided, always, and be it further ordained, That nothing herein contained shall be construed so as to alter any contract heretofore made between landlords and their tenants, whereby the payment of taxes shall have been stipulated to be made by either of them.

And be it further ordained, That every person chargeable with the said duties or taxes shall, at the time of delivering in his list of tithables, also give in a list of his or her wheel carriages subject to the tax hereby imposed; and the proprietor, parent, or guardian, tenant, steward or overseer, respectively, as aforesaid, shall give in the quantity of land by him or her held, or on which they shall live, within the County, to the several Justices, or other persons appointed to take such lists of tithables, annually, under the like penalty for each failure, and to be recovered in the same manner, as is directed by the Acts of Assembly for concealing tithables.

Provided, always, That if the Collector of all or any of the duties hereby imposed shall discover any person or persons who are chargeable therewith, and hath failed to give in his or her list as aforesaid, such Collector shall proceed to collect or levy the said duties, respectively, and account for on oath, and pay the same to the Treasurer appointed as aforesaid; and the Landholders in the County of Fincastle, and the District of West-Augusta, whose rights of voting at elections of Delegates and Committee-Men are stated and allowed by an Ordinance of this Convention, shall give in a list of their said lands, and the land tax aforesaid shall be collected and paid for the same, notwithstanding no patents may have been obtained for such lands. And in case of failure in payment of the said duties or taxes, at the times hereinbefore limited for the payment thereof, respectively, it shall be lawful for the Sheriff or Collector of each County to levy the same by distress and sale of the slaves, goods, or chattels, of the person so failing, in like manner as is provided in case of other distresses; and where there are no effects to be found upon the lands hereby chargeable with the said land tax, it shall be lawful for the Sheriff or Collector of the County where the lands lie, or the Sheriff or Collector of the County where the proprietor lives, to levy the said tax upon the estate of such proprietor, wherever the same can be found. And every Sheriff or Collector of the duties or taxes aforesaid shall account for and pay the said taxes, due from persons residing in his County, after being allowed for insolvents, and a salary of five per centum for collecting, to the Treasurer aforesaid, on or before the twentieth day of November in every year.

And be it further ordained, That there shall be paid a duty or tax of forty Shillings for every ordinary license, and the like sum for every marriage license, to be paid by the person obtaining the same to the Clerk of the Court before such license shall be granted; also two Shillings and six Pence for every original writ in any action or suit at common law, and subpoena or subpoenas in Chancery in the General Court, and for every summons or petition for lapsed lands, and for every caveat entered in the Secretary's Office, and one Shilling and three Pence for every such writ or subpoena issued from the County or other Inferiour Courts, to be paid by the plaintiff in any such suit to the Clerk of the Court before such process shall be issued, or caveat entered, and taxed in the bill of costs; and, together with the duties on ordinary and marriage licenses, shall be accounted for on oath, and paid to the Treasurer for the time being, appointed as aforesaid, in the months of April and October annually, deducting after the rate of five per centum for his trouble in receiving and paying the same.

And be it further ordained, That the Sheriffs or Collectors in their several County Courts, to be held next after the first day of December next, shall give bond, with sufficient securities, in reasonable penalties, payable to Robert Carter Nicholas, Esq., or to the Treasurer for the time being, to be appointed as aforesaid, with condition for the due collection and payment of all duties and taxes imposed by this Ordinance: and that every Collector hereafter to be appointed shall, before he enters upon the execution of his office, give the like bond and security.

And be it further ordained, That if any Sheriff or Collector, or Clerk, shall refuse or neglect to account for and pay the duties according to the directions of this Ordinance, it shall and may be lawful for the General Court, or the Court of the County where such Sheriff or Collector, or Clerk, resides, upon a motion, to give judgment against them respectively, and the securities of such Sheriffs or Collectors, for all such duties so by them usually received, and thereon to award execution; provided, that ten days' previous notice be given of such motion. And if any Sheriff or Collector shall fail to attend and settle the accounts of the moneys by him received, such Court shall give judgment for the penalty of his bond.

And whereas the remote payment of the said taxes, being unavoidably suspended, to suit the distressed circumstances of the inhabitants of this Colony, will not enable the Treasurer to pay the Money required by this Ordinance so soon as the exigencies thereof require, it becomes necessary to circulate Treasury Notes in the mean time, upon the credit of the said taxes and duties, as the only expedient which can be adopted: Be it further ordained, That the said Robert Carter Nicholas, Esq., or the Treasurer for the time being, appointed by or pursuant to an Ordinance of Convention, shall be, and he is hereby empowered to issue Treasury Notes for any sum or sums which may be requisite for the several purposes of this Ordinance, not exceeding, in the whole, the sum of Three Hundred and Fifty Thousand Pounds; and of the Notes so to be issued fifty thousand shall be of the denomination of two Shillings and six Pence, and shall be signed by Henry King, Gent., fifty thousand of the denomination of one Shilling and three Pence, and shall be signed by John Pendleton, Jun., Gent., which Notes last mentioned shall be made on the best paper the said Treasurer shall be able to procure, and shall be formed with such devices thereon as he shall judge most likely to prevent forgeries or counterfeits, and shall be numbered by William Langhorn and Henry Tazewell, Gentlemen. And Robert Prentis and Peter Pelham are hereby appointed overseers of the press, who, or one of them, shall constantly attend the printing the said Notes, until the whole shall be finished, and take care that no frauds are committed by the printer, his agents, or servants. And if any of the persons herein appointed to overlook the press, or to number or sign the said Notes, shall refuse to undertake the trust, or die before his duty shall be finished, the said Treasurer shall appoint another person to finish the same in the room of him so dying or refusing, of which notice shall be immediately published in the Virginia

Gazette, and continued for three weeks. And for their services, the signers of the Notes shall each of them receive the sum of fifteen Shillings for every thousand Notes by them signed; the overseers of the press, the sum of fifteen Pounds each; and the persons appointed to number the said Notes, the sum of fifteen Shillings for every thousand Notes.

Provided, always, That if the Treasurer shall not be able to procure other paper for the said one hundred thousand Notes, then the whole sums wanting shall be issued of the paper of which a sample is now produced, in manner hereinafter directed for the residue.

And be it further declared and ordained, That all the Notes necessary to be issued, over and above the said One Hundred Thousand, shall be of the paper of which samples are now produced, which shall be filled up by Matthew Davenport, or John Carter Littlepage, who shall receive for their trouble therein one hundred and fifty Pounds, and numbered by Bartholomew Dandridge or Henry Tazewell, Gentlemen, or in case of the death or inability of either of them, by such person as the Treasurer shall appoint; and all the said Notes of the value or denomination of twenty Shillings or upwards shall be signed by Philip Johnson, or John Tazewell, Gentlemen, and the residue by Josiah Parker and George Lyne, Gentlemen, or, in case of the death or inability of either of them, by such other person as the Treasurer shall appoint, of which notice shall be three weeks published in the Virginia Gazette, and shall be endorsed or countersigned by the Treasurer for the time being.

And be it further ordained, That all the Notes to be issued by virtue of this Ordinance shall be redeemable on the first day of January, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-four, until which time they shall be current between all persons within this Colony, and shall then be taken in and discharged by the Treasurer for the time being appointed as aforesaid, and shall be burnt and destroyed, by a Committee, which shall be appointed by the Convention to examine and burn the same; and the persons so appointed to number the said Notes shall receive the sum of fifteen Shillings for every thousand, and the signers the sum of fifteen Shillings for every thousand, each, for their trouble; and the Treasurer shall be allowed six hundred and twenty-five Pounds per annum for his salary in paying the same, and for receiving the taxes imposed for the redemption thereof.

And be it further ordained, That if any person or persons shall forge or counterfeit, alter or erase any such Treasury Notes, or tender in payment any such, or demand a redemption thereof, knowing the same to be forged or counterfeited, altered or erased, every person so offending, and lawfully convicted thereof, shall suffer death, without benefit of clergy.

And whereas pasting paper on the back of such Notes may be a means of preventing the detection of forgeries, Be it further ordained, That no person shall be entitled to a redemption of any Note on the back of which any paper shall be so pasted; but if any Note shall be defaced, or torn, the proprietor shall be entitled to receive the amount thereof upon returning the same to be burnt as aforesaid.

And be it further ordained, That the Moneys to be raised by the taxes imposed by this Ordinance shall stand, be, and remain, as a security for the redemption of the said Treasury Notes so to be issued: and the Treasurer for the time being, appointed as aforesaid, is hereby required to apply all such Money as shall come to his hands for the said taxes for and towards the redemption of such Treasury Notes, and to none other use or purpose whatsoever; and that the said Treasurer shall account with the Convention for the same, after deducting the allowance for his salary. And if the said taxes shall prove deficient, the whole estates, real and personal, of the inhabitants of this Colony, shall be, and are hereby pledged as a security for making good such deficiency, by some future Ordinance of the Convention, or Act of the General Assembly.

And be it further ordained, That Robert Carter Nicholas, Esq., Treasurer of this Colony, shall give bond, with such security as shall be approved of by the Committee of Safety, in the sum of Three Hundred and Fifty Thousand Pounds, payable to the Members of the said Committee of Safety, in trust, for the use of the Colony, conditioned for the faithful accounting for and paying all such sums of Money as shall be received by him from time to time, in virtue of this Ordinance; and in case of his death, resignation, or disability, the Treasurer to be appointed in his stead shall give such security before he enters into his said office.

And whereas it will greatly tend to preserve the credit of the Treasury Notes aforesaid to satisfy the publick that due proportions of them are annually paid into the Treasury and destroyed, Be it therefore further ordained, That Benjamin Waller, George Wythe, Thomas Everard, John Tazewell, William Norvell, Archibald Cary, Richard Adams, Benjamin Watkins, Richard Randolph, and John Syme, Esquires, be a Committee to superintend the burning of the said Notes; and they, or any three or more of them, are hereby empowered and required, once a year at least, and oftener, if they shall see occasion, to repair to the Publick Treasury, and having examined the Treasurer's accounts of what Money he shall have received for the taxes and duties hereby imposed from the time of his preceding settlement, as well as the Money itself, they shall proceed to burn all of the Treasury Notes aforesaid as shall appear to have been so received, giving the Treasurer a certificate of the amount of the Notes so burnt, which shall entitle him to an allowance for the same in his accounts; and the Committee shall, from time to time, publish the amount of the Money so burnt, in the Virginia Gazette.

And be it further ordained, That William Langhorne, Henry King, John Scasbrooke Wills, William Norvell, Champion Travis, or any three of them, be, and they are hereby appointed Commissioners to examine, state, and settle, an account of the pay and provisions of the Volunteer Companies who have been lately called into actual service for the defence of the lower parts of the Country, making the same allowance as is settled by this Convention for the Regular Forces, and under the regulations of the late invasion law as to the number of men which is to entitle officers of certain rank to pay; excepting that Mr. Charles Scott, Commander-in-Chief of the said Volunteers at Williamsburgh, shall be allowed twelve Shillings and six Pence per day, from the time he was chosen to that command, and certifying the same as is directed in case of the Militia in the frontiers: and upon such certificates, the Treasurer, by warrant from the Committee of Safety, is required to pay the money so certified to be due. And each of the said Commissioners shall be allowed fifteen Shillings per day, for the time they shall be employed in settling the said accounts.

And be it further ordained, That in case of the death or inability of the said Robert Carter Nicholas, Esq., to act in the said office, it shall be lawful for the Committee of Safety, if the Convention is not sitting, to appoint another fit and able person to be Treasurer in his room, who shall have power to act in all things pertaining to the said office until the meeting of the next Convention thereafter.

VI. An Ordinance for providing Arms and Ammunition for the use of this Colony.

Whereas, in this time of imminent danger, it is found expedient, for the better defence of this Colony, to provide an ample supply of Arms and Ammunition, by encouraging the manufacturing the same within this Colony:

Be it therefore ordained by the Delegates and Representatives of the several Counties and Corporations within this Colony and Dominion of Virginia, now in General Convention assembled, and it is hereby ordained by the authority of the same, That a Manufactory for Arms be erected at or near Fredericksburgh, under the direction of certain Commissioners; and that a sufficient number of Artificers be employed in the said Manufactory, at the expense of the publick, and be constantly employed in manufacturing of Arms of such kind as shall be directed from time to time by the Committee of Safety, so long as the necessities of this Colony shall require.

And be it further ordained, That Fielding Lewis, Charles Dick, Mann Page, Jun., William Fitzhugh, and Samuel Selden, Gentlemen, or any three of them, be the Commissioners for superintending the said Manufactory; and that the Treasurer for the time being, appointed by or pursuant to an Ordinance of Convention, shall, out of the publick money which shall come to his hands under any Ordinance of Convention, advance the sum of two thousand five hundred Pounds to the said Commissioners, and such other sums as the Committee of Safety shall from time to time direct, taking sufficient security for the same, to be by them employed for the purposes aforesaid, and accounted for to the General Convention; and that the said Commissioners shall from time to time transmit to the Committee of Safety an account of the state and progress of the said Manufactory, and the quantity of Arms so manufactured.

And be it further ordained by the authority aforesaid, That the Committee of Safety shall have full power and authority to purchase in the neighbouring Colonies, or elsewhere, any number of stands of Arms, not exceeding three thousand, which they may judge necessary for the use of the Troops to be embodied for the defence of this Colony, and also any number of Gun Locks which may appear to them to be wanted for the Arms made at the aforesaid Manufactory, if a sufficient number of proper Locksmiths cannot be employed; and, also, that the said Committee do provide a sufficient quantity of Gun Flints and Cartridge Paper which they shall judge necessary.

And for the greater encouragement of persons to make Saltpetre and Sulphur, Be it further ordained, That the sum of three Shillings for every pound of good Saltpetre, and the sum of one Shilling per pound for any quantity, not exceeding twenty thousand pounds nett weight, of good Sulphur, which shall be manufactured and refined of materials of the natural produce of this Colony, and delivered to any Committee of a County or Corporation on or before the first day of October, one thousand seven hundred and seventy-six, for the use of the publick, shall be paid to the proprietor thereof by the Treasurer aforesaid, upon a certificate from the Chairman of the said Committees, respectively; and the said Committees shall severally forward all such Saltpetre and Sulphur to some manufacturer of Powder, who shall give a receipt for the same, obliging himself to deliver for the publick use as much Powder, in exchange for the said Saltpetre and Sulphur, as shall be agreed on by the said Committees and Manufacturer.

And for the more immediate provision of Lead, Be it further ordained, That the Committee for the County of Fincastle shall and may contract with the proprietors of certain Lead Mines in that County for such quantities of Lead as may from time to time be judged necessary, and delivered at such place as shall be directed by the Committee of Safety; and in case of refusal of such proprietors, the said Committee of Fincastle shall and may agree with the said proprietors for the use of the said Mines, and employ proper persons and furnish necessary materials for the making of Lead, at the charge of this Colony.

VII. An Ordinance to provide for paying the expenses of the Delegates from this Colony to the General Congress.

Whereas the United Colonies of North-America, in this time of general danger, have judged it necessary, and accordingly resolved, respectively, to depute certain Delegates to meet in General Congress at Philadelphia, on the fifth day of September next, to consult on the state, and provide for the safety and welfare of the said Colonies:

Be it therefore ordained, That every Delegate who may be appointed to attend the said Congress, or any future General Congress, as a Representative for this Colony, shall be allowed for every day that he may attend therein the sum of forty-five Shillings, and for travelling to or returning from such Congress, at the rate of one Shilling per mile, besides all ferriages; which allowance shall be paid to the respective Delegates by the Treasurer for the time being, appointed by General Convention, out of any publick money which may be in his hands, by virtue of any Ordinance of Convention, not otherwise appropriated. And for the greater convenience of the said Delegates, the said Treasurer shall advance to each Delegate, before his departure, any sum of money not exceeding two hundred Pounds; who, if it shall happen to exceed his allowance for attendance and ferriages as aforesaid, shall, on his return, refund such excess to the Treasurer.

LONDON ASSOCIATION.

Globe Tavern, Fleet Street, August 25, 1775.

Resolved, That this Association, duly sensible of the many blessings we enjoy from the Revolution and Accession, to which, under God, we owe the free Constitution of our Country, will use our best and most unwearied endeavours to extend and transmit to posterity their excellent principles and consequences; and that we will embrace every opportunity to evince our zeal, affection, and fidelity to his present Majesty, King George the Third, and his Royal family, for whose honour and safety, whilst we manifest the highest regard, we hold the truest concern for the freedom, peace, and welfare of the whole British Empire; convinced that under a Prince of the House of Brunswick we only can be free, and at the same time resolutely determined that under a Prince of the House of Brunswick we will be free.

Resolved, It is the opinion of this Association that Proclamations have never been considered as laws of the land; and though frequently issued under the arbitrary reigns of the Stuarts, to serve the abominable designs of despotism, unless directed by and enforcing the law, were opposed and resisted by our forefathers, as violent infringements on the liberties of the People of England.

Resolved, That the present high price of the necessaries of life, the decay of trade, and consequent distresses of the industrious poor, those most useful members of the state demand our best consideration, that peace may no longer be the parent of poverty and misery, instead of the source of riches and happiness.

Resolved, That as it is declared by the Bill of Rights, Art. V, that it is the right of the subject to petition, we will use our best endeavours to bring to the justice of their Country those men who have prevented the cries of the Nation from being heard by His Majesty, and consequently their miseries and complaints from being redressed.

Resolved, That if any descendants of those illustrious noblemen, who by their undaunted and zealous endeavours brought about the glorious Revolution, and effected the Accession, shall determine to join this Association, for the great purposes of constitutional freedom and national happiness, we will pay due regard to their rank and birth, though we shall always keep their zeal for the publick cause, and their uniform support of the principles and proceedings of their gallant and patriotick ancestors, foremost in our view, our gratitude, and respect.

Signed and published by order:

THOMAS JOEL, Secretary.

NORFOLK (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

In Committee, Norfolk, Virginia, August 25, 1775.

Resolved, That Walter Chambre, of Whitchaven, is an enemy to American liberty, and is guilty of an attempt to break the Association, by shipping Goods for this place, in direct opposition to the Non-Importation Agreement.

Ordered, That this censure be published to the world, that all persons may withhold any further commercial connection with the said Chambre.

By order of the Committee:

WILLIAM DAVIES, Secretary.

THOMAS JEFFERSON TO JOHN RANDOLPH.

Monticello, August 25, 1775.

DEAR SIR: I am sorry the situation of our Country should render it not eligible to you to remain longer in it. I hope the returning wisdom of Great Britain will ere long put an end to this unnatural contest. There may be people to whose tempers and dispositions contention is pleasing, and who therefore wish a continuance of confusion, but to me it is of all states but one the most horrid. My first wish is a restoration of our just rights; my second, a return of the happy period when, consistently with duty, I may withdraw myself totally from the publick stage, and pass the rest of my days in domestick ease and tranquillity, banishing every desire of ever hearing what passes in the world. Perhaps, (for the latter adds considerably to the warmth of the former wish,) looking with fondness towards a reconciliation with Great Britain, I cannot help hoping you may be able to contribute towards expediting this good work. I think it must be evident to yourself, that the Ministry have been deceived by their officers on this side of the water, who (for what purpose I cannot tell) have constantly represented the American opposition as that of a small faction, in which the body of the People took little part. This, you can inform them of your own knowledge, is untrue. They have taken it into their heads, too, that we are cowards, and shall surrender at discretion to an armed force. The past and future operations of the war must confirm or undeceive them on that head. I wish they were thoroughly and minutely acquainted with every circumstance relative to America, as it exists in truth. I am persuaded this would go far towards disposing them to reconciliation. Even those in Parliament who are called friends to America seem to know nothing of our real determinations. I observe they pronounced in the last Parliament, that the Congress of 1774 did not mean to insist rigorously on the terms they held out, but kept something in reserve, to give up; and, in fact, that they would give up every thing but the article of taxation. Now, the truth is far from this, as I can affirm, and put my honour to the assertion. Their continuance in this error may perhaps produce very ill consequences. The Congress stated the lowest terms they thought possible to be accepted, in order to convince the world they were not unreasonable. They gave up the monopoly and regulation of trade, and all acts of Parliament prior to 1764, leaving British generosity to render these, at some future time, as easy to America as the interest of Britain would admit. But this was before blood was spilt. I cannot affirm, but have reason to think, these terms would not now be accepted. I wish no false sense of honour, no ignorance of our real intentions, no vain hope that partial concessions of right will be accepted, may induce the Ministry to trifle with accommodation, till it shall be out of their power ever to accommodate. If, indeed, Great Britain, disjoined from her Colonies, be a match for the most potent nations of Europe, with the Colonies thrown into their scale they may go on securely. But if they are not assured of this, it would be certainly unwise, by trying the event of another campaign, to risk our accepting a foreign aid, which, perhaps, may not be obtainable but on condition of everlasting avulsion from Great Britain. This would be thought a hard condition to those who still wish for reunion with their parent Country. I am sincerely one of those, and would rather be in dependance on Great Britain, properly limited, than on any nation upon earth, or than on no nation. But I am one of those, too, who, rather than submit to the rights of legislating for us assumed by the British Parliament, and which late experience has shown they will so cruelly exercise, would lend my hand to sink the whole island in the ocean.

If undeceiving the Minister as to matters of fact may change his disposition, it will perhaps be in your power, by assisting to do this, to render service to the whole Empire, at the most critical time, certainly, that it has ever seen. Whether Britain shall continue the head of the greatest empire on earth, or shall return to her original station in the political scale of Europe, depends, perhaps, on the resolutions of the succeeding winter. God send they may be wise and salutary for us all. I shall be glad to hear from you as often as you may be disposed to think of things here. You may be at liberty, I expect, to communicate some things, consistently with your honour, and the duties you will owe to a protecting nation. Such a communication among individuals may be mutually beneficial to the contending parties. On this or any future occasion, if I affirm to you any facts, your knowledge of me will enable you to decide on their credibility; if I hazard opinions on the dispositions of men, or other speculative points, you can only know they are my opinions.

My best wishes for your felicity attend you, wherever you go; and believe me to be, assuredly, your friend and servant,

THOMAS JEFFERSON.

NEW-YORK CONGRESS TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

In Provincial Congress, New-York, August 25, 1775.

SIR: We have been honoured with your favour of the 21st instant, and are very sorry to learn the apprehensions you express that the progress of the Army may be impeded.

ed, if not disappointed, for the want of tents. The fact is, that all the tents we had, and all the materials that could be procured, have been made up into tents and forwarded, with part of our own Troops, and General Schuyler has undoubtedly ere now disposed of them as circumstances or the necessity of the service may require. We can only add, on that subject, that we shall procure materials for more tents by every means in our power, and send them up to General Schuyler as soon as possible; but we see no probability of being able to provide, at any rate, a sufficient number for the Northern Army. If, therefore, materials can be collected in any due season, in your Government, it will promote the general service to give the necessary orders for that purpose without delay.

The precaution about the pork which you permitted Mr. Van Rensselaer to purchase may be a wise one; but unless proper orders are lodged at the different landings to which it may be carted, the purpose for which it is wanted may be in a great measure defeated. Permit us, therefore, to request the favour of you to give such directions as you shall judge necessary to prevent such inconveniences and disappointments.

We have the honour to remain, with much respect, Sir, your most obedient and very humble servants.

By order: P. V. B. LIVINGSTON, President.

To the Honourable Jonathan Trumbull, Esq., Governour of the Colony of Connecticut.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM AN OFFICER IN THE CONTINENTAL ARMY AT TICONDEROGA, TO HIS FRIEND IN NEW-YORK, DATED AUGUST 25, 1775.

We arrived here last Monday evening, making a march that day of near fifty miles. We marched from Fort Edward, through the woods, to Skenesborough, there not being a sufficient number of batteaus to carry us over Lake George. We there took leave of our baggage and tents, (at Fort Edward,) and officers and men received three days' provisions, which we put in our haversacks, and with our blankets shouldered, as we did our arms, which made a pretty good load for young soldiers, though it was not considered as burdensome by Americans engaged in so glorious a cause as we are turning out for—the freedom of the country which gave them existence—and cheerfully advanced for this place.

There are a great number of workmen here, making batteaus; and there are two large open vessels finished, that will carry, I suppose, about one hundred and fifty men each. With the New-England Troops and ours, we have about twelve hundred men; and I am told that at Crown Point there are about five hundred. We expect large parties up every moment, as we are informed that we march, or rather sail, from hence on Sunday morning, for Crown Point, and are to proceed directly for St. John's, where, I am told, are five or six hundred Regulars, with Guy Johnson, who prevailed upon a large body of the Indians, of different Tribes, to assist him in the infernal scheme of enslaving their American brethren; but Providence, in his great mercy, pointed out the path that these deluded people were to tread. Their sentiments became enlarged; they despised the artifices of venal wretches, and nobly refused taking up the hatchet against their countrymen and friends; and I am informed that Johnson could induce but very few to remain with him.

The Canadians, in general, are our firm and steady friends: that is to say, the peasants; but what they call or term in Canada the noblesse are for despotick measures, which prevents many from appearing more open than they do for us. Mr. Walker and Mr. Price, two gentlemen of reputation and worth, I am told, for expressing their sentiments relative to the freedom of America, are closely confined in Montreal jail.

We have General Montgomery here, who commands, General Schuyler being at Albany, upon a conference with some Indians. We expect him up to-morrow, when I suppose we shall have our orders for our future march. This is certain: we expect warm work at St. John's; however, I pray and hope that in the hour of trial every man will act as a North-American; confident then am I that success will attend us.

FOURTH SERIES.—VOL. III.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM AN OFFICER IN THE ARMY AT TICONDEROGA TO HIS FRIEND IN NEW-YORK, DATED AUGUST 25, 1775.

I have now the pleasure to inform you that we arrived here on the 19th ultimo, in good spirits, though we had a very fatiguing march, being obliged to go round by Skenesborough, as there were not boats at Lake George to bring us over. Out of the four Companies, we had twelve deserted from us on their road, and the most of these were old deserters from the Regulars. We held a Court-Martial at every other stage, and gave several of the unruly ones Moses's law, i. e. thirty-nine; and they now begin to behave very well, being kept under as strict discipline as any of the Regulars. There is the greatest plenty of salt and fresh provisions here; the men have as much as they can use; a gill of rum and as much spruce beer as they can drink every day; so that they have no occasion to drink the lake water, it being reckoned very unhealthy. The number of Troops here at present is seventeen hundred men, and seven hundred at Crown Point, about fourteen miles from here. We expect this day four Companies of the Second Battalion of New-York Forces, the boats being already sent for them. We are ordered to be in readiness in eight days to sail for St. John's, where we shall have a smart brush with the Regulars. The batteaus are now making with the greatest expedition, and I am afraid the rest of our Regiment will not be here in time. The General talks a great deal of their being so dilatory in coming up, and seems to regret very much the being obliged to go without them. There has been a French gentleman here lately, from Canada, who has put our men in great spirits, by assuring us that the greatest part of the Canadians would join us upon our arrival, but that they dare not make themselves known to be our friends till we are landed amongst them. The same gentleman, who is a person of great property there, declared that upon our arrival he would kill five fat oxen, to make a treat for the officers. As for my own part, there is nothing gives me the least uneasiness.

P. S. Since writing the above, a spy of ours arrived from St. John's, who says that there were two vessels ready to be launched at that post, each mounting sixteen guns, in order to take possession of the lake, which would render it impossible for us, for some time, to get past; therefore we have received immediate orders to embark for that place, and are to sail to-morrow morning, the 28th.

Colonel Waterbury's Regiment of one thousand men, Captain Mott's Company of one hundred men, and our own four Companies, with seven hundred that are now at Crown Point, and five hundred of the Mountain Boys are to join us. Our spy informs us that there were only five hundred and seventy Regulars at St. John's, and fifty Indians; so that I am in hopes we shall meet with very little resistance; if we do, we are pretty well prepared for them. We leave five Companies of the Second Battalion of New-York Forces here, and about three Companies of the New-England Troops. This is all the intelligence I can give you at present.

COLONEL HUNTINGTON TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Roxbury Camp, August 25, 1775.

HONoured SIR: I have your favour of the 21st instant. I have told Doctors Turner and Cogswell to make out a state of circumstances of their department. As to Armourers, I have just received some tools from Norwich, and a general order was out yesterday to the Quartermaster, to make necessary provision: hope now, though late, to have my arms in good order. I was aware of difficulties you would have in filling vacancies, from the many competitors there always will be: I wish the fittest may ever succeed. My brother Ebenezer is not without some essential qualifications: he has in several instances, whilst at this camp, exhibited evidences of his courage. Poor Tracy, my Adjutant, is very dangerously sick, and unable to attend to any business: I fear he will not recover for the present. Lieutenant Hillyer, of Captain Humphrey's Company, an old soldier, a sensible man, and good scholar, officiates as Adjutant. I shall likely continue him, if Tracy fails, which will make a Second Lieutenantcy vacant. I am unwilling to interfere much in appointments: I should think the General would be more so. I have been impatient at the slow progress of our movements at the northward, but believe all for the best; hope to see my brother Paymaster's letter mentioned in yours.

My Regiment has been very sickly, and is much so yet; but think the sickness is abating. The old soldiers say my Companies came into camp at a season that always proves sickly to new troops. I do not know any one now dangerous but Mr. Tracy. His and Mr. Fanning's sickness has thrown more business on my hands than I could have wished; but I have been so happy as to enjoy much health myself. I remain, with salutations of love and duty, your affectionate son,

JEDEDIAH HUNTINGTON.

Saturday Morning, August 26.—Not having opportunity to forward this, I add that yesterday four boats, from the castle and men of war below, came up to Fox Point, in Dorchester, sounding the channel. They were fired at by our troops on that station, and made a speedy departure.

—We have been told that our enemies have for some time past been toasting the 25th of August, intending then to make a visit to us; and that General Gage has given Earl Percy the command of the lines on the Neck, who is to exhibit such proofs of his military abilities as will retrieve the honour he lost at the Lexington affray; but matters remain this morning in statu quo.

—I took leave of Ensign Tracy last evening, expecting next to hear of his death, to which he seems to be well reconciled, and expresses a good hope as to another life.

By return of my Regiment the 25th, there were—fit for duty, 286; sick, present, 101; absent on command, and sick, 42; on furlough, 1; total of privates, 430; dead, 5.

—General Spencer's—fit for duty, 586; sick, present, 132; absent on command, and sick, 98; on furlough, 37; total of privates, 853; dead, 14.

—General Parsons's—fit for duty, 539; sick, present, 123; absent on command, and sick, 35; on furlough, 10; total of privates, 780; dead, 3.

VIRGINIA COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

At a meeting of the Committee of Safety, in the Town of Richmond, the 26th day of August, 1775:

Ordered, That the Chairmen of the several Committees in this Colony do deliver the publick Arms to be by them collected, pursuant to an Ordinance of Convention, to the Captains who shall be appointed to command the Companies of Regular Troops to be raised from their respective Districts, taking their receipts for the same; and that the said Captains take proper measures for their safe conveyance to the place of rendezvous.

And it is further Ordered, That the said Chairmen do respectively correspond with the President of this Committee, informing him of their progress in the Minute service, and when they shall have completed each the number of Regulars required from their respective Districts.

August 26, 1775.

The Committee of Safety, at a meeting appointed at Hanover Town, on the 18th of next month, intend to proceed to the choice of all Officers within their appointment, particularly a Commissary of Provisions, or Contractors for each of the Regiments to be raised pursuant to an Ordinance of Convention, previous to which, all persons inclined to contract, or to be appointed Commissary, are desired to send their proposals, in writing, to Edmund Pendleton, Esq., President of the Committee, enclosed and sealed. At the same time the Committee will be ready to deliver the Commissions, and administer the Oaths to the Field-Officers of the Regulars chosen by the Convention; and all Captains and Subalterns who may be chosen by the District Committees are also to attend, to receive Warrants for the Money necessary in recruiting, and their Instructions. By order of the Committee:

JOHN PENDLETON, JUN., Clerk.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM A MEMBER OF THE CONGRESS AT PHILADELPHIA TO A GENTLEMAN IN LONDON, DATED AUGUST 26, 1775.

You will see by the publick papers some of the proceedings of our Congress; the rest will soon be published.

Three millions of dollars are now striking by their orders, for defending the rights of America. The very Quakers in this and other Provinces are in arms, and appear in the field every day in their regimentals, and make as good a figure as the best; you may be sure we are in earnest when they handle a musket.

All trade to England, and every other part of the world, will most certainly be stopped on the tenth of next month, and if the Ministry do not very soon see the justice and equity of placing the Colonies in the same situation they were in before the year 1763, in which both sides experienced satisfaction and mutual benefit, then you may expect to hear, in the course of next winter, that the Congress have opened all our ports to every foreign Power that will come with their manufactures and trade with us for our produce. Whether that will not be one means of dissolving our connections entirely with Great Britain, I shall leave to wiser heads to determine. I am far, very far, from wishing such an event, but, nevertheless, I am very apprehensive, from the present temper of our people, that a few more violent steps will lay a foundation for it.

PENNSYLVANIA COMMITTEE OF SAFETY TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

In Committee of Safety, Philadelphia, August 26, 1775.

SIR: Having this morning received a small additional supply of Gunpowder, we have lost no time, but immediately ordered a ton of it to be packed in eight casks, and forwarded to you forthwith, agreeable to your request of the 15th instant, and wish it safe to your hands. We are getting our Militia into order with all possible expedition; and are, with great respect for the Congress and yourself, Sir, your most obedient servant,

By order: B. FRANKLIN, President.

Hon. P. V. B. Livingston, Esq., and the Provincial Congress of New-York.

PETITION OF JOSEPH JOHNSON, A MOHEGAN, TO THE NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-York, August 26, A. D. 1775.

To the Honourable the Provincial Congress of the Colony of NEW-YORK:

I, Joseph Johnson, an Indian of the Mohegan Tribe, humbly offereth the few following lines for your Honours' consideration:

Honourable gentlemen, it is with great reluctance I present this humble petition, considering the unhappy situation of publick affairs at this time, but pure necessity obliges me, in this day of distress, in this day of confusion, to trouble your Honours a few moments. Your Honours doubtless have heard, that for this some time past poor me hath been much concerned about my poor, sinking, decaying brethren, the Indians, that are scattered up and down amongst the English inhabitants, in particular in the New-England Governments, and that for this long time I have been unwearied by seeking their welfare, and in order that they might be truly benefited, have endeavoured to get them unitedly willing to go westward, and there to settle together in peace and be under proper regulations; and, through divine favour, I have, after many weary steps, and after I have gone through many hardships, got secured unto seven tribes of my Indian brethren, that live amongst the English inhabitants, a large tract of good land, bordering on your frontiers.

Honourable gentlemen, many pleasing prospects opened to my view when this design first came into my mind. I had not only the hopes of having the pleasure of seeing my now poor brethren in a prosperous way, but I had the hopes of our leading our western brethren, by our example, in the ways of industry, husbandry, and civility, and, above all, in the ways of wisdom—in the ways of godliness. These, and such like hopes, honourable gentlemen, hath all along animated my soul, and made me comfortable in the most severe hardships that I have undergone, when I have been destitute, as it were, of all other comforts in the wild desert. Such were my pleasing hopes in times past; and this great good to my Indian brethren, not only in the eastern parts but in the western parts of this Country, I have been eagerly pursuing and still hope to pursue.

Honourable gentlemen, I would inform your Honours that I have had no proper encouragement. I have had no particular party or board to look unto for my support, while engaged in such a good cause. But, nevertheless, the gracious Lord, in whom I trust, hath been pleased to give me able friends, in different parts of the Country, to espouse the cause, and hath made them willing to contribute, out of their abundance, a little for my necessitous circumstances in times past, and I bless the Lord for all his goodness to me hitherto, and especially for his giving me favour in the eyes and hearts of his people in this Colony, from whom I have received the greatest encouragement, and who hath greatly relieved me in times of my greatest distress. And now, honourable gentlemen, but this once more I humbly and earnestly solicit your Honours' kindness, hoping that I may not again have occasion to trouble your Honours in the like manner. Doubtless it is necessary that your Honours should know the true state of the matter, which I will endeavour to acquaint your Honours with in few words as possible.

Honourable gentlemen, when I left this City last June, with my three Indian companions, and safely arrived where my friends and relations dwell, I tarried with them about two weeks; then thinking it my indispensable duty to return directly to the Oneida country, and amongst the rest of the Six Nations, without any hesitation I hastily and cheerfully ran in the path of duty. But in order for a quick despatch, as then was thought most expedient, I was advised by several to hire or purchase a horse, to which I readily complied. Seeing I could not hire any, I was obliged to take a horse upon credit, expecting that the Colony of Connecticut would consider of me, as I was repeatedly informed by the members of the honourable Assembly that I was verily chosen, with another Indian of the same tribe to which I belong, to carry a message of peace to the back nations, and that the expenses of the journey should be paid out of the Colony Treasury; and the honourable Governor had given me express orders to be ready at an hour's warning, &c. But two days before the time that the honourable Governor appointed that we should set out for the intended journey, his Honour the Governor was pleased to send a letter to my intended companion, who was older than myself, informing him that there was no occasion of our going up, as he expected to have an opportunity to send the message with less expense; however, it is known since that his Honour the Governor was disappointed in his expectations. His message was delivered only ten days ago, as it were to no purpose; for the Western Indians had already been acquainted of the true state of affairs in this and in the other country beyond the great lake, and the Six Nations had already come to peaceable concessions. And, honourable gentlemen, although things happened as they did, yet I thought it my duty, though I have no encouragement from any, to go to the back Nations, and do my uttermost to persuade them to peace, although at the hazard or expense of my own life, as it was then reported in the country that they were disposed for cruelty or for war. And, according to my promise to this honourable the Provincial Congress last June, I set out with all speed the 17th day of July last, expecting to receive a message at Albany from this honourable Congress for the Six Nations. But when I arrived at Albany, the Hon. Abraham Yates and several other gentlemen informed me that your Honours had not sent a message, as was intended last June. However, the honourable Committee of Albany thought proper and did send by me a letter of friendship to the back nations, to whom I delivered the same in good time.

Honourable gentlemen, I would just inform you, that when I left my home I had only twenty Shillings, lawful money of Connecticut currency, and ten Shillings of that money I left with my dear companion in life. How she and our only son hath fared since, I know not; it is now six weeks, lacking one day, since I left them—and with the other ten Shillings I made shift to get to Albany; and the honourable Committee, after knowing my circumstances, was graciously pleased to consider of me, and bountifully relieved me, helped me forward the intended journey, and by their aid I have accomplished the journey, and returned thus far in peace and comfortably; and I had only five Shillings, this currency, when I arrived here. I would have made application to the honourable Congress before, but I thought that the affecting situation of affairs forbid; but now how to proceed or what to do, I know not. I am sensible that I am utterly unable to make satisfaction for the horse, which was valued at eleven Pounds, ten Shillings, Connecticut currency, and it is no ways likely that the man will take the horse again upon any consideration, and what to do I know not. Well had it been for me to have proceeded as I intended in the first place; that is, to have gone on foot—but being put to the extremes, I am constrained this once, and but this once, to try your Honours' benevolence.

And now your Honours have heard of my true circumstances, and may it please you to consider of me a moment, while I, with all submission, lay prostrate, as it were, at your Honours' feet, and while I cheerfully resign my unhappy case to your great wisdom, confessing that if any favour or encouragement in the least be granted, it will be purely out of favour, and shall be received with the warmest gratitude. And I hope that so long as I live your Honours may never see me lacking at any time from doing my uttermost, as I may have opportunity, or as I may be called in Providence, to cultivate, maintain, and establish peace between you and yours and my brethren that inhabit the border of your extensive frontiers. But I end, hoping that the Lord, who knoweth all things, and hath all power in his hands, may give me favour in the eyes and hearts of this respectable body, the honourable the Provincial Congress, that I may go on my way rejoicing; and may the gracious Lord order all things in great mercy concerning us all.

I am, Honourable Gentlemen, with great esteem, your well wisher, and yours to serve,

JOSEPH JOHNSON.

P. S. I also humbly beseech your Honours to grant me a passport for myself, that I may return home unmolested in these perilous times, and if there should be occasion, that I might pass and repass to and from the country of the Six Nations to New-England, or elsewhere, as business might call me at any time; the which if your Honours grant, will much gladden the dejected heart of your humble petitioner. I am, as before.

WALTER LIVINGSTON TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Albany, August 26, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: I am much obliged to you for the early information you have given me of General Schuyler's complaint to you, and should have been much pleased had you pointed out those particular articles which the General writes you he is still in want of, and which have been ordered by Congress; then I could immediately have informed you when those articles came to this place. Mr. P. T. Curtenius can best inform the Congress when they were sent from New-York. I shall order Mr. Phelps to make out a return for Congress of all such stores as have been received since the last of July. I can assure the Congress that no stores which they have sent to this place, since I have been in office, have been delayed here, and that I am persuaded they were sent from Fort George as expeditiously as the few boats on that lake could transport them, so as not to delay sending over a necessary supply of provisions. Oakum was much wanted at Ticonderoga; that only came the 10th instant, and was forwarded the next day; it should have been sent the same day, but many of the hogsheds were old and broken, and could not bear carting. I am, with due respect, Gentlemen, your most obedient humble servant,

WALTER LIVINGSTON, Deputy Com'y Gen.
To the Provincial Congress of New-York.

COMMITTEE FOR TRYON COUNTY TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Tryon County Committee Chamber, August 26, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: According to your regulations, we have voted Field-Officers for the Battalion in our County, and enclose you hereby a return, as well of the said elected field as other officers, not doubting you will approve of the same, and send us their respective warrants, that each one may be enabled to act with granted authority, when need requires, as without that it is very difficult to rule and transact in our Country and County in particular. We have already requested for your prescriptions in civil and military affairs, as especially the prosecution of civil laws in our County is almost entirely stopped, having got but one Justice of our whole Court left, who signed the Association freely, besides our Delegate, John Marlatt, Esq. For a cautiousness in need we agreed to some clauses in the interim, a copy of which we also here enclose for your approbation, if you find proper; but, notwithstanding, we repeat our requests that you will please to provide us with your legal rules for cases of debts, trespasses, &c., as speedily as possible. In regard to our present Delegate at your Board, John Marlatt, Esq., if no urgent necessity requireth his longer stay at your conventions, we humbly solicit for his relief, to diminish our County expenses, the accruing of which, without want, we must really avoid, to satisfy the desires of our people. Please also to remember our want of powder, as a most necessary article of provision for our frontier place. We admitted four newly elected Members to the Committee of Palatine District, as per the enclosure will appear.

We remain, with much esteem, Gentlemen, your obedient humble servants. By order of the Committee:

NICHOLAS HERCKHEIMER, Chairman.

P. S. We must annex yet that we find urgent reason to represent to you the troublesome and almost riotous behaviour of a person in Palatine District named Charles Gordon, who has resided but a short time in our County and the District aforesaid; he was a leader of a small party in his neighbourhood to vote a new Committee for said Palatine District. We had him before us, where he boldly, in company with three of his neighbours, insisted upon their proceedings to be legal, alleging for their authority a certain advertisement of our former Chairman, Captain Christopher P. Yates, now absent and under the command of Major-General Schuyler, at Ticonderoga. This advertisement, on inquiry, was found and proved illegal, having been performed and put on arbitrarily, without consult and consent of the old chosen Committee, or a major part of them. We would use easy ways to prevent further commotions with the said Gordon; but he, depending upon his artificial tongue and eloquence, wherewith he induceth a good many ignorant on his side, would not cede, but striveth rather daily yet to engage people for his opinion, promising them to get the glorious victory against the old Committee of said District, to the contempt of the whole County Committee. According to intelligence we had this day, he endeavours to collect subscriptions of ignorant people, as well as of such being of a like temper with him, to his scheme, (planned and intended for continuing commotions and disturbances,) whereby a breach of union among us, formerly enjoyed, must be feared.

GENERAL WOOSTER TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Oyster Ponds, August 27, 1775.

SIR: Your favour of the 18th instant came duly to hand, and I should have sailed for Harlem without loss of time, had not I received the following important intelligence from General Washington, viz:

“August 23, 1775. Yesterday I received advice from Boston, that a number of transports have sailed on a second expedition for fresh provisions. As they may pursue the same course, only advancing further, we think Montauk Point, on Long-Island, a very probable place of their landing. I have therefore thought it best to give you the earliest intelligence, but I do not mean to confine your attention or vigilance to that place; you will please to extend your views as far as the mischief may be probably extended.”

Thus far the intelligence.

I would further inform you, that the Kingfisher, last Wednesday, went up the Sound, with several small cutters, reconnoitring the north side of the island; and Thursday there followed past this place two topsail vessels, which I apprehend to be transports, as they fired two signal guns when they went through the Race. I would therefore recommend it to the Provincial Congress to keep a good guard over Queen's County, as I imagine their design is to get stock from Huntington, Lloyd's Neck, or Flushing; and as we hope to secure all the stock upon this part of the island, you may expect the Boston fleet will proceed further up the Sound.

I am, Sir, your most obedient humble servant,

DAVID WOOSTER.

To P. V. B. Livingston, Esq.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Albany, Sunday, August 27, 1775, 6 o'clock, A. M.

DEAR SIR: Your Excellency's favours of the 14th and 20th instant were delivered me last night.

I left Ticonderoga on Thursday, the 17th instant, and hoped to have returned in four days; but on my arrival at Saratoga I received information that a large body of Indians of the Six Nations were to be here on Tuesday last, and that my presence was indispensably necessary. I therefore attended, and on Wednesday the congratulatory ceremony was performed, and on Friday the treaty, agreeable to their request, was opened by them, by giving an answer to the messages that had been sent them by the Committee of this place. In this speech they anticipated part of what we had in charge to deliver to them. Being, as we conceived, apprehensive that we should request them to take up arms in our cause, they explicitly declared that, as it was a family quarrel, they would not interfere, but remain neuter, and hoped we would not desire more of them. We have not got above half through what we are directed to say to them; and although I hardly know how to leave them, yet such is the nature of the intelligence contained in the papers which I do myself the honour to enclose your Excellency, that I consider myself under the necessity of leaving the Indian business to my colleagues, and repairing immediately to join the Army.

That Governour Carleton and his agents are exerting themselves to procure the savages to act against us, I have reason to believe, from the various accounts which I have received; but I do not believe he will have any success with the Canada Tribes, though I make no doubt but he is joined by some of the more remote Indians, who I believe will assist him, and who have already served him as scouts from St. John's. I should therefore not hesitate one moment to employ any Indians that might be willing to join us.

I thank your Excellency for the honour you have done me, in communicating me your plan for an expedition into Canada. The enclosed information of Firé's, which corroborates not only the information of Major Brown, and that contained in the two affidavits, but every other we have had, leaves not a trace of doubt on my mind as to the propriety of going into Canada; and to do it has been my determination, unless prevented by my superiors, for some time; and I have accordingly, since my arrival here, requested General Montgomery to get every thing in the best readiness he could, for that I would move immediately, weak and ill appointed as we were; and I learn with pleasure that he has, since the receipt of Griffin's information, ordered the cannon to be embarked, and he will probably be off from Ticonderoga so soon that I shall only be able to join him at Crown Point. Such being my intention, and such the ideas that I have formed of the necessity of penetrating into Canada without delay, your Excellency will easily conceive that I felt happy to learn your intentions, and only wished that the thought had struck you sooner. The force I shall carry is far short of what I would wish. I believe it will not exceed seventeen hundred men; and this will be a body insufficient to attempt Quebeck with, after leaving the necessary detachments at St. John's, Chambly, and Montreal, should we succeed and carry those places, which must be respectable, to keep an open and free communication with Crown Point, &c.

Having given your Excellency the time, first and latest intelligence I have had, together with my opinion of the sentiments of the Canadians, I proceed to inform you of the enemy's strength, as far as I have been able to learn it. Three hundred and fifty or four hundred at St. John's, one hundred and fifty or two hundred at Chambly, about fifty at Montreal, and one Company at Quebeck; these are regular troops; besides between three and five hundred Indians, Scotchmen, and some few Canadians, with Colonel Johnson, at La Chene. Of this party the Indians that are at St. John's are a part. Whether any ships of war are at Quebeck I cannot say, as none have been mentioned to me. I am rather inclined to believe there are none. Should the detachment of your body penetrate into Canada, and we meet with success, Quebeck must inevitably fall into our hands. Should we meet with a repulse, which can only happen from foul play in the Canadians, I shall have an opportunity to inform your party of it, that they may carry into execution any orders you may give, in case such an unfortunate event should arrive.

Your Excellency will be pleased to be particular in your orders to the officer that may command the detachments, that there may be no clashing, should we join.

I shall leave orders at Ticonderoga to forward all the lead that can be spared.

Excuse these scraps of paper; necessity obliges me to use them, having no other fit to write on.

Be pleased to make my compliments to the gentlemen of your suite. Colonel Reed will be so good as to excuse my not answering his letter, as I really cannot find time.

I am, dear Sir, with most respectful sentiments, your Excellency's obedient humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

His Excellency General Washington.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO SAMUEL STRINGER.

Albany, August 27, 1775.

SIR: The Continental Congress having adjourned before my letter recommending the establishment of a hospital for this department had reached Philadelphia, since which I have applied to the Province Congress of this Colony, who judge that, in the present state of things, such an establishment is in my power, and necessity impelling me to it, I do entreat you to take upon yourself the charge of it, and to provide such necessities as the shortness of the time will admit of; and I do hereby engage that the Continental Congress will make you the same allowance for your service that is or may be made to the Director of the Hospital with the Grand Continental Army, and the same to the mates as those in that quarter get; and that for your medicines and instruments you shall be allowed the value of; and if any money is immediately wanted, I will give you a warrant for the same; and that I will take the earliest opportunity to get the decision of Congress on this establishment. I am, Sir, your humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER,

Major General commanding the Forces of the United Colonies in the New-York Department.

To Samuel Stringer, Esq.

Officers and Attendants necessary for a Regular General Hospital.

A Director, Surgeons and Apothecaries and their Mates, Clerks, Stewards, Surgery-Men, Apothecaries' Labourers, a Matron, and Nurses.

Mr. Stringer, whom I have appointed Director of the Hospital, has delivered me this. The number of Surgeons, Clerks, and Stewards, must depend on the numbers in the Hospital.

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

NEWBORN (NORTH-CAROLINA) COMMITTEE.

Committee Chamber, August 28, 1775.

On motion, Ordered, That a Proclamation signed by Governour Martin, dated on board His Majesty's Sloop Cruiser, the 8th instant, be produced and read; which was done accordingly.

Resolved, That the said Proclamation is a compound of falsehood and illiberal abuse, artfully and insidiously dressed for public exhibition, and evidently calculated to dissuade and intimidate the unwary and credulous from the duty they owe themselves and posterity; aiming to reflect dishonour, by the most personal invectives, on gentlemen whose zeal for their Country's happiness has not only impressed us with a lively and lasting sense of their virtue, integrity, and abilities, but has happily hitherto rendered abortive the diabolical projects of a tyrannical Minister, and the numberless petty tyrants under him.

That the said Proclamation tends to stimulate and encourage the Crown officers and Court dependants in this Province to a vigorous exertion of their feeble powers in support of those infernal schemes of which the said Governour is the avowed patron.

That by admitting a name that might have been respectable to so foul and disgraceful a composition, the Governour has degraded himself from the elevated rank of our most gracious Sovereign's representative, to the level and degree of a contemptible scribbler; with this only difference—that as the latter would view his venal production from a garret in Grub-Street, the Governour is reduced to the necessity of smuggling his from the equally narrow limits to which unnecessary fears, the concomitants of guilt, have precipitately driven him.

That by the said Proclamation, as well as by sundry Letters heretofore published, the Governour has given the fullest evidence of his unfriendly disposition towards this Province, and manifested a determined resolution, as far as in his power, to subvert a Constitution which, at the expense of life and fortune, every honest man ought to support.

That therefore the aforesaid enormous Proclamation, in length no less than six feet, in breadth three, ought to be detested and despised by every real friend to the rights of mankind, and in our opinion deserves the infamy of being consigned to the flames by the hands of the common hangman, as the just reward of treason and rebellion against our happy Constitution, and as a false, scandalous, and malicious libel against the first and fairest characters in this country.

By order of the Committee:

JOHN GREEN, Chairman.

J. SITGREAVES, Secretary.

NORFOLK BOROUGH (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

Norfolk Borough Committee Chamber, August 28, 1775.

Whereas it appears, from undoubted testimony, that a certain John Schaw, of the Borough, did, in the presence of Lord Dunmore, officiously point out to the Soldiery at Gosport one Alexander Main, fifer to one of the Volunteer Companies of this place, as a person who ought to be apprehended for his impudence (as the said Schaw expressed himself) in wearing a hunting shirt in their presence; in consequence of which the unhappy man was apprehended, and is now by his Lordship's orders confined on board the Otter Sloop-of-War: We therefore think it our duty to declare, that the said Schaw has herein showed himself a busy tool, and an enemy to American liberty; and, as such, we advise every friend to his country to have no further dealing or connection with him.

Published by order: WILLIAM DAVIES, Secretary.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

Urbanna, August 28, 1775.

At a meeting of a Committee of the County, present eighteen Members: The Committee being informed that Charles Neilson, Esq., had made use of expressions, in course of a conversation between himself and Tobias Allen, an inhabitant of this County, which were by the Committee deemed inimical to the glorious cause of liberty in which America is engaged, Mr. Neilson, on hearing a Committee would be held to inquire into the charges against him, came voluntarily before us, and made the following concession: "In a conversation with Mr. Tobias Allen, soon after the engagement at Bunker's Hill, I said I heard the Provincials were defeated, or had got a flogging, and that I was glad of it, as I hoped it would put an end to the unhappy disputes; and as this Committee think these expressions inimical to the liberties of America, I do hereby declare I never meant to injure the cause of freedom or constitutional principles, and should be extremely sorry to be looked on in any other light than as a friend to America."

"CHARLES NEILSON."

Ordered, That the same be transmitted to the Printer of the Virginia Gazette, and that he be requested to print the same. By order of the Committee:

LODOWICK JONES, Clerk.

CAPTAIN JOHN LAMB TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-York, August 28, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: I last Saturday evening received an order from your Board, respecting the pay of the Artillery Company under my command; by which order I observe you have made an entire new arrangement in regard to the said Company, by making it an additional Company, to be considered as part of Col. McDougall's Regiment, and subject to his commands. As the Artillery, in every service, are always considered as a distinct corps, and never as part of any particular Regiment, and as I engaged in the service of my Country purely from a principle of serving it, divested of every sinister motive, I conceive myself to be degraded by this new arrangement, and deprived of that rank which a Captain of Artillery is known to hold in every country. I am therefore constrained, in honour, to decline a service in which I must continually suffer the greatest mortification and chagrin; at the same time I cannot doubt but you will make some provision to compensate for the trouble and expense which I have necessarily been put to in raising the Company. I am, Gentlemen, your most humble servant,

JOHN LAMB.

To the Honourable Provincial Congress for the Colony of New-York.

SAMUEL BURLING TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-York, August 28, 1775.

SIR: Having received a letter by the last post from Providence, in Rhode-Island, accompanied with another from the Committee of said Town, directed to the Chairman of the Committee of the City of New-York, requesting liberty to ship to that place a quantity of flour and other provisions, for the use of that Town and the Provincial Army, by Captain Lindsay and Captain Joseph Witney, who are well provided to carry the same with safety, Captain Lindsay waits on you for permission for the said two vessels to load, and for which, agreeable to the desire of that Committee, I also request the approbation and concurrence of the Congress. I am your humble servant,

SAMUEL BURLING.

To the President of the Provincial Congress, New-York.

New-York, August 30, 1775.

Received on board the Sloop Victory, whereof I am master, in good order and well conditioned, the undermentioned goods, which I promise to deliver to the Chairman of the Committee at Providence, in Rhode-Island, or to his assigns, (the danger of the seas and seizures only excepted,) he or they paying, for the freight of the same, one Pound twelve Shillings for the baggage, and three Pounds eighteen Shillings for the passage of two servants, and their accommodations while on board, viz:

Two trunks marked C. F., Esq.; one valise, with bedding, Lieutenant French, Twenty-Second Regiment; two trunks marked Ensign Rotton, Forty-Fifth Regiment; one valise, do.; two canteens, do.; one bed-case, do.; one fiddle-case, do.; one hat-case, do.; two trunks marked Mr. McDermott; one bed-box, do.; one small trunk, do.; one valise bedding, do.

BENJ. LINDSAY.

APPLICATIONS TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS FOR PERMISSION TO LOAD VESSELS FOR FOREIGN PORTS.

New-York, August 28, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: We have a vessel loading for a foreign port, which is cleared out at the custom-house, her cargo to consist of three thousand bushels of rye, which we have purchased, the proceeds of which, with what bills we mean to send, we intended to have laid out in articles that will be much wanted by this Continent; should take it as a particular favour if you would take this affair in your consideration, and, if agreeable, to grant us a permit to finish loading and to proceed to sea.

We are, with esteem, Gentlemen, your most obedient servants,

JAS. &amp; ALEX. STEWART.

To the Provincial Congress of New-York.

New-York, August 28, 1775.

SIR: I have laden on board my Brig Patty, Captain Bedford Ashfield, four thousand bushels of Indian corn, which, with one thousand bushels more, and a few boards, will be all her cargo; with which cargo of Indian corn and lumber the said brig is to proceed to the Island of Madeira; and for the true performance of it, myself and the Captain will enter into any security required by the honourable the Provincial Congress. I therefore pray the Congress will give me permission to take on board the remainder of my cargo, which is bought already, and suffer the said Brig Patty to depart with it to Madeira, which will greatly oblige yours and the Congress's most obedient humble servant,

V. PEARSCHFIELD.

To Peter V. B. Livingston, Esq., President of the Provincial Congress for the Colony of New-York.

New-York, August 28, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: We request a permission for our Sloop Charlotte, Captain Harriot, to depart for Kingston, in the Island of Jamaica, with a cargo of three hundred and thirty barrels of flour, and some staves on board; and we intend to put on board twenty or thirty barrels of lamp oil, if to be had, and to fill up with staves. We had engaged a parcel of ship-bread from Mr. Phanix, which was assigned to him and some other gentlemen, for the use of the poor, by Mr. Abraham Van Vleck, a late delinquent; but, on considering your late resolves, we decline asking a permission for that article.

We are, most respectfully, Gentlemen, your obedient and very humble servants,

HENRY REMSEN,
JNO. READE.

New-York, August 28, 1775.

Charles McEvers and Company inform the honourable Provincial Congress that they have purchased a cargo of wheat, which is now loading on board the Ship Albany, James Bunyan master, for Lisbon, and that no other article of provisions is to be loaded on board said ship. They are ready to give any security required that this ship and cargo shall proceed direct to Lisbon. They therefore pray that permission may be given for this ship to finish her loading, and proceed on her voyage.

New-York, August 28, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Being informed that you had come to a resolution that no provisions shall be shipped out of this Colony without first obtaining permission of you, in consequence of which order we think it our duty to acquaint you that the Ship Peggy, Captain Barron, had on board, before the resolve was made, about seven thousand four hundred bushels of wheat, with which she was cleared, and sailed as far as Coney Island, which cargo we did intend she would have gone to sea with, (although there was about five hundred bushels wanting to complete her load,) as we were determined not to transgress your orders.

We therefore hope you will grant us permission to take on board the remainder of her cargo, and proceed to Falmouth, in England, as at first intended.

Your compliance will much oblige your humble servants,

MURRAY SANSON,
FRED. RHINELANDER.

To the Honourable the Provincial Congress of New-York.

New-York, August 28, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: We are informed that, by a resolve of your House, no provision shall be loaded or sent from hence without your permission. We, ever willing, invariably, to abide by every measure adopted that may be thought necessary and conducive for the good of society, think it our duty, at this time, to inform you that a considerable time ago we had orders from a house at Madeira to send them a vessel load of wheat, Indian corn, rye, flour, staves, &c. In compliance with this order, about six weeks ago began buying wheat and flour, &c., and stored and now half loaded. Must also acquaint you that eight days ago a vessel arrived from Scotland, the owners of which have given orders to load with wheat for Barcelona, and in consequence of, have purchased and stored, and have more engaged, so that both vessels could sail this week. Would be glad to know what is requisite for us to do, as we are willing to give every satisfaction in our power; and the Captains, on their parts, will bind themselves to carry the vessels where destined.

We remain your most humble servants,

WALTER & THOS. BUCHANNAN & Co.

The President and Members of the Congress for the Colony of New-York.

New-York, August 28, 1775.

Request of G. W. Beekman, D. Beekman, and C. P. Lowe, to the honourable Provincial Congress of New-York, for liberty to take on board the Sloop Pennsylvania Farmer, William Newton, master, (Bermuda built, and a fast sailing vessel, cleared out and actually bound for the Island of St. Croix.) a cargo, to consist of Indian meal, rye meal, ship bread, staves, heading, hoops, and boards.

New-York, August 29, 1775.

William Malcom requests permission from the Congress for the departure of the Sloop Thistle, Captain Haddick, to St. Eustatia, with the following cargo, viz:

Sixteen barrels of ship bread, for stores and cargo; forty barrels of apples; one hundred and fifty bushels Indian corn, (one hundred and fifty more to go on board this morning;) thirty boxes spermaceti candles; eight cases of furniture; fifteen thousand feet of lumber; four thousand hoops; twenty thousand shingles; thirty barrels corn meal; bunches of onions.

WILLIAM MALCOM.

New-York, August 29, 1775.

Abraham De Peyster, of the City of New-York, merchant, humbly prays the Provincial Congress, now sitting in this City, that he be permitted to load the Sloop Charity with two hundred bushels of corn, four tons of ship bread, two hogsheads of dried cod, and ten dozen of poultry; the cargo being already purchased, part on board, bound for the Island of Antigua, or some one other of the West-India Islands. And for this purpose he further prays the permit of this honourable Board.

To the Honourable Provincial Congress.

COLONEL PHILIP CORTLANDT TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Albany, August 28, 1775.

DEAR SIR: Agreeable to verbal orders received from Colonel Holmes, when last in New-York, made all the despatch in my power to this place, where I arrived the 26th instant. Finding Captain Henry B. Livingston, with his Company, in a small house in Town, he wants many things, such as shoes, shirts, stockings, underclothes, haversacks, and cash, having advanced all himself that has been paid his men as yet.

The day I arrived came up the following Captains, with their Companies: Captain Herrick, Captain Palmer, Captain Hertell, and Captain Mills, all without blankets, except Captain David Palmer; many of the men wanting shirts, shoes, stockings, underclothes, and, in short, without any thing fit for a soldier except a uniform coat, and not more than thirty guns, with four Companies, fit for service. They are now on board the small boats that brought them up, having no place for them to go into, as there is not one tent that I can find for our Battalion, and three Companies without blankets, and none to be had at this place. I do not know how to act, or what to do with them: they begin to ask for cash and better lodgings, being much crowded in the small boats in which I am obliged to keep them. I this morning made application to the Committee of Albany, who will do all in their power for me, which I believe is but very little. Shall be much obliged to the honourable Congress to send me with all convenient speed arms, blankets, tents, shoes, stockings, haversacks, and cash, by all means. I want to be going forward, where, by what I can learn, we shall be wanting if we can go soon, or not at all. The men say, give us guns, blankets, tents, &c., and we will fight the devil himself; but do not keep us here in market boats, as though we were a parcel of sheep or calves. In short, nothing can give me more pleasure than the arrival of the aforesaid articles; until which, shall do all in my power to keep the men together, and in as good order as clubs and canes can keep them, without arms to keep a proper guard; as I have orders from the General to collect all the arms together and send as many men off directly to Ticonderoga, (and that without tents,) which will not be a full Company unless I can purchase some arms here.

I remain, dear Sir, your most obedient humble servant,

PHILIP CORTLANDT,

P. S. The cash I received I was obliged to pay to the mutinous men in the lower barracks, and I sent by Lieut. Riker, to Captain Woodard, at New-Town, Long-Island, some part of it.

"GENTLEMEN: Matters of an interesting nature require my attendance in England, and the present recess of business enables me to undertake the voyage with little inconvenience to my private affairs. I propose returning early in the Spring, and have inducements to believe that I shall have an opportunity of rendering some service to the general cause; if, however, in the present exigency of the times, my voyage is deemed improper, I shall decline any further thoughts of prosecuting it.

"I am, very respectfully, Gentlemen, your most obedient humble servant,

"THOMAS JENINGS.

"September 1, 1775."

Upon reading of which, Ordered, That Mr. Jenings be informed that the Council see no impropriety in the prosecution of his intention to go to England.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Perth-Amboy, August 29, 1775.

SIR: The Committee of Safety acquainted you, by a letter dated the 26th inst., that we had ordered a ton of gunpowder to be sent you, agreeable to your request. It left Philadelphia early on Sunday morning, and yesterday I overtook the wagon on the road at Trenton, and left it proceeding on the journey. But being informed this morning at Brunswick that four wagon loads of powder had passed through that place on Friday evening, for your City, and supposing it to be the powder which you mentioned as having been expected, but not arrived, which occasioned your sending to us, and as we have still too little at Philadelphia, I thought it best to stop that powder, and send it back again, and wrote accordingly to the wagoner by a person just setting out for Trenton. I write this, therefore, that you may not expect it at Newark in consequence of our letter.

With great respect and esteem, I am, Sir, your most obedient humble servant,

B. FRANKLIN.

Honourable P. V. B. Livingston, Esq.

BERGEN COUNTY (NEW-JERSEY) COMMITTEE.

Bergen County Committee Chamber, August 29, 1775.

Resolved, That Peter Zabriskie, Jacob Terhune, John Demarest, and Joost Zabriskie, be a Committee of Safety, to act for the County during the recess of the County Committee.

Resolved, That all male persons, above sixteen and under fifty years old, who have removed or shall hereafter remove from other Provinces or other Counties into this County, during the present unhappy contest between Great Britain and the American Colonies, shall be enrolled in the Militia Company of the District within which such Companies shall respectively reside; and that all such as neglect or refuse to come under the Militia Regulations of the Provincial Congress of this Province shall be immediately desired to leave the County.

By order of the Committee:

JOHN FELL, Chairman.

JONATHAN TRUMBULL, JUN., TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-York, August 29, 1775.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOURS: I have this day received your letter, in the name of the President of this honourable Congress, requesting me, as Paymaster, to advance to Colonel James Holmes six hundred Pounds, to enable him to pay his men. In answer I have only to say, that the resolution of the honourable Continental Congress, by virtue of which I have received the money destined for the use of the Army in the Northern Department, mentions the application thereof shall be made in such manner as General Schuyler, by his warrant, shall limit and appoint. In consequence hereof, I have received General Schuyler's order, in the following words, viz: "As soon as you have possessed yourself of the money which Congress has designed for this quarter, and which I hope you will do with the greatest despatch, you will please to exchange as much of it for either silver or gold as you possibly can, and then repair to Albany." Be assured, gentlemen, it is my wish to do every thing in my power, consistent with my duty, for the general service. I imagine, from the above representation, your Honours will perceive it is not an undue attention to forms which will prevent my advancing the money.

I am, with esteem, your Honours' most obedient humble servant,
JONA. TRUMBULL, JUN.
Honourable Provincial Congress, New-York.

JOHN CANDELL TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-York, August 29, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: In the most respectful manner I beg leave thus to approach you, with humble hopes that you will please to grant this, my truly most earnest request, to be by your order brought before you, so soon as convenience can possibly admit after your receipt hereof, for the purpose of hearing me on the matters laid to my charge, which involve me and my family in the greatest distress, more than pen can well describe or idea form.

I am conscious, gentlemen, should I meet the indulgent favour I now earnestly seek for, I can satisfy how false are many of those charges against me, particularly as to the manner of my going on board the men of war, my behaviour since in confinement, &c. If upon such your favourable hearing you should be of opinion that my conduct has been reproachable, I shall be ready to make every concession and acknowledgment in my power, even to leaving the Province or otherwise, as you shall see cause to direct.

Let me beg you, gentlemen, that you, with tender kindness and humanity, consider the melancholy situation of myself and family, my wife just delivered, and now lying in so much grief and sorrow that life can hardly be kept in her, and others of my family in the greatest anxiety; trusting, therefore, that you will grant this my desire and earnest request, I remain your unfortunate and very humble servant,
JOHN CANDELL.

To the Honourable Provincial Congress, New-York.

ALBANY COMMITTEE TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Albany Committee Chamber, August 29, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: We expected, when the Army was once organized, we should not be so frequently called upon about matters not in our Province; but the situation of Colonel Cortlandt, and the men under his command, in a great measure obliges us to give him all the assistance in our power, not, however, that it is to be made a precedent of. The enclosed letter from Colonel Van Cortlandt will show you the posture he is in, and the necessity of a speedy relief. We fear we shall be able to afford him but little assistance. The hospital and barracks are filled with Indians attending the Congress; the barns about the Town loaded with the crops of the season; and the City crowded continually with a numerous concourse of people; the former and frequent applications for ammunition have drained us, in short, of almost every thing of that sort.

We are, Gentlemen, your humble servants. By order of the Committee: AB'M YATES, JR., Chairman.
To Peter V. B. Livingston, President of the Congress.

COLONEL VAN SCHAIK TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Albany, August 29, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: I am at present stationed in Albany, by General Schuyler, to forward the troops that arrive here to Ticonderoga; and it gives me pain to inform you that Col. Clinton arrived here with the other field-officers, and six Companies of his Battalion, five of which are armed, but in bad repair. They have been supplied with blankets at this place; other necessities are wanted.

Colonel Van Cortlandt is also arrived here with five Companies of Holmes's Battalion, who have not arms sufficient to supply one Company, and are totally destitute of all tents, accoutrements, and other necessities, saving their regimental coats. We shall endeavour to procure as many stand of arms as possible, upon terms of the resolve published by you, but am very well persuaded that the number will fall greatly short of the numbers wanted to supply the Companies that are now here, and those expected.

As General Schuyler is returned to Ticonderoga, this matter, I conceive, comes within my province; and I should ever accuse myself of inhumanity, and a want of love to my Country, should I be backward in giving you a true account of the situation and distress of these Companies, when I consider how much they are wanted at the forts above. I therefore look up to you, and beg that you will, without delay, send up such or so many arms, tents, blankets, and other necessities, as will supply those Companies, so that they may be forwarded with the greatest despatch.

I must also inform you the men are much discontented for want of their pay, and do assure you that the service greatly suffers. There is scarce any thing to be heard in the camp but mutinies. I have for that purpose wrote to Mr. Jonathan Trumbull, Jun., who I am informed is appointed Deputy Paymaster-General, which letter I enclose you, as I do not know where he is at present. I beg, therefore, that you will forward it to him by express.

I am very happy, however, to inform you, that notwithstanding the clamours and discontents of my men at first, there are at present nine of my Companies up at Ticonderoga, with the other two field-officers, in actual service, and the last will march to-morrow.

I am, Gentlemen, your most obedient humble servant,
GOOSE VAN SCHAIK.

MAJOR HENRY LIVINGSTON TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Albany, August 29, 1775.

SIR: I am desired by Colonel Clinton to inform you that he arrived here last Saturday, and has now with him six Companies encamped about a mile out of town. That there are guns enough to equip about three Companies. That there are two Companies beside that have arms, but want some repairs. As there are not armourers sufficient at Ticonderoga, must wait here till they can be repaired. That there is a great want of officers' tents, there being here only sufficient for two Companies, and one tent for the Lieutenant-Colonel. Of soldiers' tents for our Regiment there is a sufficiency, but no more than barely for our seven Companies. That the soldiers murmur much for want of pay, and are very unwilling to march from here without it. That the medicine chest is not yet arrived, or a Surgeon, and that drums and fifes are wanting. However, three Companies will be equipped with all speed, and sent off immediately.

I am, Sir, your very humble servant,
HENRY LIVINGSTON, JUN.

To Hon. Peter Van Brugh Livingston, Esq.

PROVIDENCE (RHODE-ISLAND) TOWN-MEETING.

At a Town-Meeting held in Providence, according to law, on the twenty-ninth day of August, Anno Domini 1775:

The Hon. NICHOLAS COOKE, Esq., Moderator.

The Committee appointed on the thirty-first day of July last, to draw up Rules for regulating the Battery at Fox Point, made report as on file, which is accepted by the Town.

Voted, That Captain Ezek Hopkins be appointed to command the Battery at Fox Hill.

Voted, That Captain Samuel Warner be Lieutenant.

Voted, That Captain Christopher Shelden be Gunner.

Voted, That seven Men be appointed for each Gun in the Battery, including Officers, and that such be selected from the Town Inhabitants who are acquainted with the use of Cannon, and do not belong to any of the Independent Companies.

Voted, That the Battery Company appoint a Captain and Gunner for each Gun out of their Company.

Voted, That upon any person quitting the Battery Company, the Officer thereto belonging have power to select others, as abovesaid, to keep their number complete.

Voted, That two persons be appointed to watch the Battery at Fox Point, in the day time and in the evenings, until relieved by the Town-Watch, and that Captain Nicholas Power be appointed to hire the said two persons on the best terms he can, to be employed as the Officers of the Battery shall direct.

Voted, That the Great Guns be numbered, and each person's name who belong to said Guns be wrote on a card and affixed to the Gun they may belong to, that they may know where to repair in case of an alarm.

Voted, That the Captain, Lieutenant, and Gunner of said Battery, have the care of preparing and keeping the Stores belonging thereto in good order.

Voted, That the Battery Company exercise their Cannon once in a month, or oftener, to perfect themselves in the use thereof.

Voted, That Captain Barnard Eddy and Mr. Paul Allen be a Committee to call upon all those persons who have received Cartridges, made of the Town's stock of Powder and Lead, agreeable to a Vote of the Town made on the nineteenth day of June last; to examine if any of said Cartridges are missing, and, if they shall find that any person hath expended any of said Cartridges otherwise than in the publick defence, that they demand and receive the nine Pence promised by such person for each Cartridge so expended; and that they demand and receive all the Town's Cartridges, delivered on the late alarm or otherwise, which any person may have in his possession, more than seventeen for every Fire-Arm he may have fit for use.

Whereas Mr. Moses Brown hath moved that the Town would instruct their Deputies to use their influence in the next General Assembly to procure a Bill, now lying before the House of Assembly, entitled "An Act prohibiting the importation of Negroes into this Colony, and asserting the right of freedom of all those hereafter born or manumitted within the same," a copy whereof hath now been read to the Town, to be passed into a law: And whereas the said Act contains matters of great importance, and will materially affect the property of individuals, therefore,

Voted, That the consideration of the same be referred to the next meeting, and that a warrant be issued, to warn the Freemen of the Town that the said motion will be considered and acted upon at the next meeting.

Voted, That this meeting be adjourned to the twelfth day of September next, at three o'clock, P. M.

GENERAL WOOSTER TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Oyster Ponds, Suffolk County, August 29, 1775.

SIR: I have with me at this place four hundred and fifty of my Regiment. I should before this time have returned to my station at Harlem, but Gen. Schuyler having ordered the three Companies, raised upon this end of Long-Island, for the continental service, to join their Regiment at Ticonderoga, the County Committee requested me to remain here till the return of an express, which they sent to New-York, to beg of their Congress, if possible, to prevent the three Companies from being removed. The express has now returned, with liberty for the Companies to remain here ten days from last Friday. It is thought best that I keep my station near New-York, though I shall not return there till I know the destination of the fleet, which I understand, from your Excellency's information to Governour Trumbull, have sailed out of Boston. I hope and expect such measures will be pursued as will prevent their taking the stock from this or the adjacent islands.

The inhabitants here think that had General Schuyler known their very exposed situation, he would not have ordered the Companies away. The New-York Congress suppose they have no right to counteract his orders. They might indeed have sent to him, and received an answer in season; but they are so refined in their policy, have so many private views to answer, and take such infinite pains to keep out of the plain path, (conscious, perhaps, of their own superiour wisdom,) that they do nothing like other people. It is now too late to send to General Schuyler; the Committee of Safety have therefore desired me to request your Excellency to continue their Troops upon their stations. I shall only say that I know of no place so much exposed to the ravages of the enemy; and if the Companies raised here, who have a great part of the good arms in the County, should be removed, and their places not supplied, I know of none so defenceless as this. It is my opinion, after all the soldiers are gone, that two hundred men might ravage the country, notwithstanding all the inhabitants could do to prevent it.

From this representation, I doubt not your Excellency will think proper to continue the Troops raised here upon this station, or order others in their room.

I am, with great truth and regard, your Excellency's most obedient humble servant,

DAVID WOOSTER.

To his Excellency George Washington.

JEDEDIAH STRONG TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Litchfield, August 29, 1775.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOUR: On receipt of your letter of the 7th instant, respecting tow cloth, immediately made thorough inquiry in the County, and could find none of any consequence to be sold here; of which endeavoured to acquaint your Honour by letter, dated 21st, which hope is arrived. Since which, received your Honour's of the 26th, on my return from Albany, where also had inquired for cloth, but find it scarce and dear. Could purchase, in various stores, some pieces and remnants of sheeting, dowlas, and osnaburgh, to amount perhaps of some hundred yards; but the cloth being high in price, remote, and of unsuitable quality, have purchased none. The Commissaries, in my absence last July, set to my share of the tools, to be provided for the Seventh and Eighth Regiments, a small number of spades, axes, and pickaxes, which I have accordingly procured to be made—the pickaxes by Captain Forbes, at Canaan, and other tools in this place; since have had no orders for disposition thereof, and am at a loss where to apply; therefore, hope your Honour will excuse me in giving the trouble of this information and return. Have also to report to your Honour, that after repeated and particular inquiries in and near Albany, by myself and others, for guns, &c., belonging to this Colony, and supposed to be left there at the close of the last war, can find none at all. It seems probable some numbers were left with officers of the King's Troops, forts, stores, &c., but that since the formation of the Minister's oppressive plan of subjugating America, they have been removed off, together with every article of warlike apparatus, in command or reach of those creatures and their tools, from the fort, and every other magazine where they could find access; and that some of those very trustees are now employed against us in the Boston banditti, particularly George Uray, Clerk of Artillery Stores, &c.

I am, may it please your Honour, your Honour's most obedient humble servant at command,

Governour Trumbull.

JEDEDIAH STRONG.

P. S. Albany swarms with painted Indians, seemingly disposed to friendship and neutrality. The Congress sitting last Monday began Friday. General Schuyler presides among the Commissioners. Major Hawley had not arrived Saturday evening. If the New-Yorkers were . . . , the prospect would be vastly agreeable.

JOSEPH MATHER TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Lyme, August 29, 1775.

HONOURED SIR: The distressed circumstances of the country in general fills us with anxiety, but especially our sea-coast at present seems more immediately to draw our attention, as there has lately been a fleet in our neighbourhood, ravaging the islands, and a larger fleet now sailed from Boston, which we apprehend is coming this way on the same errand. And as there is a great number of cattle, sheep, and swine, in this Town, within about the distance of one mile from the sea-shore, which we apprehend are exposed to be taken by such a fleet, if attempted; therefore, we, the Committee of Inspection for the Town, (at the request of a great number of the principal inhabitants of the Town,) beg leave to request of your Honour that you would order one or two companies of soldiers, that are now stationed at New-London, to be removed to this Town, for the purpose of guarding the sea-coast where this stock is situated; to take the advice of the authority in, or the Selectmen of the Town, or of this Committee, or any other man or set of men, with regard to the most convenient places to keep their guards, that your Honour in your wisdom shall think fit. Your Honour's compliance with this our request will greatly oblige your Honour's most obedient humble servants. Signed per order:

JOSEPH MATHER, Chairman.

N. B. The bearer is able to inform your Honour with regard to the number of the stock and other matters that your Honour may see fit to inquire after.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO RICHARD HENRY LEE.

Camp at Cambridge, August 29, 1775.

DEAR SIR: Your favour of the 1st instant, by Mr. Randolph, came safe to hand. The merits of this young gentleman, added to your recommendation, and my own knowledge of his character, induced me to take him into my family as an Aid-de-Camp, in the room of Mr. Mifflin, whom I have appointed Quartermaster-General, from a thorough persuasion of his integrity, my own experience of his activity, and, finally, because he stands unconnected with either of these Governments, or with this, that, or the other man; for, between you and me, there is more in this than you can easily imagine.

I submit it, therefore, to your consideration, whether there is or is not a propriety in that Resolution of the Congress which leaves the ultimate appointment of all officers below the rank of Generals to the Governments where the Regiments originated, now the Army is become Continental. To me it appears improper in two points of view: first, it is giving that power and weight to an individual Colony, which ought of right to belong only to the whole; and, next, it damps the spirit and ardour of volunteers from all but the four New-England Governments, as none but their people have the least chance of getting into office. Would it not be better, therefore, to have the warrants which the Commander-in-Chief is authorized to give, pro tempore, approved or disapproved by the Continental Congress, or a Committee of their body, which I should suppose, in any long recess, must always sit? In this case, every gentleman will stand an equal chance of being promoted according to his merit; in the other, all officers will be confined to the inhabitants of the four New-England Governments, which, in my opinion, is impolitic to a high degree.

I have not been unmindful of that part of your letter respecting Point Alderton; before the receipt of it, it had become an object of my particular inquiry; but the accounts of its situation differ exceedingly in respect to the command it has of the ship channel. But my knowledge of this matter would not have been confined to inquiries only, if I had ever been in a condition, since my arrival here, to have taken possession of such a post. But you well know, my good Sir, that it becomes the duty of an officer to consider some other matters, as well as a situation, namely: what number of men are necessary to defend a place, how it can be supported, and how furnished with ammunition. In respect to the first, I conceive our defence of this place (Point Alderton) must be proportioned to the attack of General Gage's whole force, leaving him just enough to man his lines on Boston and Charlestown Necks; and with regard to the second and most important, as well as alarming object, we have only one hundred and eighty-four barrels of powder in all, including the late supply from Philadelphia, which is not sufficient to give twenty-five musket cartridges to each man, and scarcely to serve the artillery in any brisk action one single day. Under these circumstances, I dare say you will agree with me, that it would not be very eligible to take a post thirty miles distant, by land, from this place, when we have already a line of circunvallation round Boston, of at least ten miles in extent to defend, any part of which may be attacked without our having, if the enemy will keep their own counsel, an hour's previous notice of it; and that it would not be prudent in me to attempt a measure which would necessarily bring on a consumption of all the ammunition we have, thereby leaving the Army at the mercy of the enemy or to disperse, and the country to be ravaged and laid waste at discretion. To you, Sir, I may account for my conduct; but I cannot declare the motives of it to every one, notwithstanding I know, by not doing of it, that I shall stand in a very unfavourable light, in the opinion of those who expect much, and will find little done, without understanding, or perhaps giving themselves the trouble of inquiring into the cause. Such, however, is the fate of all those who are obliged to act the part I do. I must, therefore, submit to it, under a consciousness of having done my duty to the best of my abilities.

On Saturday night last we took possession of a hill, advanced of our lines, and within point blank shot of the enemy on Charlestown Neck. We worked incessantly the whole night twelve hundred men, and before morning got an intrenchment in such forwardness as to bid defiance to their cannon. About nine o'clock on Sunday they began a heavy cannonade, which continued through the day, without any injury to our work, and with the loss of four men only, two of whom were killed through their own folly. The insult of the cannonade, however, we were obliged to submit to with impunity, not daring to make use of artillery, on account of the consumption of powder, except with one nine-pounder, placed on a point, with which we silenced, and indeed sunk, one of their floating batteries. This move of ours was made to prevent the enemy from gaining this hill, and, we thought, was giving them a fair challenge to dispute it, as we had been told, by various people who had just left Boston, that they were preparing to come out; but, instead of accepting of it, we learn that it has thrown them into great consternation, which might be improved if we had the means of doing it. Yesterday afternoon they began a bombardment, without any effect as yet.

As I expect this letter will meet you in Philadelphia, I must request the favour of you to present my affectionate and respectful compliments to Dr. Shippen, his lady and family, my brothers of the Delegation, and any other inquiring friends; and, at the same time, do me the justice to believe that I am, with a sincere regard, your affectionate friend and obedient servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

B. BASSETT TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Mount Vernon, August 31, 1775.

DEAR SIR: The Convention broke up on Saturday last, after a sitting of six weeks. They have agreed to raise fourteen hundred and forty-five men, and appointed Patrick Henry to the command of the First Regiment, and William Woodford to the Second. William Christian and Charles Scott are Lieutenant-Colonels, and Francis Eppes and Alexander Spotswood are Majors. Four hundred of the men are to be stationed on the frontiers, and the others about Williamsburgh and Norfolk. They have laid the country out in sixteen Districts, each of which is to raise five hundred men, to be called Minute-Men; they are to be ready to march on the shortest notice, and are nearly under the same regulations as the Militia of England.

The Convention have appointed a Committee of Safety, of the following gentlemen: Edmund Pendleton, George Mason, John Page, Thomas Ludwell Lee, Paul Carrington, Richard Bland, Dudley Digges, William Cabell, Carter Braxton, James Mercer, and John Tabb, who are to have the whole direction of the Army, and so call out the whole or any part of the Minute-Men, as they think best for the good of the Country. Pendleton and Bland begged to be excused from going to the Congress, and we have sent Wythe, Thomas Nelson, and Francis Lee. We have agreed to strike three hundred and fifty thousand Pounds, paper currency, to pay for the Indian war, our part of the Continental Army, and our own Army and Minute-Men.

This is all the news that I can now send you. If you can spare a few minutes from the great hurry and fatigue that you must undergo, it would give me great pleasure to hear that you are well. Mrs. Bassett and the children join me in our best wishes for your health and happiness.

I am, dear Sir, your affectionate friend and humble servant,

B. BASSETT.

SOUTH-CAROLINA, NINETY-SIX DISTRICT.

By the Honourable WILLIAM HENRY DRAYTON, Esquire.

A DECLARATION.

Whereas, by commission from the honourable the Council of Safety for this Colony, dated the 23d day of July last, I am upon a progress through the country, "to explain to the people at large the nature of the unhappy disputes between Great Britain and the American Colonies; to endeavour to settle all political disputes with the people, to quiet their minds, and to enforce the necessity of a general union, in order to preserve themselves and their children from slavery." And whereas the progress having been continued almost through the Colony, with success to the state, satisfaction to the people, and, upon the most perfect principles, tending to promote peace and good order, for the purposes of the progress aforesaid I did appoint that a meeting of the people should be held on Friday next, the first day of September, at the Ridge, in the District aforesaid: But whereas one Moses Kirkland having, without lawful authority, assembled men in arms in the District aforesaid, it is but too evident that to his treachery against this Colony he means to add crimes of a deeper dye, and by force of arms to violate the publick peace: wherefore, it is become inexpedient that the intended meeting of the people should be held as aforesaid, lest the meeting should furnish occasion for civil bloodshed, which it is our purpose to avoid as long as may be possible.

And whereas, by the arts, frauds, and misrepresentations of the said Moses Kirkland, some weak and ignorant people have been led into measures of so criminal a nature as, if persisted in, must inevitably involve them in destruction, from motives of humanity I therefore do hereby recommend to all such persons, that they forthwith desist from following the counsels of the said Moses Kirkland, in points tending to sedition and hostility; and I do hereby notify, that all such persons as, without lawful authority, shall assemble in arms, in company with or by instigation of the said Moses Kirkland, will be deemed publick enemies, to be suppressed by the sword.

Given under my hand, at Snow Hill, in the District aforesaid, this thirtieth of August, 1775.

WILLIAM HENRY DRAYTON.

COMMITTEE OF SAFETY OF NEW-JERSEY.

Princeton, Wednesday, August 30, 1775.

The Committee of Safety, taking into consideration the condition of several Companies in this Province, where vacancies have happened in consequence of the promotion of the Captain or other officers, are of opinion, that according to the Rules and Orders of the Continental and Provincial Congresses, such vacancy is to be filled up by the choice of a new officer, in the usual manner of election; but that no person can be turned out of office by his Company, without his consent being first obtained.

Thursday, August 31, 1775.

Whereas the Publick Roads of this Province are observed to abound with strollers and vagabonds, and many servants have run away from their masters, and horse stealing and other robberies are become very frequent; therefore it is

Resolved, That it be recommended to the good people of this Province, that they do strictly examine all suspicious persons passing to and fro through the different parts thereof; and if, upon such examination, they do not give a satisfactory account of themselves, they do proceed to deal with them according to the laws of this Province.

Resolved, That the several Officers and Privates who embody themselves as Minute-Men in this Province be, and they hereby are directed, for the sake of distinction and convenience, to adopt as their Uniform Hunting-Frocks, as near as may be similar to those of the Rifle-men now in the Continental service.

Ordered, That this Committee be adjourned to Wednesday, the 13th day of September next, to meet at Princeton, unless sooner convened by the President or Vice-President.

WILLIAM PATERSON, Secretary.

P. DE WITT TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Witt's Mount, August 30, 1775.

HONOURED SIR: I wrote you on the 8th instant, which Captain Radcliff tells me he has delivered to yourself; since that, I received none from you, which I do not im-pute to your disregard thereto, but to throng of business, and want of a safe opportunity. However, the regard I have for my native land, and the liberties thereof, concerns me to such a degree that I think myself in duty bound thereto to give you a further information.

Some time last week Timothy Doughty, Adam Bergh, and Christian Bergh, Jun., three of the persons I mentioned in my last, appeared at their houses and in this neighbourhood again publicly; carried their pistols with them; bid defiance to all, and threatened death if an attempt should be made to take them; endeavoured to obstruct the choice of officers that was making on the 25th instant in Captain Radcliff's Company; threatened him; d—d the Congress; spoke ill of the new commissions the officers are to receive, and called them d—d rebels; after that, enlisted four men in the Ministerial service, probably more; they offered to enlist more, particularly a young man I hired a few months since; they would enlist him during the troubles in America, under the promise of four hundred acres of land that shall be conquered by the Ministerial Army; another they offered to enlist in the same manner; another they had enlisted, and his master persuaded him back. This they did all unmolested. On the 28th instant they went on board a sloop the said Berghs own, with the four enlisted men and others, and sailed down the river; last night the sloop returned. They are all gone on board a sloop belonging to John and David Dobb, in order to go on board the man or ship of war; these Dobs carry wood to New-York, and commonly land it at the North River docks, where they and their sloop are well known. These proceedings seem to strike a terror in this neighbourhood, although all are Tories, only a few excepted. It is by some suspected they will in a few days return, and attempt by stealth to carry me or some other person or persons off to one of the ships of war. If it should so happen, I expect no assistance; and as to myself, I am not afraid; but if any mischief should be intended, I am more afraid to share the like fate of Walter Livingston, Esq.

The question might be asked me, how or in what manner shall a stop be put to these and such like proceedings, and alleged there are many Tories in Dutchess; it is a dangerous attempt to quell, suppress, and bring them to reason by force; some of the Convention and Committee-Men in Dutchess County are false and treacherous; nothing can be concerted but it transpires to the Tories; Dutchess County has but two or three Companies of Minute-Men yet; New-York is in danger, and cannot spare any; and many other difficulties may be cast in the way—to which I answer, there is but little difficulty or danger. Cowardice should be removed first; the ringleaders should be advertised; a reward offered to those who take them; without any choice sent to the mines. I am creditably informed the Militia of Esopus are all Minute-Men, and want no better sport than to come over. Three hundred men from thence, with the Minute-Men in this County, or two or three hundred men of the Militia of Connecticut, which are next joining to this County, under proper officers to manage, as I proposed in my former letter, would do the job in a very little time. Subscribing the Association, or a recantation, should not be deemed sufficient, but an oath should be added. If such a method is not taken very soon, the breach will never be repaired, and the end miserable.

I cannot pass by to let you know that I am informed that Captain John Van Ness, who never had any other than a Captain's commission one campaign the last war, is nominated Colonel of the Minute-Men here, and Major Robert G. Livingston, Jun., to be Major; which I think strange and wrong. The latter is already a Major in the Militia, and a gentleman that has all the qualifications of a commanding officer; who is engrained on the hearts of the Militia; admired almost to adoration; beloved by every one, the Tories not excepted. This must be a Hoffman's trick; they are ever false.

Petrus Ten Broeck, by commission from the Governor, has been Colonel of a Regiment in this quarter; he is a man not fit for it. The men that were willing he regarded not; those that were unwilling he furnished not; trained at times the act forbid—by which he has brought the Regiment in confusion, and is the reason many turned tories. I hear he has offered his service again; it should not be accepted. Anthony Hoffman, who was his Lieutenant-Colonel, was never before the Regiment; such disregard consequently makes him unfit, besides other reasons. Robert R. Livingston, Jun., should be Colonel, and Robert G. Livingston, Jun., should be Lieutenant-Colonel, in their stead, and they should choose their own Majors. Gilbert Livingston has doubtless given information that none of the Field-Officers in the Regiment that was commanded by Leonard Van Kleeck ought to be such again.

These abovementioned Dobs ought not to be allowed to come to New-York with their sloop. When they are here they are strong tories, and when at New-York they feign themselves on the other side; and it is the same with one Nathan Clason and Peter Thorpe, who, with one John Halleck, own a boat. They also carry wood to New-York, and land it on the North River docks; are well known there; none of them have subscribed the Association. Mordecai Lester, mentioned in my last, has not appeared since; it is said he is on board the man-of-war.

These my informations and opinion are not out of malice, ill-will, nor flattery, but impartial, and sincerely for the good of the common cause; but beg you will not use my name, to prevent the venting of malice. I intend this per Captain John L. Hardenburgh, who I shall desire to deliver it into your hands; he knows nothing of the contents.

I am, with the greatest respect, honoured Sir, your very humble servant,

P. DE WITT.

Peter V. B. Livingston, Esq.

CORNWALL (NEW-YORK) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Committee of Cornwall Precinct, in Orange County, held at the house of John Brewster, on Wednesday, the 30th of August, 1775, especially convened—present:

Hezekiah Howell, Esq., Archibald Little, Esq., Elihu Marvin, Nathaniel Satterby, Nathaniel Strong, Jonathan Brooks, Stephen Gilbert, Zachariah Dubois, Thomas Moffat.

Several persons appeared and entered complaints against Captain Phinehas Rumsey, for violating the Resolves of our Provincial Congress, in the election of Military Officers (held on the 23d instant) for the Company whereof he was formerly Captain, and the allegations being supported by a number of evidences,

Upon motion made, Resolved, That the said Captain Phinehas Rumsey be ordered to appear before this Committee to-morrow, at four o'clock in the afternoon, at the house of John Brewster, with such evidences as he shall think proper to produce in his favour; and that his accusers, with their evidences, be ordered to attend likewise.

Evidences ordered to attend, viz: Joseph Concklin, Moses Carpenter, William Heard, Jonathan Sears, Silas Person.

And then the Committee adjourned till to-morrow, at four o'clock, P. M.

Thursday, August 31, 1775, 4 o'clock, P. M.

The Committee met according to adjournment. Present:

Hezekiah Howell, Esq., Archibald Little, Esq., Elihu Marvin, Nathaniel Satterby, Nathaniel Strong, Stephen Gilbert, Thomas Moffat, Zachariah Dubois.

The business of the day being called, upon examination it appeared that the said Captain Phinehas Rumsey had received the citation from the Chairman of this Committee of yesterday, and that he did not intend to answer it; upon which, the evidences against him were called in, who declare, that the said Captain Phinehas Rumsey prevented the said Company from choosing their Non-Commissioned Officers; and when the people insisted on it as their right, by virtue of the Resolve of the Congress, he declared that he did not regard the Congress, or any other set of men whatever, or words to that purpose; which evidence being supported by Archibald Little, Esquire, and Nathaniel Satterby, (Members of this Committee, who attended the election aforesaid,) the Committee are unanimously of opinion that the said election ought to be set aside.

Resolved, therefore, That the said election be set aside, and it is hereby accordingly set aside, to all intents and purposes whatsoever, as much as if it had never been; and that the said Company be ordered to meet at the house of Daniel Reeve, on Saturday, the 2d of September next, at one o'clock in the afternoon of said day, for the purpose of choosing their Officers, agreeable to the directions of the Congress; and that Archibald Little, Esq., and Zachariah Dubois, attend the election.

THOMAS MOFFAT.

GUNNING BEDFORD TO CONTINENTAL CONGRESS.

[Read September 13, 1775.]

Ticonderoga, August 30, 1775.

HONoured SIR: Enclosed I send you the muster-rolls of the Companies I have already mustered. You will accept them in the confused manner in which they are done, owing to the great hurry of the Captains, in being ordered away immediately after their arrival here, and having so short a time to prepare them in. I am induced to make this apology, as well for myself as for the Captains, as I would not wish to send in my rolls so irregularly finished and almost unintelligible, were it not through the most pressing necessity. I was obliged to take them as you will find them, or suffer the men to pass unmustered. I chose the latter, and hope they may be received.

There are none other of the New-York Troops yet arrived, but General Schuyler informs me that there are several Companies on their way from Albany. His Honour leaves this place this evening, and thinks proper I should accompany him to St. John's, where I can muster the rest of the York Troops when they arrive.

I have to inform you, Sir, that after receiving my commission I made the best of my way to New-York, when I waited on General Wooster, to know whether he had any orders for me to muster his Troops. He told me had none, neither did he think he had authority to give me any, not thinking himself a Continental officer; however, he gave me a general return of his forces, which I brought forward to General Schuyler.

On my arrival here, Gen. Schuyler gave it out in orders that the Captains should prepare their muster-rolls for a general muster, according to the forms to be given out by the Muster-Master. When I gave them the forms, I showed them the articles (in the general body of rules for the regulation of the Army) which respect my particular department. I found the Connecticut Troops had none of them signed them; on which I applied to the General, who told me it had been given out in general orders that they should sign them, and he thought it had been done. On calling the officers on the subject, they told the General they knew they had disobeyed orders in not urging the matter to the soldiery, but they found it would raise a defection in their minds which would injure the cause, as the soldiers thought their signing the articles would dissolve their present obligations, for a limited time, to their own Colony, with many disadvantages to both officers and soldiers, and involve them in a service, the end of which was uncertain, and would leave them, perhaps, on no better footing than that of Regulars.

On hearing the many reasons that were urged against it, the General thought prudent to drop the matter for the present; however, thought proper the men should be mustered. The same reasons were urged against signing the muster-rolls, as against signing the rules and articles for the regulation of the Army. On this I was obliged to give up the matter, and thought it best to state my particular situation, as to the Continental Troops, to the Congress.

I shall be happy to have acted on this, as well as on every other occasion, so as to give satisfaction to that honourable body, and should be glad some order might be taken therein for my future direction. There is little prospect of doing any thing effectually at present, as the scene of action is just coming on here; but it may be matter of consideration, whether something could not be done at the close of the campaign, or to provide in case we take the field again next Spring.

I have the honour to be, with the greatest respect, Sir, your Honour's most obedient very humble servant,

G. BEDFORD, D. M. M. G.

The Honourable John Hancock, Esquire.

GOVERNOUR COOKE TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Providence, August 30, 1775.

SIR: Your Excellency's letter of the 14th instant is now before me, the contents of which I have duly considered. When it came to hand our small sloop-of-war was out upon the cruise, which I mentioned to your Excellency in a former letter. She hath since returned. The sending her on the enterprise you propose could not be done without some new and further powers from the General Assembly, which sat here last week; and the nature of the business was such that I did not think it proper to lay it before so large a body. I therefore procured a Committee to be appointed, to transact all business necessary for the common safety during the recess of the Assembly, particularly with power to employ the two vessels of war in such service as they should think necessary. The Committee is summoned to meet this day, before whom I shall lay your letter. At present the undertaking appears to me extremely difficult. The most suitable man we have for the purpose is confined to his bed by sickness.

We have accounts that a number of vessels have sailed lately from Boston, which we apprehend are designed to plunder the stock along the coast. The General Assembly have ordered it all to be removed from all the islands in this Colony, excepting Rhode-Island. We have now about three hundred men employed in that business. I am requested by the General Assembly to apply to you to give directions to the Commissary-General, that all the stock taken from these islands, that are fit to kill, be taken for the use of the Army, in preference to any stock which is secure in the country. The drought hath been so severe along the sea-coast this summer, that there is no possibility of providing for the stock in any other way.

The scarcity of coarse linen hath caused such a demand for tow cloth, for family use, that upon inquiry I find there is scarcely any of that article to be had in the Government at any rate.

The vessel our small sloop was cruising for arrived on the 28th instant, at Norwich. She hath brought powder, lead, flints, and small-arms. What quantity of each I am not certain; they are now on their way by land.

This letter waits upon your Excellency by Captain Joseph Brown, who is an eminent merchant here, a true friend to the liberties of his Country, extremely well respected amongst us, and noted for his superiour mechanical genius. If he hath any thing to propose for the service of the common cause, I have no doubt of your paying attention to it, and giving it the weight it shall appear to you to deserve.

I am, with very great esteem and regard, Sir, your Excellency's most obedient and most humble servant,

General Washington.

NICHOLAS COOKE.

G. SALTONSTALL TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

New-London, August 30, 1775, 4 o'clock, A. M.

HONOURABLE SIR: This morning early cannon were fired in the eastern board, and have continued firing ever since, and in the last hour about forty. We had advice at twelve o'clock that a man-of-war and a tender were firing on the houses at the Point, in Stonington, without provocation, unless it were that the people had brought the stock, a small matter, from Block-Island. Off Block-Island yesterday appeared a number of transport ships, and scarce any stock taken from thence; probably they there have, with the men sent from the main, upwards of three hundred men; at Stonington probably two hundred. Major Latimer marched one-half his men (about two hundred) for Stonington, by my advice, instantly on the express from Stonington's arrival. His Troops have not half a pound powder per man; not a cask of powder in this Town, for the Troops marched, or those remaining in Town.

Your Honour's wisdom will furnish the article of powder, or we can make not the least defence, even with fire-locks.

The cannon constantly firing. This waits on your Honour by express, from your most obedient humble servant,

Governour Trumbull.

G. SALTONSTALL.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Camp at Cambridge, August 30, 1775.

SIR: Your favour of the 21st instant is duly received, enclosing Mr. Carter's information of the capture of the Charming Sally, which, from the circumstances attending it, was undoubtedly collusive. I have received advice that another vessel, belonging to one White, at Marblehead, whose ostensible voyage was to Casco-Bay, was carried in soon after. Such instances of avarice, at such a time, and in such a cause, call for a severe scrutiny and exemplary punishment.

Mr. Livingston, and some other gentlemen from your City, brought us the acceptable news of the safe arrival of a large quantity of powder, and five hundred stand of arms. Our situation is such as requires your immediate assistance and supply in that article. We have lately taken possession of a hill considerably advanced towards the enemy, but our poverty prevents our availing ourselves of any advantage of situation. I must therefore most earnestly entreat that measures may be taken to forward to this camp, in the most safe and expeditious manner, whatever ammunition can be spared from the immediate and necessary defence of the Province. The value of whatever may be sent, in consequence of this request, will be paid by order from hence when delivered, or negotiated with the honourable Continental Congress at Philadelphia, as may be agreed with the proprietors. I only request that no time may be lost through any such difficulties, as our situation is so critical and the exigence so great. The mode of conveyance I must leave with the Provincial Congress or the Committee of the City. I doubt not they will take every precaution to make it safe and expeditious.

I have the honour to be, Sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

The Honourable Peter Van Brugh Livingston, Esquire, President, &c.

Worcester, Massachusetts, August 30, 1775.

Doctor Nahum Willard, of this Town, having at divers times, and in the presence of sundry persons, most scandalously aspersed the characters of some, and the proceedings of the whole of the Continental and Provincial Congresses, the Selectmen of this Town, and the Committees of Correspondence in general:

The good people of this Town, from a knowledge of his character, for some time passed it unnoticed, from an apprehension his character was so established for a retailer of falsehood, as to render him incapable of doing any publick injury; but from the perverseness of his vile heart, whereby he persisted in his wickedness, they were apprehensive he might be capable of doing some hurt in the neighbouring Towns, which he often frequented, and where his character, perhaps, may not be so well known. And from an apprehension the inhabitants of this Town might hazard the imputation of having deserted the glorious cause, for which this Continent are now contending, in suffering such an offender to escape with impunity, did, on the twenty-first instant, summon said Willard to appear before them, in the presence of the Selectmen and some of the Committee of Correspondence, when witnesses were produced in support of the charges alleged against him, which were fully proved and committed to writing, and deposited in the hands of the Selectmen, (open to inspection,) the witnesses being ready at any time to make oath to the same.

A Committee was then chosen to consider of the best methods for a further procedure with said Willard. They reported that said Willard should have tendered to him a paper they had drawn up, containing a confession of his notorious scandals and falsehoods, without mentioning a word of his promising a reformation, as they would be very sorry to be the means of his adding to his falsehoods. This paper, if he believed to be true, he was to sign that evening; and as it was late, and to prevent disorder, he was next morning to read it in such publick parts of the Town as the Committee directed, with which he complied; the contents of the paper abovementioned follows this account.

There was another scandalous aspersion upon the guard that conducted the prisoners from hence to Springfield, wherein he asserted that he was told they used them extremely cruel, frequently pricking them with their bayonets.

He was often called upon to name his author, and as often refused it, till the day of general inquiry, when he laid it upon a person four miles off, who has since declared he never told him so, nor ever heard of it before. This is only mentioned to take off any bad impressions that might be made to the prejudice of the gentleman who conducted this matter, whose character is so well known here, especially for humanity, that it never affected it in this place. But as this matter was not of so publick a nature, it was thought most advisable the persons who had suffered should do themselves justice; an apprehension that they would, it is supposed, has caused the Doctor's flight, without the least regret of any of the inhabitants except the tory gentry.

DOCTOR WILLARD'S CONFESSION.

Whereas I, the subscriber, have, from the perverseness of my wicked heart, maliciously and scandalously abused the characters and proceedings of the Continental and Provincial Congresses, the Selectmen of this Town, and the Committees of Correspondence in general:

I do hereby declare that, at the time of my doing it, I knew the said abuses to be the most scandalous falsehoods, and that I did it for the sole purpose of abusing those bodies of men, and affronting my townsmen, and all the friends of liberty throughout the Continent. Being now fully sensible of my wickedness and notorious falsehoods, humbly beg pardon of those worthy characters I have so scandalously abused, and of my countrymen in general, and desire this confession of mine may be printed in the American Oracle of Liberty, for three weeks successively.

MEETING OF FREEHOLDERS OF ANNE ARUNDEL COUNTY, MARYLAND.

Annapolis, August 31, 1775.

Notice is hereby given to the Freeholders and other Freemen of Anne-Arundel County, having a visible estate of forty Pounds sterling, or qualified by law to vote for Burgesses, to meet at the City of Annapolis on Tuesday, the 12th of September next, to elect a Committee of Observation for the said County for the term of one year, to consist of thirty-four of the most discreet and sensible of the said Freemen; also to elect, by ballot, five persons to represent them in Convention for the said term of one year.

MEETING OF FREEHOLDERS OF YORK COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA.

York, Pennsylvania, August 31, 1775.

The Freeholders and other inhabitants of York County, entitled to vote for Representatives in Assembly, are hereby required to meet at the Court-House in York Town, on Tuesday, the seventeenth day of October next, to vote, by ballot or ticket, for sixty-one persons as a Committee for York County, to continue for the space of one year then next following, if from the change of publick affairs they may not think it expedient to dissolve themselves sooner. And as, from the dangers and necessities of the times, powers of the greatest magnitude may be exercised by those persons or their Delegates, it is expected that the meeting of the Freemen will be general, and that they will be judicious in the choice of the persons to represent them. Each Township is desired to choose an Inspector, to attend at the time and place aforesaid, who will be qualified agreeable to the rules of the election. Judges will be chosen, and the election conducted agreeable to the rules prescribed for the election of the present Committee.

By order of the Committee:

JAMES SMITH, Chairman.

MODERATE POLITICAL HINTS.

New-York, August 31, 1775.

Requisition from Government is the old Constitution, and will naturally come in course whenever we are at war with any foreign Power; 'tis then that extra troops and extra sums of money are much wanting from every part of the King's jurisdiction, and we in America not only cheerfully grant to the utmost extent of our abilities, but have a right to examine into accounts, and frequently expect and receive a reimbursement of a large part of our expenses; but the revenue in contest is a distinct affair; it is a small annual sum voluntarily given in cash or country produce, to be fixed either to the King's civil list, or applied toward payment of interest money due on the national debt, as an acknowledgment for Government securing to us liberty, property, and freedom of trade. These ought (in truth and justice) to be the solemn obligations and agreement on both sides, prudently waiving the contest, whether the national debt was occasioned by fighting solely for America, as it was undoubtedly expended for the general good; for had any one of the British Empire fallen during the war, in either Europe or America, other parts must have fell of course.

A proposition from us of a voluntary revenue, guarded under good mercantile conditions, if received or rejected, I should apprehend would steadily fix our friends, and make our enemies tremble in every quarter; it would entirely eradicate and remove the simple notion of independence.

The civil list revenue (and there is one only) is a yearly sum of eight hundred thousand Pounds, established by Parliament to the King for life, for the support of His Majesty's household, and of the honour and dignity of the Crown: it is charged upon and made payable out of the aggregate fund, and commenced from the demise of his late Majesty.

The Parliament grants for seven years, from 1757 to 1763, inclusive, amounted to above ninety-eight millions, and which occasioned the rapid growth of the national debt; if needful, on a future day, shall give specimens of their resolutions and provisions.

The Parliament provisions are generally by the land tax, malt tax, navy bills, debentures per loans and exchequer bills, and by the surplus of the sinking fund, including the customs and duties upon all kinds of liquors, home-made and foreign; also on tobacco, &c., &c., all paid by the holder and consumer in Britain. The manufactories, or their goods for exportation, are exempted from duties of excise, to enable them to send to market, and to sell better goods and cheaper than any other nation on the globe.

The superiour fineness, firmness, and weight of English broadcloths, &c., on that account, always did and ever will command the preference in market at every port in the four quarters of the world. The Asiaticks wisely proved the goodness of broadcloths by their fineness and weight in the scales, and gave the preference to those of Britain.

We are excellent customers to the British merchant for dry-goods—not immediately material contributors thereby to Government. Government is in debt, the common people poor; but the nobility, officers, landed gentlemen, merchants, and manufacturers, are immensely rich. Success in merchandising and wars hath brought nearly all the circulating specie from the East-Indies and from the West, from the North and from the South, to Great Britain. At this present time, there are more solid riches held by those individuals in Britain, than are held in any two nations in Europe, with its concomitant luxury; and which occasioneth their frequent scarcity of grain. England hath such a variety of soil, as they scarcely ever were in want of provisions in ancient times; for if crops failed in one part of the kingdom, they succeeded in another; but thousands and thousands of acres are now turned (and fenced) into parks, so that growing grain in abundance as formerly, for the industrious poor, they now grow venison for the luxury of the rich.

The manufactures of Great Britain and Ireland, and the product of American lands, in a very few years, if managed on each side with temper and wisdom, will naturally produce astonishing advantages and benefits to the whole Empire.

In the time of the stamp act, by a fortunate regulation of imports and exports, and by a straight line of smooth and manly deportment, we prevented even our most inveterate enemies in Britain from playing off their false but hurtful artillery of words of independence and rebellion, (self-defence comprehends neither,) a similar proceeding, as nearly as our present critical circumstances will permit, I trust will yield consequences in the event agreeable to those successful and happy times.

A yearly sum of one shilling from every resident in America yields a moderate American revenue; I would, with much pleasure, pay above fifty times that sum annually, for this mode of procedure, or for any other constitutional voluntary plan toward the support of solid substantial Government. I am for the just thing. The whole British revenue raised there amounts to about eight millions yearly, in time of peace, nearly one-half of which is for interest money paid on the national debt.

I am neither a placeman, pensioner, nor ministerial hireling; but 'tis this method of a revenue, or something analogous, that appears to me as the most eligible and only plan to settle the dispute upon a lasting foundation; and am really assiduous to promote a constitutional voluntary revenue, under good mercantile conditions, and for negotiating with the Crown immediately; the Crown to appoint Commissioners, to negotiate with Commissioners from the honourable the Continental Congress.

S. SP. SKINNER.

ABRAHAM LOTT TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-York, August 31, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: This morning I have seen a printed resolution of the honourable Board, dated the 29th instant, by which I am permitted in future (agreeable to former directions) to supply His Majesty's ships "on this station with all necessaries, as well fresh as salt; and that such supplies be sent by me to the Governour's Island, to be taken from thence on board of the said ships."

In pursuance of which, I propose to write a letter to Captain Vandeput, informing him of the leave given by the honourable Board. But as the beer and water for the King's ships have been supplied from Brookland Ferry, and not from this City, as these articles are put on board of the ships in large heavy butts, which require a number of hands to hoist them in and out of the boats, and cannot be obtained any where else with the same ease and convenience, and as the inhabitants at the ferry have no objection to the man-of-war's boat coming there to take off those articles, I humbly pray the honourable Congress will be pleased, prior to my writing Captain Vandeput, to signify whether the man-of-war's boats may be permitted to go to the ferry for beer and water, and whether I may assure him they will not be molested and hurt in going on that business. I hope I may be permitted to add, that if this liberty is not granted, it will be a difficult matter for the ships to water, as they cannot get it on the Governour's Island; nor do I conceive how it will be in my power to supply them with beer in any other mode.

I have the honour, with all due deference to your superior judgments, to be, Gentlemen, your most obedient servant,

ABRAHAM LOTT.

To the Honourable the Provincial Congress for the Colony of New-York, in Congress convened.

P. S. Enclosed I send an account of what I have supplied and am to supply His Majesty's Ship Asia with.

New-York, August 31, 1775.

Pursuant to the order of the honourable the Provincial Congress for the Colony of New-York of the 27th May, 1775, I have supplied His Majesty's Ship Asia, between the 27th of July and 2d of August, with the following provisions, for her own use, viz: bread, 20,618 pounds; flour, 28 cwt. 3 qrs. 2 lbs.; butter, 1,195 pounds; beer, have not got the brewer's account, and thus cannot ascertain the quantity. I have lately received another order for—bread, 10,000 pounds; butter, 10 firkins; peas, 84 bushels; oatmeal, 84 bushels; which propose to supply in a few days.

ABRAHAM LOTT.

To the Hon. P. V. B. Livingston, Esq., President of the Provincial Congress, New-York.

SUFFOLK COUNTY COMMITTEE TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Suffolk County, August 31, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Your letter of the 25th of this instant we have received, wherein you recommend that we place two

FOURTH SERIES.—VOL. III.

Companies of Minute-Men at Montauk, and one at or near Shelter-Island. There are no Companies of Minute-Men yet formed in this County, and, when formed, we are of opinion that such Companies cannot be prevailed on to be stationed at those places, as those persons at the east end of the County, who could be spared from their families, are already enlisted in the service of the Continent, and the western part of the County are unwilling that any person should go from them, on account of the danger of the enemy and the people in an adjacent County. We are exceeding sorry that we shall be unable to protect the stock at the east end from the ravages of our enemies when the Troops are all gone from us. The stock is taken from Gardiner's and Plumb Islands. The hay on Gardiner's Island we judge will be of no service to General Gage if they cannot get stock, as they took no more than just sufficient to keep the stock to Boston, and said they wanted no more. We beg leave to observe to you, that this County is under considerable disadvantages, on account of having no post that rides through Long-Island, and should be exceeding glad if a post might be established in such manner as your honourable House shall direct.

We are, Gentlemen, your most obedient and very humble servants. By order: WM. SMITH, Chairman.

To the Hon. P. V. B. Livingston, Esq., President of the Provincial Congress, New-York.

WESTCHESTER COUNTY COMMITTEE TO JOHN MCKESSON.

White-Plains, August 31, 1775.

SIR: I enclose you a list of the officers in Westchester County, except for the Borough of Westchester Manor, of Fordham, and West-Farms, (made into one beat by the Committee of this County.) The members of the Committee from Westchester not having made any return of their officers, I am unable to furnish you with their names. Would be glad the commissions might be made out as soon as possible, and those for the middle and upper parts of the County sent to Micah Townsend, Esq., Clerk of the Committee, who will forward them to the officers.

I am your most humble servant,

GILBERT DRAKE, Chairman.

To John McKesson, Esq., Secretary of the Provincial Congress.

DUTCHESS COUNTY COMMITTEE TO THEIR DEPUTIES IN PROVINCIAL CONGRESS.

Charlotte Precinct, August 31, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: I am directed by the Committee to write to you respecting Messrs. Lester, Doughty, and Berghs. We have been credibly informed those persons have actually enlisted a number of men to serve against us in one way or another, and have threatened to come with an armed vessel and carry off some of the inhabitants who have been active in the present measures. They are now either in New-York or on board the man-of-war. We must therefore request you will use your utmost endeavours in discovering and apprehending them. We have also information that his son is employed in purchasing live stock for the use of the men of war. We would therefore recommend, that a vessel should be immediately procured for the purpose of searching all vessels going up and down the river. By this means not only the above supplies may be prevented from reaching the men of war, but the above persons may be the more readily apprehended. A particular lookout should be kept for the sloops belonging to the Berghs and one Dop. The propriety of the measure, however, we leave in your discretion. We would also mention to you, as a suspected person, one Lauchlin McDonald, who lately went from Fredericksburgh, with some men he had enlisted, in Peter Bogardus's sloop, belonging to Fishkill.

I am also directed by the Committee to request answers to the following queries, viz:

Whether the Committees have power to call out the Minute Companies whenever they think proper?

Whether we are authorized to engage the Minute-Men any and what pay, when in actual service?

Whether the Committee can be supplied with a small sum, to answer contingent charges?

Whatever expense accrues now must be defrayed by the members of the Committee out of their own pockets, which we conceive to be exceedingly hard upon us, considering the expense we already are at in attending the Committee, without any hope of compensation in the nature of wages. Indeed, we are in so much danger from the disaffected persons in the County, that we shall be soon obliged to take some spirited measures respecting them. Those measures, however, we shall be unable to pursue without a proper supply of cash. You may be assured it will be expended with the utmost parsimony, and a proper account will be rendered of it. You will be pleased to favour us with an answer as speedily as possible.

I remain your very humble servant,

By order of the Committee: E. BENSON, Ch'n.

To the Gentlemen attending as Deputies, from the County of Dutchess, in Provincial Congress.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM A GENTLEMAN AT TICONDEROGA TO HIS FRIEND IN NEW-YORK, DATED AUGUST 31, 1775.

Colonels Waterbury and Ritzma, under the command of General Montgomery, embarked on Monday night, with twelve hundred men, for the Isle-au-Noix, near St. John's, to stop our enemies' strong vessels by pickets and booms, till the Army and artillery are ready. Your countrymen with united voices cry aloud for your utmost exertion in this time of need, inter arma silent leges. Pray, to arms, to arms, my friend! Give your Country testimony of your attachment to the cause in which we are engaged; supineness and lukewarmness breathe destruction to a free people. Our all is at stake. I had rather never again return from the field than live and die a slave.

I am on the eve of embarkation with the remainder of the Army and nine or ten pieces of artillery; four twelve-pounders are gone. You will soon hear of very bloody scenes. Hostilities are already commenced in this quarter. I hope in five days to be one of the possessors of Montreal. The Indian Convention will be very favourable to our cause. Gage has got two thousand nine hundred and fifty barrels of flour from Philadelphia.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Ticonderoga, August 31, 1775.

DEAR SIR: I arrived here last night, and immediately issued my orders for sending you the lead, (my former ones not having come to hand;) it will leave Crown Point this afternoon, and be forwarded without loss of time to you.

General Montgomery leaves Crown Point to-day, with twelve hundred men and four twelve-pounders. I follow him this evening, and have ordered the whole strength I can spare to join me at Isle-au-Noix without delay. When they arrive there, which I hope will be in five days, I shall then be near two thousand strong. I am still of opinion that the Canadians and Indians will be friendly to us, unless the imprudence of a Captain Baker, who, without my leave, went upon a scout, and, contrary to the most pointed and express orders, seeing some people in a boat that belonged to us, attempted to fire on them, but his gun missing fire, he was instantly shot through the head and expired. His party consisted of five men, and the other of an equal number; only one of whom, an Indian, was seen to paddle off.

I will neither detain your Excellency nor waste my time (which is precious) in giving you a detail of the many wants I labour under. I hope they will serve for an evening chat at some future day.

You would have cause to blame me for not sending a return of the Forces under my command, but I cannot get one that may in the least be depended upon. I know the reason, but so critical is my situation that I sacrifice every thing to the grand object.

I have sent on only four twelve-pounders, and expect to have no more than six; but I have promised not to complain. Adieu, my dear General.

I am, with the most respectful sentiments, your most obedient servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

General Washington,

P. S. My situation will apologize for this blotted scrawl. Since writing the above, I have received the papers of which a copy is enclosed.

MAJOR JOHN BROWN TO GENERAL MONTGOMERY.

On board the Sloop lying at the north of Isle-au-Motte, }
Wednesday, August 23, 1775. }

SIR: This minute Sergeant Griffin arrived from St. John's, where he has been sent by Captain Stewart as a spy. He brings intelligence that the two vessels building there are very forward, that their hulls seem to be finished, being blacked up to their gunwales, and that their masts are preparing; that they appear of large size. This, Sir, is alarming news indeed, if true, which I have no reason to doubt; they will be ready to sail in one week, or ten days at most, for by Griffin's account, as well as others, the workmen are extremely busy and assiduous, working till after dark every night. These vessels, when on the lake, will effectually command it, and the expedition is up for this year, provided that no re-enforcement comes to Canada this year.

I went with Captain Stewart yesterday, and sounded the channel near the point next below Windmill Point. Am of opinion that a stand may be made there; but should better judges think the Isle-au-Noix, or some place below that, better to intrench and effectually stop the enemy's vessels coming up, I shall perfectly agree with them. If the Army are not ready to march within the time abovementioned, a plan of this kind must be executed, or we lose all, i. e. the command of the lake, which is tantamount.

Beg your Honour's pardon for writing in a dictatorial style; should not attempt it were it not demonstration that the vessels mentioned at St. John's, with what armed batteaus the enemy can easily furnish, can easily sweep this lake in its present condition. I therefore humbly beseech that some effectual measure may be immediately entered into to keep the command of this lake; which, I believe, may most readily and effectually be done by sending some part of the Army immediately into Canada, as I cannot consider the enemy powerful as yet; shall be willing to lead the way on the shortest notice. I hear that two Regiments are coming to join this Army, via Cohos and Onon River; the bearer will inform more particularly concerning this matter. I hope to set off to-morrow for Crown Point.

I am, Sir, with great respect, your Honour's most obedient humble servant,

JOHN BROWN.

To Brigadier-General Montgomery.

JAMES LIVINGSTON TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

August, 1775.

DEAR SIR: I had the pleasure to write you by Major Brown, and in your absence had the honour of an answer thereto from Brigadier-General Montgomery, since which nothing material has happened in this part. A few Indians from the Castle of St. Louis have joined the Troops at St. John's, owing in a great measure to two of their tribe being killed upon their last scouting party near Point-au-Fer. The number of their tribe, supposing they were all joined, does not consist of two hundred effective men, together with a few of the St. François Indians. The Upper Country Indians are mostly returned, so that, with what Colonel Johnson brought with him by the way of Oswego, they may amount to about four or five hundred. The Canadians have waited with the utmost impatience your coming, and begin to despair of seeing you, though I hope to revive their spirits by sending circular letters to the Captains of the different Parishes, of your coming soon to relieve them. The harvest has been very favourable here, though attended with some rain, and expect it will be finished nearly about the time you may arrive at St. John's, which I hope will be in about a fortnight, at farthest. I shall endeavour to join the party you propose sending this side the river, with what men I can muster, to block up the communication from Montreal to St. John's, &c. You will be kind enough to send an express a day or two before the party arrives, that I may get the necessary provisions ready. I had the pleasure to acquaint you in my last of the number of troops at the three different posts, viz: Montreal, Chambly, and St. John's; they are now mostly at St. John's, and I am sorry to acquaint you that they are well fortified, with ammunition, provisions, &c. Their cannon consist of sixes, nines, and eighteen-pounders. If I had had a party of five hundred men only, I could have taken all their ammunition, as they passed by my door. The soldiers are much harassed, and would be glad of your arrival, and I make no doubt numbers will desert upon the sight of your Army. I shall endeavour to have some loose timber, in the form of scow boats, got ready, to cross your party the other side of the river, immediately upon their arrival. General Carleton has been expected at Montreal for some time past. The true reason of his not coming is, that there being no troops at all at Quebeck, he cannot quit it for fear of a revolt. I think there is little to fear from that quarter, though he has very industriously reported that a re-enforcement was to come from Europe or Boston—I should rather be inclined to think from the latter, notwithstanding they have their hands full at Boston. He has made a proposition to the Canadians, in case they would enlist under the Crown of Great Britain, to gratify every man that will turn out upon this occasion with one hundred acres of land, at Boston, New-York, &c. The proposition was heard with disdain. Colonel McLean, who arrived here with Colonel Johnson, has orders from the King to raise a Regiment of Canadians upon those terms; and I can assure you, from Three Rivers to Chambly, he got not a single man. I believe he got a few in and about the suburbs of the Town of Montreal. Make haste, then, and prevent any further re-enforcement.

My best wishes and those of the Canadians attend you. May God prosper your just undertakings, and unite this flourishing Province with the rest of the Provinces contending for liberty, is the sincere wish of him who is, with the greatest esteem, yours, &c., JAMES LIVINGSTON.

To Philip Schuyler, Esq., Major-General and Commander-in-Chief of the Forces at Ticonderoga; or, in his absence, to Brig. Gen. Montgomery, at Ticonderoga.

P. S. They have three row-galleys, or flat-bottomed boats, of about fifty tons each, as nearly as I could judge, put together at Chambly, and then carried to St. John's in pieces, which, by the accounts I have, will be fit for sailing by the latter end of next week. Whether their intention is to go and attack you I cannot say, but have heard it suggested by the captains of said vessels, whom I am acquainted with, though in that case they must take all their force from St. John's, as they have but few sailors.

Yours, &c.,

J. L.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Ticonderoga, August 31, 1775.

HONOURED SIR: Your Honour's favour of the 18th instant was delivered me last night, on my return from Albany, where I attended as one of the Commissioners of Indian affairs. I have ordered the lead I can spare to Albany, with directions to forward it by the most direct route to General Washington, that you may not have any unnecessary trouble. General Montgomery left Crown Point this morning, with Waterbury's, McDougall's, Parsons's, and Wooster's Regiments, amounting to twelve hundred men. I shall join him some time in the ensuing night, and have ordered all Hinman's Regiment, (excepting two Companies,) amounting to about five hundred men, and about three hundred more of Van Schaick's Regiment. The Green Mountain Boys are not yet joined. Pray, order none of your troops this way; I am sufficiently distressed with those I have, for want of tents. I have every reason to believe that the Canadians and Indians will be our friends, unless the intemperate heat and disobedience of Captain Baker has rendered them our enemies; who, without my leave, and contrary to the most explicit and pointed orders, attempted to fire on one of their boats, but his gun snapping, he was killed, and his party suppose that four out of the five were killed that were in the boat, some of whom, it is conjectured, were Indians, as the one that paddled off was certainly such. A few days will determine the event of our operations.

I am, Sir, your most obedient humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

The Honourable Governour Trumbull.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM NEW-LONDON, DATED AUGUST 31, 1775.

Yesterday morning, at six o'clock, we were alarmed by a severe firing to the eastward of this harbour, and in a little time an express arrived from Stonington, a small Town about twelve miles distant, informing that a tender had pursued two small sloops into that harbour, which ran on shore, and the people landed before the tender was in gun-shot; and as soon as she got in, they fired a full broadside into the Town, tacked and went out, and in a little time returned with two more tenders and His Majesty's Ship the Rose. The ship came to an anchor, and brought her side to bear against the Town, and began to fire; the tenders also, who kept under sail, and both ship and sloops continued, without intermission, firing the whole day; and by express, which has since arrived, find they have killed two men of ours. There are now numbers of people collected, and are there; and when the tenders came within musket-shot we fired on them. One tender got aground, and in carrying out a hawser our people imagined they killed several in the boat. There has been a flag sent off on board the Rose, to know the reason of this extra work; the Captain says our people fired on his tender first, and that he will blow the Town down. There is this morning a cessation of firing; hope the matter is settled.

COLONEL HUNTINGTON TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Norwich, August 31, 1775.

HONOURED SIR: Yours of the 30th came to hand by Captain Bishop, about twelve o'clock last night. In consequence of intelligence received from Colonel Saltonstall, sent off last night, about ten o'clock, two barrels of the Colony powder, by a boat well manned, and trust it got to Colonel Saltonstall about one of the clock this morning, desiring him to forward to Stonington, or improve, as the publick business called, when it arrived, as by New-London was the directest way to Stonington, and did not know but by the time of its arrival there the enemy had moved to New-London. Have sent an express early this morning to New-London, to know what is further turned up. If any thing comes to hand worth noting, shall advise your Honour. I had but one more cask of powder in my hands, and part was wanted for Captain Lyon's Company; and as to Town stock, is all, but about sixty pounds, delivered out, chiefly on the Colony account, to the marching troops. I find this morning that there are about six hundred pounds of powder stored with Christopher Leffingwell, Esq., belonging to Rhode-Island Colony; have applied to him to lend some. He says that it is only left with him to forward, and hath no right to lend it. From your Honour's humble servant,

JABEZ HUNTINGTON.

P. S. I received a letter some days ago from Colonel Huntington, complaining that there was a necessity of further provision for the sick, beyond what is done or can be obtained from the Continental provision.

COLONEL HUNTINGTON TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Norwich, August 31, 1775.

HONOURED SIR: Since I wrote in the morning, nothing material has come to hand relative to the enemy at Stonington, but a letter from Colonel Saltonstall, giving an account of what happened yesterday, a copy of which I have enclosed. Remain your humble servant,

JABEZ HUNTINGTON.

P. S. This moment am informed, and I suppose I may depend upon it, that the enemy took three vessels, and have done but little damage to buildings.

COL. G. SALTONSTALL TO COL. JABEZ HUNTINGTON.

New-London, August 31, 1775.

SIR: Your favour of yesterday, with the two barrels of powder, came to hand two o'clock this morning; and it is in my store, and shall be improved in the best manner for the publick. Your favour of this day is before me; the ships have not fired, as I can learn, since about five o'clock last evening. The last account I can get of the beginning of the hostilities is, that two packets employed by Rhode-

Island to land two hundred men at Block-Island, from Stonington, after much hazard from the men of war and transports round Block-Island, landed their men there, and pushed back for Stonington, being pursued by two tenders into harbour; then the tenders took two vessels lying at anchor, and went to the wharf to take more vessels, and after prohibition from so doing, and threats no doubt on both sides, they persisted in their robbery; and then, it appears probable to me, the Americans fired, and killed some men-of-war's crew. The tenders then fired a few shot, and put out; met Captain Wallace, in the Rose, off Watch-Hill; they returned with him into Stonington harbour, and fired upon the houses. A flag was sent on board Wallace, about noon, to know why they fired on them; he showed the flag four dead men of his ship's crew, and one with his hand shot off, and said he was on the defensive, and would blow the Town down; and as soon as the flag returned he renewed the cannonading with the utmost vigour. We had one man mortally wounded in the neck, and one other slightly wounded. The country are gone from the northward to their assistance. Major Latimer's detachment of two hundred men arrived there early in the evening. At eleven o'clock last night, Thomas Mumford, Esq., left the ships in Stonington harbour; am told, whilst he was there writing a letter, a cannon ball passed through the room he sat in. I have not seen him. The transports, it is apprehended, will not be able to take Block-Island stock; expect they will try Montreal and its neighbourhood. General Wooster is there, and the Committee of Suffolk—who were notified by express from hence last Friday of the advice Governour Trumbull communicated to us from General Washington—therefore they will no doubt be ready to receive them. The stock is said to be off Gardiner's and Plumb Islands; suppose it is so. Our stock of powder and ball is all delivered out; how it is at Groton, don't know; but as the messenger from Stonington to us yesterday was after powder, presume Groton could not supply it.

Your most obedient humble servant,

G. SALTONSTALL.

To Colonel Jabez Huntington, Esq.

COLONEL G. SALTONSTALL TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

New-London, August 31, 1775, 6 o'clock, P. M.

HONOURABLE SIR: Major Latimer's detachment reached Stonington harbour last evening about sunset, and by that time there were eight hundred men under arms; the cannonading ceased about five o'clock yesterday. The enemy had four men killed, and one lost a hand—of the Colony's Troops, two wounded; one of which said mortally. This morning, about nine o'clock, the Rose, Captain Wallace, three tenders, and four small prizes, stood out of the harbour, and came to under northwest part of Fisher's Island, and are probably now there. At two o'clock last night received from Colonel Huntington two barrels of powder; it is now in my store, and shall be husbanded in the best manner for the publick. It is uncertain who gave the first fire at Stonington; it is most probable to me, that on the cutter's taking prizes in the road, and going to take more at the wharf, high words arose, and they persisting, imagine our Troops fired and killed the above men, as the cutter immediately after probably fired on the Town, and then pushed out to the Rose, without Watch-Hill; and on giving her an account of the matter, they all stood in to the harbour, and cannonaded violently. About twelve o'clock a flag went on board, to know why he fired on them; and his reply was, that he was on the defensive, for they had fired on his boats, and showed the dead men then on his deck, and the wounded man. As soon as the flag returned, cannonading was renewed. This is the best account I can collect, but it is hard to come at the truth; therefore, must conjecture as circumstances appear. Major Latimer asks me when to call back his Troops, and advised him to do it to-morrow, if the ships don't appear off Stonington in the morning; and it is not probable they will, and don't expect they will come into this port; however, shall keep a good lookout. Your most obedient humble servant,

G. SALTONSTALL.

Governour Trumbull.

COLONEL G. SALTONSTALL TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

New-London, August 31, 1775, 8 o'clock, P. M.

HONOURABLE SIR: I am this moment favoured with your letter of this day, by Mr. George Griswold, and acknowledge your Honour's favour relative to the powder. At six o'clock this evening wrote your Honour every thing I could learn touching the Stonington attack, which you will have by Mr. Bushnell, by whom I intend to send this, if he is not gone. Enclosed you have a copy of what I wrote (by Mr. Griswold) the Committee of Lyme, and hope it will meet your approbation; and am, with the utmost regard, your obedient humble servant,

G. SALTONSTALL.

Governour Trumbull.

P. S. Colonel Huntington's express for intelligence came in at noon. I gave him the substance of what you will find in mine of six o'clock. I heartily congratulate you on the account of the ground gained by the American Army at Ploughed-Hill, and am fully persuaded General Gage will not hazard a general battle to dispossess the Continental Troops.

COLONEL G. SALTONSTALL TO THE COMMITTEE OF LYME, CONNECTICUT.

New-London, August 31, 1775, 8 o'clock, P. M.

GENTLEMEN: This morning I am honoured with Governour Trumbull's letter of this date, relative to an application you made to him, desiring that one or two Companies of the Troops stationed here be removed, for the purpose of guarding the coast at Lyme; and observes, "that the present aspect of the affair doth not admit a compliance; those Companies will be employed in the best manner for the defence of the whole coast;" and adds, "possibly, if the Captains Daniel Marvin, Jas. Huntly, and George Chadwick, were ordered to set and keep a watch of a suitable number of men each, it is all that can be beneficially done till further danger appear, and is noticed, and that you give them orders accordingly," and leaves the matter to my discretion. The Towns of New-London, Groton, and Norwich, have, by their civil authority and Selectmen, appointed watches in their several Towns, and the law appears to me to have made most ample provision in the case; and should the three Companies aforesaid be ordered to watch and ward, would they not think hard for them to do the whole duty in the case for the Town? nor would it be possible for me to know what number of men would be proper, or where to station them. And since the law has made such ample provision, and the authorities in Lyme so much better able to conduct the affair than I am, make no doubt they will instantly. However, if you think my assistance will be advantageous, shall be glad to confer with any proper persons of your Town on the subject.

I am, Gentlemen, your humble servant,

G. SALTONSTALL.

To the Committee of Lyme.

Cambridge, August 31, 1775.

The enemies to liberty and America, headed by Gen. Gage, lately gave a notable specimen of their hatred to the very name of liberty. A party of them, of whom one Job Williams was the ringleader, a few days since repaired to a tree, at the south end of Boston, known by the name of Liberty Tree, and, armed with axes, &c., made a furious attack upon it; with malice diabolical they cut down a tree, because it bore the name of liberty. But be it known to this infamous band of traitors, that the Grand American Tree of Liberty, planted in the centre of the United Colonies of North America, now flourishes with unrivalled, increasing beauty, and bids fair, in a short time, to afford under its wide-spreading branches a safe and happy retreat for all the sons of liberty, however numerous and dispersed.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM PROSPECT-HILL, DATED AUGUST 31, 1775.

Last Saturday evening a party of one thousand men, attended by a picket guard of two thousand Provincials and four hundred Riflemen, were ordered to throw up an intrenchment on the Ploughed-Hill, which lies on Charlestown Neck, about half a mile from Bunker's Hill. They had their works considerably advanced before dawn, at which time they expected to be attacked; but the Regulars observed a profound silence till about ten o'clock, when they began a very heavy cannonade on our men on the hill, which continued pretty constantly the whole day. An Adjutant and a private soldier of the Massachusetts men had their heads shot off; and one volunteer, in the Rifle Battalion, of the name of Simpson, received a wound in his leg, of which he is since dead.

They remained quiet all Sunday night, but on Monday morning we were alarmed by a signal from Chelsea, and presently perceived that the enemy were drawn up and in motion on the side of Bunker's Hill facing that way. It was immediately conjectured that they intended to attack us at high water, and in a short time five or six thousand of our men were marched to the intrenchments on Ploughed-Hill and on the Charlestown road. We there waited till near three o'clock in the afternoon, whilst the most awful silence was observed by both sides, until some of our men, straggling along the walls, fired upon the Regular sentries, which brought on several shots from the floating batteries, with the loss of one of the Bays soldiers. Since that time they have thrown between twenty and thirty bombs, and a vast number of cannon-balls, but without doing any injury to our people. Unless very large re-enforcements soon arrive, there will not be another engagement this year, as we have so vastly the superiority in point of numbers. At present they lie tolerably still, except disturbing us at night with their bombs.

PROCEEDINGS OF COMMISSIONERS APPOINTED TO TREAT WITH THE SIX NATIONS OF INDIANS.

German Flats, Tuesday, August 15, 1775.

At a meeting with the Sachems and Warriours of the Six Nations, at this place, present: Volkert P. Douw, Esq., Turbutt Francis, Esquire, Commissioners. The following Speech was delivered by Colonel Francis:

"Brethren of the SIX NATIONS, attend!

"We acquainted you yesterday from whence we came, and by whose authority, namely, by the authority of the Twelve United Colonies, dwelling upon this Island of America. We acquainted you that we were two persons of five, appointed by the Twelve United Colonies now met in council at Philadelphia, to invite you down to Albany, where you may expect to meet our other three brethren appointed to act in conjunction with us. When we meet you, our brethren of the Six Nations, and your allies, at Albany, we will rekindle the council fire which our ancestors and yours formerly kindled up at that place, and there sit down and converse together upon the present situation of the Twelve United Colonies, and disclose to you their minds thereon. We have important matters to communicate to you, our brethren of the Six Nations, and your allies, which cannot be disclosed until the council fire be kindled up at Albany, and we are in full assembly.

Brethren: We observe that many of our brethren of the Six Nations are not here present; and as it is the wish of the Twelve United Colonies that there may be a general meeting of their brethren of the Six Nations, we, their Deputies, in their names, beg you will send to all these absent brethren of the Six Nations, and invite them to come down and sit at the council fire at Albany, that they may hear from us the sentiments of their brethren of the Twelve United Colonies.

"Brethren: We now inform you that your brethren of the Twelve United Colonies have sent you and your allies a token of their love and friendship, which is now at Albany, and which we shall deliver to you at that place.—(A string.)

"Brethren: As our friends and your allies the Caughnawagas, and the seven Towns upon the River St. Lawrence, live at a great distance, and have not yet had an invitation to come down to the council fire which we, the Deputies of the Twelve United Colonies, will kindle at Albany, we beg your assistance in forwarding an invitation to them, and wish you would immediately appoint four or six of your most active and sensible men, who may be relied on, to transact the great and important business which they will have in hand.—(A belt.)

"Brethren: As many mischievous and ill-disposed persons may attempt to raise up in your minds sentiments that are unfriendly to your brethren of the Twelve United Colonies, we beg you will shut your ears and fortify your minds against any such evil and false reports; and if such liars and deceivers should appear among you, and attempt to poison your minds, be assured they are as much your enemies as the enemies of your brethren of the Twelve United Colonies, as their only view can be to break that chain that has long bound you and your brethren of the Twelve United Colonies together, and which is now going to be made stronger at Albany."—(A belt.)

To this, Kanaghquaesa, an Oneida Sachem, replied:

"Brother SOLIHOANY and our ALBANY Brother, Commissioners from the Twelve United Colonies:

"You have now opened your minds. We have heard your voices. Your speeches are far from being contemptible. But as the day is far spent, we defer a reply till tomorrow. As we are weary from having sat long in council, we think it time for a little drink; and you must remember that Twelve Colonies are a great body."

German Flats, Wednesday, August 16, 1775.

The Council having again assembled, Tiahogwando, an Onondaga Sachem, addressed himself as follows:

"Brother SOLIHOANY and our ALBANY Brother, attend:

"We are now assembled at the German Flats, at which place you kindled up a council fire, and yesterday called us together and acquainted us from whence you came, and by whose authority, namely, by that of the Twelve United Colonies; and you opened your business to us.

"Brothers, now attend: Through the mercy of God we are brought to this day, and the Six Nations are now in full assembly at this place, where we smoke a pipe in friendship and in love. We are glad to hear your voices. You are come, in the name of the Twelve United Colonies, to invite us down to Albany to a council fire of peace. You desire we all attend, with our confederates, as you say the council fire that is to be kindled up at Albany is of much importance.

"Brothers: We thank you for this invitation; it meets our entire approbation. Here we are of every Tribe of the Six Nations. It shall be done as you have said.

"Brothers: You have desired that all our confederates should receive this invitation. This cannot be done short of one year, as we extend very far, and could not possibly call the extremities of our confederacy to this intended meeting. But possess your minds in peace. When this Congress is over, and the council fire is raked up, we shall acquaint all our allies with what has passed. Brothers, this is the answer of all the Six Nations, who are now here represented from every Tribe.

"Brothers, attend: Yesterday you said you were sensible our confederacy extended to Caughnawaga, and the seven Tribes upon the River St. Lawrence; that it would be very agreeable for your brothers from that quarter to attend this great council fire, to be kindled up at Albany by order of the Twelve United Colonies, and that it was the desire of your brethren of all those Provinces that they should attend together with us.

"Brothers: You therefore desired our assistance to forward this, your belt of invitation, to the Caughnawagas, and the seven Tribes in that quarter. Brothers, possess your minds in peace. We, the Six Nations, are put to difficulty to grant this request. We are very much embarrassed for this reason: the man is now there who will vex your minds, and never consent to their coming down, and will draw hard upon their minds another way. Brothers, possess yourselves in peace. We of the Six Nations have the minds of the Caughnawagas, and the seven Tribes in that quarter, at our central council house. When this took place, they addressed us of the Six Nations in the following manner: 'You are better capable of maintaining peace than we are; therefore, we deliver up our minds to you.' For these reasons we advise you to reconsider your petition to us, seeing we are so embarrassed we cannot grant it. Perhaps you will say to us, when your intended council fire shall be over: Brothers, do you of the Six Nations acquaint all your confederates and allies of what has passed at this council fire of peace. And this we shall do with great care and exactness. Now, brothers, you see we are embarrassed, and therefore give you this advice."—(Belt returned.)

To this Colonel Francis answered:

"Brethren of the Six Nations: It gives us a great deal of uneasiness to find you cannot at present convey this belt to our friends in Canada. We have heard your reasons, and are sorry to find that one of our blood is already there, endeavouring to draw their minds from us, when we mean nothing but peace towards them. As there are a great many Englishmen in Canada, we know not who you mean; we shall therefore be glad to have the particular man pointed out."

To which Abraham, a Mohawk Sachem, replied:

"Brothers: We take it for granted that you all know the very man we mean, as we said he was of your blood. We see no necessity for pointing him out more explicitly."

Tiahogwando, the Onondaga Sachem, then spoke again: "Brother SOLIHOANY and our ALBANY Brother:

"We take it for granted you have called us to a council of peace and entire friendship, and you have taken us by the hand. As there are men of different minds, and some may be illy disposed, we desire you will admonish your own people, that they offer us no abuse in our way down to your council fire of peace. If this caution should be neglected, some misfortune might happen, as all people do not meet so much like brothers as formerly, on account of the present situation of affairs."

"It would be unhappy if our council fire should be crushed by any mischief-makers. We have given you this caution, that while we are marching along in peace and quietness we might not be alarmed by a blow struck in our rear. We therefore desire you would begin, even at this council fire, to publish your admonitions to unwise and ungovernable people. By this belt we declare to you, our brothers, that the road is as open for passing and repassing, and free from all embarrassments, through the Six Nations, as it has been for a long time. Therefore we desire that we may have the same open road down to your intended council fire at Albany."

To which Col. Francis made the following answer:

"Brethren of the Six Nations: By this belt you desire that we may clear the road to Albany, that none of our people may injure you. The road shall be as clear for you to go to Albany, as it is for us to go to the country of the Six Nations. The Twelve United Colonies have given us great power over the white people. We will appoint white men, who speak your language and love your nations, to see you safe down to Albany, and to provide provisions for you on the way. We shall set out for Albany to-morrow morning, to prepare matters for kindling up the great council fire there."

At a meeting of the Commissioners for transacting Indian affairs in the Northern Department, held at Albany on Wednesday, August 23, 1775, present: Gen. Schuyler, Colonel Francis, Mr. Douw.

Resolved, unanimously, That the Indians of the Six Nations be invited to receive our congratulations on their safe arrival here. That it be at five o'clock this afternoon. That the Committee of the City of Albany, and the principal gentlemen of the place, be requested to accompany the Commissioners, and that the following Letter be wrote for that purpose to the Chairman of the Committee:

Albany, August 23, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Your generous exertions to support the American cause against the nefarious schemes of a wicked and profligate Ministry; the propriety with which you have conducted those Indian affairs that have become the subject of your consideration; a consciousness that without your aid, and that of gentlemen of the Town conversant in these matters, the important business of the ensuing conference cannot be so properly conducted as our zeal for the service makes us wish, are so many motives which point out to us the necessity of calling on you, and on those gentlemen, for your aid and advice, which we entreat you will give us without reserve; and be assured that it will be attended to with all that deference that is due to your respectable body and to their good judgment. We propose to pay a visit this afternoon, at five o'clock, to the Indians. We beg the favour of the Committee to honour us with their company, as so respectable a body will greatly add to the complimentary visit we mean to pay them. We shall go from Cartwright's, and shall take it as a favour if the gentlemen of the Town, who are not of the Committee, would be pleased to go with us.

We are, Gentlemen, with great respect, your most humble servants,

PH. SCHUYLER,
VOLKERT P. DOUW,
TURBUTT FRANCIS.

To which the Committee returned the following Answer:

"GENTLEMEN: Your polite invitation for us to join in paying a complimentary visit to the Indians this afternoon, at five o'clock, we accept of, and shall for that purpose attend at Cartwright's, at the hour appointed."

"We are, Gentlemen, your most humble servants. By order of the Committee:

ABRAHAM YATES, JUN., Chairman."

The Sachems and Warriours of the Six Nations being assembled, the Commissioners, attended by the Committee and principal gentlemen of the City of Albany, met them, and addressed them as follows:

"Brethren of the Six Nations: We, the Deputies appointed by the Twelve United Colonies, the descendants of Queder, and the gentlemen of the City of Albany, congratulate you on your arrival here. They are glad to see you well, and thank the great God that he suffers us to meet in love and friendship. We now invite you to take a drink, and smoke a pipe with us; and we propose, if you are ready, to proceed to business the day after to-morrow."

—(A string.)

To which Kanaghquaesa replied:

"That they were glad to see us; that they thanked God that we met in love and friendship; and that they would cheerfully take a drink, and smoke a pipe with us, and would be ready to proceed to business on the day which we were pleased to appoint for that purpose."

Thursday Evening, August 24, 1775.

A deputation of Sachems from the Six Nations having desired a conference with the Commissioners, they were accordingly met at Cartwright's Tavern by General Schuyler, Colonel Francis, Colonel Wolcott, and Mr. Douw.

When Senghnagenrat, an Oneida Sachem, informed the Commissioners that they had been called down to this meeting, by invitation from the Committee at Albany, previous to the appointment of Commissioners by the honourable Continental Congress; they thought they ought, in good manners, first address themselves to the Committee of Albany, and give the answers to the questions put by them to that body; but as this would take up very little time, they desired they might proceed to business with the Commissioners immediately after they had spoke to the Committee at Albany.

To this the Commissioners replied, that they were pleased with what had been communicated to them, and that it was perfectly agreeable to them that the Committee of Albany should be spoke to, previous to entering upon the great business upon which they were met.

The Commissioners desired they would appoint one of their Sachems as a speaker, to communicate to the Six Nations what they the Commissioners should lay before them; but the Indians leaving the choice to the Commissioners, they fixed upon Abraham, a Mohawk Sachem, for that purpose, which the Indians said was agreeable to them.

The Commissioners informed the Sachems, that if they had no objections, they would provide a guard to encircle the place of meeting, to keep the people from pressing in upon the Council, and to preserve silence and good order. This the Sachems thought right, and to which they had no objection.

Tiahogwando concluded the conference by saying that many of their kettles, axes, and hoes, were out of order, and wanted mending, and that they hoped the Commissioners would give orders to have them repaired, as had always been the case heretofore.

The Commissioners informed them that every thing of that kind should be complied with, and appointed Mr. Gerardus Lansing and Mr. Bleecker to see it done.

At a meeting of the Commissioners for transacting Indian affairs for the Northern Department, held at the City of Albany on Friday, August 25, 1775, present: General Schuyler, Colonel Wolcott, Colonel Francis, and Mr. Douw.

The following Message was sent to the Committee of the City of Albany:

Albany, August 25, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: The Commissioners of Indian Affairs are to open the treaty with the Six Nations this morning, about eleven o'clock, at the Dutch Church. They request the favour of your attendance, and that of the principal gentlemen of the Town, and would wish, previous to the meeting, to be honoured with your company at Cartwright's.

To Abraham Yates, Jun., Esq., Chairman of the Committee of Albany.

The Chairman and Committee attended, agreeable to invitation.

Albany Committee Chamber, August 25, 1775.

The Committee, about half an hour after ten, received a note from the Commissioners of Indian Affairs, which is in the words following, to wit:

"The Commissioners of Indian Affairs are to open the treaty with the Six Nations this morning, about eleven o'clock, at the Dutch Church. They request the favour of your attendance, and that of the principal gentlemen of the Town, and would wish, previous to the meeting, to be honoured with your company at Cartwright's. By order of the Commissioners. "TENCH TILGHMAN."

The Committee accordingly immediately repaired to Cartwright's, when the Commissioners informed them that the Indians said they came down here in consequence of an invitation from this Committee, and that they chose to speak with the Committee before they talked with the Commissioners. The Committee told the Commissioners that this was a surprise to them, as they had not received the least intimation of such their design, before that juncture, either from the Indians or any other person or persons whatsoever; however, not to retard the publick business, and after consultation with the Commissioners, (who desired the Committee to gratify the Indians and the representatives of Queder;) this Committee resolved immediately to hear what the Indians had to say; and that it might be the more publick, the Committee gave them notice that they would be ready instantly, and would meet them in Youker's Street, back of the Dutch Church; appointed a Committee to inform the Commissioners of this, requesting their presence at the meeting, and sent the bell-man round the city, inviting the inhabitants that thought proper to attend; and also a Committee, viz: Walter Livingston, Jeremiah Van Rensselaer, and Samuel Stringer, to inquire of the Commissioners whether, in case the Indians talk with the Committee was of such a nature as to require an answer, they would supply them with proper presents for the Indians. The Committee reported that the Commissioners answered, that they must first see how the Indians behaved in their conference and speeches. And then the following speech or answer to the invitation was delivered by the Indians, in the presence of the Commissioners and many of the inhabitants of the City.

Senghnagenrat, one of the Oneida chiefs, in behalf of the Six Nations, speaker:

"Brothers of ALBANY: We beg you will acquaint us when your body is complete.

"Brothers of ALBANY: The day is now come that we have arrived in consequence of your invitation. When you saw four of the Oneida Nation, you said you was glad to see them at your council chamber. We are now here in consequence thereof. You told us you would be glad to see us again, that you rejoiced to see them, and that you would open the ashes and rekindle the old council fire at Albany. We are glad to see that some sparks of that old council fire yet remain. We rejoice even to excess to find it so.

"Brothers, attend: I have one addition to make to what passed between four of the Oneida Nation and you, when last at your council chamber. When you found, from our conference with your brothers at the German Flats, that our sentiments of publick affairs so much coincided with yours, you further told us that all the Governments of America, on the sea-coasts, were anxious to know whether we were disposed to peace; and that you, the Twelve United Colonies, were resolved to support your civil constitution and liberties, and you rejoiced to find that we all so firmly resolved to maintain peace.

"Brothers of ALBANY: You further observed, in the intercourse you had with four of the Oneida Nation, that you greatly rejoiced at the conference you had at the German Flats. You further said that you were surprised about a letter Guy Johnson had received from the chief warrior, General Gage, about removing the ministers from among us; that you rejoiced that the Indians were instructed in the Christian religion, and that the ministers that were among us might continue.

"Brothers of ALBANY, attend: We have something further yet to relate of your speech. You desired, at the intercourse you had with the four messengers, that we should acquaint the Six Nations with your speech, and that thereafter three or four of each nation should come down. You further said that you would have been glad to have attended at the council fire at Guy Johnson's, to hear what he should say to the Indians, and see if his sentiments and yours should coincide; but you then soon heard that he had removed from there to Fort Stanwix, from there to Oswego, that you despaired of hearing any thing from him, and therefore desired us that we would let you know what was done at that fire.

"Brothers, attend: You made another proposal at the intercourse you had with four of our nation, which was this: that you had heard that there was to be a council of the whole of our nation at the German Flats. You desired our people that they would let you know what passed between us and them. Our Delegates, in our names, then told you that it would be more agreeable that two or more of your members should attend, and hear themselves what passed there. This, brethren, is the substance of what passed between you and the four of the Oneida Nation.

"Brothers of ALBANY, attend: We are now, upon this day, going through with what passed between some of your members and us, when the conference ended at the German Flats. You said, brothers, let us both endeavour to keep peace, that we may continue to enjoy its blessings. We desire not that you should trouble yourselves in the least with these disputes between us and those over the great waters; only exert yourselves in maintaining the covenant that was made between your and our forefathers at this place of our council fire. Your Delegates told us at the German Flats, that although you should be drove back from the sea-coasts by your enemies, yet you would not ask our aid.

"Brothers of ALBANY, further attend: Two things more you delivered at the German Flats; the first was this: that we, the Oneida Nation, should give a kind ear to your speech. You there produced two ancient belts of wampum, one of twenty rows, which was the old covenant between the whole Oneida Nation and Queder Gorah; another that was given by the Six Nations, by the the Indian called Kay-inguaraghtoh, of the Seneca Nation. You also said that these belts should again be produced, for the inspection of the whole Six Nations, at the intended council fire to be rekindled at Albany.

"Brothers of ALBANY: We have now finished the principal subjects that passed between you and us; the Oneida Nation, and we, all of us, the Six Nations, are here now present to hear what has passed, and to prevent any false reports that may be propagated by news-carriers.

"Brothers of ALBANY, now attend: You, also, the Commissioners who are here present, lend your ears, and hear our voices:

"You, our brothers of Albany, have desired the sentiments of the Six Nations. We, the Six Nations, and our allies, which extend to Detroit, Ohio, and Caughnawaga, upon our first hearing the bad news that circulated along the eastern shore of this island, assembled and resolved upon a union amongst us Indians, and to maintain peace; and we rejoice that nothing more has been asked of us. There is nothing different in our minds than what we have now told. We shan't take notice of any hostile propositions that may be made to us, for we bear an equal proportion of love to you, and the others over the great waters, in the present dispute; and we shall remain at peace and smoke our pipes, and the Six Nations will always keep the path open; and we call God to witness to the truth of what we now say, and it proceeds from our hearts.—(A belt of eight rows.)

“Brothers of ALBANY now attend, and incline your ears to what we have now to say:

“We, the Six Nations, have heard the voice of a bird called Tskleleli, a news-carrier, that came among us. It has told us that the path at the western communication, by Fort Stanwix, would be shut up either by the one party or the other. Brothers, let it not be, and let the communication be open, for passing and repassing, and let not our country be stained with blood; and be always compassionate to the old women, and let the young ones grow up and enjoy the blessings of peace. Brothers, let not that passage be shut up by you, but confine yourselves to the dispute to the eastward, for this western communication lies near our council fire, and the consequences might be fatal. Indeed, brothers, your language and Colonel Guy Johnson's coincides, in some things, with one another, and the party that applies to us to shut up that passage we will look upon as deceivers and transgressors; and we despise a double dealer from our hearts, and whom we look upon God Almighty will hereafter punish as such. And we hope that when you give your answer, you will speak from the integrity of your hearts, as we now have done.—(A belt of fifteen rows.)

“Brothers of ALBANY, attend: The Five Nations just now said they would open their minds in full to you; they would tell you every thing they brought with them. This belt respects the letter Guy Johnson received from Gen. Gage, concerning the removal of the ministers from among us. Our father, the minister who stands here, we love; we love him exceedingly. Perhaps, in a little time, he may be wrested from us, carried off like a prisoner. Our hearts tremble for him; we tremble greatly. He has been threatened, and should he be taken, it might overthrow the whole Five Nations. Our brothers, the white people, would perhaps say that the Oneida Nation had delivered up their minister, and that the Six Nations did not regard their missionaries. But truly we regard our father the minister, and missionaries; therefore we propose to your consideration whether it be not wise that the missionaries retire for a little while, particularly our father the minister, Mr. Kirkland, should reside a short space with his family, as we hope this quarrel cannot subsist long, because you are brothers, both of one nation and blood, and we hope it will soon be settled; and when a reconciliation takes place, let our missionaries immediately return to us. This, however, we refer to your consideration, and leave at your pleasure. Now, brethren, we have unburdened our minds and opened our bosoms, and delivered what we had to say.”

To which, at the request and by the approbation of the Commissioners, we made the following reply:

“Brothers of the SIX NATIONS: We thank you for your speech. The Commissioners appointed by the Twelve United Colonies, and with our consent, will first transact business with you; after they have done, we will answer your speech.”

At a treaty begun and held with the Indians of the Six United Nations at the City of Albany, on Friday, the 25th day of August, 1775, present: General Philip Schuyler, Colonel Oliver Wolcott, Col. Turbott Francis, Volkert P. Douw, Esq., Commissioners; the Chairman and Committee, and principal inhabitants of the City of Albany.

Senghnagenrat, an Oneida Sachem, opened the treaty with the following speech:

“Brothers: We waited upon you yesterday evening, and acquainted you that we should first speak to our brothers the Committee of Albany; we have done so, and have opened our whole minds to them.

“Brothers: When we met two of your body at the German Flats, they presented these strings to us, and invited us to come down to Albany and kindle up a great council fire of peace, under the auspices of the Twelve United Colonies. Now, as these strings have never been changed, we return them to you again; and desire that the great council fire of peace may be kindled up.

Brothers: By this belt you desired us to shut our ears and fortify our minds against any evil reports that we might hear on our way down, and to pay no regard to what any liars and ill-disposed persons might say to us, as they would only mean to sow dissension between us and our brothers of the Twelve United Colonies. Brothers, our minds are proof against the attempts of such malicious and wicked persons.

“Now, brothers, let us give you advice on our parts. There are liars and mischief-makers among the Indians, as well as amongst the white people; therefore pay no regard to this or that, that any single Indian may say, but attend to what you hear from the mouth of the Great Council, for that will be the truth and the sense of all the Six United Nations.”

The Commissioners then addressed them in the following manner:

“Brothers, Sachems, and Warriours, of the SIX NATIONS:

“We return thanks to the great God, that he has permitted us to meet together this day in love, peace, and friendship; in token of which we will now sit down and smoke the pipe of peace together.”

Here the great pipe was lighted up, and went round; after which, the Commissioners proceeded:

“Brothers, &c.: We, the Deputies appointed by and in the name of the Twelve United Colonies, assisted by the descendants of your ancient friend Queder, and your Albany brethren, embrace this opportunity to rekindle the ancient council fire, which formerly burnt as bright as the sun, in this place, and to heap on it so much fuel that it may never be extinguished; and also to renew the ancient covenant chain with you, which you know has always been kept bright and clean, without any stain or rust, and which, by this belt, we now strengthen, that forever hereafter you and we may have but one heart, one head, one eye, and one hand.—(A belt.)

“Brethren: Our business with you here, besides rekindling the ancient council fire, and renewing the covenant and brightening up every link of the chain, is in the first place to inform you of the advice that was given about thirty years ago, by your wise forefathers, in a great Council which they held at Lancaster, in Pennsylvania, when Cannassatego spoke to us, the white people, in these very words: ‘Brethren: We, the Six Nations, heartily recommend union and a good agreement between you, our brethren; never disagree, but preserve a strict friendship for one another, and thereby you, as well as we, will become the stronger. Our wise forefathers established union and amity between the Five Nations; this has made us formidable; this has given us great weight and authority with our neighbouring Nations. We are a powerful confederacy; and if you observe the same methods our wise forefathers have taken, you will acquire fresh strength and power. Therefore, whatever befalls you, never fall out with one another.’ These were the words of Cannassatego.

“Brothers: Our forefathers rejoiced to hear Cannassatego speak these words. They sunk deep into their hearts. The advice was good; it was kind. They said to one another, The Six Nations are a wise people; let us hearken to their counsel, and teach our children to follow it. Our old men have done so. They have frequently taken a single arrow, and said, Children, see how easy it is broken. Then they have tied twelve together with strong cords, and our strongest men could not break them. ‘See,’ said they, ‘this is what the Six Nations mean. Divided, a single man may destroy you; united, you are a match for the whole world.’

“We thank the great God that we are all united; that we have a strong confederacy, composed of twelve Provinces—New-Hampshire, &c.

“These Provinces have lighted a great council fire at Philadelphia, and have sent sixty-five Counsellors to speak and act in the name of the whole, and to consult for the common good of the people, and of you, our brethren of the Six Nations, and your allies; and the talk of this great council we shall deliver to you to-morrow.”—(A belt.)

Albany, Saturday, August 26, 1775.

Present this day: General Schuyler, Colonel Francis, Colonel Wolcott, Mr. Douw, Commissioners; the Chairman and Committee of the City of Albany.

The Indians having informed the Commissioners they were ready to proceed to business, the treaty was opened in the following manner:

"Brothers, Sachems, and Warriours :

"Let this string open your ears to hear, and incline your hearts to accept the talk of your brethren of the Twelve United Colonies, which they have sent to you by us their Deputies. They speak as follows:

"Brothers, Sachems, and Warriours of the Six United Nations :

"We, the Delegates from the Twelve United Provinces, now sitting in General Congress at Philadelphia, send this talk to you, our brothers. We are sixty-five in number, appointed by the people throughout all these Provinces and Colonies, to meet and sit together in one great council, to consult together for the common good of this land, and to speak and act for them.

"Brothers : In our consultation we have judged it proper and necessary to send you this talk, as we are upon the same island, that you may be informed of the reason of this great council, the situation of our civil constitution, and our disposition towards you, our Indian brothers of the Six Nations, and their allies.

"Brothers and friends, now attend :

"When our fathers crossed the great water and came over to this land, the King of England gave them a talk, assuring them that they and their children should be his children, and that if they would leave their native country and make settlements and live here, and buy and sell and trade with their brethren beyond the water, they should still keep hold of the same covenant chain, and enjoy peace; and it was covenanted that the fields, houses, goods, and possessions, which our fathers should acquire, should remain to them as their own, and be their children's forever, and at their sole disposal. Trusting that this covenant should never be broken, our fathers came a great distance beyond the great water, and laid out their money here, built houses, cleared fields, raised crops, and through their own labour and industry grew tall and strong. They have bought, sold, and traded with England, according to agreement, sending to them such things as they wanted, and taking in exchange such things as were wanted here.

"The King of England and his people kept the way open for more than one hundred years, and by our trade became richer, and by a union with us greater and stronger than the other Kings and people who live beyond the water. All this time they lived in great friendship with us, and we with them; for we are brothers—one blood.

"Whenever they were struck, we instantly felt as if the blow had been given to us—their enemies were our enemies. Whenever they went to war, we sent our men to stand by their side, and fight for them, and our money to help them and make them strong. That we have done this, brothers, you all have been witnesses to in the last war. You know we assisted them in taking Niagara, Cataraqui, Ticonderoga, Crown Point, and Canada; and lastly, when they had no more enemies upon this island, we went to fight, and helped them to take many large islands that lay in the hot countries, where they got more than thirty cart loads of silver.

"They thanked us for our love, and sent us good talks, and renewed their promise to be one people forever; and when the war was over they said: Children, we thank you that you have helped to make us great; we know that it has cost you a great deal of blood and a great deal of money; and therefore, children, we give you a present, that you may maintain your warriors.—(A belt.)

"Brothers and friends, open a kind ear :

"We will now tell you of the quarrel between the counsellors of King George and the inhabitants and Colonies of America.

"Many of his counsellors are proud and wicked men. They persuade the King to break the covenant chain, and not to send us any more good talks. A considerable number have prevailed upon him to enter into a new covenant against us, and have torn asunder and cast behind their backs the good old covenant which their ancestors and ours entered into and took strong hold of.

"They now tell us they will slip their hand into our pocket without asking, as if it was their own; and at their pleasure they will take from us our charter, or written civil constitution, which we love as our lives; also, our plantations, our houses, and goods, whenever they please, without asking our leave; that our vessels may go to this island in the sea, but to this or that particular island we shall not trade any more; and in case of non-compliance with these new orders, they shut up our harbours.

"Brothers : This is our present situation. Thus have many of the King's counsellors and servants dealt with us. If we submit, or comply with their demands, you can easily perceive to what a state we shall be reduced. If our people labour in the fields, they will not know who shall enjoy the crop; if they hunt in the woods, it will be uncertain who shall taste the meat or have the skins; if they build houses, they will not know whether they may sit around the fire-side with their wives and children. They cannot be sure whether they shall be permitted to eat, drink, and wear the fruits of their own labour and industry."—(A broken belt.)

The Commissioners then informed the Indians, that as the business they were upon was very important, and as they knew they were a wise people, they would not at this time hurry them, nor burden their memories with too much, and therefore would defer what they had further to say until Monday.

Albany, Monday, August 28, 1775.

The treaty was again renewed. Present: Colonel Francis, Colonel Wolcott, Mr. Douw, Commissioners; Mr. Lynch, of South-Carolina, Mr. Duane and Mr. Robert Livingston, of New-York, Members of the Continental Congress; the Chairman and Committee of the City of Albany.

The Commissioners proceeded with the Speech of the Congress:

"Brothers and friends, attend :

"We upon this island have often spoke and entreated the King, and his servants the counsellors, that peace and harmony might still continue between us; that we cannot part with or loose our hold of the old covenant chain which united our fathers and theirs; that we want to brighten this chain, and keep the way open as our fathers did; that we want to live with them as brothers; labour, trade, travel abroad, eat and drink in peace. We have often asked them to love and live in such friendship with us as their fathers did with ours. We told them again, that we judged we were exceedingly injured; that they might as well kill us as take away our property and the necessaries of life. We have asked why they treat us thus? What has become of our repeated addresses and supplications to them? Who hath shut the ears of the King to the cries of his children in America? No soft answer, no pleasant voice from beyond the water, has yet sounded in our ears.

"Brothers : Thus stands the matter betwixt old England and America: You Indians know how things are proportioned in a family between the father and the son. The child carries a little pack. England we regard as the father. This island may be compared to the son.

"The father hath a numerous family, both at home and upon this island. He appoints a great number of servants to assist him in the government of his family. In process of time, some of his servants grew proud and ill-natured: they were displeased to see the boy so alert, and walk on so nimbly with his pack. They tell the father, and advise him to enlarge the child's pack. They prevail; the pack is increased; the child takes it up again, as he thought it might be the father's pleasure; speaks but few words—those very small, for he was loth to offend the father. Those proud and wicked servants, finding they had prevailed, laughed to see the boy sweat and stagger under his increased load. By and bye they apply to the father to double the child's pack, because they heard him complain, and without any reason, said they; he is a cross child; correct him if he complains any more.

"The boy entreats the father, addresses the great servants in a decent manner, that the pack may be lightened. He could not go any further; he humbly asks if the old fathers, in any of their records, had described such a pack for the child. After all the tears and entreaties of the child, the pack is redoubled; the child stands a little while, staggering under the weight, ready to fall every moment. However, he entreats the father once more, though so faint he could only lisp his last humble supplication. Waits awhile: no voice returns. The child concludes the father could not hear. Those proud servants had intercepted his supplications, or stopped the ears of the father. He therefore gives one struggle, and throws off the pack, and says he cannot take it up again; such a weight will crush him down, and kill him—and he can but die if he refuses.

“Upon this, those servants are very wroth, and tell the father many false stories respecting the child. They bring a great cudgel to the father, asking him to take it in his hand and strike the child.

“This may serve to illustrate the present condition of the King’s American subjects or children.

“Amidst these oppressions, we now and then heard a mollifying and reviving voice from some of the King’s wise counsellors, who are our friends, and feel for our distresses. When they heard our complaints and our cries, they applied to the King; also, told those wicked servants that this child in America was not a cross boy; it had sufficient reason for crying; and if the cause of its complaint was neglected, it would soon assume the voice of a man, plead for justice like a man, and defend its rights and support the old covenant chain of the fathers.

“Brothers, listen: Notwithstanding all our entreaties, we have but little hope the King will send us any more good talks, by reason of his evil counsellors. They have persuaded him to send an army of soldiers, and many ships of war, to rob and destroy us. They have shut up many of our harbours, seized and taken into possession many of our vessels. The soldiers have struck the blow, killed some of our people. The blood now runs of the King’s American children; they have also burned our houses and towns, and taken much of our goods.—(A black belt.)

“Brothers: We are now necessitated to rise, and forced to fight or give up our civil constitution, run away, and leave our farms and houses behind us. This must not be; since the King’s wicked counsellors will not open their ears and consider our just complaints, and the cause of our weeping, and have given the blow, we are determined to drive away the King’s soldiers, and to kill and destroy all those wicked men we find in arms against the peace of the Twelve United Colonies upon this island. We think our cause is just; therefore, hope God will be on our side. We do not take up the hatchet and struggle for honour or conquest, but to maintain our civil constitution and religious privileges, the very same for which our forefathers left their native land and came to this Country.—(A black belt.)

“Brothers and friends: We desire that you will hear and receive what we have now told you, and that you will open a good ear and listen to what we are going to say. This is a family quarrel between us and old England; you Indians are not concerned in it. We don’t wish you to take up the hatchet against the King’s Troops. We desire you to remain at home, and not join either side, but keep the hatchet buried deep. In the name and behalf of all our people, we ask and desire you to love peace and maintain it, and to love and sympathize with us in our troubles, that the path may be kept open with all our people and yours, to pass and repass without molestation.

“Brothers: We live upon the same ground with you; the same island is our common birth-place; we desire to sit down under the same tree of peace with you; let us water its roots and cherish its growth, till the large leaves and flourishing branches shall extend to the setting sun and reach the skies.

“Brothers, observe well: What is it we have asked of you? Nothing but peace, notwithstanding our present disturbed situation; and if application should be made to you, by any of the King’s unwise and wicked ministers, to join on their side, we only advise you to deliberate with great caution, and in your wisdom look forward to the consequences of a compliance. For if the King’s Troops take away our property and destroy us, who are of the same blood with themselves, what can you, who are Indians, expect from them afterwards?—(A white belt.)

“Brothers of the SIX NATIONS:

“When we perceived this island began to shake and tremble along the eastern shore, and the sun darkened by a black cloud which arose from beyond the great water, we kindled up a great council fire at Philadelphia, and we sat around it until it burnt so high and so clear that it illuminated this whole island. We renewed our hold of the old covenant chain which united and strengthened our ancestors, and which was near slipping out of our hands before we had kindled this great council fire at Philadelphia. We have now taken fast hold, nor will we let it go without a mighty struggle, even unto death. Brothers, we are now Twelve Colonies, united as one man. We have but one heart and one hand. Brothers, this is our union belt. By this belt we, the Twelve United Colonies, renew the old covenant chain with which our forefathers, in their great wisdom, thought proper to bind us and you, our brothers of the Six Nations, together, when they first landed at this place. And if any of the links of this great chain should have received any rust, we now brighten it, and make it shine like silver. As God has put it into our hearts to love the Six Nations and their allies, we now make the chain of friendship so strong that nothing but an evil spirit can or will attempt to break it. But we hope, through the favour and mercy of the Good Spirit, that it will remain strong and bright while the sun shines and the water runs.—(Delivered the union belt.)

“Brothers: It is necessary, in order for the preservation of friendship between us and our brothers of the Six Nations and their allies, that a free and mutual intercourse be kept up betwixt us; therefore we, the Twelve United Colonies, by this belt, remove every difficulty that may lie in the great road that runs through the middle of our country, and we will also clear up and open all the small roads that lead into the great one. We will take out every thorn, brier, and stone, so that when any of our brothers of the Six Nations or their allies have an inclination to see and talk with any of their brethren of the Twelve United Colonies, they may pass safely, without being scratched or bruised.

“Brothers: The road is now open for our brethren of the Six Nations and their allies, and they may now pass and repass as safely and freely as the people of the Twelve United Colonies themselves. And we are further determined, by the assistance of God, to keep our roads open and free for the Six Nations and their allies, as long as the earth remains.—(Path belt.)

“Brothers: We have said we wish you Indians may continue in peace with one another, and with us the white people. Let us both be cautious in our behaviour towards each other, at this critical state of affairs. This island now trembles; the wind whistles from almost every quarter. Let us fortify our minds, and shut our ears against false rumours. Let us be cautious what we receive for truth, unless spoken by wise and good men. If any thing disagreeable should fall out betwixt us, the Twelve United Colonies, and you, the Six Nations, to wound our peace, let us immediately seek measures for healing the breach. From the present situation of affairs, we judge it wise and expedient to kindle up a council fire at Albany, where we may hear each others’ voice and disclose our minds more fully to one another.—(The pipe of peace and six small strings.)

“Brothers: You now hear our disposition towards you, the Six Nations and your allies. Therefore we say: Brothers, take care, hold fast to your covenant chain. We depend on you to send and acquaint your allies to the northward, the seven Tribes on the River St. Lawrence, that you have had this talk with us at our council fire at Albany.

“Brothers: Let this our good talk remain at Onondaga, your central council house, that you may hand down to the latest posterity these testimonials of the brotherly sentiments of the Twelve United Colonies towards their brethren of the Six Nations and their allies.”

To which Kanaghquies replied:

“Brothers: We have sat around and smoked our pipes at this our ancient place of kindling up our council fires. We have heard all you have said, and have heard nothing but what is pleasant and good. As you have communicated matters of great importance to us, we will sit down to-morrow and deliberate coolly upon them, and the day following will give you answers to every thing that you have laid before us.”

Albany, Thursday, August 31, 1775.

At a treaty continued with the Indians of the Six Nations, present: Colonel Francis, Colonel Wolcott, Mr. Dow, Commissioners; Mr. Duane, of New-York.

The Indians being informed that the Commissioners were ready to hear them, Abraham, a Mohawk Sachem, spoke as follows:

"Brothers, great men deputed by the Twelve United Colonies, attend:

"We are this day called to meet you in council, in order to reply to what you have said to us. We hope we need not recapitulate the whole of your discourse; we shall only touch upon each head.

"At our last conference in this house, we promised to return you our answer the day but one following. We did not do it, and we mean to make you an apology; we hope you have taken no offence. We were not prepared by that time, and that was the reason.

"Brothers: You informed us that there was a great council of sixty-five members convened at Philadelphia, and that you were appointed by them to deliver a talk to the Six Nations. It seems you, our brothers, having a desire to rekindle a council fire, took to your assistance the descendants of Queder, and have kindled up a council fire that shall never be extinguished. To which the Six Nations reply: This you have done by order of the Great Council at Philadelphia. We are glad to hear the news. It rejoices our hearts, and it gives exceeding joy through all the Six Nations.

"Brothers: As you desired your belts might not be returned, but be deposited at our central council house, we shall only make use of them to refresh our memories, and speak upon them as we go on with our answer.

"Brothers: We shall not recite every particular, as we before mentioned. You observed that when these commotions first began, a council of sixty-five members convened together at Philadelphia; and you put us in mind of what Cannassateego formerly said at Lancaster, respecting the necessity of a union among you. An old sachem, a brother of Cannassateego's, is here present, and remembers the words of his brother. You illustrated the necessity and use of an union by one and twelve arrows. You said your grandfathers had inculcated this doctrine into their children. You said, that as the tree of peace was formerly planted at this place, you desired that the Six Nations might come down, and sit under it, and water its roots, till the branches should flourish and reach to heaven. This the Six Nations say shall be done.

"Brothers: We need only remind you of a few of the things you said to us, as you have them all written down. You informed us, that by an ancient covenant with the King of England, you were to enjoy the same privileges with the people on the other side of the great water. That for a long time you did enjoy these privileges, by which means you and your brethren over the water both became a great people. That lately, by advice of evil counsellors, you were much oppressed, and had heavier packs put upon you than you could bear. That you had frequently applied to be eased of your burden, but could obtain no redress. That finding this the case, you had thrown off your packs. The Six Nations thank you for acquainting them with your grievances and methods taken to obtain redress. You likewise informed them of what resolutions you had formed in consequence of these matters.

"Brothers: After stating your grievances, and telling us you had not been able to obtain redress, you desired us to take no part, but to bury the hatchet; you told us it was a family quarrel; therefore, said you, Indians, sit still, mind nothing but peace. Our great man, Colonel Johnson, did the same thing at Oswego; he desired us to sit still likewise; you likewise desired, that if application should be made to us by any of the King's officers, we would not join them.

"Now, therefore, attend, and apply your ears closely. We have fully considered this matter. The resolutions of the Six Nations are not to be broken or altered; when they resolve, the matter is fixed. This, then, is the determination of the Six Nations: Not to take any part, but, as it is a family affair, to sit still and see you fight it out; we beg you will receive this as infallible, it being our full resolution; for we bear as much affection for the King of England's subjects, upon the other side of the water, as we do for you, born upon this island. One thing more we request; which is, that you represent this in a true light to the Delegates from all the Colonies, and not vary; and that you observe the same regard for truth when you write to the King about these matters. For we have ears and shall hear if you represent any thing in a wrong point of light; we likewise desire you would inform our brothers at Boston of our determinations.

"Brothers: It is a long time since we came to this resolution; it is the result of mature deliberation. It was our declaration to Colonel Johnson. We told him we should take no part in the quarrel, and hoped neither side would desire it. Whoever applies first we shall think in the wrong. The resolutions of the Six Nations are not to be shaken; of the truth of this you have a late instance. You know what the Shawanese have lately been engaged in; they applied to us for assistance, but we refused them. Our love for you has induced us not to meddle; if we loved you less, we should have been less resolute.

"Brothers: You likewise informed us, that when you perceived this island began to tremble, and a black cloud to arise from beyond the great water, you kindled up a large fire at Philadelphia—a fire which shone bright and clear to your remotest settlements. That you sat around that fire, deliberating what measures to pursue for the common good. That while sitting around it, you recollected an ancient covenant made between your fathers and ours, when they first crossed the great water and settled here; which covenant they at first likened to a chain of iron, but when they considered that iron would rust, they made a silver chain, which they were always to rub and keep bright and clear of spots. This they made so strong that an evil spirit could not break it.

"This friendship chain you have now renewed, this covenant is to continue to future generations. We are glad you have thought proper to renew this covenant, and the whole Six Nations now thank you.

"This covenant belt you desire us to hang up at our central council house, that future generations may call to mind the covenant now made between us. And you may depend we shall send and inform all our neighbouring council fires of the matters now transacted.

"We close, with the whole Six Nations repeating their thanks that you have renewed the covenant made between their forefathers and yours.

"Brothers, attend: As you had renewed the ancient covenant, you thought proper to open the path, and have a free communication with this place. As the fire had been for some time put out, the path had got stopped up. You removed all obstructions out of the great roads and paths, all stone and briers, so that if any of us choose to travel the road, we should neither meet with any obstructions nor hurt ourselves. Brothers, we thank you for opening the roads.

"You likewise informed us that you were determined to drive away, destroy, and kill all who appeared in arms against the peace of the Twelve United Colonies.

"Brothers, attend: We beg of you to take care what you do. You have just now made a good path; do not so soon defile it with blood. There are many around us at Caughnawaga, who are friends to the King; our path of peace reaches quite there. We beg all that distance may not be defiled with blood. As for your quarrels to the eastward, along the sea-coast, do as you please; but it would hurt us to see those brought up in our bosoms ill used. In particular, we would mention the son of Sir William Johnson. He was born among us, and is of Dutch extraction by his mother; he minds his own affairs, and does not intermeddle in publick disputes.
